SUB BASE SAILOR HIT BY UNIDENTIFIED MACHINE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 8.—C. G. Royer, a sailor at the submarine base, is a patient at the base hospital, suffering from injuries not yet fully determined, which he sustained by being struck by an unidentified automobile on the highway between Groton and the base early Sunday morning. The car that it is believed struck Royer is a public service machine, operated by John Ramistella of No. 197 Bank street, a former deputy fish and game warden and is detained

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Bacon will not become rancid if kept in a wooden tub and covered with sawdust.

Cheese will keep fresh and free from mold by wrapping it in a cloth wrung out of vinegar. Cover with oiled paper and keep in a cool place.

Add a slice of onion to tomatoes when first put on to stew. It can be removed before thickening the tomatoes, but the flavor will remain.

If ironware is rusty cover it well with lard and set in the hot oven for a half hour. Then wash with soap and water.

To freshen white enamel beds take some warm water and a little kerosene oil, rub over the enamel and wipe dry. It will not harm the enamel.

When washing fine glassware put it in the hot water edgewise. If put in bottom first it is apt to crack from sudden expansion.

You have, perhaps, noticed how thick and heavy the linoleum seems in some of the places you visit. A very fine layer of sawdust is laid under the linoleum before it is put down and it not only adds to the life of the floor covering but makes a softer substance to stand on.

Molds for cranberry jelly are made of earthenware that resists the acid of the berries.

If your range has a hot-water reservoir, food can be kept hot by placing it in covered glass jars and setting in the hot water.

Stuffed onions are good. Fill with equal parts of minced ham, buttered bread crumbs and chopped onion pulp, mixed and seasoned.

Many delicious gelatine and tapioca desserts can be made with grape juice. A little lemon or orange juice usually improves their flavor.

Cut rounds from thinly-rolled cookie dough; soften, drain and chop some dried peaches; spread between two cookies and press together.

When French dressing is to be used for fruit salad, make it with a citrus-fruit juice, using very little pepper, but a double quantity of paprika.

CURING DAMP WALLS

As a result of the very damp and miserable summer which it has been our misfortune to endure many walls are showing signs of dampness. For health's sake, as well as comfort, these must be taken in hand without delay.

Naturally, if these are due to leaking pipes or stopped-up gutters, the cause must be removed before the walls are dealt with.

Liquid water-glass is excellent for this purpose. Equal quantities of water and water-glass should be mixed and the preparation brushed on to the damp wall. If the paper has become very much damaged and discoloured through the damp it is best to remove it and apply the preservative direct to the plaster. In this case two or three coats are advisable, with a fairly long interval between each application to ensure thorough drying of the one coat before the next is put on.

Water-glass dries with a hard, impervious surface, and it may be taken as certain that a wall so treated is extremely unlikely to show signs of the damp coming through again.

TO SOFTEN SUGAR.

If sugar comes in hard lumps, place in roomy bag and allow the nose of the teakettle to steam into the bag. In a short time the sugar will be ready to sift.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Sweeping and dusting should be done with canvas gloves on so that if the hands are not entirely protected during the working part of the day, they are at least protected to make their beautifying an easier task.

There are only two good ways of making ugly elbows pretty. One is to scrub them thoroughly and rub them with vanishing cream, which will make them temporarily much better looking, the other is to scrub them and then either soak them in oil or rub them full of a nourishing cold cream. This is of permanent benefit.

When all soap irritates your skin stop using it and cleanse the pores entirely with either a fine vegetable oil or a cleansing cream. Remove the hot damp cloths and then feed the skin with a fine cream and follow with a very light touch from the nozzle of the vibrator. This will bring the blood to the skin and start the pores to acting. Remove surplus cream and rub with a small piece of ice, or dash very cold water over the face and throat.

The number and variety of shampoos are legion. There is the plain ordinary soap and water wash, cleansing but not otherwise beneficial—I sometimes positively harmful, because few women use enough soap in the first place to take off all the dirt, or have the patience to rinse out all the soap. Then there is a shampoo with some ready made powder or liquid. Some of these are all right but most of them, particularly the cheaper ones, have so much soda in the powder and so much alcohol in the liquid that they are frequently worse for the hair than letting it stay dirty.

HOSIERY HINTS

Mock seams and a mock fit that will not outlive the first laundering cannot deceive the woman who is wise in the ways of hosiery buying.

It is the cloudy, thickened ankle that betrays the stocking that would masquerade as something it is not. A stocking to keep its fit must be seamless, fitted in the knitting, or it must have a genuine seam down the back. In either case the threads will converge toward the back, and the texture of the stocking will be the same at the ankle as it is just below the hem.

A stocking that is shaped after the weaving has the fabric crowed together at the ankle. This makes it thicker and darker. Also the threads run perfectly straight with no convergence. It is a simple matter for the woman buying hosiery to lay the ankle against the top of the stocking to compare the texture and at the same time examine the threads to see whether they run straight or converge. The woman who learns to do this insures herself against shapeless hosiery.

GIFTS FOR A BRIDE

A most acceptable gift for a prospective bride would be a set of Venetian glass grapefruit or fruit cocktail glasses.

In faint lovely colorings are sprays of flowers made of shells. They are very inexpensive, and when cleverly arranged in a low bowl or tall vase, are very decorative.

Unusually charming because of the dark rich tones of brown, old blue and green is a tea set of Italian pottery which is as serviceable as it is beautiful.

Tall candlesticks of twisted mulberry glass are charming and not at all expensive.

DICTATES OF FASHION

A great many touches of red are noted in accessories.

Reds and greens predominated in the evening dresses worn at smart theatre party and dance last week.

An interesting green colored lace frock had a long-waisted fitted bodice and rather full skirt trimmed with three wide bands of fitch.

Pleated ruffles shifting from flesh to rose and a cocarde at the girdle makes an attractive evening frock seen the other night.

Flesh color chiffon evening gown with circular sides had shaded chiffon petals down the front of the skirt.

A French sports coat seen on a smartly dressed woman was in a brown and tan plaid, with a little triangle of self-color bouclé in one corner of each of the lighter-color blocks, one the lower part of the coat and on the sleeves.

Large earrings made of cameos are among the extreme types worn. Those of the same enormous proportions being of onyx with mosaic inlay.

Brown footwear seems to outnumber every other type around New York during the daytime, the stockings usually in pebble or other tone lighter than the shoes.

Many beana hats are noted; one of timbo straw had a facing of self colored angora and a huge disc of the angora at one side.

A dress of Lanvin green crepe worn at the theatre last week had a heavy allover beading done in jewel colorings.

Small clusters, usually three American Beauty roses, are worn on the extreme edge of the right brim on several hats.

PILLOWS OF RIBBON

Pillows for the living room, the porch, the boudoir; pillows a decorative spots in the shop windows that are noted for their attractive and beautiful decorations are growing more and more in popularity. College pillows, fraternity pillows, bridal pillows, baby pillows entirely of ribbons, or combined with cretonne, silk, gingham or fine linens seem to be in general favor.

NEW SHOULDER KNOTS

And she also has a hat that she can wear three ways. Ribbon streamers snapped in front and back make a beautiful French chapeau. A tight ribbon band of roman stripe makes a sport hat of charming simplicity. And a third, a rosette of crushed ribbon snapped on to Peggy's hat, fits her for afternoon and street wear.

NEW SUMMER FABRIC

A new and beautiful fabric for summer frocks is a voile as sheer as chiffon with wide wavy stripes of color edged with lines of black.

PIAZZA RUGS

In anticipation of summer very attractive piazza rugs are displayed. They are not unlike rag rugs in appearance, but are made of braided straw in extremely pretty designs and colors. Flat hassocks as well as slightly larger ones with wooden legs match the rugs.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Never sprinkle pongee to iron. Roll in a towel while wet and iron when still damp.

If it is necessary to iron a rough-dry article in a hurry sprinkle it well and roll up tightly in a dry towel. Place the bundle in a warm (not hot) oven and by the time the irons are heated it will be evenly damp and ready to iron.

If the busy mother will wash the baby's jackets or the children's sweaters in the usual way, and then put them in a clean pan and set in a warm place to dry, they will be like new. Turn them often and shake a little as they dry.

To wash shields so that they will last a while use luke warm soapy water and a teaspoonful of baking soda. Do not rub the soap directly on the soap directly on the shields, but on a small brush, and brush both sides of the shield vigorously with the warm water. Rinse in water of the same temperature.

TO REMOVE STAINS

To remove perspiration stains, first dampen the spot with water, then sprinkle a thick layer of borax on it. Roll up light for fifteen or twenty minutes. Rinse in cold water and the stain will be come.

To clean table oilcloth, sprinkle it with common salt and rub lightly with a cloth. All spots and stains will be quickly removed.

When you find fruit stains on the best table linen, moisten with camphor. If this is done before stain has been put in water, it will disappear.

A simple and easy way to clean light-colored velvet or remove stains from light-colored silks is to apply corn starch with a small brush and rub until material is as bright as new.

Iron-rust spots will disappear if soaked in rice-water.

CRINKLED SILK

Crinkled silk is being extensively used for afternoon gowns as well as for some of the newer hats. Often it is employed in little cascades of ruffles—forming a ruffled panel—on a gown otherwise quite plain. Beige muslin with large black spots is another favorite at present. So is silk mohair and varnished marquisette. Myrtle green is a soft new color which is a stunning background for gold and silver.

PRETTY SACHET BAG

The heart of a rose is the favorite place for a sachet. Either a milliner's or a ribbon rose may be used. The heart is removed and in its place a tiny sachet or powder box sewed in.

ECONOMY

Housewives buy Turkish towels and cut them up into wash cloths. A saving of about a dollar is made by this process, with no work attached to it but the hemming.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Miss Margaret Thornton, Benton Harbor, Mich., is the only woman in a class of 200 in a Chicago automobile school.

Many of the agricultural students enrolled at the Frank James Industrial School, at Elat, West Africa are girls.

The State budget in California was drafted by a woman—Mrs. Nellie B. Pierce—who runs it as she'd run a home.

Knitting mills, 5 and 10—cent stores and clothing factories in Kentucky report over three-fourths of their workers to be women.

Despite her 77 years, Mrs. C. H. Jones of Tacoma, Wash., has just been elected president of the Northwestern Lumber Company, a $1,000,000 corporation.

The medium wages of white women workers in Alabama, South Carolina, Missouri, Rhode Island and Kansas ranges from $8.80 in Alabama to $13.65 in Missouri.

PACKING CHINA

When packing glass or china, use straw or excelsior that has been slightly dampened. The water causes both the materials to swell, and this swelling fills up the crevices, thus wedging the padding in between the breakable articles much tighter than it can be done by hand.

CLEAN VELOUR HAT

If the velour hat is shabby, put some finely powdered salt in the oven. When it is quite hot, rub it into the nap with soft paper. Discard the soiled paper for new occasionally. Brush with a stiff brush.

TO CLEAN PANAMA HAT

Rub it first with cornmeal, then dissolve lump starch in water to make a thin paste. Apply this to the hat with a brush, then place in the sun, and when thoroughly dry brush starch off the hat. A nail brush or an old tooth brush may be used.

HUSBAND BRINGS SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST HIS WIFE AND ROOMER

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 9.—It is believed there will be a large attendance in the police court, Monday morning when the case of the state against Catherine Dodd or Dobbs as she is called by both names, and James Baren, the latter engaged in the real estate and insurance business in New London, and who has been a figure at Ocean Beach, where he resided a couple of seasons, charged with a statutory is put on trial. They were brought into court Saturday that they might explain the allegations made against them, but the situation then was such that a postponement was asked for by the accused and was allowed by the court, and the case went over till tomorrow morning. The Dodd or Dobbs family came here from New Haven some few years ago, mother and two daughters, one of the latter close to 20 years of age now, and away at school. Mrs. Dodd has been the defendant in a divorce suit which her husband, the proprietor of the Domestic laundry at New Haven, had brought against her, and she had won so that her husband was compelled to support her. Last season she had a cottage at Ocean Beach, and Baren was a roomer there. The pair was frequently seen in bathing costume. Baren spent much time at the beach for it is understood that he sold considerable real estate there. He, it will be remembered, saved a couple of Norwich girls from the attacks of sailors one night there and he took the girls into the Dodd cottage when the sailors attacked them. It is said that Mr. Dodd decided to employ a detective and send him to New London. The detective that Mr. Dodd engaged is said to have spent some time as a traveling man and he found that when the season at the beach closed that Mrs. Dodd changed her residence to Federal street, where she engaged apartments. Baren also came up town to reside and he hired a room, it is claimed in the apartments of Mrs. Dodd. When the detective learned this he went to the same house in which Mrs. Dodd and Baren were located and he made that his home whenever he was here. The room of the detective joined that of the Dodd apartments and conversation that was carried on in in the Dodd apartments was audible in the room of the detective when care was not exercised by the occupants of the Dodd rooms to speak in a tone of voice that did not carry beyond the ears of the person it was intended should hear what was said. Listening he is said to have heard conversation that aroused his suspicions and he heard other things, it is claimed that confirmed his suspicion that Mr. Dodd had good and sufficient reason to again seek a divorce.

He communicated what he had seen and what he had heard to Mr. Dodd, his employer, and that information was lodged with the prosecuting attorney in New London with the result that a criminal charge was brought against Mrs. Dodd and Mr. Baren and they were arrested and arraigned in court. They were ordered to give a bond of $500 each to appear in the police court Monday and this they furnished with one Titus, also a real estate dealer, as surety on both ends.

Ernest Schleifer, the union leader who was tried in the police court here on the 19th of March for urging striking shopmen to commit acts of violence and damage to railroad property and rolling stock, who was held in $2,500 for trial in the superior court next month at New London, was held on a like charge at New Haven for trial in that county. He applied through his counsel last Friday for a change of venue in the New Haven county court, but Judge Webb would not allow it. The reasons alleged for the change was a somewhat unusual one in that it represented that the statements of State Attorney Alling to newspaper men might have prejudiced the case of Schliefer, who has been a newspaper reporter himself in the earlier years of his life and he was a most competent judge of whether the claim of the defendant's lawyer was well founded.

Judge Webb decided that it was not so based and held that the statements made by Attorney Alling to the reporters were as likely to influence public opinion toward the accused as it was to turn that opinion against him. All the railroad men in the state are interested in the outcome of the Schleifer case. That the evidence to bring the suit was obtained was a surprise to the railroaders, as they were not aware of the fact that the railroad company had men at the meeting at which Schleifer urged violence who would report all that was said and all that was done at the meeting. But the railroad company, it appears, was determined to fight the strikers with their own weapons and thus it secured the evidence that has been presented at New Haven and at New London.

Henry C. Chappell and wife of Federal street, spent the week-end in New York.

The observance of the Hebrew Easter was concluded today in both synagogues, services starting this forenoon and continuing until after sundown. During the observance the synagogues were thronged with worshippers.

An automobile, owned by L. Tracey Sheffield of Ocean avenue, collided with an automobile, owned by Mar in J. Wash of No. 59 School street, Groton, Saturday evening on State street, while the latter machine was motionless alongside the curb. Walsh's machine suffered a bent mudguard and a sprung rear axle. Sheffield's machine escaped without damage.

Grass fires started by youths, continue to keep the New London fire department busy and Saturday two still alarms were responded to for fires that threatened to reach buildings. One of the fires was on a large tract adjoining the Connecticut College for Women and a cottage had to be deluged with water in order to prevent it from igniting. Another blaze was started on the plot at the corner of Ocean avenue and Thames street and was subdued by the application of chemicals.

Eugene T. Kirkland, a former alderman, is confined to his home on Glenwood avenue, being seriously ill of heart trouble. Mr. Kirkland suffered a recurrence of his trouble Friday night, but since then his condition has improved somewhat.

Lawrence Donohue, formerly of New London, but of late employed in Detroit, Mich., is now located in Boston. Mr. Donohue spent the week-end in New London with relatives.

Tug Elmer A. Keeler, which went ashore on the rocks off Bartlett's Reef a fortnight ago, together with the scow Mauretania, one of her scows laden with coal was floated late Saturday afternoon by the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking company and towed into port, where repairs will be started at once. The extent of the damage to the steel hull of the tug is not known, but it is not believed to be extensive. The Mauretania was floated several days ago.

The Keeler and the Mauretania grounded when the tug was attempting to make New London harbor during a terrific northeast gale. The crew of the barge was rescued by the tug and some of the latter were under treatment several days for frost bites at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital after they were landed on Waterford shore.

William Harking, a youth, was slightly injured Saturday when he was knocked from his bicycle at the corner of State and Bank streets by an automobile, owned by Charles Rice and operated by Jesse Bennett of Mystic. The accident occurred when an automobile was turning into State street, the rear of the machine hitting the cycle and felling the youngster.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Branigan, widow of John Branigan, occurred at 9 o'clock Saturday morning at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large concourse of mourners. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger, assisted by Rev. John McGrath as deacon and Rev. Timothy M. Crowley as master of ceremonies. The bearers were James H. May, Frank D'Avignon, Edward M. Sweeney, Daniel D. Buckley, William T. May and David Reagan. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Miss Angelina Di Marco of Shaw street, Hugh McPartland of Golden street, Mrs. Henry Pope of Main street and John Kuhne, a member of the crew of the United States lighthouse tender Hawthorne, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged Saturday.

John S. Almy of No. 82 Shetucket street, Norwich, Raymond Platt and George Catone of Centerbrook, have been ordered to appear in the police court Monday for violation of the automobile laws. The trio were allowed their liberty on their own recognizance for their appearance in court.

Saturday afternoon, the automobile which Almy was operating, in passing through State street, run down the motorcycles of Platt and Catone, which were parked between Main and Broad streets, but the machines were still standing a considerable distance from the curb. Almy, Platt and Catone were taken into custody by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy, the Norwich man charging with failing to have an operator's license signed and Platt and Catone for parking their cycles away from the curb. Both motorcycles were damaged but not extensively.

Measles are very prevalent in New London at present. There were 38 new cases reported to the health department here last week. Other contagious and infectious cases are few.

There is talk now of an automobile show to be promoted by independent dealers, that is dealers who are not associated with the New London dealers' association, and that is more than half the dealers in the city. The last show given by the dealers was not a success, and now the projectors propose to have attractions that will draw patronage and buyers.

Senator Ernest E. Rogers is to cause a handsome residence to be erected on property owned by him on Pequot avenue near the site of the former Pequot hotel property. The plans for the structure are already in course of preparation. The structure will be of brick and of the colonial type and will cost, it is estimated about $40,000. Senator Rogers resides at present on Granite street, where he has made his abode many years.

John S. Saxton, a former resident of New London, now residing in Arlington, Mass., was in New London Saturday for a brief visit with relatives. Mr. Saxton is employed as division superintendent by the A. & P. Tea Company, having charge of 45 stores in Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Measles seem to have a strong hold on the children of New London. During the week ending Saturday there were 55 cases of the disease reported to the health department. The other contagious diseases were few. They were one each of mumps, diptheria and chicken pox and four of whooping cough.

Attorney John C. Geary has returned to his home here after having spent several weeks in the south.

The evasion of taxicab fares by joy riders is getting to be a common practice of late and it is not infrequent that the police are called upon to act as a collecting agency for operators of public service cars. This afternoon a fellow hired a public service machine and did not conclude his trip until early in the evening. When the fellow decided he had had enough riding he threw a $10 bill at the operator and leaped from the machine, fortunately escaping injury. The driver of the auto, Jacob Forman, complained to the police and the fellow was arrested as Forman claimed that his charge for the drive was $26. After much arguing Forman agreed to accept an additional $5 as the balance of his fee and with payment being made the fellow was allowed his liberty without being compelled to appear in the police court tomorrow morning. Forman was satisfied with the settlement of the matter for had the fellow that hired the car been presented in the police court, a fine would have been imposed, but Forman would not have received any compensation for his services.

CONFERENCE GRANTS RETIREMENT TO EIGHT METHODIST MINISTERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 7—After the New England Southern Conference of the Methodist church opened its morning session today with the usual roll call, an executive session was held which was addressed by Bishop Theodore S. Henderson of the Detroit area upon Methodist work in Italy.

The conference then took up work relating to its own membership.

The following were placed on the retired list by vote of the conference:

Charles A. Stenhouse, 44 years in the service; William I. Ward, 45 years effective; William E. Kugler, 45 years effective; John S. Bridgford, 47 years effective; Robert E. Bisbee, 41 years effective; Louis M. Flocken, 33 years effective; Ernest McP. Ames, 21 years effective; Adam C. McGilton, 31 years effective.

Of the above, it is hoped, concerning the last two named, that they will be able next year to assume again the effective relationship. The others have reached the age when they are entitled to retirement.

Upon motion of Dr. R. L. Roberts, it was voted to grant to Rev. R. S. Moore, sometimes called the irresistible humorist of the conference, his request for one year's leave of absence.

Dr. Marcus D. Buell, Professor Emeritus of Boston University School of Theology, a much honored member of the conference, addressed the conference. Dr. Buell looked upon several members of the conference, some of them on the retired list, who were once in his classes at the School of Theology and the presiding bishop was one of Dr. Buell's pupils. In his remarks he used some pleasantry concerning these "boys" which was greatly enjoyed by the conference.

Brief remarks were made by Rev. W. I. Ward and Rev. J. S. Bridgeford, retired, and by Rev. H. S. Robinson, senior member of the conference. Dr. Bartholomew responded.

Telegrams of greeting from the conference were sent to all the men taking the retired relationship this morning who are at home not able to come to conference and also to Rev. J. O. Rutter and Rev. Dr. E. C. Bass, both of whom are ill at home.

Arnold O. Kenyon and Arnold F. Waring were received on trial. James V. Claypool and Charles M. Coulter were advanced to second year studies, still on trial; Herbert Gurnee continued in first year studies; Howard P. Davis and Frank W. Dunham continued in second year studies; Norman V. Peal advanced to third year studies and elected to Deacon's orders; Herbert L. Wilbur continued in third year studies; Fred P. Templin, discontinued; Fred W. Knickrehm, Samuel T. Lippincott, Clifton E. Chase and Adlai Schulmaier, advanced to the fourth year; Truman H. Woodward and Marion J. Creeger graduated, admitted to full connection, and elected to Elder's orders. Edward H. Whitman was transferred from the Central Pennsylvania Conference for ordination purposes. Philip A. Ahern was graduated and elected to Elder's orders. Russell W. Bosworth and S. Raymond Luthy, already in Elder's orders, were also graduated. C. M. Keefer was transferred from the Oregon Conference for the purpose of ordination. Philip Nowell was recorded as having been previously transferred to the Colorado Conference. George H. Young, a local preacher, was elected to Deacon orders. O. G. Terry, a local preacher in Deacon's orders was elected to Elder's orders. M. Wayne Pickerell was transferred from the Nebraska Conference, graduated and elected to Elder's orders. He will later be transferred back to the Nebraska Conference.

John W. Carter, a minister of the Primitive Methodist church, presented his credentials as such with due recommendations and upon motion was elected to membership in this conference and recognized as an Elder.

It was voted upon motion that the books needed by the board of examiners for their work as such be purchased by the conference and that they become the property of the conference.

The bishop urged the young men in the conference to attend diligently to the studies in the several courses and said that each man should feel it to be as much a disgrace not to be promoted to the next year's class as he would to fail of promotion in college. He asked Prof. Buell to address the conference on the need of training for the work of the ministry and the professor arose to the occasion in a brief, but stirring address.

Business Session.

At 2 p. m. the conference assembled once more for business and the sessions opened with prayer by Rev. A. S. Minhead.

Rev. E. V. Claypool addressed the conference in the interest of the Anti-Saloon League.

Charles R. Oaten, business representative of the Board of Conference Claimants, addressed the conference, giving the following interesting information. This board aims (1) to create and administer a connectional fund for the benefit of ministers in advanced age or who are disabled, their widows and their children, and (2) to increase immediate revenues for their support. Last year there were in the denomination 8,118 claimants upon these funds and over $2,500,000 was distributed by this board. The Permanent Funds have now reached $15,923,263, and there is in the treasury at Chicago $1,433,295, giving a present total fund of $17,356,558. Fifteen years ago $2,000,000 was the extent of the entire fund. The average amount paid to each claimant last year was $340. The annual collection from the churches for this purpose was $1,828,533. The New England Southern Conference has now 65 claimants, as follows: 25 ministers, 38 widows, and 2 children, representing in the aggregate 1,548 years of service.

This year the denomination is also making its first distribution to aged supply pastors who have 15 years or more of service to their credit. Seventy-four claimants have been helped and 10 others are under consideration. Rev. J. B. Hingeley, D. D., the corresponding secretary of this board is a former member of this conference.

Greetings were received from the New England Conference now in session at Holyoke, Mass., and it was voted that this conference telegraph its greetings in return.

Afternoon Session

At the afternoon session, there was read by the secretary a report from Dr. E. C. Bass for the committee on locating the graves of deceased ministers giving the following interesting facts. There are 217 deceased members of the conference six of whom have died the past year. Forty-five (45) graves have been located outside the territory of this conference and twenty-one (21) graves have not been located at all. Others are buried within the territory of the conference. It becoming an increasing custom for the the churches to decorate annually the graves of any located within the community where the church exists.

An interesting letter from Rev. Dr. Walter J. Yates, Truro, Mass., was read by the secretary. Dr. Yates is able to preach, but not able to travel away from home to attend the conference. He completes 50 years in the ministry this year he being received on trial in 1873 when the conference was held in Warren, R. I. He writes that he is the only Protestant ministers in a territory 25 miles long out on Cape Cod.

Bishop's Address to Class

The time given to the World Program of Methodism on Thursday and Friday crowded over to this afternoon an event which often occupies a commanding place on the program of an annual conference, viz., the bishop's address to the entering class. Bishop Burns, however, was able to deliver a very inspiring and pointed address in a very brief time. His address urged five points, put in his characteristic fashion as follows:

The church of tomorrow will demand that we be (1) narrow enough to deep; (2), broad enough to be social; (3) progressive enough to be conservative; (4), be holy enough to be Christlike; (5) be human enough to be interesting. Each of these points received an elucidating and captivating treatment which challenged thought and inspired courage.

T. H. Woodward and M. J. Creeger were admitted into full connection in the conference and J. W. Carter was received from the Primitive Methodist Denomination according to the vote taken this morning.

Bishop Burns and the district superintendent extended to these men the right hand of fellowship in behalf of the conference.

Ministers' Wives' Reception

The ministers' wives reception which has become a much valued feature at the conference each year took place this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at the parsonage, 193 Hempstead street.

The floral decorations were pussy willows and carnation pinks. Instrumental music was furnished by Miss Roberta Bitgood, violinist and Mr. Pierce, pianist. Delightful vocal solos were rendered by Miss Elwood, entitled "Just as I am," "Ferry Ahoy" and "Happy Sal." In the receiving line were Rev. M. E. Genter, Rev. R. L. Roberts, Mrs. M. E. Genter, Mrs. W. H. Bath, president of the association; Bishop Burns, Mrs W. P. Buck and Mrs. A. T. Miner. Bishop Burns gave a very inspiring and helpful address. He paid a high tribute to the faithful work of the women of the parsonage and extended his felicitations to the ladies present. A short business session was held and the officers were all re-elected who have served the past year as follows: President, Mrs. W. H. Bath, Norwich; secretary, Mrs. F. W. Le Baron. The vice presidents will be chosen by the president after the appointments are read at the close of the conference, one from each district.

Mrs. D. F. Dodd, wife of a returned missionary from China, was introduced. Her husband was once the president of the Norwich District Epworth League and a member of this conference.

Dainty refreshments were served by the ladies of the entertaining church.

At 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the church was held the anniversary of the conference deaconess board with Rev. I. W. LeBaron presiding. Prayer was offered by Miss Glandon, deaconess. There was special music in charge of Mrs. W. H. Cadman, pianist.

Deaconess Homes' Work

Miss B. Marion Hope, superintendent of the Fall River Deaconess home, in a brief address set forth the work of the Providence and Fall River deaconess homes.

Bishop Burns in an address which went back into history and out into all the crying needs of the present world, showed the deaconess movement to be an agency in God's hands which is reaching out and showing the sweetness of service in Jesus Christ.

A chorus choir of twelve (12) voices assisted in the music.

During the time from 4 to 6 p. m. there were automobiles provided by the local church giving the ministers the opportunity to take a ride to see some of the historic places around New London. So while the preachers' wives were having their festivities, the ministers themselves were not without recreation.

SUIT OVER SALE OF WOOD FROM SALEM FARM

A short session of the court of common pleas was held here Saturday morning, when Judge C. B. Waller heard the case of Harry N. Ford of this city vs. Mrs. Samuel Wheatley of Salem. The facts in the case seemed to be that the defendant was anxious to dispose of 30 cords of wood on her farm in Salem and was willing to take $4.25 a cord to get rid of it, although the prevailing price was $5 per cord.

Mr. Ford finally consented to take the wood and gave two checks to bind the bargain, making a total of $42.50. It is alleged that for some reason the defendant sold the wood to another party, the suit following.

The case was an appeal by the defendant from the finding of the justice court. The lawyers were Stewart and Morgan, and decision was reserved by the court.

For Driving While Intoxicated

Stewart Long was arrested early Sunday afternoon by state policeman M. R. Sterling on the charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. His arrest came soon after a telephone call to police headquarters had stated that a drunken man was driving a public service car around the West Side.

One banquet given by President Loubet of France to the Czar and Czarina of Russia cost $30,000 for 300 guests.

FARM PRODUCT VALUES IN STATE TAKE BIG DROP

Farm product values in Connecticut fell off from $47,767,000 in 1921 to $36,516,000 in 1922.

Government reports of the 1920 census place a valuation of $250,464,000 on Connecticut farm property and reveal that two-thirds of the state's land acreage is classed as agricultural. Abstracts of grand lists of manufacturing industries in the state in 1921 give their assessed values at $247,347,896. Of the 1,500,000 inhabitants of the state about 122,000 follow agriculture as a vocation.

Situation in State

Here is the situation: The price of farm products practically hit a war basis, but the purchasing value of the dollar today is by no means anywhere near normal and the farmer is in the predicament of disposing of the fruits of his labor at figures, which, in the final analysis are lower than prevailed before the war. The solution may be reached in one of two ways—an increase in the price of farm commodities, or a reduction in the prices of his requirements. The last two years the farmer has not operated profitably.

In matter of taxes the increased expense of the farmers is reflected. The taxes paid in 1922, amounted to 70.9 cents per acre, as compared with 31.4 cents in 1914. In Connecticut in 1914 they amounted to 60 cents; in 1922, they were 99 cents.

What Farm Crops Bring

The blow given the farmer is reflected in the following tabulation of prices of general crops common to Connecticut, the figures being based on December farm prices:

Gained in Assets

An analysis of farm inventories discloses that farmers made a small gain in assets during the year. The 1923 reports show 36,000 horses, or about 1,000 less than a year ago, which is explained by the more common use of trucks and tractors on farms. The value of horses, dropped on an average of $7, so that the loss charged off on those remaining is $222,000.

The number of milch cows increased 3,000 and their value increased from $74 to $78, showing a gain of $564,000 in this item. A loss of $3,600 was charged against other cattle. Sheep and swine values increased.

Added values, totalling $595,740 are reduced by amounts charged off by decreased values amounting to $229,000, leaving the net gain $366,740.

Agriculture Important Industry

The agricultural prominence of Connecticut is far greater than the average citizen appreciates. Vitally concerning the 1,500,000 population and 122,000 individuals directly it is important.

Connecticut is regarded as an industrial state, but in fact it is also a considerable agricultural state. Practically two-thirds of all the land in Connecticut is classed as farm land. Of the 3,084,800 acres 1,898,980 acres are classified as agricultural lands, of which 741,086 acres are improved 683,719 acres in farm woodland and 514,175 acres unimproved. The value of them is $226,991,617. Since there are 22,655 farms in Connecticut the average value is about $10,000.

The value of farm crops according to the United states 1920 census was $44,492,385, which is separated as follows: Cereals, $4,457,809; other grain, $13,196; seeds, $56,043; hay and forage, $13,711,567; vegetables, $7,218,194, miscellaneous crops, $15,209,113; fruits $3,835,471.

The domestic animals on Connecticut farms were appraised at $21,436,810. The horses, mules and the like were valued at $5,303,426; beef cattle at $925,201; dairy cattle, $13,473,236; sheep, $155,101; goats, $5,912; swine, $1,424,231. The inventory of poultry was $1,979,090; bees, $56,784.

The worth of milk, cream and butter fat, and of butter and cheese sold reached the total of $14,923,971 an increase of about $7,250,000 in ten years.

The poultry industry of the state shows some interesting facts. The number of chickens was 1,120,000 and they produced 6,304,380 dozens of eggs, the value of which was $3,536,329.

The farm produce attained the surprising total of $62,992,685 on the 1920 census basis of which $14,923,971 were dairy products; $3,536,329 poultry and the balance came from the soil.

Native Born Farmers Lead

The farms in Connecticut are operated almost exclusively by the white population only 65 negroes and ten Indians being classed separately. Of the 22,655 farmers 14,965 are classed as native born and 14 nationalities are sufficiently numerous to be grouped separately. Germans numbering 1,111 lead in the number of foreigners and 997 are Russians. The representations of Austrian, Hungarian, Polish and Italian have increased, but the other nationalities show decreases in numbers in the last ten years. For instance a government census of 1910 showed 1,164 Irish classed as farmers, but in the most recent figures there were only 650. Polish farmers increased from 143 to 795 in a decade; Italians from 319 to 739.

Number of Farmers Decrease

There are fewer farms in Connecticut than there were 50 years ago. Only one size of farms shows an increase over the number 50 years ago, and that is the number of places having 1,000 acres or more. The number has increased from 17 in 1880 to 29, which is one less than ten years ago. There were 20,598 farms in the state in 1880, and the last enumeration showed 22,655.

Hartford county is the principal agricultural county in the state, reckoned from the values of the products, which in 1920 attained the total of $18,779,160, in cereal crops. New Haven county led the state in other grains and seeds and Litchfield led in hay and forage productions with a crop to the value of $2,824,674. Hartford county led in fruit crops with a total of $610,185.

Increasing Potato Acreage

Connecticut farmers are increasing their acreage planted to potatoes. In 1921 the total for the state was 24,000 acres, an increase of 4.3 per cent. and showed a production of 140 bushels per acre against 103 bushels the year before. This is a result of the better methods employed. The early potatoes amounted to 3,360,000 bushels as against 2,369,000 bushels the year before and 36 per cent. better than the general average for five years. Last year's crop was the best since 1914. Hartford county leads in potato production with 932,563 bushels, having also the best yield per acre. The number of acres cultivated in the county was 5,978.

Hartford County Leads State

Hartford county leads the state, and New England in tobacco raising. The acreage planted last year was 27,958, or 8.4 per cent. less than the year before. The acreage set to broad leaf was curtailed 24 per cent. and Havana priced 55.3 seed was increased 29 per cent. and shadegrown increased 6 per cent. Because of unfavorable conditions the production was 24,947,500 pounds or 21 per cent. less than the year before. The figures are based on preliminary estimates, so far as the 1922 crop is concerned.

Hartford county will soon take its place as one of the greatest fruit producing counties in the state having 100,000 trees not of bearing age and 354,000 trees bearing which exceeds other county reports. Fairfield county however, led the state for 1920 in fruit production, with a harvest of 388,000 bushels of all fruits; New Haven county second with 375,000 bushels. Fairfield is the leading apple, plum and cherry producing county; New Haven, the peach and pear producing county.

The apple crop in 1922 was 1,300,000 bushels, a gain of 82 per cent. over 1921, nevertheless nearly 9 per cent. lower than seven years' previous general average.

New Haven Leads in Vineyards

New Haven leads in vineyard production, having had a harvest of practically 1,000,000 pounds of grapes in 1920, nearly half what was raised in the state. It is interesting to observe that Connecticut in 1920 had 5,604 farms reporting having grape vines of bearing age as against 4,170 in 1910. The production increased from 1,317,682 pounds in 1910 to 2,109,386 pounds in 1920 and while quantity production increased 100 per cent. the crop value increased 400 per cent.

The five leading crops of Connecticut in 1922 were: hay, $11,483,100; tobacco, $9,460,000; potatoes, $3,360,000; corn for grain $1,870,200; corn for silage, $1,858,950; apples, $1,650,000.

The estimate of the value of all crops in Connecticut last year was $36,516,000, compared with $47,767,000 in 1921, a decline of 23.5 per cent.

Announces Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. William Hazard of this city have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jessie Hazard, to Donald Fraser, son of J. D. Fraser of Salem, this state. The wedding will take place next month.

MUSICAL SERVICE HELD AT NORWICH Y. M. C. A.

Sunday afternoon at the local Y. M. C. A., in spite of the storm, a goodly number assembled in the large gymnasium. In addition to the hymns, scripture reading and prayer, F. O. Harrell of Boston delighted the audience with several religious selections on the Swiss bells, saxophone and musical glasses. The selections included A Perfect Day, Rosary and Nearer, My God, to Thee.

Rev. G. F. Bailey delivered an intensely interesting address on The Musical Life and he said in part that a musical life must be a life of mathematical exactness, with steady tread and always on time, neither hastening nor retarding the plans of the Almighty. A musical life must also be a life of true proportions; no one-sided affair; not a tune on one string; not a chorus of one voice. It must be a life of harmony; many instruments, but each contributing its share to the whole. A musical life must be a life that unifies, as did our songs during the great war; it must be one that contributes to the peace of the world. It is also a life of inspiration, and it must be a life that is religious. Music reaches its highest perfection in religion, because it raises the realm of feeling. High grade music will help to make a high grade nation. That man who would live a musical life must keep constantly in touch with Almighty God. Let us see to it that we contribute our full share to the great music of this old world. We may contribute with our intellects, with our hands and with our voices, but what the world wants is our hearts, so let us give to the world about us our best affection.

Swahn's orchestra rendered several pleasing selections during the service.

POETRY

MEETING HIS NEED.

I shall not count my life as vain
If only in some quiet way
I find my chance to serve my Lord,
My debt of love for Him to pay.

An unnamed man supplied the beast
Whereon the lowly Saviour passed
Along the way triumphantly,
Acclaimed the promised King at last.

An unnamed man supplied the room
Where once the Saviour broke the bread
And gave the wine—His flesh and blood—
His life—by which our lives are fed.

And unnamed crosses mark the spot
Where common soldiers chance to lie,
Who for the world's true brotherhood
A Sacrifice, feared not to die.

O grant me, Lord, the grace I pray
If I the quiet paths must lead,
To give my humble gift to Thee,
And know I, too, have met The need
—Philip H. Ralph, in British Weekly

VALE!

Vale! It is not well with us who bring
So frail a reed,
To flute of love and April's blossoming
To her who is the mistress of the spring
And will not heed
The little loves that plead.
She, the beloved one, the marvelous
Is only amorous
Of an old god who is most tyrannous
She was the mate of Pan ere Dis
Poets, we may not sing
So brave a song
As the immortal pipes' the whole day long.
And so, farewell!

11 PER CENT. WAGE RAISE FOR U. S. STEEL DAY LABORERS

Recommendation Made by Chairman Elbert H. Gary—More Than 150,000 Employes Are Affected by the Increase, Which Will Add Approximately $1,500,000 to the Weekly Payroll—Prices of Steel Products Have Been Advancing Steadily, Some Standard Products Having Increased in Price From 33 1-3 to 66 2-3 Per Cent.

New York, April 9.—(By The A. P.) The United States Steel Corporation today announced a wage increase of 11 per cent., effective April 16 for day laborers employed in the manufacturing plants of its subsidiary companies, with an equitable adjustment for other classes of labor in thise plants. More than 150,000 employes are affected and the increase, it is estimated, will add approximately one-half a million dollars to the weekly pay roll.

The Republic Iron & Steel Company immediately announced a similar wage increase for its day laborers and the Bethlehem, Crucible, Youngstown Sheet & Tube and other large independent companies are expected to follow suit. Three small middle western manufacturers previously had announced increases of from 40 to 41 cents an hour for common laborers.

Employes of the mining, transportation and miscellaneous properties of the U. S. Steel Corporation, are not affected by the present increase but it was stated at the offices of the corporation that wage adjustments already had been announced an increase of 20 per cent., to all employes other than those in the railway service.

The present rate of pay day laborers in the manufacturing plans of the corporation is 36 cents an hour.

The increase will bring the wages to approximately 40 to 41 cents an hour.

The increase in the steel industry closely follows those in the textile, copper mining, and certain building trades.

While the increase in the steel industry was regarded in Wall street as inevitable because of the sharp competition for unskilled labor, the actual announcement was not expected until the return of Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, who is due here on Friday, after an absence of two months on a Mediterranean cruise.

Mr. Gary and Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, repeatedly have called attention to the shortage of unskilled labor which they blamed on the restrictive immigration laws.

Manufacturing plants of the United States Steel Corporation are now working at 92 per cent. of capacity which is believed to be the maximum possible under present labor and transportation conditions.

Prices of steel products have been advancing steadily since the early part of last year, the increases for a number of standard products ranging from 33 1-3 to 66 2-3 per cent.

INDEPENDENT STEEL CORP. MEETS WAGE ADVANCE

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 9.—The Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, one of the largest independents in the country, late today announced an increase of approximately 11 per cent. in the wages of common labor, meeting the advance earlier in the day of the Carnegie Steel company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation.

The advance affects about 16,000 employes.

Wages of other employes also will be revised upward, the announcement said.

U. S. WILL VOTE IN COURT OF INTERNATIONAL JUSTICE

New York, April 9.—Election of a judge of the permanent court of international justice to fill the first vacancy since its inception in January, 1923, created by the death of Ruy Barbosa, the Brazilian jurist, will involve the participation of the United States, even though this country is not a party to the court, the world peace foundation announced tonight.

It was pointed out that under the rules for election, nominations are to be made by the jurists from each state in the permanent court of arbitration established at The Hague in 1899. George Gray, Oscar S. Strauss, Elihu Root and John Bassett Moore, now a judge of the permanent court of international justice, are the four American members of the panel.

The successor to Mr. Barbosa will be elected for his unexpired term, which ends Dec. 31, 1930. The foundation said it was almost certain that he would be chosen from the western hemisphere. It is proposed that the election be held during the fourth meeting of the assembly of the league of nations, which convenes Sept. 3.

The council of the league, during its twenty-fourth session, which begins tomorrow at Geneva, will decide upon putting the question upon the assembly's agenda. By the time established for the permanent court of international justice, the actual election is made by the council and assembly of the league, acting simultaneously.

Secretary of State Hughes, in a letter transmitted to the senate on Feb. 14, proposed that the United States would adhere to the protocol accepting the court, with the proviso that the United States participate in the election of judges, notwithstanding that it is not a member of the league of nations.

BOOTLEGGER HAD BOOZE CONCEALED IN SAUSAGE

New York, April 9.—The latest scheme of the bootlegging gentry was pin-pricked and burst today by a prohibition agent.

Agent Arthur Van Tassell walked into the butcher shop of Joseph Carnesi on the Lower East Side today and remarked that he was thirsty. Carnesi produced a big, fat appearing sausage, threw it on the scales for the benefit of other customers, and called out $1.25.

Van Tassel pushed a pin into the skin and in a moment he looked as if he were the man who won the rat. He was smeared with red. He took one swig to make sure it was red ink," the favorite East Side brine. Then he showed his star.

Carnesi went to jail.

PRINCESS YOLANDA WEDS A WORLD WAR HERO

Rome, April 9.—(By the A. P.)—Yolanda, vivacious and beautiful princess of the House of Savoy, today became the bride of Count Carlo Calvi Di Bergolo, cavalry captain and World war hero.

King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, with moistened eyes, saw their 21-year-old daughter united with the man of her choice in two ceremonies, both held within the historic Quirinal palace.

The civil ceremony began at 10:30 o'clock in the morning in the Grand hall of the palace, with Senator Tittoni officiating as civil officer of the crown. The religious ceremony followed shortly in the Pauline chapel, Monsignor Beccaria, court chaplain, celebrating the mass.

In a homily delivered during the ceremony the chaplain, addressing Count Calvi and his royal bride, said:

"Three principal duties must sing like hymns in your hearts—love for your lifetime, education of your children, and the holy government of your family. The assertion that the task of parents is bitter and heavy is false. It is sweet and sacred, having that highest object, to continue and perpetuate the work of creation."

Monsignor Beccaria ended the ceremony with a prayer that the future of the couple be happy.

Sixty-four other couples were married today in Rome, and to each Princess Yolanda sent a gift consisting of a box of wedding sweets on the cover of which appeared her portrait and that of Count Calvi. The whole was tied with a tri-color ribbon, bearing a silver medal on which appeared the Savoy and Calvi coat of arms. Yolanda also wrote a note to each couple expressing her warmest wishes.

The royal bride sent 500 boxes of wedding sweets to the telephone girls, and gold and silver watches engraved with her monogram and that of her husband went to all the officers and soldiers on duty at the royal palace. Four thousands other boxes of sweets are being distributed.

POSTHUMOUS DECORATION FOR LATE A. P. GARDNER

Washington, April 9.—Citations for the award of distinguished service medals to the late Augustus P. Gardner, former representative from Massachusetts, who resigned as a member of congress after the outbreak of the war to serve in the army and Dr. Harvey Cushing, of Massachusetts, have been approved by Secretary Weeks.

In the case of Mr. Gardner, the citations said "his entire service was characterized by untiring zeal," devotion to duty and marked success. His splendid example of patriotism will always serve as an inspiration to his countrymen."

Mr. Gardner first entered the service as a colonel in the adjutant general's department and later served as adjutant of the 31st division. At his own request he was appointed a major in the 121st Infantry and commanded a battalion in that regiment until his death from pneumonia in a southern training camp.

Dr. Cushing, as senior consultant of surgery in the A. E. F. and in direct charge of treatment of gunshot wounds of the first army hospital during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, the citation said "he performed conspicuous and distinguished services to his government" and "his individual efforts in that capacity saved the lives of many severely wounded soldiers."

30,000 TO RECEIVE WAGE BOOST OF 12 1-2 PER CENT.

Birmingham, Ala., April 9.—It was announced at offices of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company here late today that wages of common labor in all plants of the company would be increased 11 per cent.

Coal and ore miners of the company, together with other miners of the district to the number of 30,000, received a wage boost of 12 1-2 per cent. on March 15.

London, April 9.—(By the A. P.)—An imperial economic conference and a meeting of the imperial conference of premiers, similar to that held in June, 1921, will sit concurrently in London beginning October 1, it was announced today in the house of commons by Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer.

PRIEST MATCHES CONAN DOYLE'S "SPIRIT PICTURES"

New York, April 9.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's "spirit pictures" showing throngs of shadowy figures gathering about the tomb of the British Unknown Soldier in London on Armistice day, were derided today by Rev. C. M. De Heredia, S. J., who demonstrated in the photographic department of the Evening World that he could cause similar phenomena to appear on photographic plates, without touching them, and without any aid from the the other world.

Father De Heredia, a Catholic priest at Mexico City, has made a long study of spiritualism as well as the tricks employed by stage magicians and sleight of hand performers.

He described his method of producing weird photographs as "trickery and device, and spiritism not at all—because as between living persons here on earth and the spirits that have passed from the world there is not and cannot be a control from the living world."

The Evening World published two of Father Heredia's pictures—one a photograph of William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, upon which had been superimposed the shadowy figure of a tipsy vagabond and a bust of Sir Arthur, and the other a photograph of himself, upon which he placed the vague form of a tin-hatted doughboy with his rifle at "Present Arms!"

Three members of the newspaper's staff who were present at the demonstration testified Father Heredia did not touch the plates and did not approach closer to them at any time than three feet.

When he had finished his demonstration he proved how simple it all was by whispering the secret to a staff photographer in the group, who thereupon made some "spirit" pictures unaided.

On his way out, Father Heredia issued a challenge too spiritualist exponents to produce phenomenon that he could not duplicate, provided he was given "as much time to prepare as they have presumably allowed themselves."

Sir A. Conan Doyle in a statement made after he had seen thoe newspaper reproductions of Father Heredia's experiments at ghost photography said that great ignorance of the subject had been shown.

"The claim of Father Heredia or of any other conjuror," he said, "that he can make counterfeit ghosts is quite outside the question and shows that he has no appreciation of facts that I have put before the public.

"The point which he ignores is that in a whole series of these cases, which I can show, the faces of the dead have appeared in a clearly recognizable form when the photographer had no possible knowledge of the identity of the visitor and could, therefore, have made no preparation."

MINIMUM WAGE LAW FOUND UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Washington, April 9.—Wages cannot be fixed by law, the supreme court, dividing five to three, held today in a case brought to test the constitutionality of an act of congress fixing minimum wages for women and minor girls in the District of Columbia.

The decision was delivered by Justice Sutherland, Justices McKenna, Van Devanter, McReynolds and Butler joining him. Chief Justice Taft delivered a dissenting opinion for himself and Justice Sanford, while Justice Holmes read a dissenting opinion which followed in its main features that of Chief Justice Taft. Justice Brandeis did not participate in the decision.

The majority of the court based its position broadly upon the right of contract, insisting that while laws could be enforced to regulate working conditions, the employer and employe must be free of restraint in determining between themselves what wages are acceptable.

Stage Comedian Takes Up Church Work

A recent photo of Fred Stone, the stage comedian, whose conversion to a life of active Christian service recently become known. Mr. Stone was brought up a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, but while his life has been distinctive on Broadway for its cleanliness, he had not been "actively, Christian" in the fullest Methodist sense of the phrase, for more than 20 years.

Train Kills Vermont Secretary of State

Harry A. Black Had Just Stepped From One Train at Wells River When He Was Knocked Down by Another.

Wells River, Vt., April 9.—Secretary of State Harry A. Black, of Newport, was instantly killed in the railroad station here late today when he was struck by a train. He had just stepped from one train when he was knocked down by another.

Orlando L. Martin, of Plainfield, speaker of the state house of representatives, was with Secretary Black but escaped injury.

Bystanders said that the secretary of state faltered as he crossed the track in front of the approaching locomotive. Then he fell as if in a faint. He had been ill at his home in Newport for the past three weeks and was on his way to his office in Montpelier when he was killed. He had taken a Boston-bound express train at Newport and was to change for the train to Montpelier here.

Secretary Black was born in Coventry, November 22, 1879, and was educated at Derby Academy. He was an assistant clerk of the state house of representatives from 1906 to 1912 and clerk from 1912 to 1918. He was elected secretary of state in 1918 and assumed office in January of the following year.

JOHN BLACKWELL COBB DIED IN STATEROOM ON TRAIN

New York, April 9.—The body of John Blackwell Cobb, capitalist, was found in his stateroom on a train from Hot Springs, Ark., on its arrival at the Pennsylvania station this afternoon. Cobb, who lived at Stamford, Conn., for many years was vice president of the American Tobacco company and a director of the United Drug company.

Mr. Cobb had been wintering at Hot Springs and was believed to have been stricken by heart trouble last night. When he failed to leave his stateroom at the railroad station a porter entered and found his body. Physicians said he had been dead several hours. Mr. Cobb was 65 and was born in Caswell county, North Carolina.

Mr. Cobb became associated with the American Tobacco company in 1890 and acted as ice president from 1896 to 1908 when he retired from office. He continued as a director in the company and its subsidiaries. He also was a director of the Louis K. Liggett company and a member of the executive committee of the United Drug company.

He is survived by a widow and a daughter, Mrs. William P. Gilmour. Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

SMALL WINTER WHEAT CROP IS PREDICTED

Washington, April 9.—This year's winter wheat crop was forecast today by the department of agriculture at 372,31,000 bushels, the smallest crop since 1918, and 17,537,000 bushels less than the average production for the last ten years. The forecast was based on conditions prevailing April 1 and upon the assumption of average abandonment of acreage through the winter and average influences from now until harvest.

No estimate was made of the abandoned acreage, which will be indicated in the May Crop report, but in summarizing conditions as they existed April 1 the department said abandonment promises to be heavy although irregular, from Ohio westward to Kansas and Nebraska.

"Owing to the extent of drought or scanty rainfall last fall and winter in many sections," the department said, "much wheat failed to germinate or, having germinating, perished from the rigors of winter. In the plains area, extending from western Nebraska through west Kansas into the Panhandle region of Oklahoma and Texas, conditions are extremely poor, ranging from 50 per cent. downward to complete failure. These conditions extend with lessening severity over the adjacent area, including the southwestern half of Nebraska, the western half of Kansas, practically all of the Texas panhandle, eastern New Mexico, eastern Colorado, and southwestern Wyoming, in all of which territory the condition is below 65 per cent."

TWO MORE BODIES FOUND IN VINEYARD SOUND

Vineyard Haven, Mass., April 9.—Two known to be missing and two definitely identified was the record tonight of the day's activities in connection with the hitherto unnumbered and nameless crew of the steamer John Dwight, which went down in Vineyard sound last Friday, a supposed rum-runner, a victim of collision brought about by the smugglers' practice of laying-to without lights.

To the eight victims whose bodies, recovered from the sound are in an undertaking room at this harbor, were added two more probable victime in Captain John F. King, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Captain John Carmichael, of New Jersey. Those who identified two of the bodies here as those of James H. Nelson, of Brooklyn, as chief marine engineer, and Harry King, of Brooklyn, a seaman, son of the missing captain, said that Captains Carmichael and King, long-time cronies, shipped together, with Harry King accompanying his father. They were certain that none of the bodies here was that of either captain.

HAS DRIVEN AUTO TEN YEARS WITHOUT LICENSE

Worcester, Mass., April 9.—Albert Erhart, 28 years old, of Indianapolis, was arrested here today for driving an automobile without a license and after he was booked in police headquarters, he told the officers he has been driving a car all over the country for the past ten years without a license. On his present trip, he drove from Indianapolis to Worcester without being held up, but here he ran afoul of Traffic Officer Albin Olson, who found he had no license and ordered him to court, where he was fined $10. Erhart complimented the officer after the fine had been imposed.

The Worcester board of health issued an order that provides a fine of $20 for smoking in a closed electric car.

Premier Bonar Law Has Throat Trouble

Retirement as British Prime Minister Would Cause No Surprise—Speculation as to Possible Successor.

London, April 9 (By the A. P.)—Returning to the house of commons today, Premier Bonar Law looked bronzed and well, but the house was pained when he attempted to reply to questions to find that his throat was still affected, and that he was able to speak only with difficulty and in almost inaudible tones. Indeed, when he came to explain the arrangements for the imperial conference he handed his answer to Stanley Baldwin, the chancellor of the exchequer, to deliver.

In the prime minister's entourage it was stated that although he is only suffering from a relaxed throat there is no likelihood that he will be able to deliver a speech for some time to come, and this has revived the rumors of his possible retirement at an early date, which have been more persistent lately. No immediate developments are expected, but it has always been understood that Mr. Bonar Law's retention of office depended upon the course of his health; therefore, should he decide to retire after the budget statement is made, it would cause no surprise.

There is much speculation as to his possible successor. Mr. Baldwin is the only likely man in the present ministry, but there is talk of Austen Chamberlain and Lord Birkenhead rejoining the conservative government, in which case Mr. Chamberlain would most likely take the post of prime minister.

RUM RUNNING SHIP AT SEA SHORT OF COAL

New York, April 9.—Customs officials gleefully announced today that the steamer Vaudreul, one of the rum running fleet hovering off Atlantic Highlands, N. J., is without coal to carry her back to her home port, Montreal. They are watching her every move, and if she should attempt to slip into port to replenish her bunkers she will, in all probability, be seized and her officers asked to give an account of themselves.

Information of the Vaudreul's plight was obtained by the customs officials from a bootlegger arrested in a recent raid. This man said the Vaudreul hove to off the Jersey coast early last January, laden with liquor contraband. It was said she was the largest of the so called rum armada and at times had been designated as "mother ship" of the rum fleet.

The Vaudreul's skipper is said to have tried vainly to coax coal merchants in this city and in New Jersey ports to supply enough coal to enable him to make his home port, or some port in the West Indies.

Marine records show that the Vaudreul cleared from the River Clyde, Scotland, November 20, presumably headed for Havana and the Bahamas.

COLLAPSE OF REBELLION IN IRELAND IS IMMINENT

Captured Documents Disclose That the Irregulars Have Been Reduced to Desperate Straits—Have Been So Flattened Out That a Summer Campaign on Their Part is Impossible

Dublin, April 9.—(Eye The A. P.)—The Irish irregulars have been reduced to such desperate straits that a summer campaign on their part is impossible, according to captured documents made public today by the publicity department of the Free State army.

In one of the documents, the officer commanding the first division of the irregulars reports:

"The present state of the division is that we have been fought to a standstill, and are flattened out. In the Cork First, Third and Fourth brigades we have 29 killed, 12 posts captured and six seriously attacked. If five men are arrested in each area, we are finished."

The divisional officer further says he is quite content to continue until a meeting of the republican executive when he desires to satisfy himself that "what we are fighting for we can win matches," but these are the only conditions on which he is daring on.

Extracts from the correspondence show, according to the government publicity department, that the "high-thinking" republican leaders are doing. An allied communication from the adjutant general to the president dated Febr[illegible] says: "The quartermaster general is not quite clear what our [illegible] peace terms are. What should I say to him?"

The purport of reply of the president to the adjutant general two days later reads: "The obvious answer is that our minimum will be the maximum conditions will enable us to obtain under conditions of which it is possible to conceive, this maximum might be as low as zero. People tell sometimes as if there were nothing in question but our desires.

Gates called the meeting to order at 8.10 o'clock and the first half of the meeting was taken up with petitions from several of the spectators. Contractor Oliver Willard stated that he built four houses at the upper end of Chestnut street and asked that the city extend the water pipe a distance of 200 feet to his houses and that sewers be installed. First Selectman Russel A. Andrews appeared in behalf of the town of Windham and asked that the city vote to grade 300 feet of the road east of the Horseshoe bridge and lower Main street so that it would conform to the section of the new bridge which is to be built and which will be one foot higher than the present structure. NEW TRAIL IN THE STATEN ISLAND MURDERS

New York, April 9.—Police took up a new trail tonight in an attempt to solve the mysterious murder of Mrs. Rose Blandino and Ethel Phillips at a lone spot on Staten Island last Thursday night.

"A short, dark, roughly dressed" man is the objective of the search. A description of him was obtained today from officials of a bank at Union Hill, N. J., where it was revealed that Mrs. Blandino, accompanied by the stranger and Miss Phillips, had withdrawn $100 in silo Lilis last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Blandino, it was learned, had $200 on deposit in the bank under the name of "Irene Vova" and had larger accounts in Jersey City banks.

Joseph Blandino, her barber husband and Rosario De Lorenzo, his assistant, were held in $50,000 bail each as material witnesses today after charges of manslaughter against them had been dismissed.

Hartford, Conn., April 9—Appropriations aggregating $20,097,819 to cover the maintenance of all but eleven of the state departments and institutions in the next two fiscal years will be recommended to the general assembly tomorrow by the appropriations committee.

They will be embodied in a preliminary budget bill to be supplemented as the last days of the legislative session by a second budget bill covering maintenance appropriations for the remaining departments, the requirements of which are subject to changes by pending legislation.

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
31 Church Street Telephone 1051

The special short calendar session of the Windham county superior court was held in this city Monday forenoon. Judge George E. Hinman was on the bench and four cases were presented. Two of the cases were heard, a brief argument by counsel was made on the third and the fourth was declared off.

The first case to be heard was that of Joseph Dayon of Plainfield vs Edward Parkinson, formerly of Plainfield and now of Detroit, Michigan, in a suit for $3,000 damages and the case was uncontested. Dayon stated that on August 17, 1919, he was riding in an automobile owned by the defendant and driven by his chauffeur who was not eighteen years old, and the machine collided with another automobile in the town of Plainfield and as a result the plaintiff received a broken right leg and other injuries and was a patient in the Backus hospital, Norwich for several days. At the hospital he received medical attention from Dr. W. K. Tingley and the bill amounted to $250, besides numerous other bills for another physician and medicine. Dayon testified that his injured leg was an inch shorter than the other and that he was confined for three months with severe pain and had not as yet fully recovered. Dr. Tingley was then called to the stand and he testified to caring for Dayon and stated that the man's leg would never be better and he would walk with a limp.

The plaintiff's attorney believed that Dayon should receive reasonable damages and in answer to a question said that the insurance company made no settlement on the ground that the driver was under age. Dayon was in the car by invitation. Judge Hinman decided in favor of the plaintiff and awarded him $1,250 damages.

The court then took up the case of Mrs. Ethel H. Spaulding of Brooklyn who sought a change of name. Mrs. Spaulding stated that she had been married twice and was a daughter of Dr. Judson of Brooklyn. On November 30, 1911, she married Thomas Richmond and he died on November 27, 1914. Two children were born to them, a boy and a girl. The boy died and the girl is now ten years of age. Mrs. Spaulding married John Spaulding on May 17 and after living together for four months they separated and her husband located in Massachusetts. He brought suit for divorce against his wife on the grounds of desertion and it was granted him in the Suffolk county, Massachusetts, superior court, December 16, 1921, and at that time Mrs. Spaulding had a counter suit in a Connecticut superior court.

Witness said that she desired to change her name because her ten year old daughter bore the name of Richmond and her own was Spaulding it was very annoying to the child. Other reasons were also disclosed. Judge Hinman granted the petition to allow Mrs. Spaulding to resume the name of Ethel Judson Richmond.

An attorney for the defendants appeared in the case of the Ewing Textile company vs The Fenlea Worsted Mills, Inc., and presented an account which was accepted and the receivership extended. The case of L. Bachman & Company vs the River Weaving Company, Inc., was declared off.

Court adjourned at noon until Monday, April 16, at 11 a. m., when another short calendar session will be held in this city.

Rev. T. Newton Owen preached on Sunday morning from Ps. 78: 19, "Can God furnish a table in the wilderness?" He said there is danger of placing false ideals in our ideals of God, and that we come to certain conclusions and close our minds regarding the truth. We should look upon God as a perfect father and trust His power. He said the supreme efforts of the church should be to cast out harsh ideas of God the Father. We are sometimes referre to in the Old Testament, and that we should regard Him as a God of mercy and forgiveness, asking us to forgive our enemies. He forgives us.

Hard, Large and Red. Caused Irritation. Cuticura Healed.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

The Famous Mrs. Fair, a film version of the already famous play by James Forbes was shown in its photoplay form at the Breed theatre yesterday. Those who witnessed this remarkable study of present-day life were of the opinion that Fred Niblo has handled the production with a great amount of care and skill. It is certain to prove one of the best plays of the season.

The story is concerned with the attempt of Mrs. Fair, a woman who has won fame through her war work in France, to continue her work after she returns home. She goes on a lecture tour, leaving her husband and children to shift for themselves. The point that the author makes is that any woman—any Mrs. Fair—cannot have both a home and a career. She must sacrifice one or the other, and very often both.

Fred Niblo, director of such epochal photoplays as Blood and Sand, and The Three Musketeers, has shown his skill in the translation of this fine play to the silent drama. An atmosphere of realism pervades the picture, and to a great extent this can be traced to Mr. Niblo's treatment.

In this Fred Niblo production of Mr. Forbes' great American play is seen a superlative cast, Myrtle Stedman, Huntly Gordon, Marguerite De La Motte, Cullen Landis, Ward Crane, Carmel Myers and Helen Ferguson enact the various roles admirably, each presenting every quality necessary for realistic interpretation.

The Famous Mrs. Fair will be the feature again today at the Breed theatre and other pictures on the bill include Hull Montana in Glad Rags and the Pathe News.

Extraordinary Vaudeville at the Broadway Theatre.

The vaudeville program arranged for the B. F. Keith anniversary, which opened at the Broadway theatre gained instant favor with all.

The main attraction is Fred La Reine & Co., assisted by Dave Chasen in A Cyclone of Laughter, was excellent entertainment with some wonderful electrical effects.

Powell, the comedy magician, had some good comedy and tricks.

Kee Toy Four, the flowery kingdom songsters, in A Breeze from the Orient, are four singing humorists from China and proved to be a hit.

The Royal Danes, Denmark's foremost dance artists, showed an offering that was a very good routine of refined dancing. Their scenery and gorgeous costumes enhanced the act.

Harry Stewart, assisted by Miss Jean French and Miss Minnie Desmond in Some Party, was a scream from start to finish. It is a snappy farce comedy and sure to please.

The photoplay feature was What Fools Men Are, featuring Faire Binney and a star cast.

Norma Talmadge Scores Triumph at Strand Theatre.

Accustomed as we are to expecting great things from Norma Talmadge admittedly the most popular actress on the screen today, each of her succeeding pictures reveals a new Norma—more perfect, if that were possible, than in her preceding roles; more finished in her artistry. Here is a star who is not content to rest on her lustrous laurels; each new portrayal is marked by advance and progress, by a sincerity and depth amazing in their finesse.

Such is the case with her latest production, The Voice From the Minaret, a First National picture which opened at the Strand theatre yesterday. We went there expecting to be pleased mightily. We left wondering whether we would be able to describe in cold type just how marvelous a work of art this picture really is.

What pleasant thoughts memories of Smilin' Through and The Eternal Flame bring to one who has been so fortunate as to see them. We felt sure that the summit had been reached and that they could not be excelled from any standpoint. But a picture has been brought to the screen by its greatest artiste.

Miss Talmadge's inspired acting; Eugene Walter's perfect portrayal of his role; a highly efficient supporting cast; a splendid story, replete with dramatic situations; settings that transport one into the realms of romance—these are but a few of the high lights of The Voice From the Minaret which comes from the gifted pen of Robert Richens and has been directed in a masterful manner by Frank Lloyd, who numbers The Eternal Flame among his accomplishments.

As Lady Adrienne, Miss Talmadge has been given a role that she could play with such skill—ranging in the range of dramatic actions that it demands. One is thralled by the scope of her talent and by the ease with which she weaves the spell of illusion which transports the spectator from the drabness of everyday life to romanceland.

More than any other figure in the motion picture world, Norma Talmadge is responsible for the rapid advance of this art, and the miraculous success of all of her offerings testify to the fact that the public taste is advancing.

The Voice From the Minaret is a picutre that you cannot afford to miss.

Another subject that pleased immensely was the message of Emile Coue, who personally appears in the only motion picture, explaining self mastery through conscious auto suggestion. The usual comedy and news was also shown.

SHATTERING OF WORLD'S RECORDS IS FEATURE OF BOWLING TOURNEY

Milwaukee, Wis., April 9—(By the A. P.)—Repeated shattering of world's records in three of the four events, scoring of unusually high totals and the display of better bowling than has ever been seen in a congress meet, featured the twenty-third annual tournament of the American Bowling Congress which ended this afternoon.

New records were established in the five-man, doubles and all-events divisions. The Nelson-Mitchell aggregation of Milwaukee led in the team event with a total of 3,033 to Camon Daly Lunch quintet of Indianapolis being a close second with 3015. The Chamana registered the first 3000 ever shot in a national meet by finishing a world's record for A. B. C. competition and just the day before for ten minutes the Nelson-Mitchell Chamana out of first place almost immediately. This is the second time in three years that the Indianapolis team has been defeated in competition after scoring better than 3000 pins. The Brooks team of Chicago topping them by 47 pins at Peoria in 1920.

E. W. Watson and Law, members of the champion Nelson team, hung up a new record in the A. B. C. meet for doubles competition when they totaled 1378, bettering the record established in 1917 by C. Sarcinus and W. Holzschuh of Peoria by 14 pins.

W. Knox of Philadelphia, the only man that has ever rolled a perfect game in A. B. C. competition, which he accomplished at Toledo in 1916, heads the all-events with a total of 2,035. Two others above 2000 C. Daw of Milwaukee and M. MacDonald of Cleveland, also topped last year's record score of 1,999 rolled by E. Spennilla, of New York City with 2,011 and 2,003, respectively.

C. Baumgarten of Cincinnati is on the top position in the individual event with a total of 724, falling to pins short of the world's record held by W. Lundgren of Chicago, who made the mark at Toledo last year.

Due to the great number of entries this year the prize list will be greatly lengthened, the winners of the different events being awarded about the same amounts that have been paid in past years. Those who share in the prize money comprise 301 five-man teams, 759 two man teams, 1,583 singles and 132 in the all-events.

BOXING COMMISSIONS IN DIFFICULTY OVER JOHNSON

New York, April 9—Floyd Johnson, Iowa heavyweight who is matched to box Jess Willard at the Yankee stadium on May 12, today was the central figure of a controversy involving boxing commissions in three states, New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts.

Promoters in both Boston and Jersey City claim to have the signature of Charley Cook, Johnson's manager to contracts willing for the pugilist to meet Fred Fulton, Minnesota plasterer, on April 16, while added complications have arisen from the edict of William Muldoon, chairman of the New York state athletic commission barring Johnson from boxing anywhere prior to the charity show at the Yankee stadium. This ruling was applied to all participants in the local event.

The possibility that the situation might lead to a break between New York and New Jersey commissions was denied by Platt Adams, chief inspector of the recently re-organized New Jersey body, but he emphasized that every effort would be made to protect local interests.

SWEETSER GRANTED LEAVE OF ABSENCE FROM YALE

New Haven, April 9—Jesse W. Sweetser, of Yale, national amateur golf champion, will be granted leave of absence from the college to go abroad as a member of the American team that will participate in the international Walker cup matches with Great Britain, it was announced tonight. Because of Sweetser's high scholastic standing his absence from his studies will not interfere with his graduation, it was declared.

Sweetser announced recently that he would be unable to go abroad because of his scholastic duties but as the result of action by the United States Golf association, authorities at Yale appointed a faculty committee to consider granting him permission to leave his studies. This committee headed by Dean Charles Warren of the Sheffield Scientific school, investigated Sweetser's standing and decided that its excellence warranted granting him a leave of absence. He will be expected, however, to take his regular examinations in June.

In going abroad with the American team, Sweetser will forfeit his chance to compete in the intercollegiates. Clarence W. Mendall, chairman of the board of athletic control, declared that he would not be eligible to represent Yale although he is captain of the golf team.

AMATEUR BOUTS AT BOSTON FURNISH THRILLS

Boston, April 9—Amateurs from 25 cities and two provinces of Canada met tonight in the ring of the Boston arena to reduce the approximately 150 aspirants for national boxing honors to 32 before morning. Real excitement developed in the trial round of the 126 pound class when two successive bouts ended in the first round.

Ed Gleason of Los Angeles, loosing a whirlwind of blows from all directions, floored Herbert Cronin, of Cambridge. A minute before Win Anderson, North Easton slugger, had disposed of R. Ruscitto, of Schenectady, N. Y., in the first round.

The bout won by Victor Dalis, of East Boston, over Charles Alte, of Indianapolis, was marked by clever and hard boxing with the result always in doubt.

Fierce fighting developed in the early rounds among the 112 pounders. Joseph A. Lizarus, of Bayonne, N. J., a Cornell sophomore, disposed of Paul Mitrano, and Johnny Moore, regarded as among Massachusetts' best. Raymond Fee of San Francisco, displayed his class in a hard but successful battle with Joseph Messier of Rensselaer Polytechnic.

Frank De Wolfe, of Boston, forced out of the 112 class, gave the best display of ring generalship of the four men in his class who did not draw byes in outpointing Taddeus Rudinski, of New Haven.

SARAZEN OFTEN TOTES 18 GOLF CLUBS

Golf experts tell you that it is foolish to carry too many clubs in your bag. Most of them say that a half dozen is plenty. Others stretch the figure to 10, allowing for duplication of certain clubs in case something should happen to your driver, brassie or mid-iron.

Most professional players say that the amateurs are too fussy about their clubs, that the moment they go bad they blame the slump on the clubs rather than their poor playing. Of course such a system makes business good for the club professional and they really shouldn't offer any advice to the contrary.

While most of the leading professionals insist 10 clubs is plenty to pack around, few of them live up to the doctrine they preach. The next time you attend one of the big tournaments count 'em.

At a recent tournament in the south it was noted that Champion Gene Sarazen had his caddy weighted down with 18. When some friend commented on the number, Sarazen replied:

"The boy is traveling a bit light today, four sticks are in my club house locker."

In golf you hear a lot of things that don't mean what they seem to.

GUNBOAT JACK LOOKING FOR ENGAGEMENTS HERE

Gunboat Jack, colored lightweight of Lawrence, Mass., who is to be in Norwich for the next month is looking for an opportunity to show in this section during that time. Jack has a motordrome which he will work with the Murphy Shows this summer and at present is making his home with Young Joe Gans, local middleweight.

Gunboat has a good record and has been working in bouts in and around Boston, Lawrence, Lowell and in New Hampshire and Maine. He has met some of the fastest lightweights in New England and even gone out on his class to tackle some of the welters. He has two or three bouts slated for the next few weeks, but can sprinkle in an engagement or two locally. He has met such boys as Frankie Buff, Scottie Welch, Shorty Gans and other good boys.

DEMPSEY HAS TILL SATURDAY TO DECIDE

Milwaukee, Wis., April 9—(By the A. P.)—The state departments of the 127 American Legion posts of Montana have given Jack Dempsey, world's champion pugilist until next Saturday at noon to accept or reject the $200,000 offered the champion to meet Tommy Gibbons, in a 15-round contest at Shelby, Mont., on July 4, according to Mike Collins, promoter for the American Legion, who received a telegram to that effect today.

All demands made of the legion by Dempsey have been met, Collins said, adding that the Montana men behind the proposed championship affair are becoming tired of further delay in closing negotiations.

ROUSH BUYS SHOES OFFICIALS OPTIMISTIC

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 9—Ed Roush, the recalcitrant outfielder of the Cincinnati Nationals purchased a brand new pair of baseball shoes, spikes and all, today.

Officials at the headquarters of the Reds appeared optimistic over the scheduled conference between Roush and the directors tomorrow, at 11 o'clock.

Roush said he wants to play ball this season and that he does not think he is asking any unreasonable terms. "I'm no prophet, of course, but don't be surprised if I'm out there as usual doing the best I can," he added.

WILLS FAIRLY SURE OF DEMPSEY MATCH

Harry Wills evidently has received some assurance that he will get a match with Jack Dempsey because Harry has not entered the ring since his bout with Clem Johnson several months ago. Just previous to that affair Wills was making more money than at any time during his career. The publicity he received as Dempsey's challenger made him a big card and he was in demand.

Although Wills was earning bigger purses than ever before he was not adding anything to his prestige by his performances. Most of them were distinctly disappointing. No doubt that is why he has turned down all offers of late. He must be very sure that he is going to get the Dempsey match or he would not pass up so much easy money.

The logical program for Dempsey would be a warmup gallop with Gibbons in July and then a battle with Wills in September. Dempsey argued with some reason that after his long spell of idleness he should be allowed one or two comparatively easy bouts before meeting the stalwart negro.

The chance to add something to his bank account is, of course, not lost sight of by Dempsey when he asks for the privilege of taking part in a preliminary battle before meeting Wills. Still, it cannot be denied that his request is reasonable. It is founded on common sense.

INDIANS WILL GIVE MYATT HIS CHANCE

Steve O'Neill is not likely to catch any 130 or 140 games this season, as has been his custom for several years. It will not be because Steve is not capable of going through at top speed just as in the past, but because the Cleveland Club did not invest some $50,000 in Glenn Myatt with the intention of having him serve in the bull pen or sit on the bench. Manager Speaker wants to put that $50,000 to work, despite the fact that Steve O'Neill appears to be in better shape than he was at the outset of either of the 1921 or 1922 seasons.

Speaker has not decided definitely on the manner in which he will work his catchers, but it is expected that O'Neill and Myatt will come close to splitting the duties behind the bat, with Luke Sewell ready to don the mask and protector any time the chance is offered. Luke also will be used to run for Steve now and then. Speaker is a great admirer of Luke, and only the presence of such a capable veteran as O'Neill and phenomenal youngster as Myatt keeps Sewell from working more regularly.

It was the belief that he would get a regular chance to work that caused Myatt to come to the Indians when he got to cooing brilliantly at Milwaukee last year and the big league scouts started looking him over.

FOOTBALL COACH IS A MERE INCIDENT

Tom Thorp, football coach at New York university has not been scared by the advent of Percy Haughton as gridiron mentor at Columbia University. Thorp, who trained the Violet warriors to the epochal battle of last October, which made a mess of all the foot ball dope, says his charges will do it all over again next November, even if Haughton has become the directing genius of gridiron affairs at Morningside Heights.

Thorp made his prediction at a meeting of New York University students preliminary to spring practice. "We will win," Thorp said, "because we will have a team made up for the most part of veteran players who will be bigger physically and better mentally than they were last autumn; they will know more football, their team work will be vastly improved by having played together through a hard schedule such as we had in the season just past, and above all, they will have the will to win. A coach doesn't make a football team. First you need a college, then the men; next the spirit and finally the fight. A coach is a mere incident to a football team."

HUTCHISON APPROVED TO BE NEAT DUESPER

During the Red Cross golf matches of 1917, Jock Hutchison, the noted golf professional, declared there were two American players who should break 69 in competition. His prognostication has not been fulfilled, but his guess was not far wrong.

Walter Hagen was one of the two named. And it was Hagen who just established a new world mark with a competitive round of 62. Hagen displayed super-perfect golf.

Francis Ouimet was the other selected by Hutchison as of marvelous ability. And only a few months after Jock made his statement Ouimet had seven birdies in the first nine holes at Baltusrol. Ouimet did the par con of 74 in 66.

Taftville Loses to Westerly Team

The Taftville soccer team lost its Bulletin cup game with the American thread team at Westerly on Sunday by a score of 2 to 0. The game was played in bad weather and on a muddy field. The Taftville team was handicapped by not having the regular team but gave the Westerly combination a good afternoon of work. This victory gives Westerly a lead of one game for the cup but it is expected that Taftville will even up the series at Taftville Saturday in the fourth game.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

"Rosy" Ryan of the Giants has a brother trying out for the Boston university baseball nine.

Catcher Hank Gowdy of the Braves, a sweet hitter in past seasons, is having trouble finding the range this spring.

Charlie Harvey, manager of Johnny Brown, believes that the little English boxer is the coming bantamweight champion.

Word from the Senators' camp has it that Nick Altrock will have some new stunts for the entertainment of the fans this season.

Having joined the Giants, Jack Bentley is now enthusiastic over the team's chances to win another world's championship.

It would be hard to find the equal of Sam Langford's record when it comes to years of fighting and the number of hard battles fought.

Umpire McGowan of the Southern league is credited with doing some exceptionally high class work in the Yankees' games in the South.

If there is such a thing as an open golf title that Walter Hagen hasn't won at some time or another, evidently Walter hasn't heard of it.

It will not be an easy task to draft schedule for the new Atlantic league that will be satisfactory to all of the seven club owners.

Several boxing promoters of New York and Boston desire to stage a bout between the crack bantams, Carl Tremaine and Abe Friedman.

Many soccer fans are of the opinion that the winner of the National Amateur Challenge cup should be the American soccer representative in the Olympic games.

Friends of Joie Ray believe his recent defeats are due to the Chicago flyer going stale through participation in too many meets during the past season.

Manager Killifer of the Cubs is satisfied that at least one of his three left-handed pitchers—Fussell, Dumovich and Hodges—will develop into a reliable southpaw.

The winning game played by the Giants in practice contests has caused their admirers to rejoice in the prospects of another world's pennant for the McGraw outfit.

The Yale hockey team will run up against the real thing on the ice next winter when they play Detroit, Cleveland, Milwaukee, St. Paul and the University of Toronto, the games to be played in the cities named.

Great Catch of Trout.

The finest catch of trout yet displayed this season was shown in the window at the Lee & Osgood store on Main street. There were ten fine fish of which the two largest were 26 and 21 ounces respectively. They were caught by Horace G. Lewis of North Stonington who brought them here and presented them to his son-in-law, Attorney Charles L. Stewart.

For Memorial Day Poppies.

Members of the Woman's Auxiliary to Fletcher Post, American Legion, met at the home of Miss Evon Broadhurst Monday evening to work on poppies that are to be sold by the auxiliary prior to Memorial day. The auxiliary members have met several times to work on the poppies and expect to have a large quantity of them to place on sale by May 30th.

PITTSFIELD HILLIES WILL ARRIVE TODAY FOR THEIR SPRING PRACTICE

The Pittsfield Hillies of the Eastern League about 30 strong will flock into this city today to report to Manager Art Wilson for the spring practice which will be held here during the next two weeks. Manager Wilson, who was formerly catcher for the New York Giants arrived in Pittsfield last Friday and on Tuesday was given a banquet at Pittsfield.

Wilson will arrive here some time this morning and make his headquarters at the Wauregan hotel. A number of players will accompany him here from Pittsfield while others will come directly from their homes to Norwich. The Pittsfield squad will be a record one for the Hill town as Manager Wilson is a firm believer in giving the youngsters an opportunity to break into the professional ranks.

Today will be devoted largely to reporting and getting things set for the two week grind of practice. Some of the boys may get out for a little limbering up late in the afternoon but the regular practice will not start until Wednesday. The diamond at the fairgrounds has been put into fairly good shape but is a trifle slow and soggy owing to the recent rains.

Among those who will probably report to Manager Wilson today will be Harold Leathers, who will be given a chance at the short field position made vacant by Johnny Bates passing to another league. Leathers played in the Southern Association last season. Joe Leary, an outfielder obtained from Albany last week, will get a try at Del Capes old berth in left or in the center garden. Manager Wilson, himself a new man may do the walk of the catching, but he will have another newcomer, Harvey Russell, who formerly caught for New London and Bridgeport.

Zimmerman, a utility infielder last season, will stand a good chance of a regular berth in the center of the infield this season provided Danny Shea does not decide to sign a 1923 contract. Of course, Gus Gardella, last year's fighting manager, will be certain to cavort about the third sack unless some youngster can show Gus up.

Frankie Stapleton, well known to local fans as one of the best first sackers that ever played on the local diamond will start another year at the initial cushion for Pittsfield. There is a rumor that Frankie may go to Rochester of the International league early in the season. Other infield candidates are Campbell, Joe Russell, Tully, Hewitt, Roche and Barry. Other outfielders who will report are Hogan, Tetreault, Sullivan, Kyle, Christie, Smith, Schlenger and Owens, Harry Bosse, regular centerfielder for the past three seasons has signed his contract and will report but may be shifted to left to let Leary play his regular position at center.

The pitching squad will include Snover and Tillman, last season's moundmen, Van Alstyne, an Albany youngster with promise, Eddie Boyce, formerly with Worcester, Bachelder, who had considerable success with the Boston Twilight league. Johnson, a collegian from the south and Gallagher a school boy wonder from Bridgeport. From this collection of pitching timber Manager Wilson hopes to develop a hurling staff that will keep Pittsfield up among the first division teams.

NORWICH TO ENTER THE STATE DUCKPIN TOURNEY

Roy Fillmore, manager of the local bowling alleys in the Majestic building is organizing a five-man bowling team to represent Norwich in the Interstate Bowling tournament in Hartford, April 30-May 5. This is a duckpin tournament and the best duckpin bowlers in this section of the state have been picked to represent the city. On the team will be Frank Barber of Danielson, Fred Dugas of Taftville, Kierns of Danielson and Fillmore of Norwich. Hallisey of New London has been picked as the fifth man but as yet he has not given his consent to become a member of the local team.

FOHL REFUSES TO TALK OF SISLER'S CONDITION

New Orleans, April 9—Manager Lee Fohl of the St. Louis American League club, declined here late today to discuss reports that George Sisler, the Browns' first-sack ace was out of the game for good because of eye trouble. Fohl said, however, that he did not expect Sisler to be in condition to begin the season and that he did not know how long it would be before he could report.

Sisler is now in St. Louis and it is said it may be necessary for him to undergo an operation in order to correct an impairment of his vision.

JACKSON CLAIMS GRABINER PRACTICED TRICKERY

Savannah, Ga., April 9—That Harry Grabiner, secretary of the White Sox Ball club, practiced trickery and fraud in securing Joe Jackson's signature to a three year contract was alleged by the outlawed ball player in his deposition before Girard M. Cohen, court commissioner, today. The testimony given by "Shoeless Joe" and Mrs. Jackson will be used in the trial of his suit for $116,500 damages and back pay from the White Sox which will take place at Milwaukee on May 12.

YALE TO GIVE LETTER TO NATIONAL TITLISTS

New Haven, April 9—The executive committee of the Yale board of athletic control tonight announced that any Yale man winning a national championship in golf or tennis would be awarded a major "Y". Golf and tennis rank as minor sports. This decision will give a major "Y" to Jesse W. Sweetser, national golf champion, who is captain of the Yale golf team.

Haas to Lead Yale Quintet

New Haven, April 9—John H. Haas, '24 of Kansas City, Mo., was elected captain of the Yale basketball team at the annual banquet here tonight. W. M. Bernardin, also of Kansas City, was elected manager, while R. B. Tibbs, Milwaukee, Wis., was elected assistant manager. Wallace Kiebelhorst, St. Louis, Mo., was elected as freshman manager.

CARNEY WANTS TO BOX MORLEY OR DAVE PALITZ

Al Cassidy, manager of Billy Carney, is still clamoring for a bout between his boy and Dave Palitz or Mike Morley. Al claims that Carney has been slated to meet both the New London boy and the Hartford battler on several occasions but they have run out of the fights.

Cassidy says Carney is anxious to get a crack at either or both of the boys soon but seems unable to drag them into the ring.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Old Brown Horse Tells His Troubles.

Well, the next morning, right after breakfast, Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit hopped out to the barn to look at Mrs. Snow White Pigeon's little babies. But goodness me! They couudn't climb up the ladder to the loft and Mrs. Pigeon couldn't very well bring the little birds down, so after all the two little rabbits didn't see them.

"Too bad," said the old gentleman rabbit. Then, the Yellow Dog Tramp who had been the hired man for the old gentleman, Uncle Lucky, all winter, said:

"Now, pretty soon, some sunny day,
I'll be a-going on my way.
I can't work the whole year long
For when I hear the robin's song,

"It makes me feel sad," said the brown horse.

And see the woods so green and sweet,
I can't hold back my wandering feet.
Oh yes, I soon must tramp again,
And see my friends, the Hobo Men."

"I shall be sorry to lose you," said Uncle Lucky, "but I guess I know how you feel. I feel that way myself sometimes.

"I'd just like to go where the winds blow,
Any old where with never a care,
Yes, indeed, I could tramp through the dust and damp,
If it weren't for the habit of being a rabbit,
Who wears a high hat and a purple cravat."

"But I'll give you two weeks notice," continued the yellow Dog Trump, "I won't leave all of a sudden, just like that, you know. I think too much of you, Mr. Lucky Left-hindfoot.

"All right," said the old gentleman rabbit, "you let me know in time and I'll go after the Old Red Rooster. Maybe he's tired of farm life by this time and will want to come back." And after that, Little Jack Rabbit got out of the Luckymobile and he and the old gentleman rabbit went for a drive.

Well they hadn't gone for maybe a mile and maybe more, but I'm sure it wasn't three or four when they saw an old friend of theirs. And who do you suppose it was? You'd never guess if I gave you three million guesses, so I'll tell you before we begin to count. It was the Old Brown Horse.

"Goodness gracious meebus!" said Uncle Lucky, "that you've grown thin."

"Don't talk about it," said the Old Brown Horse, "I don't dare look at my face any more when I get shaved. I'm worried to death about myself."

"Why, what's wrong?" asked Uncle Lucky, "Get in the Luckymobile and tell me all about it."

So the Old Brown Horse sat down on the back seat and said: "I've been in the stable all winter, but somehow when my master takes out his automobile instead of me, it makes me feel sad; that's the reason, I guess, I've lost my appetite."

"Cheer up," said dear Uncle Lucky, and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bradley Theater, Putnam.

The Bradley theater will stage a splendid attraction next Monday evening, April 16, when Shuffle Along, a tremendous hit of nation-wide reputation comes to Putnam.

When this farce comedy, the joint work of Miller and Lyle, Sissle and Blake, was first produced in Boston, it made an emphatic appeal to theatregoers and was praised as a highly amusing picture of colored American life. It has been playing to a succession of crowded houses ever since it left here. The present excellent cast has for leading players Russell Smith, Louie Schooler, Bessie Allston, Pauline Payton, Paul Bass, George Myrick, Joe Purcell, Liza Campbell, Dick Stewart, John Alexander, George Duke, Chick Fisher, Jennie Day, Ira Green, Amy Bates, Marie Rich, Bessie Simms, Beatrice Cole and a clever singing and dancing chorus ranging in hue from dusk to midnight.

The women of the chorus are attractive and an incredibly energetic band, who sing well and dance like demons. They are at their wildest in an abandoned number called Bandanna Days, wherein each dramatises as seems to her most fitting the fabled choreography of the old south. Other high spots of the doings are some wonderful soft shoe dancing by a pair programed as Dink Stewart and George Duke; sundry spirituals and other songs by a capable quartet, and the rendering of the spirited song from which the show gets its title.

Get your seats early. Prices will range from 50 cents to $2.00.

New Plan of Ford Motor Co.

The Ford Motor Company has just made a nationwide announcement of the new weekly purchase plan, which is accepted here as a characteristically Ford action and a new and forward looking move in the marketing of automobiles to be carried by the company's dealer organization numbering over nine thousand. That it will benefit millions of families and have a most salutary effect upon the buying public goes almost without saying, as it places something of a new light upon motor car ownership wherein the purchaser is able to avail himself of this modern necessity.

For some time past Ford dealers have been selling cars and trucks upon what is known as the deferred payment plan in which the purchaser makes a substantial initial payment, secures his car and completes the payment for it in regular installments.

This has been and will continue to be of immense benefit to numerous auto buyers who, by means do not permit the full outlay for a car at the purchase time, but who can easily make the required regular payments.

Now comes the Ford weekly purchase plan which will make it possible for additional millions to own and operate motor cars as under the terms of the plan as little as five dollars will start any one toward the ownership of a Ford car, Ford truck or Fordson tractor. This initial payment, as well as all subsequent payments, will be deposited to the customers credit in a local bank and draw interest at the regular savings rate.

It extends to the whole family an opportunity to participate in the car purchase by permitting each member to contribute a small amount weekly to the plan with the wholesome effect of inculcating thrift and also demonstrating the benefits to be received from regular and consistent accumulation of funds, to spend for things desired.

The price reduction of Ford cars and trucks which went into effect last October, bringing them to the lowest level in the history of the Ford Motor Company opened a market of unusual proportions and with the inauguration of the Ford weekly purchase plan this market now becomes even more comprehensive.

Orpheum Theatre, Danielson.

To be the hero of a most popular stage commodity is not such an easy task as the rank and file of theatregoers might possibly imagine. In the first place there are so many standards and codes of ethics to observe, besides a sort of modest delicacy to overcome which at times becomes more or less of a handicap rather than an asset. Jiggs Mahoney whose very name is a household word and whose every doings, adventures and actions are chronicled daily far and wide, is a hero who seems to grow more mellow as years and seasons come and go. Jiggs, who came into being when George McManus evolved his masterpiece of creative comics, Bringing Up Father, is one of those individuals who always will be beloved no matter what environment or frame he is installed. He is the type who seems to ingratiate himself right into the hearts of his millions of cohorts and admirers who like the immortal Orthello is revered for "the damgers" he has passed. This time Jiggs is once more the doting parent, but in an entirely new offering entitled Father On His Vacation and which will be the next attraction at the Orpheum theatre, Danielson, on Wednesday evening, April 11.

And again Jiggs, with the assistance or rather connivance of Maggie, his "worsehalf" and Dinty, the Nemesis, essays to have a rest. How it all comes out; how Jiggs endeavors to seek real solace from the strife and turmoils of a rather irritating and baneful existence is typically and humorously revealed. Three acts of riotous hilarity, screams, wit, pinch, cackle, euphonious, and ear-haunting music surprises, original features, innovations, beauty, novelties, and something that is entirely apart from the conventional is provided. The "rest" that "Father" seeks and eventually procures, even at the expense of his mental poise and equanimity, forms the basis of one of the most enjoyable and withal most entertainments that has come to town in many a moon. If you have worshipped at the shrine of poor, yet misguided Jiggs in the past you are bound to become an unmitigable champion now. In fact the world will tell you it is a more irresistible creation to which our feelings and sympathies run than the unfortunate "under dog."

THE PRESIDENT IS RIGHT.

"Governments can only be interested in things that come of the common weal, and if it is ever destroyed it is because we show excessive zeal in certain things" was the way in which President Harding addressed the people of Atlanta as he gave a parting address to the south where he had spent his vacation.

He sent this thought home several more notches by the straightforward statement concerning the danger of the attempt at government through groups, which disregard the common weal and consider nothing but self interests.

Well did he say that it is not because the farmers are a large and influential body that the government is interested in them. It is because farming is a basic industry and the foundation of national prosperity is in the farms.

It is not because the government is specially concerned with the capitalistic class that it interested in the railroads, but because the roads are necessary to the public welfare was another statement by the president in pointing out the interest of the government in this or that particular legislation. And well did he take the opportunity to say that it was not a special concern for shipowners that led to the advocacy of the ship subsidy legislation but the protection of the nation's interest in the question of protection and shipping for the future.

The idea of devoting the efforts of government, or even the work of the law makers to the serving of class interests and nothing else but those interests is against the common welfare. The tendency in that direction has been conspicuous of late. That the president had no sympathy therewith was clear from the first but it was well that he should express himself as he did against the menace of such a system before it is carried any further. In the government of this country there should be no toleration of any such unjust system.

GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS.

When General Frank Hines lets it be understood through a public statement that political pull or pressure, no matter how powerful, will have no weight in expediting special cases, but that all will be considered and dealt with on their merits, it becomes apparent that the president has placed at the head of the veterans' bureau a man who is determined to do away with much of the criticism that has been aimed at the bureau for some time.

Nothing embarrasses a proper administration of any bureau more than political interference, which calls for special favors regardless of facts and throws justice into the discard.

That there are cases that call for quicker action than others is recognized by the making of three classes, the emergency, the routine and the non-urgent. That should facilitate the handling of the business of the bureau and give assurance to those whose cases are pending before it that they will get the attention they are entitled to.

Troubles have been experienced by the predecessors of General Hines. They were confronted with big tasks and knotty problems. If he can minimize these difficulties through organization it will meet the desires of the administration and the interests of the veterans. Conferences of the district manager should afford opportunity for impressing upon them the objects of the new director and acquaint them fully with his policies.

General Hines knows what it is to encounter and solve difficulties. He demonstrated this effectively when he was chief of the transportation staff during the war. That he won an efficient administrator in that position has created the conviction that he will be equally successful in this new position. Nothing would be more satisfactory than the knowledge that the right man has been selected for this very important office as director of the veterans' bureau.

ALASKA'S INDUSTRIES.

Even though Alaska is a vast storehouse and must be considered as such for a long time to come there is a high degree of satisfaction that reports from that territory show that industry is getting back to normal and the effects of prosperous conditions are again in evidence.

With a healthy growth in practically all its industries, shown by the fact that the commerce of the territory showed an increase over $20,000,000 in the past year, there is reflected the improved conditions elsewhere and the consequent increase in the demands upon Alaskan production.

Alaska cannot be expected to experience a concentration of efforts that would mean a falling off in production elsewhere. It is certain to increase but that increase is going to be gradual, and it is the slow but sure that means most in the end than the hectic development which means a rush today and a slump tomorrow.

This territory not only has a mineral output amounting to $18,000,000 last year, but it has a large fish industry with development going on steadily in different branches. Alaska is prepared to carry on and does a large business in lumber production, not a little of which is exported, while it has the trees to furnish an inexhaustible supply of wood pulp when other sources give out, such a thing is permitted to happen by failure to respond to the reforestation needs.

Gold mining in Alaska isn't what it was during some years within memory but there is a growing oil industry and as transportation facilities improve the treasures of that far northwest is going to be better realized and the benefits distributed.

Thus in view of the report which has been made for the past year there is good ground for the satisfaction that is being manifested in that territory over the outlook. Alaska is not and cannot be ignored.

REILLY'S ATTITUDE.

When Former Governor E. Mont Reilly of Porto Rico takes the position that he is willing to debate his administration of the island with any of his critics it is evident that he is unwilling to let the matter drop now that he is out of the office.

That he did what he did because he believed that he was working for the best interests of the island is not beyond belief. There is nothing to uphold the idea that he was intentionally leading that government for the detriment of the islanders.

The facts of the situation seems to be that the former governor endeavored to deal with the affairs in the island quite the same as if he had been governing seasoned Americans. There may be places where such methods as he employed would have made an instant hit and resulted in a demand for the prolongation of his services, instead of stirring up the opposition and resentment that they did in Porto Rico. Perhaps before a mainland audience he might be able to justify all that he did, but sight cannot be lost of the fact that it didn't make a go in Porto Rico, and it was the handling of the problems as they exist there that was before him.

Thus it is not a case of debating with his critics that will justify his administration. The outstanding fact seems to be that the longer he remained in Porto Rico, even though actuated by the best of intentions, the worse the situation became. He had created an antagonism that was not bringing about the peaceful conditions that were desired in the island. Whether he deserved the opposition that he got, the fact that it existed cannot be denied and debate will not eliminate it.

THE COAST GUARD.

It may seem like an easy and pleasant life that is enjoyed by the members of the coast guard, but it becomes evident as their work is witnessed or studied that there is plenty of risk involved to satisfy the most eager searcher for adventure. It is not improbable that there is in fact too much action for many who might be inclined to pass judgment on the ruggedness of the service. It should be remembered that it is not during the July and August days or the calm and sunny ones that the real measure of the coast guard can be taken. It is during the rigors of winter and when storms get in their havoc that they are subject to call and do some of their most effective work.

New duties have been added by the stalking of rum fleets, but there was in the past winter the job of trying to open harbors and rivers which had been locked by the ice and the search for numerous vessels that had been left at the mercy of the seas through lack of fuel.

Some idea of what the coast guard does is indicated by the six weeks' record of one cutter in the north Atlantic which during parts of the months of January and February stopped and examined 97 vessels, assisted vessels valued at $1,835,000 with cargoes of over two and a half million and having aboard 104 persons.

Like the lighthouse that serves to guide the uncertain, the coast guard acts as a helping hand in time of distress, and at other times must give attention to the enforcement of revenue and other laws. The experiences make interesting reading but going through them is a decidedly different matter. We cannot give too much credit to our coast guard.

ALARMING SYMPTOMS

"Well, forevermore," exclaimed the girl with the bobbed hair as she seized the arm of the girl in the long, flowing cape and dragged her out of the crowd that was struggling to get across the street.

"I ain't seen you since we was infants together. I bet it's been a couple months."

"I been sick," responded the other girl, as the two scuttled to the sidewalk. "Awful sick! The doctor he said one night if I wasn't no better the next day I'd have to go to a hospital."

"Forevermore!" ejaculated the girl with the bobbed hair. "Tell me! It makes me kinda think of the time I come so near having ammonia. I was took sick down at the awfus and the minute I tells the boss he says, 'Now, Miss O'Brine,' he says just like that, 'you beat it and go right home,' he says, 'and the very first minute you get there,' he says, 'you phone the doctor to come to see you.' And he says, 'You take a taxi home,' he says, 'and charge it up to the firm,' he says. "Grand! I'll say it was. And, say, dearie listen. Was you reel awful kind of sick, or just kind of sick like a person is sometimes—just kind of don't feel like going to work and all, but so's they can maybe go to a movie or like that when night comes?"

The girl with the bobbed hair paused for breath and the girl in the flowing cape broke in indignantly.

"I'll say I was reel sick!" she said. "Why, the doctor says if ever I have another one of them attacts Ill have to be operated, and even anyway even if—

"Ain't it the limit" queried the girl with the bobbed hair, "how there's some doctors thinks a person's got to be operated just the very minute they get the least little bit sick? My doctor, he ain't a bit that way. Say, dearie, listen. You take that time I was so sick when I was took down to the awfus like I was telling you. Just's quick's the doctor sees me he says to me: 'Now, Mrs. O'Brine,' he says, 'you follow my directions right to the letter,' he says, 'or I ain't going to say what may happen,' he say, 'and I'll return in the morning,' he says, 'and if there ain't no improvement,' he says.

"I shouldn't be suprised if maybe we won't have to send her to a hospital,' he says, 'or maybe put a nurse on her.'

"And, say, girlie, listen. You'd died if you ever heard ma. She says, 'I guess you won't put no nurse on my young one,' she says, 'or no hospital neither,' she says. 'I guess I can take care of my own kid about's well as any nurse,' she says.

"Sure," broke in the girl in the cape desperately. "That's just like my doctor did. 'If she keeps right on getting better,' he says, 'you ring me up the first thing in the morning,' he says—"

"Yeh," agreed the girl with the bobbed hair. "That's how they do when a person ain's so awful sick. You see when a person's real sick like I was—"

"Uh, huh!" rejoined the girl with the bobbed hair, woothingly. "There's quite a few doctors like that. They think a person's got to be operated every time they got a pain in their little finger. But, say, dearie, listen. You take my doctor. Sick's I was, he never said nothing about me being operated or anything. Only the second day after I was took sick he says to me again, he says. 'I don't know if, maybe we won't have to put her in a hospital after all?' he says. And ma says right back at him, 'Not while I'm alive with two legs to take care of her!' she says, 'You won't take my young one to no hospital,' she says. Say dearies, I wisht you could heard her. Anyway, the next day I was a lot better, but even at that I could scarcely lift my head off the pillow or anything."

"Neither could I," broke in the girl with the cape, "and everybody says I looked just terrible—my grandma and my Aunt Jen from Grand Rabbits that was visiting—

"Oh, did the doctor tell all your folks come to see you?" cried the girl with the bobbed hair. "Wasn't that grand? I guess you wasn't so awful sick, then, was you? But, say, dearie, listen. You don't have to beat it right back to the awfus, do you? You ain't told me a word about whether you had temperatoor and everything. Go on! Tell me!

"Sure, I'll ten you," said the girl in the cape with a tinge of bitterness in her tone, "if I ever get a chanct. But I guess there ain't much use of me stickin' around here now. I guess I'm out of luck now, anyway. I guess I better beat it back to the awfus."

"I wonder what makes her so crabby," soliloquized the girl with the bobbed hair, as she watched her companion's retreating form. "I guess she wasn't reel sick anyway. When a person's been real sick like I was they're awful kind of glad to get a chanct to tell folks about it."—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sir Joseph J. Thomson, who is now paying a visit to America, is one of the foremost British scientists of the present time. In 1906 he was the recipient of the Nobel prize for physics. He was Cavendish professor in experimental physics in the University of Cambridge from 1884 until his resignation in 1918. During this time he developed a great research laboratory which attracted workers from all parts of the world. In 1918 he was elevated to the mastership of Trinity college, Cambridge, and in 1919 was elected to a newly established professorship of physics in the Cavendish laboratory. In this laboratory and under Sir Joseph's direction was formulated the physics of the electron—particularly fundamental theories of the conduction of electricity through metals and gases. Upon these theories are based the modern three element vacuum tube called the heart of radio telephony.

Wives of Famous Men

Mary Chambers, Wife of Edmund Kean.

Begun on a note of comedy and ending on a note of pathos, the marriage of Mary Chambers, lovely Irish actress and Edmund Kean, in his day the idol of the British stage, ran through the gamut of almost every human emotion. Their life was as dramatic away from the stage as it ever was before the footlights.

In 1808, when Miss Chambers was making her debut with Kean, he forgot his lines and spoiled her part. She asked the manager "who is that shabby little man with the brilliant eyes?" Kean, in turn, asked "who the devil is she?" The next night the actress forgot her part, but Kean received her apologies with perfect good humor. Result, friendship, love and marriage a few months later. The bride was 29 and the bridegroom 23.

The early years of their marriage were lean ones. Neither had a shilling on their wedding day and the bridesmaid had to lend Kean half a sovereign to buy the wedding ring. A wedding breakfast would have been entirely out of the question had not the landlady of the "Dog Tavern" been kindly disposed toward Mary, to whom she served the meal as a wedding gift.

In spite of their poverty, however, they were exceedingly happy. A brilliant career lay before Kean, and Mary's understanding of things theatrical enabled her to be of valuable assistance in his art. All went well until Kean's affections began to stray in the direction of a beautiful Mrs. Cox, whose husband later sued for divorce, naming the actor in his suit.

Mary, heartbroken at his infidelity, left him, and for many years they were separated. Toward the end of his career she heard that he was very ill, near death, and seeking a reconciliation. With her son, Charles, an emissary, the old lovers were once more united and lived happily for their remaing years.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Why the Cock Crows.

Mr. Editor: It is a notable fact that the ancients gave more attention to the explanation of natural phenomenas than the moderns do.

It may be that the philosophies and conclusions were often quite fanciful yet they deserve credit for observing subjects of interest and for their earnest attempts at solution.

The crowing cocks, having existed from time immemorial with exact regularity, although seemingly awakening no curiosity among us, with them was something that demanded attention and explanation.

Indeed, with them, the baying of the dog, the gabble of the geese, the peacock's cry and the cackle of the hen, furnished topics for discussion and omens for their earnest consideration. Before the invention of clocks and watches, or even any contrivance for marking the lapse of time, the exactitude with which the cocks announced the morning time formed a highly necessary and useful appurtenance to the houses of both rich and poor. In Judia a recognized division of the night was evening, midnight, cock-crowing and morning (St. Mark 13:35).

The fact that the cock's crowing is incited apparently by a perpetual instinct and not by the approach of twilight is also something that did not escape the notice of the ancients. Among them, the cock was sacred to Apollo, or the sun. "Because," says Heliodorus, speaking of the time when the cocks crow, "by a natural sensation of the sun's revolution towards us, they are incited to salute the god."

We may observe that the cock's crowing has reference to the annual as well as the diurnal motion of the earth and the sun's approach, in their frequently crowing both day and night, as the days lengthen. In support of the fact that the cock is not guided by the approach of the morning twilight, reference may be had to the story of a family whose habitation was buried in a snow-slip of the Alps. Being entombed under the avalanche for over a month before being rescued, the only intimation they had of the succession of day and night was the crowing of the cocks, which, strange as it appears, continued even in the darkness during the period of their entombment.

The ancients, as we have said, noting this instinctive habit, gave it the following allegorical solution: "Alectryon, a youth whom Mars, during his amours with Venus, stationed at the door to watch against the approach of Apollo (the sun), having fallen asleep, Apollo came and discovered the lovers in each other's arms, and exposed them before all the gods. Mars, being incensed at the youth's neglect, transformed him into a cock, which ever since, remembering his failure, continues to announce the approach of the sun.

The cock was sacred to Esculapius, the god of medicine, and also to Minerva, on the crest of whose helmet was an ornamental cock. To Minerva also the owl was sacred, representing wisdom, and the cock, courage and valor.

The association of the cock with dignified historical personages is worthy of notice. Socrates, the Athenian teacher whose moral philosophies approached the nearest, perhaps, of all, to the precepts of Christianity, when unjustly condemned to death having spent some days and nights with his disciples in religious conversation in relation to death and the immortality of the soul, reminded them of this. "We owe a cock to Esculapius—let it be sacrificed," recognizing the importance of the idea of atonement, during his most solemn moments, and of dispensing a religious obligation.

It is proper also to notice the connection of the cock with our Lord's trial and passion, and his warning and prediction that a chosen and loved disciple would deny him on the morning of his betrayal—"before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice."

The gospel narrator informs us that after Peter had denied him the third time and with an oath, "immediately the cock crew," which showed that the cock was on time; and at this point the disciple, remembering the words of our Lord, "went out and wept bitterly," tears in which repentance was deeply mingled and accepted, making him an example and encouragement for all time to every repentant sinner.

Disproves Mr. Robinson.

Mr. Editor: Another proof that Mr Robinson of Franklin is or can hardly be right as to the 144,000 of Rev. 7:4 being the babes that were put to death at or soon after Jesus' birth Bethlehem was a small place, and it is not to be supposed that in that village there were 144,000 infants less than two years old. Also Rev. 14:1, mentions this same number as being with Christ when He comes to reign, having His Father's Name written in their foreheads. "And all Bible students know and understand that these are The Adopted of God." (Rom. 8:19.22) "And that the whole world is waiting for the manifestation of the Son of God, Rom. 8:22, 23, 19, "Do ye not know that the saints (the 144,000) shall judge the world—And angels? (The fellow angels) 1 Cor. 6:2:3. It is when the church is united with her head Christ that "The Spirit and the Bride say come. (Rev. 22:17.) (To all that will then) and let him take of the water of life freely (restitution blessings, truth clear as crystal). The Bride cannot say come until there is a Bride; then also Joel 2:28, will be fulfilled. The Spirit will be poured out on all flesh. It is the 29th verse that has been in effect since Pentecost. Just the servants and handmaidens have received the Spirit as yet. "For as the body is one and hath many members. So also is (the) Christ. (I Cor. 12:12, 28.) "And He laid hold of Satan and bound him 1,000 years. (Rev. 20:1, 3.) "Yes, the thousand years of Christ's reign, and earth's glory. The Spiritual Seed are developed first." God having provided some better thing for us (Spiritual Seed) that they without us should not be made perfect. Heb. 11:39, 40. I have espoused you to one husband, as a chaste Virgin to Christ." (2 Cor. 11:2.) "The marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready. (Rev. 19:7-9.)

The editor of the Nebo (Ills.) Banner says: This whole country has gone mad over profits. William J. Bryan has his price; so has Billy Sunday. Bryan's cash in advance interpretation like his trip around the world, contains nothing new, original or informing. Sunday's commercializing sawdust trail makes a vaudeville show out of Holy Things, leads to hypocrisy, and is as far from the teachings of Jesus as the east is from the west.

A Bible student can see through Billy; and it is not strange that others do not see, when one understands that satan has blinded the eyes of all those who do not believe God's word. A man who will get up and make such remarks about the churches, calling them cold storage plants leading down to hell, and then try to get converts for these very churches and praying to God most irreverently and addressing the Redeemer as Ole Pal, etc—Well, what shall I say? Only that I have no confidence in the honesty of such a man, and I can hardly think any other true Christian can have. If they will stop and think on these subjects, I know nothing of the other two men Mr. Robinson mentions, but let us hope they are not like Billy. I am still praying "Thy Kingdom come, Thy Will be done on Earth, as it is done in Heaven." How can we reconcile this prayer with the text which says: My Kingdom is not of this world? Just by understanding that this world is the present evil world, satan's empire, and that the new world is the one to come. I make a new heaven (Ecclesiastical) and a new earth. This will be Christ's Kingdom, and the only remedy for the troubles of earth. Yours for the kingdom to come, is it reasonable, is it sensible?

Reasons For Action of Men.

Mr. Editor: Some one, a long time ago, it may have been Moses about 30 centuries since, or, it may have been an old story even in his day, in thinking about the reasons for the actions of the men whom he saw about him and of other men about whom he had heard, noticed that man was different from all the other animals. None of the other animals ever displayed any concern over matters that were remote in time or place. Man in almost all cases and constantly did show much anxiety.

A summary or connection with many other occurrences such as dreams, memories, imagination, etc., led him to call these emotions or passions a display of spirit. Man had a spirit, the other animals did not.

How did it come about that man differed in this way?

As it was to be seen in practically all men it must have been inherited from the man from whom all descended or the one first man. The first of all things was created by God. God was a spirit. He could not be seen. Man contained a spirit. Therefore God created man in His own image.

But! and now this thinker of long ago came to a dilemma. Some of the emotions displayed were not good. Was a good and all-wise God to be held responsible?

As was a common practice for many centuries an idea was put into a form in order to make it more acceptable. This first man was made responsible by his own free act for the acquirement of a knowledge of good and evil. The spirit of man was developed. It lacked but little, if any, of being a spirit of fear. Nothing in the world looked good and perfect.

The story-maker showed his insight to human conduct by bringing the serpent into his narratives. Almost any one acts startled, shows fear, at the sight of a snake.

As time went by and no one ever heard a serpent talking again, even in an unknown tongue, the promoter of evil conduct was made invisible, became a spirit of evil, that is, satan or the devil.

God, the Lord God, or Jehovah, became the Spirit of all good.

The devil, the spirit of evil, or, as we would understand it better now, the spirit of fear.

Stories That Recall Others

Longitude and Latitude.

A railroad magnate gets into town once in a while and on his recent visit one of his friends introduced him to another as the president of a railway company.

"Much of a railroad?" was the query of the new acquaintance as conversation drifted around to that subject.

"Well, it's only eight and eighty-five hundreds miles long—but it's as wide as any of them."

This For Remembrance.

She had been a stepmother only a few months when illness that called for hospital care came on her. The boy had been a trial in many ways. He couldn't understand and the correctional ways, became refractory, nerve-straining and yet back of it all had a lovable streak that bound him to her.

When her nerves broke down she had to go to the hospital. On the day she was to leave the Little Tartar slipper into her room and placing his arms around her neck whispered: "Mudder, I ist slipped Bobby into your trunk. Take him with you while you are gone."

Bobby was his favorite—a little clown doll.

"No, dear, you keep Bobby with you," she answered with a tear. "You love him so, and you'll need him for company when I'm gone."

"Tump'ny, 'at's why I want you to take Bobby," the ers'while tyrant insisted. "He's hid in your trunk and don't let daddy take him out."

And now in the long days that pass in the battle for health, Bobby remains as the ministering thought of the Little Tartar. Perhaps things will be better when she gets back home.

FOREST PROTECTION WEEK PROCLAIMED BY PRESIDENT

The steady destruction of large tracts of forests by fire, by cattle grazing, by destructive lumbering, by insects, and by fungi has again been brought to the attention of the people by a presidential proclamation. In the proclamation President Harding has named the week of April 22 as national Forest Protection Week; and he has urged that it be fittingly observed in all the states.

To the citizens of Connecticut it is significant that forest protection be encouraged as all the menaces mentioned above exist here. The continued losses from these ought not to be ignored, but through thoughtfulness should be reduced to a minimum in every locality. Most certainly forest protection deserves the hearty and continued support of each citizen, as expressed by the President's proclamation.

DAVID SOMEBIA.

Days d[illegible] the ground away yet anon
Out[illegible] a time of pale and sunless weather,
I dreamed I wandered on a bare hillside,
When suddenly the birds all sang together.

Still it was winter, even in the dream;
There was no leaf nor bud nor young grass springing;
The skies whose cold above the frost-bound stream;
It was not Spring, and yet the birds were singing.

Blackbird and thrush and plaintive willow-wren,
Chaffinch and bird and linnet, all were calling;
A golden web of music held me then,
Innumerable voices rising, falling.

O never do the birds of April sing
More sweet than in that dream I still remember;
Perchance the heart may keep its songs of Spring
Even through the wintry dream of life's December.

CROSSING VOICES.

I can hear the ripple
Of the unchained brook,
See the sun shafts stipple
All the quiet nook,
Where still shadows lying,
Call to me though dumb,
Crying, ever crying,
"Pack up soon and come."
But typewriters rattle
Swifter than the wind,
In the business battle,
In the office grind—
Grind for bread and butter,
Daily deadly dull
Hark the cursed job-hunters
[illegible]
Swift a line unreeling,
[illegible]
Gracefully spiraling—
Dreaming minutes by
Then a bell goes droning—
Turning with a start
I regain the present
In the canyoned mart.
Still the [illegible] passing
When I gather cures,
Desks will get a clearing
Of the daily mess;
I will screw the humming,
Drowning business out,

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT STAND

Says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well and Strong

Glens Falls, N. Y.—"For over two months I was so sick I was not able to stand on my feet, and my husband did my housework. The doctor said an operation might be necessary. I read testimonial letters about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began to take it. Before I had finished taking the first bottle I saw what good it was doing me. I am now well and strong, doing all my work for a family of four, all my washing and my sewing, which I think is remarkable, as I had not dared to run my sewing machine, but had done all my sewing by hand. I truly feel that were it not for your medicine I would not be here today as my case seemed very serious."—Mrs. GEORGE W. BURCHELL, Glens Falls, N. Y.

MOOSUP MEN DISCUSS FORMING CIVIC ORGANIZATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Moosup, April 10. A largely attended and express service meeting of the business men, manufacturers and residents of the town met tonight in Milner's hall to discuss and if possible organize some form of organization, preferably a Chamber of Commerce. Attorney Bradford W. Donaldson was chairman of the meeting and George F. Chandler secretary of the State Chamber of Commerce was the principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Chandler briefly told the purpose of the proposed organization and explained the benefits to such an organization and told of many ways in which Moosup would be improved should an organization of this kind be effected.

Dr. Lucas J. Bigelow of Norwich was also a speaker and told the people of how much could be gained by such a live trade organization. Such a organization should not however devote itself entirely to trade matters but should look to the welfare of the community at large.

Dr. H. E. McGrath was also a speaker and urged the organization of a civic body. A number of the local merchants and manufacturers also spoke on the matter. From the tone of the meeting it is probable that a live organization will be instituted here within the near future.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Nothing from reports from many who are constantly in touch with the public there is a prevalence that is soon to be successful in overcoming these conditions. The public should be thankful to Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a scientific preparation, as it stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

MEDICAL EXAMINER REPORTS BOTH DEATHS INSTANTANEOUS

Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve has completed his report of examination of the bodies of Sergeant John H. Kane and Herbert T. Spears and has presented his report to Coroner J. J. Desmond.

In his report Medical Examiner Gildersleeve states that he found no marks of burns of any kind on the hands and body of the Spears boy that would show that he had come in contact with the cable charged with electricity. On three fingers of Sergeant Kane's left hand there were three marks hardly perceptible, caused by his grasping the cable. There also was a faint odor of electricity on the hand that arises from coming in contact with the flesh.

In the opinion of the medical examinbr both deaths were instantaneous and he reported so to the coroner. Convulsive twitchings of the bodies of the two victims and the opening and shutting of the eyes of the Spears boy while he was lying on the ground after being shocked, as has been reported, were automatic movements of the muscles according to the medical examiner. Death was instantaneous insofar as he was able to determine in the post-mortem examination, he said.

MAKES COMPENSATION AWARD FOR JEWETT CITY MAN

After giving a hearing in the workmen's compensation claim of John J. Sullivan against the Aspinook Co., of Jewett City, Commissioner J. J. Donohue has made the finding and award that Sullivan is to be paid for 9 1-7 weeks at the rate of $7.82, the whole to be paid in the lump sum of $72.41. The respondent company is also to pay any reasonable bill for medical services.

It was brought out at the hearing that Sullivan on November 7, 1922, struck his foot against a box washer, striking it where there was a bunion on his foot. This caused an aggravated inflamed condition and it was determined that he was disabled from December 1, 1922 to April 3, 1923, the date of the hearing, but expected to go back to work on April 9. The commissioner found that 50 per cent. of the disability had been caused by the accident and the other 50 per cent. by aggravation of a previous condition. On this account the compensation was for 50 per cent. of the period of the while period of disability of 18 2-7 weeks.

CORONER WILL CONTINUE TO QUESTION WITNESSES

Coroner J. J. Desmond talked Monday with some of the witnesses of the deaths of Herbert T. Spears and Sergeant John H. Kane at Crescent street Friday night but little testimony was taken from principal witnesses. He stated Monday night that the case involved deep investigation before any finding could be made and he would continue investigations today (Tuesday) when he would talk with Officer Patrick Murphy, General Manager C. H. Taggart and Line Superintendent N. C. Pierce of the Norwich Gas & Electric Department, Mrs. Phoebe J. Pendleton who saw the Spears boy fall, while looking out of a window in her home, and Principal Henry A. Tirrell of the Norwich Free Academy who was among the first to pick Sergeant Kane up as he fell after touching the cable.

Every possible clue will be run down to establish the cause of the double deaths at the pole on Crescent street by the coroner, electric department, and by the insurance company with which the city has a policy.

TOLSTOY SAYS PASSIVE RESISTANCE WILL RULE

The time will come when passive resistance and love, as enunciated by Jesus in the Sermon on the Mount, will rule the world and settle all its trouble, declared Count Ilya Tolstoy Monday night in his lecture at Slater hall under the auspices of the Norwich Art Students' association. It is difficult to prove it because we see so few examples of it, he continued but passive resistance is more powerful than armed force. As an example he cited the passive resistance which the Russian peasant is offering to bolshevism. This spells the doom of bolshevism and will accomplish what the armies of the allies cannot. In the same effective manner he stated is passive resistance of 300 million in India working against British rule, which was never in a more precarious condition as now.

Count Tolstoy, who is the son of the great Tolstoy, was introduced by Principal H. A. Tirrell, to speak upon The Life and Works of Leo Tolstoy, which he did in a particularly interesting way, giving intimate personal details of the family life of the great Russian writer and philosopher.

Leo Tolstoy as a writer may be forgotten, the speaker declared, but Leo Tolstoy as a philosopher will have increasing fame as the years roll on. His writings may be divided into two parts, first when he was a novelist and second when he had a new message for the world. This came as the result of a tremendous moral struggle of ten years when he was trying to answer two questions, Where is the real God and What is His will? This great moral struggle began when Tolstoy came to find that all the things he had been worshipping, science, military power, ambition, wealth and love were nothing but self deception. He could not find God in the teaching of the Russian orthodox church, then he went to a study of all the ancient and modern philosophies, but still failed to find God. His despair was so great that only his strong will prevented him from committing suicide. Finally the light dawned on him through the simple Russian peasants who see God in everything and that He lives in the hearts of everyone. Then he had to answer the question, What is God's will? This answer came after voluminous reading when he reached an understanding of the teachings of Jesus that they are based on love and passive resistance as stated in the Sermon on the Mount. That applied will make bolshevism impossible, solve the labor question the world over and make wars impossible. Leo Tolstoy changed his own mode of life to be in conformity with what he believed, ceasing to be a rich idler, but dividing his day into three eight hour periods, one for literary work, one for manual work as a shoemaker and the third for rest.

Describing his father's death and his burial in the woods of the Tolstoy estate, the speaker declared in closing that Leo Tolstoy had found the magic word that makes everybody happy. That word is "love" which it is his hope will guide the actions of the while world.

The lecture was to have been given in Slater hall annex, but the audience overflowed this so that the big hall was opened and the lecture given there.

Judge Waller Hears Commission Suit

The court of common pleas came to Norwich Monday and Judge Waller heard a part of the case of Alberius C. Burdick and William McNichol of Griswold vs Louis J. Bruette of Norwich. The plaintiffs claim that in February of last year they obtained a customer for a store owned by the defendant for the sum of $5,000 in the person of Carleton H. Havens and Mabel B. Havens of Griswold, and who were willing to purchase the store, and did purchase it at Norwich Town. It is alleged that the sum of $5,000 was paid and the commission was to have been five per cent. A dispute arose between the parties as to the terms of the contract, the suit following.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN FOUND DROWNED IN THE RIVER

The body of a man about 40 years of age was found floating in the Thames river near the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad dock about 1 o'clock Monday afternoon by Harry Erickson of Baltic who is employed by Porteous & Mitchell company, and judging from the condition of the body it had been in the water about two months.

Mr. Erickson happened to be standing at the edge of the dock and saw something in the water that looked like a body. He called to others around him but they paid no attention thinking it to be simply clothing whirling about in the eddy at the mouth of the Shetucket river.

He called to N. K. Lester who had a fishboat at the dock and they rigged up a rope and cast it over the object, hauling it to the dock where it was soon seen that it was the body of a man.

The police were notified and Officer Morgan sent to the dock to take charge of the body. Later it was removed to the parlors of Hourigan Bros. The body was in a bad state of decomposition. The man was fairly well dressed and in his pockets was 60 cents in change, two tokens used on the trolley lines, and a pair of silver rimmed spectacles. He was judged to be about 60 years of age, 5 feet 6 inches in height, weighing about 135 pounds. His hair was gray as was his moustache and he had evidently been bald.

A soft hat carried the mark of F. A. Wells company, size 7. The hat was found inside the man's coat. The body was clothed in a union suit, striped shirt, collar, bow tie, dark suit and dark overcoat, no names appearing on the clothing that would lend means of identifying the drowned man.

It was rumored about at first that the body was that of a man missing from the almshouse for about two months but Charles B. Ellis, superintendent of the almshouse, stated that no one was missing from that institution.

Efforts will be made to identify the dead man and Coroner J. J. Desmond will run down any leads that may disclose how the man met his fate by drowning.

He had not been at the mill Monday and could not verify the statement that the employes had gone on a strike because the increase did not bring with it a 48 hour week.

NORWICH TOWN

"More Than Conquerors" was the theme of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey's sermon at the Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church. The text chosen was Romans 8.37 Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us. Rev. Mr. Bailey was the speaker at the Sunday afternoon meeting of the Y. M. C. A., having addressed those present in an interesting vein on The Musical Life.

At the Young People's Christian Endeavor meeting at 6.30 in the chapel the topic was, What Are Some of the Good Works and Graces of the Lord's Day? Isa. 58:13-14; Ps. 118:24.

Miss Martha Taylor, was the leader. The meeting was most interesting and helpful, comprising much singing and prayer. Owing to the electric service being out of commission for several hours on Sunday afternoon and evening, at this locality the meeting was held mostly in darkness; therefore the regular monthly business meeting of the society was postponed. The Congregational church night service on Thursday evening, will have for its topic—From the Resurrection to His Ascension, The Forty Days.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Cromwell Larkin, fourth member of the family to die of pneumonia during the past ten days, passed away at his home in East Killingly early Monday morning. Only one member of the family of five remains alive, Byron Larkin, and he is now a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam and, as for days past, in imminent danger of death. He underwent an operation Monday that it was hoped would relieve his condition and improve his chances of recovery.

Cromwell Larkin was 27 years of age on October 8 of last year. He was born on the farm where he died and had always lived there. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Larkin. His mother died nearly a score of years ago and his father a little more than a week ago, being one of the four members of the family to succumb to pneumonia in a family epidemic that is without parallel in local history, insofar as old residents is concerned.

Monday afternoon Cromwell's body was placed in the tomb at the Hartlett cemetery at East Killingly with the other three members of the family who recently passed away. Funeral services for all of them will be held at some date not yet decided upon.

The police are again contending with a group of boys who appear to take malicious pleasure stoning automobiles—especially closed ones—that happen to pass through Dyer street. This trouble, which first made its appearance last year, has been renewed this spring. Chief John McFarland said Monday that the father of one boys has been required to pay $11 to replace a plate glass window recently smashed out of a closed car by a boy who threw a stone at the machine. Chief McFarland has received a number of complaints about this wilful desire of damaging machines and possibly of injuring passengers within them. He has given the neighborhood warning that no sympathy need be expected in the handling of any future cases that may develop, and motorists whose cars happen to be stoned can assist the police by taking immediate action to ascertain the identity of any boy or group of boys that throw stones at cars.

The White or Soap street crossing—a death trap where more than one person has been hurled into eternity by speeding trains—is about to be eliminated at Dayville. This long talked of operation is now underway and the work will be completed in a short time. A work train with a gang of men was at Dayville Monday. The laborers are engaged in spreading crushed stone over an area that runs from the White street crossing along the westerly end of the hotel property to Main street. This area, the width of a street, has been excavated to a sufficient depth to allow of the macadamizing work being carried out.

The crossing to be eliminated will be fenced both sides of the track. On the easterly side this will mean a barrier at the end of a long stretch, the state highway leading down from Attawaugan and motorists will do well to remember that the barrier is there, especially during the night season, when, it is understood, the barrier will be shown by lights.

Only slight inconveniences in comparison with the safety gained against grade crossing accidents will be experienced through the elimination of the crossing. A very short detour around one block will give ready access to the business firms on the west side of the tracks.

The Main street crossing at Dayville is protected by gates, so the danger of any more accidents such as have occurred in the past in that village will be reduced to a minimum.

At the church at Hopkins Mills Sunday afternoon funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Simmons were conducted by Rev. Gilbert G. Cutler, pastor of the Rockland Christian church. The bearers were three sons of Mrs. Simmons—Lester F., Walter A. and Frederick Simmons, a son-in-law, H. H. Hammond, and two grandsons, John Curtis and Lewis Curtis. Burial was in the Simmons family cemetery near Hopkins Mills. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Monday morning at St. James' church Rev. John Roux, M. S., was celebrant of a high mass of requiem at the funeral services for Frank C. Quinn. The mass was attended by a relatives and friends of Mr. Quinn. Burial was in St. James' cemetery. The bearers were Irving Madden, George Foster, William Collins, Arthur Lamoureaux, Richard Healey and Charles Lowry. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Business men found satisfaction in the fact that the delivery of parcel post packages to business places had been resumed. This service was suspended some time ago on account of lack of funds in the postal department An allowance has been made, however, and no further interruption of the service is anticipated during the present year.

A type of the genus home known among the elect as a spotter is operating in Danielson, and is his usefulness to the state is now at an end insofar as his prospects are any good for hooking ogle someone who is suspected of being engaged in the Jakey or moonshine trade. The word has been passed about among those who keep tabs on such things that the man is under suspicion, so he is pretty certain to be useless on his mission from now on. He was being pointed out about town Monday as a figure of interest even, to those who have only curiosity in the premises.

Vegetation up to the present time is two weeks behind the 1923 spring season. Excepting on some lawns that get the benefit of the sun during the greater part of the day and on warm hillsides only a little green grass is to be seen and no reports about first dandelions or other such early spring blooms have come in. The temperature dropped below the freezing point Monday morning, as was also the case on Saturday morning. There is the prospect, however, that when vegetation does start there will be no serious set back, as was the case in 1921, when fruit trees in full bloom were nipped by the frost, ruining the apple, peach and pear crops and the berry crops of that year.

On this morning after the annual borough meeting one thing many taxpayers of the borough will be interested in is that the annual reports show uncollected taxes of $3,099.81. Of this amount $2,909.31 is due on the list of 1922, and the remaining $190 on the tax list of 1921. In all probability much of the back tax for 1922 will be gathered in this spring. On sewer assessments the borough is owed $942.41 and the estimate of return expected from sewer assessments of residents living along Maple and Carter streets is $1500.

In the financial year that has just come to a close the borough indebtedness has been reduced $2,639.38, a very good showing in view of the demands for borough maintainence the officials have had to meet.

Work on the construction of sewers in Carter and Maple street is to begin this spring. These sewer extensions were authorized constructed at a special borough meeting on August 7 of last year, but the work could not be reached before the cold weather season. Pipe for these extensions has been purchasd.

The borough debt at the first of the present month was $50,220.88. Of this amount $50,000 is represented in notes held by banks and individuals.

Legislators from this section of the state will go back to Hartford this morning for their weekly labors at the capitol. The work of the legislature is said to be so far advanced that it may be possible to take a week's recess early in May, or possibly two weeks before going back to clear up what remains of such business as can be disposed of at this session.

It is noted with satisfaction by the traveling public that passenger trains on the New Haven road are now keeping much closer to their scheduled running time than was the case throughout the winter.

Richard Reeves was a visitor in Boston on Monday.

William McDermott is spending a few weeks at Williamsport, Pa., where he is engaged as a bond salesman.

Earl Wilbur was in Providence Monday on a business visit.

As is generally the rule, only a small percentage of the voters participated in the annual borough election on Monday.

Carpenters here have the prospect of a busy season. One contractor said Monday that this early he has eight men busy and that there is a great deal of work in sight, though no major building operation.

At Goodyear Heights the Goodyear Mills company has erected a 14-car garage for the accommodation of employes' machines.

Frank S. Kennedy remains seriously ill at his home in Dayville.

Trout fishermen who have ventured off state highways with their cars in an effort to get to favorite brooks almost invariably come back with tales of stalling in the mud. Many brooks cannot be reached as yet except with teams or very light cars.

Several hundred children attending St. James' school on Franklin street and on Moran avenue trooped back to their class rooms Monday morning after enjoying the Easter recess.

How You Can Remove Every Trace of Hair

(Toilet Talks)

A stiff paste made with some powdered delatone and water and spread on a hairy surface about 2 minutes will, when removed, take every trace of hair with it. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining delatone. No harm can result from this treatment, but be sure it is delatone you get and you will not be disappointed. Mix fresh as wanted.

Children should be given Kellogg's Bran each day; grown people should eat Kellogg's each day—at least two tablespoonfuls, in chronic cases with each meal. Its mechanical action will afford permanent relief.

And, you will find Kellogg's Bran a delight to eat because it is so delicious. As a cereal, sprinkled on other hot or cold cereals, or used in countless bakery batches or in cooking, its nut-like flavor will thrill your appetite—and each spoonful means so much in permanently relieving constipation and in warding off this gravest national ailment. Kellogg recipes are printed on each package.

Start the entire family eating Kellogg's Bran to-day. See the color come back to faded cheeks; see the snap that will go into lagging steps. Kellogg's Bran is wonderful. All grocers sell it!

PUTNAM

Business was plentiful in the city court Monday morning and booze, in one way or another figured in each and every case presented. The most important case disposed of was that of Ernest Montpelier, who was charged with having liquor for the purpose of sale and with actually selling it. He was fined $100 on each count, after being found guilty, and costs, a total of $238.80.

Montpelier's troubles started when John Stone of Killingly, before the court for having been intoxicated, let it be known that he had made a purchase of liquor of Montpelier, who lives on Providence street. Stone's case was polled.

Having obtained this information action was promptly taken to close in on Montpelier. He was summoned into the court to answer to a charge of violating the motor vehicle laws by operating an improperly registered car and was fined $1 and costs of $9.24. While this proceeding was under way the police were raiding his place on Providence street and came away with a quantity of cider and some intoxicant of the white mule class. When a little of this was spilled on the floor at the police station and a match applied to it, it flamed like gasoline, all of which demonstrated what it was capable of doing inside a human stomach. Montpelier did not have the ready cash, but said he would produce the amount necessary to pay the fines and costs assessed against him.

James Friery, Willimantic, the man who emerged from a cloud of smoke when his cell door at the police station was unlocked just before six o'clock Sunday morning, as told Monday morning, received 60 days on counts of intoxication and vagrancy. He didn't appear to know a whole lot about how the mattress in his cell caught fire, but he was of the opinion that it must have happened when he fell asleep after having a smoke. In the excitement that followed discovery of the fire and his release from the cell he escaped, but was recaptured some time later.

Friery has been working about the county jail at Brooklyn, so his return there as a prisoner will neither be a novelty nor a great change for him. Friery has been at the jail off and on for many years, both as a prisoner and as an employe.

Philip Laroche, a Killingly man who was arrested here at the week end and was released under bonds of $35 and told to be in court at 9 o'clock Monday morning. As he did not appear, the court ordered the bond forfeited. Laroche called up Judge Geissler by telephone about 10.30, announcing that he was ready to be heard, but court had been adjourned and there was nothing to be done but allow the case to stand as disposed of.

John Toolan of this city, was assessed $10 and costs of $13.14 for having been intoxicated.

An investigation was being made Monday of a break that occurred at the Bradley theatre box office, probably during the early hours of Sunday morning. The break did not net the intruders any great amount. They obtained a small amount in change set aside from toll line payments and a few pennies. It was indicated that they searched about quite thoroughly, evidently in the hope of finding a larger sum of money that might be hid about. The office interior was not upset a great deal, nor was the office safe molested as far as indications went.

Byron Larkin, last surviving member of a family that consisted of five persons ten days ago, is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in this city, very dangerously ill with pneumonia. He underwent an operation intended to relieve his conditon on Monday. Mr. Larkin was brought to the hospital Sunday afternoon, when his temperature was steadily remaining at about 104 degrees. His brother, Cromwell, died Monday morning at the family home in East Killingly, where Gilbert Larkin, the father, and two sisters, died within 24 hours of each other a few days ago. Byron has been in very critical condition for more than a week and he was brought to the hospital in the hope that his life may be saved. The farm where the Larkin family lived is now deserted of all its members, and only caretakers are there. All of the deaths were due to pneumonia, which developed after attacks of the grip.

Members of Putnam's fire department received a great deal of praise Monday for the manner in which the fire that originated on the roof of one of the Napoleon Mieour houses near Lee street was controlled Sunday, when a furious gale was the means of communicating the fire to adjoining roofs, sparks flying in all directions. This fire at one time was threatening a whole area thickly dotted with frame buildings, so what the firemen accomplished in getting the better of it earned the hearty commendation of the large number who saw them at work.

Firemen complained during Monday that a check-up after the fire showed coats and other things stolen off one of the department trucks. This matter will be investigated with a view to determining who among the spectators helped themselves to some of the belongings of the firemen.

Newly elected officers of Putnam lodge of Elks will be installed this (Tuesday) evening at a session to be held at the Elks' home. The installation ceremony is one of the most important of the year and members of the lodge from all the jurisdiction will be present to see the new officials inducted to office. An official of the lodge at Rockville will be the installing officer. Following the installation there will be a special session and the members will find time to discuss their trip to Webster, April 25, when the new lodge formed in that place will be instituted.

This is the one great day of spring for the boys at Putnam High school, for it marks the official opening of the school's baseball season. This afternoon the team will journey up to Woodstock for the opening scheduled contest with the Academy team. Naturally, Putnam expects to win. On Friday the high school will play the trade school here. In the meantime there will be much practicing that the players may get into high class form. Next week's games are with Plainfield High School at Plainfield and with the Fin Factory team, in Putnam. The season's schedule runs through to June 9, when Putnam will play the Norwood, Mass., High School team at Norwood.

An appeal that it has been requested be broadcasted by the press throughout this section has been sent out by the state forester and is relative to exercising care against the setting of forest fires. To date the towns hereabouts have escaped any serious fires of this nature, but what may occur is indicted by recent happenings in the town of Sterling, where a large area has been burned over. Trout fishermen and others frequenting wooded country at this period of the year are particularly urged to be careful not to throw away lighted matches, cigars or cigarettes. This co-operation may be the means of preventing a number of disastrous fires.

Mrs. N. Waldo Kennedy and other members of her party are to leave soon from Birmingham, Ala., and will motor the 1,700 miles to Eastford, where they will remain for the summer. Mr. Kennedy will remain until about June 15, at Birmingham, where he has been engaged during the winter in increasing the membership of the lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose, and with much success. During the week of June 25, Mr. Kennedy will be at Mooseheart, Ill., for the international convention of the order and soon thereafter will return to Eastford, where he conducts the General Lyon inn.

As is usual when anything out of the ordinary happens, those who like to step into the limelight for a minute caused it to be circulated here on Monday a story that the house on the Wood place at Putnam Heights was destroyed by fire during Sunday. This story is wholly untrue. The Wood place has not been damaged by fire.

After spending the Easter recess here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Thayer, Miss Katherine T. Thayer returned to her studies at Mt. St. Joseph seminary, Hartford, on Monday.

BURROWS RE-ELECTED IN DANIELSON BOROUGH ELECTION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, April 9.—William A. Burrows was re-elected warden of Danielson in Monday's annual borough election and all the other candidates on the citizens ticket, which was unopposed, went into office. There was little interest in the election, not many more than five per cent of the voters participating. Only 82 ballots were cast and of these four were blanks. At the business meeting in the evening $8,000 was voted for the construction of a sewer in Mechanic street, the vote being 32 yes and 11 no.

Attorney Harry E. Back and Health Officer Dr. W. H. Judson talked in favor of the matter. The meeting voted to table a proposal that a section of sewer be constructed in Railroad street. The meeting also voted an appropriation of $500 for necessary repairs to the library building, and also voted that the water fountain for horses at the corner of Main and Reynolds street be removed, it being regarded as a menace to the heavy auto traffic now moving over the Danielson-Providence route. The meeting adjourned to the first Monday in August when the tax rate for the fiscal year will be fixed. Attorney E. L. Darbie was moderator and Frank T. Preston was clerk. The vote:

Warden, William A. Burrows, 76; clerk, Frank T. Preston, 76; treasurer, Frank T. Preston, 76; burgesses Docithe E. Jette, 77, Frank E. Kennedy, 76, Roland H. Gray, 76, Irving W. Davis, 77, Richard D. Some Yarn, Eh?

"Several years ago," said Binks, "I raised some watermelons which grew to an enormous size. One day a three-masted schooner went aground on the mud flats just below my house. I immediately rolled one of these huge melons to the side of the stranded craft, cut the melon in two and enough juice came out of it to float the schooner safely into deep water."—New York Globe.

The State Situation

Building permits for the past week in the leading towns in the state, according to the Commercial Record, do not reflect any striking increase in the volume of building construction. In New Haven there are a number of large projects which will be very likely to be put under contract very soon, including two large Yale University buildings, which will run into millions of dollars. During the week 283 permits were granted in the larger center, for buildings costing $981,242, comparing with 324 permits for the corresponding period of the previous year, when the buildings cost $855,330, and 245 permits in 1921, the buildings costing $522,844.

At a recent council meeting it was voted to go ahead with the awarding of contracts for the erection of the proposed Stanton school. It is expected that the contracts will be awarded shortly to the lowest bidders, who are: General contract, Joseph A. St. Germain, $56,415; heating, Hopson & Chapin, $8,030; plumbing, Charles Smith, $5,663, and electric wiring Modern Electric Co., $795. The new building will be of brick, about 55x85 feet, containing six classrooms.

The contract has been taken, to build a frame store and tenement building for R. L. Strout and Sarah C. Strout, at the corner of Broad and Connecticut avenue. The building will be of frame construction, 30x43 feet, two stories high, with shingle roof. There will be one store, and a one-family tenement above, provided with all improvements.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 13 sales of real estate as compared to 22 sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $27,700 and $80,975.

There were 4 real estate sales in New London during the past week, four less than for the same week in 1922. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $4,500 and $36,500.

NEW LONDON

Architects are preparing plans for a handsome residence to be erected on Pequot avenue, Pequot colony, for Senator Ernest E. Rogers, 24 Granite street. The plans will call for a brick colonial dwelling, 30x48 feet overall, with end projections measuring 15x24 feet, and a garage in the rear, 20x20 feet. The foundation will be of stone and there will be a slate roof. There will be 12 rooms, and three tiled baths, with sun parlor and library in the projections. The floors will be of oak, and there will be enamel and hardwood trim, and all conveniences. The heating will be by hot water, provision also being made for three fireplaces. The plans will be completed shortly.

A local architect is preparing plans for a memorial chapel to be erected in the Cedar Grove cemtery, for the New London Cemetery Association. It is to be of field stone, one story high, with basement. There will be a concrete foundation, concrete floors, and slate roof. On the interior will be a chapel seating about 40 persons, a general office, a private office, rest rooms, with toilet accommodations. In the basement will be a vault, and janitor's quarters will be provided in the upper story.

WILLIMANTIC

Land has been purchased on Main street by Abe Davidson of Norwich, for the erection of a new theatre. The plans have been completed and work will start shortly. The proposed building will be of brick construction, with a frontage of 92 feet. It will contain four stores forty feet deep, with a central lobby 20 feet in width. The theatre will have a seating capacity of 1,200 persons, and will be provided with balcony.

Oliver L. Willard, contractor, has purchased a tract of land on Chestnut street. Two houses are now under construction on the property and it is planned to erect several more this year.

KEEP STORRS COLLEGE MORE FOR AGRICULTURISTS

Limitation of the Connecticut Agricultural college to its proper sphere of activity by a revision of its course of study which would place more emphasis upon technical and educational agricultural courses and less upon cultural courses, is one of several important recommendations made by a sub-committee of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce in an announcement from the executive offices of the State Chamber at Hartford.

In a concluding paragraph the report says: In brief—we believe that if the over-crowding at the college should be relieved by the transfer of the 20 per cent. of attendance of women; by the elimination of the 14 per cent. in the short two year-20 week courses; and by the elimination of perhaps 10 per cent. by the raising of the standards of admission, that the college would materially benefit in the character of its accomplishments and in its value to the state. Further, that its work in the promotion of agricultural progress in the state would be furthered by a revision of its course of study which would place more emphasis upon technical and vocational agricultural courses. In practice this would probably tend towards the elimination of those who come for a general cultural course, rather than to any radical change in the courses of study of those who were really pursuing agriculture.

The committee in its report states that the agricultural college would materially benefit in the character of its accomplishments and in its value to the state by relieving the overcrowded conditions at the college by the transfer of the women to the Connecticut College for Women at New London; by the elimination of the short two year—twenty weeks course, and by the raising of the standards of admission at least ten per cent. The committee further stated that out of every one hundred who went to college approximately forty-five disappeared before graduation.

The committee further recommends that the erection of a new recitation building at the college be delayed two years, and in further reference to proposed added facilities at the state college states:

"It would take a much more critical and minute examination of the course of study to suggest changes, but if the work in Home Economics or Teacher Training could be eliminated, the problem would be lsimplified, even without the help of new federal legislation, and the way would be open to use the plant and equipment more effectively for agricultural education proper. We do, however, venture to suggest that if this college is supported under the theory that its contributes to the promotion of agriculture in the state and not as a scheme of general education, at a minimum two-thirds of the time of the pupils should be devoted to technical and vocational subjects directly related to agriculture.

"In vnew of the above considerations, we question the wisdom of extending the dormitery facilities at the college until the practicability or not of the above suggestions have been thoroughly tried out. If they could be accomplished new dormitory accommodations would not be immediately necessary or advisable. The same is also true, though to a less degree, of the requests for new recitation halls and laboratories. These will inevitably be necessary even under the development of a thorough-going four years course of high standards, but it is quite possible that the erection of a new recitation building could be delayed for two years, and we so recommend."

The report says in one section:

It will be seen from the schedule that 36 per cent. of the work of the pupils is devoted to agriculture strictly. An additional 26 per cent. is devoted to the sciences which have a bearing upon agriculture but which might be a part of any general plans of education. These science courses include chemistry, botany, physics, bacteriology and zoology.

The Teachers' Training course which occupies 7 per cent. of the work of the pupils is largely work in Home Economics and preparation for teaching. This is the work which we have suggested could be better transferred to the Normal schools or to the Connecticut College for Women.

Mechanical Engineering is an exotic which is imposed upon the college, we are given to understand, as a condition of some of the federal grants. The amount is not large and it might be urged that there is no injury done to farmers in teaching a little of mechanics and mechanical engineering.

The work in Military Science, which consumes 6 per cent. of the time, is also a condition of the federal grants and cannot be eliminated without new federal legislation which is doubtful of materializing.

Physical Education also consumes 6 per cent. of the time and is a valuable addition to any college course.

It would take a much more critical and minute examination of the course of study to suggest changes, but if the work in Home Economics and Teacher Training could be eliminated, the problem would be simplified, even without the help of new federal legislation and the way would be open to use the plant and equipment more effectively for agricultural education proper. We do, however, venture to suggest that if this college is supported under the theory that it contributes to the promotion of agriculture in the state and not as a scheme of general education, at a minimum two-thirds of the time of the pupils should be devoted to technical and vocational subjects directly related to agriculture.

EVIDENCE NOT SUFFICIENT TO HOLD NEW LONDON COUPLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 9.—This city had its most sensational court case today. Charles M. Dobbs, the proprietor of the Domestic Laundry at New Haven, caused his wife to be sued for adultery with Jimmie Baron, well known at Ocean Beach during the summer season for a few years past because he traded in lots and cottages there and as he said in his testimony today, "was the leading dealer at the beach." He had a partner some summers back, but his partner quit and he has been going it alone, until now, Mrs. Dobbs says, she is his "silent partner." She declared that she received at one time $75 a week for her support from her husband, but that he cut that down to $60 a week and went to $40 and with the proceedings that were carried on today he stopped paying her anything.

Mrs. Dobbs said that then she found it necessary to work for a living and she entered the arrangement with Baron by which she shared in his earnings. He declared that he was away from his apartments much of the time and that he put in a phone which Mrs. Dobbs answered when he was not at hand and that he gave her a commission on sales. It was not disclosed what he paid her or that he gave her any money for her services beyond the broad statement that she received a commission. But all the evidence that Mr. Dobbe could bring today with the assistance of the Parsons Detective Agency of New Haven could not work a conviction and judge Prince declared that the evidence was not sufficient to warrant holding the accused for trial in the superior court at the May term.

The case was a battle all the way through. The detective the Parsons agency sent here is a young woman, perhaps 22 years old, a Miss Evelyn Milum of Hamden, a suburb of New Haven. Miss Milum was most positive in her characterization of the actions of Mrs. Dobbs and of Baren and the vigorous cross-examination failed to shake her testimony.

Mr. Dobbs had preceded her on the witness stand. He told of going to California in search of health and of leaving his wife in New London while he was absent. After that the alleged intimacy between Baren and Mrs. Dobbs began and continued until a few weeks ago when the suit was commenced. Dobbs said he never lived with his wife in New London and never anticipated living here. He did provide a rome here for her and their children. A letter was shown which Dobbs wrote to his wife from California and in it he made use of the words "if you are afraid to be there alone perhaps Jimmie would hire a room and be your protector." Dobbs declared that he used the words sarcastically and in ridicule, saying that any person would distinguish it. He said the "Jimmie" he referred to was Baren. Dobb said he didn't have anything to do with his wife after he left her. Mrs. Dobbs hired the Federal street apartments through Baren.

Mr. Parsons testified to hiring Miss Milum and declared that he did not have a corroborating witness present because he did not think he needed such testimony, saying that we had enough evidence without it.

A Mrs. Radpore, from whom Mrs. Dobbs and Baren hired rooms, separate rooms, testified. One morning the landlady found Baren in the bathroom with Mrs. Dobbs, but the landlady couldn't get into the room in response to her knocks so she sat down on the stairs to await developments. Then Jimmie called to her and said he was shaving and told the landlady she would have to wait to get in. The landlady took Jimmie at his word and waited. Then the door opened and Mrs. Dobbs appeared in her kimona. Jimmy was full dressed. Then an effort was made to show that the landlady was actuated by spite in making her statement because Mrs. Dobbs had accused her of having stolen articles of tableware, but that did not "go" with the court and was ruled out.

The defense had its inning in the afternoon, for the trial consumed the entire day. Mrs. Dobbs made her defense by denying all that was alleged by the state. She said she had two children, both girls, and that one of them was away at school, a young woman of 17 years. She recited that she went to Bridgeport to reside from New Haven, but she did not like that city and she came to New London at the suggestion of her husband. Here she and Dobbs met Jimmie Baren when they were looking for a home or a place to rent and Dobbs was very much pleased with Jimmie.

Mr. Baren corroborated the statements made by Mrs. Dobbs almost to a word. He was certain that nothing improper ever occurred between them and told of arranging for Mrs. Dobbs to answer the telephone when he was not in his office.

The attorney for the co-defendants endeavored to show that the falling out between Mr. and Mrs. Dobbs was occasioned by the wife accusing the husband of being too friendly with a girl he employed in his laundry and to the strenuous objections Mrs. Dobbs made to that sort of conduct.

It is understood that Dobbs has before a divorce alleging infidelity and that Mrs. Dobbs won the case.

There was a big attendance at the minstrels at the Crowley club, composed of Catholic girls, given at the Bulkeley school auditorium this evening. The girls appeared in gray gowns with bandanna kerchiefs about the neck, and they gave a creditable performance notwithstanding they did their own training.

The annual meeting of the Masonic chapter occurred last evening when the officers were also installed.

Mrs. Charlotte C. Scott, widow of Caleb E. Scott, of Providence, died at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital Sunday, where she had been under treatment but a short time. Mrs. Scott was 46 years of age and was visiting her sister, Mrs. P. L. Brown of Fort Wright, when she was taken ill and compelled to enter the hospital.

Patients dismissed at Home Memorial hospital today included Miss Ruth Mitchell of Westerly, Mrs. Edwin Merriam of Uncasville, Mrs. William Mudge of Westerly, Mrs. John Seredini of Groton, Mrs. Iman Einstein of North Bank street, Henry Turrisi of Westerly and Joseph Honosky of Waterford.

There is no change in the situation of the striking weavers at the plant of the Bloom Silk company on Garfield avenue where 100 hands quit work a week ago because an increase from seven to ten cents a yard was refused them. As a result of the strike all of the mill hands have been forced to idleness. Edward Bloom, proprietor of the mill, is in New York and it is believed that when he returns that he will hold a conference with the strikers in an effort to effect a compromise.

Manager Willard of the Groton ferry, who conceived the idea of providing music for the patrons of the craft on Sundays, and who secured the services of the Hawaii jazz players at the submarine base, has given up the idea and in the future there will be no more concerts as an incentive to increase patronage on the ferryboat. Manager Willard is now endeavoring to devise a plan whereby more foot and vehicular passengers will patronaze the ferry, but it is doubtful if he does so.

Patrolman George Laboue is the latest victim of illness among the personnel of the police department, Patrolman Laboue being confined to hi shome by an attack of grip.

The funeral of Alonzo C. Neff occurred this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his former home, No. 161 Howard street, the services being conducted by Rev. Myron E. Genter. Interment was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Funeral services for Frederick A. Smith, member of the market firm of Clark & Smith, were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Mr. Smith's late residence, No. 263 Montauk avenue, and were attended by a large concourse of mourners. Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth officiated. The bearers were George Peck, John Sistare, Ernest Catton, George Harris, Malcolm M. Scott and S. George Smith. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The Misses Maude and Ellen Sullivan of Grand street, Mrs. George Steward of Poquonoc road, Gro. Mrs. Stephen Sweeney and baby of Cottage street, Manuel Rose of Cliff street, Master Joseph Gentilella of Westerly, Donald Sanderson of the United States Coast Guard Academy, Ernest Di Marco of Truman street, Joseph Taylor of Waterford and Thomas Phillips of Ocean avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were able to go to their respective homes today.

The New London Candy Store at No. 155 Bank street was burglarized Sunday night, but the crook obtained little plunder for his trouble, the sole plunder taken being $6, of which amount $3 was from two cash registers, left there when the store was closed.

The break was discovered when the place was opened this morning and was reported to the police. Detective Sergeant Charles Hammond was assigned to the case and his investigation revealed that entrance was made through a rear door, which was unlocked, but held closed by a stick wedged against the door from the inside and easily removed by a pressure against the door. Two other doors which lead to the main store were also unlocked, making access to the place doubly easy.

The streets throughout the city continue to be in sad need of attention, for with the frost leaving the ground many highways are made unsafe for traffic, particularly by automobile. The latest defective highways to be reported by the police to be in a dangerous condition are Lower Boulevard, at the corner of Riggs street and Broad street, at the corner of Channing street. The city has caused a force of its repair gang to be put at work on the more thickly traversed streets, the laborers placing quantities of tar and stone in the depressions, but this form of repair will not last long.

Louis Coulman, a chief petty officer of the crew of the submarine L-11, stationed at the submarine base, reported to the police this eening that he had lost his gold watch, either by theft or carelessness. Coulman did not discover the watch missing until late this afternoon and when he failed to find trace of it at the base, he sought the aid of the police to recover the timepiece.

The condition of Lieut. Benjamin Beebe of the New London police department, who has been absent from duty several weeks because of illness, continues to improva slowly and it is believed now that within a short time the officer will have regained his strength sufficiently to resume his duties in charge of the night force.

City Manager Barlow and Representative Hatch of the Connecticut company this afternoon were in conference at the office if the city manager in the municipal building for the purpose of discussing plans whereby the congestion of traffic on Bank street could be eliminated. At a meeting of Bank street merchants several days ago the city manager was informed that the former desired that Bank street be made a one-way thoroughfare and that parking of automobiles be allowed on one side of the street and it was because of this expression that Mr. Hatch was called into conference with City Manager Barlow. The matter was discussed at considerable length, the principal suggestion being that the trolley cars be operated only in a northerly direction on that street. As Mr. Hatch was not in authority to act in the matter, representing as he did Manager Samuel Anderson, Mr. Hatch stated that he would take the matter up with officials of the company and would make known their decision in the matter at the earliest possible date.

The case of John Almy of No. 82 Shetucket street, Norwich, charged with violation of the automobile law in failing to have his operator's license signed and who was arrested Saturday when his machine collided with two motionless motorcycles o nState street, did not come before the police court this forenoon, Prosecuting Attorney Cronin determining that the violation was only a technical one. The same disposition was made of the cases of George Catone and Raymond Platt of Centerbrook, owner of the motorcycles, who were charged with parking their machines away from the curb.

Mark Gunville, a deserter from Fort Wright, was apprehended in New Britain yesterday and this afternoon he was brought to New London by Sergeant Ellinger of the New Britain police department who will deliver the prisoner at the fort tomorrow morning.

Henry Traystrom of No. 14 Shaw stree and Joseph Perry of Waterford, were arrested this afternoon by Patrolman John Courtney, charged with violation of the automobile law in parking their cars on Bank street two hours. As Bank street congestion is a source of complaint continually the offenders will probably draw penalization in the police court tomorrow morning.

Council Gragan, at the meeting of the city council this evening gave the members something of a shock when he declared that many police beats in the city were not patrolled at all by day or night. He asked why a dozen supernumerary policemen were not appointed and put on duty as provided by the charter, saying that there were eight officers off duty now because of sickness and that two others were on vacation. Then he disclosed that the police beats were uncovered. But there was no motion forthcoming.

Harry M. Rankin, local steamboat inspector, accompanied by Mrs. Rankin, has gone to Mt. Clemens, Mich., where he will undergo treatment for an affliction to his eyes from which he has been a sufferer a long time. Mr. Rankin will be absent several weeks during which time he anticipates he will obtain great relief, if not a permanent cure. During Mr. Rankin's absence from New London his duties will be attended to by James Rawdon, one of the assistant inspectors stationed at Providence.

The extent of the damage sustained by the tug Elmer A. Keeler, which went on the rocks off Bartlett's Reef about a fortnight ago during a heavy gale, will not be determined until after the craft is hauled out at the marine railways of the Thames Towboat company. The tug is now moored at the wharf of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking company, which concern floated the tug Saturday afternoon and will be towed to the marine railways that her hull may be examined during the week. Although the Keeler's hull is of steel the wrecking company is of the opinion that the damage will be extensive.

HOW TO CARE FOR SEED POTATOES

The following information on storing seed potatoes and treating for scab is supplied by Albert E. Wilkinson, vegetable specialist of the extension service at Connecticut Agricultural college.

Much good seed is injured by careless storage. When the seed is received, place the bags in a room, cellar or storehouse where the correct requirements for storage can be given. The temperature requirement is from 35 degrees F to 40 degrees F. Humidity range is from 80 to 85 per cent. Potato seed should be stored in a building having a construction or insulation that prevents fluctuation in temperature.

Means for ample ventilation should be provided. When stored in bags, boxes or crates, seed should be piled so as to permit free-air circulation. Bulk potatoes should not be stored to a greater depth than six feet. When in bulk they should be stored in ventilated bins. Seed potatoes should be carefully handled to avoid unnecessary injuries.

The scab disease is so common that it needs no further comment except that scabby seed generally gives a poor crop of deformed tubers. Rhizoctonia or black scurf is known much less and will be noticed as follows:

Irregular, purple-black lumps, "black scurf," about one-sixteenth to one-eighth inch in diameter are formed on the tubers. These look like bits of dirt clinging to the skin, but they do not wash off. When wet, they no longer appead dirt-like but stand out as black specks on the brown skin of the potato. Sometimes a black, russet-like scab spot is produced when the attack is severe enough to injure the skin.

Select only sound, desirable tubers for treatment. Scabby, bruised or partially rotted tubers are unsafe. Treat seed in the following ways:

In the corrosive sublimate treatment soak the seed tubers in corrosive sublimate solution for one and one-half hours. The solution is made with four ounces of corrosive sublimate in 30 gallons of water. This treatment controls scab and black scurf. Reinfection from untreated sacks must be avoided. Disinfect these containers in the treating solution.

Corrosive sublimate crystals or the diluted solutions are deadly poisonous. Use precaution and keep this material out of the way of live stock or children. The crystals dissolve slowly in cold water, but rapidly in hot water. Treated tubers are not safe to feed to stock. Corrosive sublimate, as the name indicates attacks metals. It must be used in wooden vessels.

Potatoes should be uncut when soaked. Treatment with small lots can be readily given by use of a barrel, soaking one sack at a time.

The solution can be used four times. It loses strength due to the potatoes taking out more of the chemicals than they do of the water. After the fourth bath, make up fresh solution. The addition of one ounce of corrosive sublimate to 30 gallons of solution after each bath is dipped, keeps the treating solution at the proper strength.

MICE AND WINTER HAVE DAMAGED TREES

Orchardists should be on the watch for mice and rabbit damage. During winters of abundant snowfall when the food is scarce, these animals will eat the most appetizing materials at hand which is often the tender bark of young fruit trees. The present winter has been almost ideal for such injury and indications are that considerable damage has been done in some sections of the southern part of New England.

While it is much more satisfactory to save trees from being girdled by means of wire protectors, poisoning the rodents, mounding the trees with soil or tramping down the snow about the trunks, if girdling occurs every effort should be made to save the girdled trees by bridge-grafting.

Bridge-grafting consists of connecting the cambium layers at the top and bottom of the girdled area so that growth may be resumed and the normal functions of the tree restored. The connection is usually made with scions but suckers growing from the base of the tree may be inarched, or young trees may be planted about the base of the trees and inarched.

HINTS ON PRUNING ROSE SHRUBBERY

Care should be used in pruning garden roses and shrubbery. The flowering habit largely determines the time and method of pruning. Those which flower early should be pruned after flowering, as for instance, the golden bell or forsythia, the spring-flowering spireas, lilacs, the flowering almond, the deutzias, the Japanese or rugosa roses, the bush honeysuckle, and the mock oranges. These should be pruned after flowering by removing entirely some of the oldest canes or stems of the shrub or bush, leaving the newer one or two-year-old stems or canes. In this way we will practise a constant renewal of the flowering wood.

In the case of shrubs which flower late in the season as for instance the large flowering hydrangea, rose of sharon, late-flowering spirea, hybrid tea rose and hybrid perpetual rose, all of the group, the plan of pruning is to cut back severely. The growth of the previous season so as to induce new strong flowering shoots this year.

In pruning rambler roses the main idea is to take out the dead wood and the oldest canes which have early produced flowers. Last year's canes may also be shortened up a little and tied in position on the trellis. Hedges of privet and Japanese barberry may be shaped up to some extent at this time and given a secondary pruning of the new growth about midsummer. The idea in this case is to cause the development of many branches and a thick bush growth close to the ground.

AGENT ADVISES EARLY SOWING OF OAT CROPS

The early sowing of the oat crop should be one of the first considerations of the farmer, according to an agricultural agent. Oats are known as a shallow rooted crop, and a crop that will grow best in a cool, moist climate, and which is halted in its growth by a hot spell. Rust, to which this crop is particularly susceptible, is also a hot weather disease, and this is another advantage in early planting. It is best not to manure the land to be used to grow oats, an acid phosphate will be found more generally satisfactory.

FORMULAS FOR TREATING POTATO SEED FOR SCAB

There are two methods of treating potato seed to prevent scab and other skin diseases. First is by using a pint of formaldehyde to 50 gallons of water. The potatoes are bagged and submerged in the solution and allowed to remain there from 20 minutes to two hours, according to their condition. If the tubers are wrinkled they will absorb too much liquid if allowed to remain too long a time, which will impair their germinating powers, or the potatoes can be placed upon a floor and the same solution sprinkled over them until they are thoroughly wet, and then covered over with uncontaminated bags or blankets and allowed to remain for two hours.

The other method is to use corrosive sublimate in place of formaldehyde, only using two ounces to 30 gallons of water. This latter is more effective, but also a very deadly poison and great caution must be taken in its use.

SET OUT TREES AS EARLY AS SOIL CONDITIONS PERMIT

"How early should trees and bushes be set out?" This is a question asked by many at this time. The answer in general must be just as soon as the soil has dried out enough so that it will not puddle like clay or cement. It is a great advantage to set out fruit trees, small trees and shrubbery as early in spring as soil conditions will allow, since when this done the roots, cuts and broken ends will heal over and new root growth will begin before leaf growth starts. Top growth then will be much stronger as a result of the earlier and larger root growth.

Health Affects Coral Beads.

A belief exists among the negroes of the West Indies that the color of coral is always affected by the state of health of the wearer, becoming pale or in disease.

Mourning color in China is white.

The Oldest Game.

Checkers is among the very oldest of games if not the oldest of all. Sixteen hundred years before Christ it was played on the banks of the Nile in the same manner as it is now played. The ancient Greeks had a game which was very similar. A set of rules established for checkers in 1800 is still regarded as the standard.

From Experience.

"Isn't this a pretty slow railroad?" said Brown. "That depends on circumstances," replied Green. "The only time it seems in any great hurry is when you happen to be running to catch the train."

Peat Second Best Fuel.

Next to coal, peat is the best possible fuel. It burns longer than wood and gives more heat.

Largest organ pipes generally used are 32 feet long.

Sixteenth Century Statues.

Excavations carried on in the old cemetery of Courceboeufs (Sarthe) have led to the discovery of two statues of the Sixteenth century. One represents a seigneur armed cap-a-pie. It is executed in stone and has suffered some mutilation. The other statue is in terra cotta and life-size. It represents a woman kneeling at prayer, her hands joined, evidently a castellan's lady. The head is missing. In the Sixteenth century the castellany of Courceboeufs belonged to Diane de Meridor, countess of Montoreau.

At Life's Board.

"How varied are the guests that sit around life's board," says a writer. They range, one might remark, from supermen to nuts.—Boston Transcript.

"Goldsmiths' Notes."

Banknotes were originally called goldsmiths' notes because the bankers were all goldsmiths.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

Day's total sales, 715,000 shares.

Twenty industrials averaged 102.11, net loss .45. High 1923, 105.38; low 96.96.

Twenty railroads averaged 86.58, net gain .05. High 1923, 90.63; low, 84.63.

MARKET WAS DULL

New York, April 9.—Price movements in today's relatively dull stock market were indecisive, net losses, however, exceeding net gains at the close. Professional operators seemed disinclined to extend their commitments and the outside public, apparently acting on the advice of most of the large commission houses, was more anxious to sell stocks than to buy them.

Speculative enthusiasm on the long side of the market was dampened somewhat by the announcement of a new $10,000,000 issue of 7 per cent. preferred stock by the American Woolen company, which was unexpected, by the higher call money rates and by the relatively low tentative valuations on Great Northern and Delaware and Hudson properties fixed by the interstate commerce commission.

Announcement of a 11 per cent. wage for the day laborers of the manufacturing properties of the United States Steel corporation, which was made after the market closed, also came as a surprise. While such an increase was regarded as inevitable, it was generally believed that the announcement would be delayed until the return to this country of E. H. Gary, chairman of the corporation, who is on his way home from a two months cruise to Mediterranean ports.

Baldwin, American Locomotive, American Woolen and Pan-American closed 1 to 1 1-3 points lower but most of the other active industrial issues yielded only fractionally on the day. Sugars developed moderate strength in response to sales of Cuban raws at 5 3-4 cents a pound, a new high record for the year. Some of the automotive shares also made belated response to the reports of record breaking motor car production, Martin Parry climbing nearly 2 points and Mack Truck, 1 1-8. Chandler, Studebaker, Hudson and Hupp Motors yielded fractionally while Stewart Warner fell back 1 1-2 and Willys Overland preferred, 2 7-8.

Trading in railroad shares continued lethargic but some good buying orders were reported just under current market prices. Chesapeake and Ohio moved up 1 1-4 points on a small turnover and Great Northern preferred advanced nearly a point despite the low valuation placed on those properties by the interstate commerce commission.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent advanced to 5 in the early afternoon, and thence to 5 1-2 where it closed. The time money market was quiet with 5 1-2 per cent. the ruling rate.

Foreign exchange rates were irregular. Demand sterling eased off more than a cent, to $4.65 1-2, heaviness being attributed to the unsettled labor situation in England and unconfirmed reports that Great Britain was building up dollar credits here in anticipation of the next interest payment on her war debt. French francs advanced 12 1-3 points to 6.72 1-2 cents on reports of government support.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, April 9.—With prospects that seeding will be abnormally late in the northwest and the acreage much reduced, wheat today reached new high price records for the season. Closing quotations were unsettled at 1-4 to 3-4 net advance with May $1.23 3-4 to $1.23 7-8 and July $1.20 7-8 to $1.21. Corn and oats as well as wheat outdid the season's previous top figures for some deliveries. Corn gained 1 1-8 a 1 1-4 to 1 1-2c net, and oats 2-8 to 1-2 a 5-8c. In provisions provisions the outcome varied from 2c decline to a rise of 10c.

Increased attention to the seeding outlook for the spring wheat crop was prompted by reports that snow drifts were piled high in many sections and that a great deal of ground gave no evidence as yet of having started growth. Such conditions were said to mean that ten days or more would have to elapse before farmers throughout a large stretch of territory could do any field work. Absence of rain in western Nebraska and western Kansas together with reports of damage by green bugs in Oklahoma and Texas tended further to stimulate buying and so likewise did higher quotations at Liverpool.

Evening up operations to prepare for the government crop report eased the wheat market at times but at the last swing of values was upward again, with indications that big shorts were covering. Liberal primary receipts exercised too a little temporary bearish influence. After the close, much discussion of sentiment was shown as to how the government report should be construed, the majority of traders, however, appearing to lean to a bullish view.

General buying and scarcity of offerings lifted corn and oats.

Provisions rallied in sympathy with grain, although weak at first owing to a decline in hog values.

Foreign bonds were in fair demand, Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean 6's gaining 1 1-2 points.

Railroad mortgages continued to show improvement, with a few exceptions, but advances were confined to fractions for the most part. Chicago Great Western 4's and Union Pacific refunding 4's, each advanced a point and Delaware and Hudson refunding 4's, were up 1 3-8. Southern

TAFTVILLE

One of the prettiest early spring weddings took place Monday morning at Sacred Heart church, at 8.30, when Rev. U. O. Bellerose, the pastor, united in marriage Miss Blanche M. Frechette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Frechette of South A street, and Albert J. Miller of Worcester, Mass., at a nuptial high mass. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and Pierre Miller of Woonsocket, R. I., father of the groom was a witness As the wedding party entered the church, the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was played by Prof. Adolph Dugas, organist at the church, and during the ceremony, Ave Maria was sung by Omer Tellier. The bride was most attractive in a gown of white canton crepe, with pearl and Spanish lace trimming. She carried a large bouquet of brides roses, asters and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a necklace of pearls, the gift of the groom. The bride presented the groom a gold comb. Directly after the ceremony at the church, there was a reception and wedding breakfast served to fifty relatives and friends at the home of the brides parents. There was a display of wedding gifts, including brass furniture, cut glass and money. The happy couple left during the afternoon for their wedding trip which will take them to New York, Boston and Salem, Mass., and upon their return will be at home to their friends at 193 Hamilton avenue, Worcester, Mass. Among the out of town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. Loiselle and Miss Stella Masse of Pawtucket, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. A. Goyette and Miss Alice Boyer of Worcester, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. George Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Miller, Mr. and Mrs. G. Turcotte, Mrs. A. Godin, A. Following the devotional service with which the conference session was opened this morning, Morris E. Alling, secretary of the Federation of Churches, State of Connecticut, addressed the conference in behalf of the federation movement.

Rev. John S. Bridgford, conference treasurer, rendered his report. He said there had been fewer mistakes made this year by the men in filling out the blanks than ever before. He reported among several interesting items, the total centenary offering of the conference to be $120,208, during the past year.

Mr. F. L. Bittner, local Y. M. C. A. secretary was introduced and spoke a few words of greeting to the conference.

Rev. Wm. F. Davis was granted the retired relation. Mr. Davis had to seek lighter work by advice of his physician and it had been hoped to retain him in the effective ranks by changing his appointment. However this plan finally seemed impracticable and the above action was taken in response to Mr. Davis' renewed request. In the tender works spoken on this occasion, Bishop Burns made complimentaary reference to Rev. Charles S. Davis, a brother of Mr. Davis, whom the bishop has know very pleasantly out in the state of Montana.

W. J. Smith was named as the committee in charge of finding the graves of deceased ministers in place of Dr. E. C. Bass, resigned.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson of Washington, D. C., was introduced and addressed the conference.

Conference Notes

Bishop Burns is authority for the statement that the Indian who posed as the model for the head on the buffalo nickel is president of the board of trustees of the Methodist church in Browning, Montana. His wife is president of the Ladies' Aid society. His Indian name is Two Guns, but they are known as Mr. and Mrs. Dick Saunderson.

The conference has received royal entertainment by Rev. M. E. Genter at the church at New London, and no pains have been spared to minister to the comfort of the visitors.

Bishop Burns has been justly popular. His uniform courtesy and Christian bearing has left a pleasant memor.

METHODIST RALLY SPEAKER RAPS WET PROPAGANDA

At 7.30 Sunday night there was a patriotic mass meeting with the Hon. A. T. Miner presiding.

The first speaker was Rev. Ernest V. Claypool, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, Connecticut. His remarks were brief and he spoke more particularly concerning the great organizations throughout the world which are marshalling to destroy this great iniquitous liquor traffic and to banish it from the earth.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, corresponding secretary of the board of temperence, prohibition, and public morals, was the main speaker and his subject was "Propaganda." He said that we have found out that this word can apply to efforts to spread evil as well as to spread good. He paid his respects to the many wet organizations in America and exposed some of the methods he said they are using. They claimed (1) that the dry forces were going to enact a law against tobacco and cigarettes. But when that had died down and men had seen its falsity, they then put out that the dry people were going to try to prohibit, drinking tea and coffee. That was also tame and then they cried "Blue Laws" are going to be forced on us. Just why we have to use a color to designate a law where people can read and write is hard to explain. They they pointed out that there would be an election in November which would bury all prohibition advocates. But what were the results? We elected 164 dry advocates and 78 wet ones to congress. We elected 78 new men who are dry and 45 new men who are wet. We had—we though—3 more dry senators than before but now we have evidence that we have 9 more dry senators than ever before. Last year was a democratic year but a careful examination shows that no dry democrat was defeated. Ohio had a wet governor who was a republican and the democrats had good sense enough to nominate against him a Methodist local preacher and he defeated him. The democrats had a wet U. S. senator in the same state and the republicans had the good sense to nominate against him a Methodist local preacher and again the wets lost.

Dr. Wilson criticized the appointment of enforcement officers who are decidedly unfavorable. He said that 187 enforcement officers had been killed while only 32 "bootleggers" were killed.

There was an average of one postal employe a day during the past 18 months when Burleson was postmaster general. But when Hays became postmaster general he wrote an order that postal employes should be armed and offered a reward for the capture of any one who interfered with any postal clerk or mail carrier while handling United States mail. The result was that robbing the U. S. mails stopped and not another robbery occurred for a period of seven months. The speaker closed his discourse by discussing various phases of the problem of enforcing prohibition along the coast and outside the three mile limit.

KINDERGARTEN TEACHERS FORM STATE ASSOCIATION

Some weeks ago a questionnaire was sent to all the kindergartners in the state asking their opinions as to the need and the wisdom of forming a state association. Such an enthusiastic response was made to this appeal that a meeting was called for the purpose of organization, this meeting being held on Saturday, April 7th in the reading room of the Hartford High school under the leadership of Miss Fannie A. Smith of Bridgeport. Forty responded to the roll call, representing 15 towns.

To bring the matter promptly before the meeting and to give an opportunity for discussion, Miss May H. Noyes of New Britain made a motion that we form a Connecticut state kindergarten association. A ready response was made by those present, representing the various towns and in every case the need of such an association was stressed. Miss Ella A. Fallon of New Britain made a telling argument when she said that we needed to know one another better and come incontact with the work done by others along our special lines. The motion was unanimously carried. A nominating committee, composed of Miss Jessie I. Scranton of New Haven; Miss Mary Gillette of Hartford, and Miss Susie C. Whittlesey of Norwich, was appointed by the chair to bring in a list of officers. After some deliberation the committee presented the following names:

President, Miss Fannie A. Smith, Bridgeport; vice presidents, Miss Lola Littlehales ,New Britain; Miss Katherine Langtry, New Haven; recording secretary, Miss Anne Burr Wilson, Hartford corresponding secretary and treasurer, Miss Louise Hoyt, Bridgeport; members of executive committee, Miss Helen S. Hutchinson, Bristol; Miss Eunice Camp, Willimantic; Miss Madeline Stanners, New London; Miss Helen B. Royce, Norwich.

This report was accepted and the officers duly elected.

A committee was appointed to draft a constitution and report at the first meeting next fall. Miss Jessie I. Scranton of New Haven; Miss Ella A. Fallon of New Britain; and Miss Louise J. Greathead of Willimantic, are the members of that committee.

The interest and enthusiasm shown was most gratifying to those who were the originators of this plane and to all who wish to see the kindergarten take its rightful place in the education of future citizens of our state and of our country.

Says Dangerous Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced at Home

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice that anyone in this world can give is to get a prescription that many physicians are now prescribing.

Ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that it dissolves goitre and wens and causes them to disappear. It can be secured at any pharmacy.

NO AMERICAN HOSPITALITY FOR ANY SOVIET EMISSARY

State Department Withdraws Authorization Under Which Ekaterina Kilinin, Wife of the Russian President, Had Planned to Visit the United States—Action Taken as Result of Deep Feeling of Resentment Which Has Been Aroused by the Execution of Vicar General Butchkavitch.

Washington, April 10.—The American government again has made manifest its deep resentment and abhorrence at the political methods of Lenine and Trotzky.

As an avowed protest against the execution of the Prelate Butchkavitch, put to death because he opposed the revolutionary doctrines of the soviet, the state department has withdrawn the authorization under which Ekaterina Kalinin, wife of the Russian president, had planned to pay a visit to the United States.

In announcing their action today department officials left no doubt of their aversion to any further thought of admitting to American hospitality an emissary even indirectly connected with the soviet regime. They took the position that even the ostensibly humanitarian purpose of her visit would not counteract the feeling of repugnance against her because of the execution of the vicar general.

"The department of state," said the tersely-worded announcement, "has cancelled the authorization for a visa for Madame Kalinin, wife of the president of the so-called Soviet Republic of Russia. The presence of Madame Kalinin in this country is rendered wholly undesirable by the deep feeling which has been aroused by the execution of Vicar General Butchkavitch. The action of the department is taken especially in protest against this execution."

Even before the death sentence of the prelate was carried into effect many protests against the admission of the Russian president's wife had reached the state department, organizations which have opposed dissemination of soviet doctrines in this country predicting that she would make political capital of her proposed trip over the country in the interest of Russian belief. Administration officials here could find no legal barrier to her entry into the country, however, and the American consuls at Riga and Reval were instructed to visa her passport.

Since the execution, however, which was carried out over the objection of the civilized world and in disregard of an earnest request from the United States for a respite, these protests have greatly increased in volume.

Supplementing the short statement given out at the department, officials said the action taken would be a response to these protests as well as a protest in itself against imposition of the death penalty.

Madame Kalinin's tour of the United States was to have occupied two months, during which time she was to address various meetings under the auspices of the American committee for relief of Russian children. It was the understanding here that she was preparing to start for America in the very near future.

WAS TO APPEAL FOR AID FOR RUSSIRN CHILDREN

New York, April 10.—Madame Ekaterine Kalinin, wife of the Russian president, whose proposed visit to the United States was forbidden by the state department today, was to come here to appeal for continued aid to Russian children and for no other purpose, Paxton Hibben, executive secretary of the American-Near-East committee or the relief of Russian children, said tonight.

"She is, I believe, a member of the Greek Orthodox church and holds no office whatever under the soviet government," Mr. Hibben said. "She was to come as a representative of the Russian Red Cross which is on an equality basis with our own American Red Cross. Madame Kalinin had no more to do with the trial and execution of Vicar-General Butchkavitch than any other woman in Russia."

U. S. ONLY NATION TO SHOW GAIN IN SHIPBUILDING

New York, April 10.—The United States was the only maritime nation to show a gain in shipbuilding in the year ending April 1, Lloyd's Register of Shipping reports.

Throughout the four quarterly periods of the year the business of building ships slumped in all other countries except Great Britain, where a partial come-back has been going on since January 1.

The register indicates, however, that the British Isles, on April 1, was building 52.2 per cent. of the world's tonnage, with Germany, 12 per cent. of her nearest competitor, and the United States 6.1 per cent., occupying fifth place, instead of the sixth place held heretofore. Other nations were rated: France third; Italy fourth; Holland sixth; Japan seventh; British Dominions eighth.

On April 1 the total tonnage under actual construction, taking into account suspensions during the last quarter, was 2,531,000 gross. This represented a combined gain of 141,000 tons over January 1 but a shrinkage of 819,000 tons from the total of a year ago. In this period the United States yards went from 136,000 tons to 173,000 partially offsetting a world-slump of 958,000 tons.

From January 1 to April 1 British yards construction increased 191,000. The United States and France likewise gained; Germany lost 75,000 tons; all other countries aggregated a 50,000 ton shrinkage.

BOY ROMANCING ABOUT BEING RESCUED AT SEA

New York, April 10.—The story of Cecil Bevis who wrote his parents in Halifax that he and two other members of the crew of the Itana steamer Moncenisio, which foundered at sea February 15, had been rescued and taken to Panama City was scouted today by William Hayward of simpson, Spence and Young, agents for the Italian steamer.

"The crew list of Moncenisio which was filed with immigration authorities when she sailed from Galveston February 3 does not contain the name of Cecil Bevis," said Mr. Hayward. "Although the steamer put into Norfolk, Va., for coal eight days later I don't believe that Bevis signed on there.

"I believe that he is romancing because he does not give the names of the rescuing steamer or of the two men who were with him. We have no records of any of the 35 members of the Moncenisio's crew being rescued and believe that they were all lost."

Cecil Bevis who was found working as a laborer for a smelting company in Chrome, N. J., today denied that he had written anything about being rescued from the Moncenisio. He appeared greatly amused by the story as reported from Halifax.

BALLOON WAS BLOWN BEYOND DESTINATION

Newark, N. J., April 10.—Driven past its destination by stiff winds, a small naval balloon under command of Commander J. M. Nordet of the navy aviation station at Lakehurst, with a crew of four men, landed at the base of Eagle Rock mountain in Orange tonight. All were reported safe.

The balloon was on an observation trip and had left Lakehurst early in the afternoon with Redbank as its destination. With only ballast to control it, the baloon became prey to the winds and was blown to Orange.

GERMANY BUILDING UP HER MERCHANT MARINE

New York, April 10.—Germany is doing nothing in the way of building naval vessels, but is quickly building up her merchant marine, according to Lieutenant Commander Nobutake Kondo of the imperial Japanese navy and a member of the interallied naval control commission in Berlin, who arrived here today.

TO ASK NAVY VESSELS TO COMBAT RUM FLEET

Washington, April 10.—New measures to fight the "rum fleet" liquor smugglers hovering off the Atlantic coast, it was learned today, are being planned at prohibition headquarters here and with federal and state officials of New York and New Jersey.

Use of naval vessels to break up the rum runners from Bermuda, Havana and other nearby sources of illicit supply is under consideration and upon the return from Panama of Secretary Denby of the navy department, the plan is to be discussed with President Harding by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

Navy "Eagle" boats may be turned over to the prohibition enforcement staff, under the plans now being discussed, to supplement the regular coast guard vessels, which, in the opinion of prohibition officials, have been demonstrated to be inadequate for the task. The navy has a large number of Eagle boats and other small craft which some prohibition officers believe could be made available for a "prohibition navy."

A request for navy vessels to work against the rum runners is understood to have been deferred by Commissioner Haynes until it became evident to the country that the "rum fleets" off the Atlantic coast could not be dealt with by existing prohibition enforcement agencies. Public support for sucha step is believed at prohibition headquarters to be now crystalized.

OPPOSITION TO LADY ASTOR'S PROHIBITION BILL

London, April 10 (By the A. P.).—Considerable opposition to Lady Astor's bill to prohibit the sale of intoxicants to persons under 18 developed today when, amid lively scenes, the measure was again considered by the standing committee of the house of commons.

Lady Astor received an early rebuke from the chairman, who happened to be the laborite J. H. Thomas, a recent guest at the Astor home. Walter Greaves-Lord, conservative, moved an amendment exempting beer and cider from the operations of the bill. Lady Astor opposed this vigorously, saying the amendment was intended to wreck the bill.

All the amendments, she went on, seemed to be wrecking amendments, except those in the name of J. E. Remer, conservative, who, she asserted, "seemed to be the village donkey." On being called to order for this remark, she withdrew it.

In spite of the strength of the opposition, Lady Astor won the tilt, the amendment being rejected by a vote of 27 to 19.

21-YEAR SENTENCE FOR FORMER BANK CASHIER

Cincinnati, O., April 10.—A. H. Penfield, former cashier of the Springfield (Ohio) National bank, who pleaded guilty to seven of twelve counts in an indictment charging embezzlement of the bank's funds, was sentenced to serve twenty-one years in the federal prison at Atlanta by Federal Judge Hickenlooper late today.

The former banker made no comment when Judge Hickenlooper passed sentence upon him.

He will be taken to Atlanta, probably tomorrok.

PROMISES TO MAKE NEW YORK "DRY" OR BUST

New York, April 10.—Federal Prohibition Commissioner Canfield today warned Broadway that his forces would make New York dry or bust.

"And we won't bust," he added.

The warning was contained in a formal statement issued after he had conferred with Assistant United States Attorney Cohen regarding the government's plans to institute more injunction suits in order to padlock for a year cabarets violating the Volstead act.

"Fish" Convicts Are Granted Error Writ

Men Are Serving Sentences in the Massachusetts House of Correction—"Fish Trust" Case.

Washington, April 10.—A writ of error has been granted by Justice Holmes of the supreme court to Frederick M. Dyer and others convicted in the courts of Massachusetts and sentenced to varying terms in the house of correction at Boston for violating a state law prohibiting combinations in commodities in general use. The special charge against them was that they had combined in the fish business for the purpose of destroying the trade and business of certain persons and firms engaged in selling fresh fish.

It also was charged they had created a monopoly in fresh fish within the state.

Dyer and his associates contended that in the trial court prejudicial evidence had been improperly admitted. The supreme judicial court of the state decided that certain evidence had been admitted improperly so far as charges based on the common law were concerned but that the evidence could properly be considered in determining whether the law in question had been violated.

An application for a writ of certiorari was filed in the supreme court, but an extensive that a review of the case might not be obtained by that means, counsel for the accused sought and obtained a writ of error. It is expected that the supreme court will decide tomorrow whether it will issue an order suspending the execution of the sentences imposed by the Massachusetts court until it has an opportunity to pass upon the legal questions raised.

WRIT WILL NOT INTERFERE WITH SERVING OF SENTENCES

Boston, April 10.—The writ of error granted by the supreme court of the United States today in the case of members of Bay State Fishing Company—popularly known as the Fish Trust—found guilty by a jury of effecting a monopoly in fish, will not in the present stage of the federal proceedings interfere with the sentences now being served by 15 men at the Deer Island House of Correction, it was understood here today. Application for a stay of execution is a secondary step planned by counsel for the convicted men that may be taken at Washington tomorrow.

F. Munroe Dyer, of New York, and 14 Boston men, bankers or dealers in fish who participated in the operations of the trust, now are confined at Deer Island House of Correction under sentence of ten months or five months each at hard labor. Of the 14 who were brought there last Friday, six have been declared too ill or weak to work. The others have been given light duties, the fifteenth of the group, Simeon Atwood, Jr., has been at the island jail nearly two months and is almost eligible for parole. He accepted sentence at a time when his fellow defendant were still continuing the four-year fight against serving the sentence that was twice imposed.

The evidence on which the fish trust defendants were found guilty showed that through the operations of the Bay State Fishing Company competition in the extensive fish business at this port was virtually strangled, prices were regulated and the supply controlled, so that when meat supplies dwindled and the public was driven to fish in war-time, purchases from the trust were at prices of 10 cents a pound instead of a few cents a pound some time previously.

ADMISSION OF BIGAMY BY 14-YEAR-OLD GIRL

New York, April 10.—A bigamist at fourteen by her own admission, is Leonilda Cupolo, who was turned over to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children by Magistrate Hatting today after her mother and husband No. 2 had been arraigned on a charge of aiding and abetting in a bigamous marriage.

Leonilda calmly told the court that she had married Fred Chiffo, of Jersey City, on March 1, without taking the trouble to get unmarried from Tony Cerbioto, whom she had wed ten days earlier.

"I love them both," she said. "They are very kind to me. I like Tony a whole lot, but when he went away and I didn't see him any more, I married Fred. He is nice, too."

MOTORING EVERGLADES AT RATE ONE MILE A DAY

Tampa, Fla., April 10.—With thirty miles of bad lands ahead of them, the members of the Tamiami Trail Blazers' party are approaching Miami at the rate of one mile per day, according to word received in Fort Myers last night from three Indian runners, who were taken along by the motorists upon their departure for the east coast.

The Indian runners stated that the motorists were building bridges constantly and have in prospect thirty days of travel yet.

The party left Fort Myers Wednesday in nine cars, to make their way to Miami over the Tamiami trail. There are 19 men and five women in the party.

DROVE AUTOMOBILE THAT KILLED OLIVER C. BISSON

Lowell, Mass., April 10.—Elmore L. Pierce of Dracut, confessed to the police today that he drove the automobile that struck and fatally injured Oliver C. Bisson, an aged violin teacher, last night, and that he took the dying man in his car, drove several miles to a remote residential section and concelled him in a clump of bushes. Bisson, who was found by a young woman soon after he had been placed in the shrubbery, died at a hospital this morning. He was 80 years old, and a Civil war veteran.

MOVING VAN SEIZED WITH 4,000 BOTTLES OF REAL BEER

Hartford, April 10.—Federal prohibition agents brought to this city late this afternoon a huge moving van loaded with more than 4,000 bottles of real beer which they had seized at the point of guns near the state line at Thompsonville after the driver had ignored a command to halt. William R. Herbert and William Dunford, both of Springfield, Mass., who were on the truck, were taken into custody.

Liam Lynch, Leader Of Irish Rebels, Dead

Succumbed to Wound Received When Captured—May Mean Collapse of the Rebellion.

Dublin, April 10 (By the A. P.).—Liam Lynch, chief of staff of the irregular forces, wounded and captured by Free State troops this morning, died at 8.45 o'clock tonight.

Lynch's wound was in the abdomen.

The death of Liam Lynch is regarded here as heralding the final collapse of the irregulars. Lynch was the chief of staff of the irregular army and a dominant figure in its army councils. He had a powerful influence over Eamon De Valera, with whom he worked in concert. Both men signed all important decisions and virtually constituted the republican directorate.

When gaps were caused by the capture of his men, Lynch always was able to fill their places. His assistant was Liam Deasy, who, after he was arrested some time ago and the death sentence imposed upon him, issued an appeal for peace. Deasy's place was filled by Con Moloney, who since has been captured. Lynch then found another man of his own temper to take Moloney's place, and both Lynch and this man voted at the recent army meeting against the peace proposals of Most Rev. John Harty, archbishop of Cashel.

Lynch fighting against the British, Lynch and Deasy were chief assistants and close friends of the late Michael Collins. Later, however, Collins was unable to persuade them to accept the Anglo-Irish treaty. Lynch was captured during the fighting at the Four Courts building in Dublin in June of last year but was released, it is alleged, on parole, which he broke.

A despatch received at army headquarters from Clonmel tonight said De Valera and the Countess Markievicz, and also Dan Breen and others who were with Lynch, are believed to have successfully evaded pursuit.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF IRISH HEIRARCHY

Dublin, April 10 (By the A. P.).—Importance is attached to a meeting of the Irish heirarchy held here today. It is understood that a resolution having an important bearing on peace was carried.

PEACE PROPOSALS MADE TO REPUBLICAN LEADERS

London, April 10.—The Dublin correspondent of the Press association, reporting a meeting of the heirarchy, which followed several days of private discussions among individual bishops, says it is understood some tentative proposals looking to peace have been submitted to Eamon De Valera and Austin Stack, the republican leaders.

The proceedings today were private, and no statement was issued, but, according to the correspondent, a sanguine feeling prevails, especially as a secret meeting of the republican executive committee was in progress at the same time, not far distant.

(When the peace resolution proposed at a meeting of the republican executive committee on March 23 was defeated by one vote, it was agreed to hold another meeting in three weeks' time to consider the position further. This adjourned meeting is the one to which the correspondent probably has reference.)

The capture of Liam Lynch and the publication of additional documents showing the hopelessness of the republican cause, together with other recent incidents, combine to make more peaceful the atmosphere in Ireland than at any time since the irregular campaign started.

CANDIDACY TALK PREMATURE, PRESIDENT HARDING SAYS

Washington, April 10.—President Harding took occasion today to let it be known emphatically that he regards the present political discussions as to his candidacy in 1924 as most premature and furthermore he will forego his contemplated trip rather than make it as a political leader.

Mr. Harding, it was said at the White House, has insistently adhered to the proposition that the present is not the time to discuss a possible candidacy in 1924 and that the president has a work to perform and a duty to fulfill unhampered by political discussions and predictions. Put in another way it was asserted that Mr. Harding regarded it as unfortunate that a president could not for at least the first three years of his administration proceed without having to divert a portion of his time and energy to political matters.

White House officials in making plain and also more emphatic the attitude of the president clearly were endeavoring to throw cold water on the political discussions which since the adjournment of congress and during the absence of the president from the capital have been waxing warmer and warmer.

Upon the diminution of political talk depends whether the president will make the trip he is planning to the Pacific coast and Alaska during the summer. He was said to be making all plans for the trip starting about June 20 and reaching Alaska about July 10, but he also was said to prefer remaining in Washington, "in communication with Laddie Boy," to a trip which would put him before the people as a candidate for re-election.

GOV. TEMPETON TO HOLD RECEPTION TODAY

Hartford, April 10.—Governor Templeton spent a busy day here in conferences, but did not make any announcement of appointments which are being waited for daily. Among those who conferred with him, were J. Henry Roraback, chairman of the republican state central committee and Harry E. MacKenzie, state prohibition director. The governor will hold an informal reception tomorrow for members of the assembly and their families.

NEW YORK ALDERMEN VOTE TO CURB "HUMAN FLIES"

New York, April 10.—The board of aldermen today adopted an ordinance prohibiting the scaling of skyscraper walls by "Human Flies." The vote was 58 to 1.

Vice Chairman Collins, who introduced the measure, referred specifically to the recent death of Harry F. Young who lost his foothold while scaling a wall of the Martinique hotel, while advertising a moving picture.

BRITISH GOV'T DEFEATED IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

Vote Was 145 to 138 on a Question of Treatment of Former Service Men—Vote Was on a Mere Technical Point, But the Government Sustained a Surprise in the Defeat—Labor Members Greeted the Result With Shouts of "Resign!" "Send for the Premier"—The Government Discussed the Situation Late Last Night.

London, April 10.—(By the A. P.)—The government sustained a surprise defeat in the house of commons tonight by a small majority, seven in a thin house, on a mere technical point. This, in ordinary circumstances the government might ignore, but in view of the fact that once before during its brief life the ministry had a narrow escape in the house, in addition to several bad reverses in bye-elections, it is impossible to say at the present time what attitude the ministers will take with regard to this defeat.

The debate on imperial trade had ended, and a question arose concerning the salaries paid to former service men entering the civil service. The labor leaders were displeased at the government's stand on this question, and as a protest opposed the motion that the speaker leave the chair to enable a discussion of the estimates. This motion, usually carried as a matter of course, was, to everybody's surprise, defeated, 145 to 138. The figures were greeted with intense excitement and labor shouts of "Resign!" "Send for the premier!"

Most of the ministers were absent, when the excitement subsided; J. Ramsay MacDonald, the labor leader, asked what the government proposed to do, and suggested that the proceedings should be adjourned.

Neville Chamberlain, president of the ministry of health, thereupon moved adjournment of the house, which was carried amid derisive opposition cheers and renewal of the scenes which greeted the original announcement.

The members streamed into the lobbies, excitedly discussing the prospects of the resignation of the government. According to some liberal members an adverse vote on this particular question is unprecedented and must be fatal to the government.

This opinion was expressed in the house by William M. Pringle on the motio nto adjourn, he insisting that it was a vote of non-confidence and that "the row of extinct volcanoes on my treasury bench must disappear."

The cabinet is sitting late tonight to discuss the situation.

The general opinion uon the government side is that the speaker may make a decision which will provide an issue from the difficulty for the government, but it is felt that, because of Mr. Bonar Law's health and the general difficult position facing the government, anything may happen.

The defeat of the government leaves a curious situation. By refusing to move the speaker from the chair to discuss the estimates, the house has practically refused supplies, and, according to parliamentary rules, a motion to move the, speaker cannot be put again in the same session.

The ministers therefore are confronted with the duty of terminating the present session and proceeding to a new session, with a formal speech from the throne and other formalities, unless the speaker can extricate them from the dilemma by overriding the existing regulations. According to latest reports, the speaker after consultation with the ministers, is prepared to accept another motion on Thursday, and thus the resignation of the government may be avoided.

STUYVESANT FISH DIED OF HEART DISEASE

New York, April 10.—Stuyvesant Fish, veteran financier and railroad man, today dropped dead of heart disease as he entered the National Park Bank to attend a directors' meeting.

Mr. Fish, who was in his 72nd year, was chatting with Richard Delafield, chairman of the board, when he was stricken.

Dr. Walter P. Anderson of Park avenue, the family physician, answered an emergency call, but on his arrival pronounced Mr. Fish dead.

Mr. Fish, who centered his attention on banking after retiring as head of the Illinois Central Railroad, worsted in his fight with E. H. Harriman, was in fairly good health until a month ago. Then a severe cold weakened him, but he continued to attend to business over the telephone. Today's sunshine encouraged him to leave his home earlier than usual to attend the directors' meeting.

Up to the moment of his death Mr. Fish had no idea of the condition of his heart. Doctors, however, had warned members of his family that his heart action was weak and they did their best to prevent him from over-exerting himself.

Mr. Fish, whose father, Hamilton Fish, served as secretary of state in President Grant's cabinet, was for many years a forceful and picturesque figure in finance, while his wife, until her death a few years ago, ruled New York society as leader of the "Four Hundred."

Mr. Fish was born in this city in June, 1851, just as his father was retiring from the governorship. He was educated at public schools and at Columbia. He had refused to consider a life of idleness, although his father was a man of great wealth, and his first employment was in the New York offices of the Illinois Central when he was a youth of twenty. He later became a director of the road, then treasurer, and rapidly made his way to the top of the organization.

Mr. Fish had a magnificent estate at Newport, "Crossways," which he recently sold, and an estate at Garrison, across the river from West Point. He married Marion Graves Anthon of New York in 1876. Mrs. Fish became the leader of the New York society two decades ago, upon the death of Mrs. Astor. She was one of those who protested against the custom of American women in sending abroad for all of their ideas.

The ball room in the Fish home on East Seventy-eighth street, which was designed by Stanford White, is one of the largest private ball rooms in the city, and in it Mrs. Fish held affairs, many of which have become social history.

NEW YORK POLICEMEN CHARGED WITH OPPRESSION

New York, April 10.—Police Inspector Bolan, and Patrolman James Gallagher were held by Magistrate Corrigan today in bail of $5 each for trial in special sessions on charges of oppression.

The complaints were mad eby Samuel Green, manager of the Moulin Rouge cabaret in Broadway where Gallagher was stationed on March 24 and where he sniffed and tasted liquor refreshments of patrons until April 5.

West Side court was filled with cabaret officials and patrons and a loud cheer went up in the corridors when the magistrate announced his decision to hold Inspector Bolan and Patrolman Gallagher.

DIED FROM RUPTURE OF A BLOOD VESSEL

Waterbury, April 10.—Cornelius Mahoney, 63, died tonight from a rupture of a blood vessel in the brain caused when he saw a crowd of persons standing in front of his home at 55 State street when it caught fire at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon.

Fear that some misfortune had befallen his wife and daughter, whom he had left alone in the house but a short time before, caused Mr. Mahoney to receive a shock, it is believed. He fell to the sidewalk and never regained consciousness.

His family is homeless due to the fire. Painters using a torch to burn paint off the outside of the building caused the fire.

ACQUITTED OF CONSPIRACY TO SELL 100 BARRELS ALCOHOL

New Haven, April 10.—Edward Derigibus of Bridgeport and three others accused of conspiracy to sell 100 barrels of alcohol contrary to law, were acquitted late this afternoon by a jury in the United States district court. A fifth defendant, John Krautter of Bridgeport, was acquitted yesterday by direction of Judge Howe.

In his charge to the jury, Judge Howe explained the law of entrapment. He instructed the jurors to return a verdict of not guilty if it had been shown that the defendants would not have entered the conspiracy to sell the liquor without having been led on by the government agents. He said that while federal agents had the right to use all their cunning to detect violations of the law, they were not justified in persuading others to violate it.

In summing up, defense counsel maintained that the four defendants had been led into the alleged conspiracy by the federal agents, while Assistant United States District Attorney Cohen defended the methods used by the agents in obtaining their evidence.

In addition to Derigibus, the men acquitted were Frederick L. Kirk, Bridgeport; Michael Delohery, Jr., Danbury, and William J. O'Brien, Stamford.

M'ALLISTER, "FLYING COP," CHARGED WITH PERJURY

New York, April 10.—Detective Bob McAllister, widely known in sports circles as the "Flying Cop," was arrested on a charge of perjury at Magistrate Corrigan's order today after he had testified concerning a raid he led yesterday on the wine cellars of Charles F. Zittel, publisher of Zit's Weekly.

McAllister testified that he did not use any force in entering the Zittel cellar, but there was enough evidence from other witnesses, including the superintendent of the apartment house to convince the court that McAllister had smashed in the door of the wine cellar although he displayed no search and seizure warrant.

At the same time Magistrate Corrigan dismissed the complaint against Zittel.

McAllister holds the National A. A. U. senior 100 yard championship and also has figured spectacularly as an indoor sprinter.

Constantinople, April 10.—(By The A. P.)—News has been received from Trebizond of the death there of Mrs. Olive Crawford, of Hartford, Conn., from typhus, contracted while engaged in relief work among the refugees. Her husband, Lyndon Crawford, died in the same city during the Russian occupation in the great war while engaged in similar work, and Mrs. Crawford volunteered to carry on his duties.

This is the fourth death among the ranks of the American workers doing refugee work for the Near East relief since the Smyrna disaster.

He was charged with having taken $22.50 from the cash drawer of a candy store while he had sent the cashier to get him a dime's worth of candy from another part of the shop. Peter came to New York to visit an uncle with whom he was staying.

NEW YORK MUSICIANS REACH AN AGREEMENT

New York, April 10.—The often-threatened and long-predicted agreement between the American Federation of Musicians and the Musical Mutual Protective union became a reality tonight when it was announced that the A. F. of M. had granted local autonomy to the independent union. The action averts a general strike among musicians in New York theatres.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
81 Church Street Telephone 1405

At the regular weekly meeting of the Willimantic Rotary club Tuesday noon over which President Valentine L. Murphy presided, Thomas Williams of Trenton, N. J., "Uncle" Robert Torsch, Howard Foster of the Remington-Hudson Company of Hartford and Thomas Stanton of the New London Rotary club were the guests. "Jim" Bath introduced Robert Torsch as escaing from the Canadian wheat fields. As he is leaving this city to locate in New London by May 1st, the resignation of Samuel Feldman was accepted with much regret.

Treasurer Herbert W. Huber read the annual report and it was accepted with a vote of thanks. Included in the report were figures for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1923. The five directors were then elected by popular ballot with Jeremiah E. Sullivan and Raymond A. Parker acting as tellers. At a previous meeting the total membership of the club had been placed on nomination.

The following directors were chosen: James P. Mustard, James P. Bath, Harry W. Standish, Aime J. Martineau and John F. Ahern.

After hearing Treasurer Huber read a list of members of the club who had paid fines for the wrong use of titles during the past two years and also the amounts which they had paid, Fred D. Jordan introduced a resolution by which all those who had not paid fines in excess of fifty cents during that time be taxed that amount, payable immediately. A hard fought campaign ensued with the result that the motion was lost and "Jim" Bath and "Doc" Hendry were each fined twenty-five cents for errors made during the excitement. Action was passed by which "Doc" Hendry was officially christened "Doc."

At the previous meeting Dr. William E. Hendry and Professor Richard E. Dodge of Connecticut Agricultural college were precipated into a contest during the course of their initiatory ceremony and the former won out so that the "Prof" was required to give his life history at Tuesday's meeting.

Professor Dodge is a farmer, geologist, geographer, teacher and the author of the geography which bears his name. He taught at Harvard for four years and at Columbia university for twenty-one years. Becoming interested in county agent and farm extension service work he accepted a position at Connecticut Agricultural college.

It was voted to extend an expression of sympathy to George W. Hickey for him recent bereavement caused by the loss of his mother.

Tuesday's meeting marked the close of President "Val" Murphy's service as the head of the club and Vice President James P. Mustard presented him with a purse containing sixty dollars in gold. "Val" made a few timely remarks in which he thanked the members for their gift and their hearty co-operation during his presidency.

Care of the Hair

A New York woman says: "I have used Parisian sage two weeks, and my hair has wonderfully increased in beauty, seems much heavier, and is entirely free of dandruff." Lee & Osgood Co. guarantees it.

THERE is no advertising medium in Eastern Connecticut equal to The Bulletin for business results.

The meeting was closed in the usual manner.

The employes of the local plant of the Quidnick-Windham Cotton Manufacturing company will be benefited by an increase to take effect on April 30th, according to notices posted in the mills Tuesday and which read as follows: "There will be an increase in the wages paid by this company beginning Monday, April 30th. Signed, Walter B. Knight, Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing Company."

About 375 operatives are affected by the increase at the local mills and about 400 employes at the company plant in Quidnick, R. I. Although no amount was stated it is thought that the increase will compare with those announced recently in other New England cotton textile companies.

The higher wages constitute the first announcement of that nature in the textile industry in this city since June 17, 1920. In January, 1921, there was a wage reduction of 22 1-2 per cent.

Chief of Police Daniel J. Killourey who was retired on half pay by a vote of the board of aldermen at the regular monthly meeting Monday night and who celebrated the thirty-third anniversary of his appointment on the force, was born March 14, 1861, 62 years ago in County Clare, Ireland. At the age of five years his parents emigrated to this country and shortly after the family came to Willimantic. He is the dean of the guardians of the peace in this city and one of the few long term service men of the police departments in Eastern Connecticut. When a young man he was a prominent athlete and at his present age he is hale and hearty and in fine condition.

Chief Killourey attended the Old Natchaug Grammar school at the Goshen district in the town of Hampton, and at the age of eleven he took a position in the old Willimantic Linen company, beginning in the box shop and working in the dyeing department when he had reached his majority. In the 80's he resigned and with his late brother, John Killourey, he went into the livery and undertaking business. "Dan" and John were the gasoline street light caretakers for several years and the former tells of cold experienced during the blizzard of '88.

On April 7, 1890, Chief Killourey was appointed on the police force by a board of republican burgesses. He was at that time and is yet a democrat. No mention need be made of the sterling quality of the policemen in those days as all have heard of the rough and hardy gangs which they had to control.

He served under the following captains: Fred Clark, now of Providence; Henry S. Hills, deceased; William Hillhouse of Rutherford, N. J.; Frank Newell and Edgar H. Richmond. On February 1, 1900, Chief Killourey was appointed lieutenant by Mayor W. D. Grant, following the resignation of Captain Hillhouse who was succeeded by Lieutenant Richmond. In June 1911 the title of captain of police was dropped upon a suggestion of Mayor Daniel P. Dunn.

Chief Richmond resigned in the spring of 1917 and Mayor Charles A. Gates named Lieutenant Killourey as the head of the department.

Chief Killourey is rated today as one of the most efficient officers in this state.

Much interest is involved locally in the purchase of D. S. Marsh and Company's music store on State street, New London by the United Talking Machine Company. Samuel Feldman, manager of the local branch closed the deal. The new purchase is the fourth store opened by Mr. Feldman for his company and on May 1st he will take possession of the new locality and assume the management of the New London branch store which is one of the oldest stores in New London.

Mr. Feldman completes four years and three months as manager of the local store and while here he made a wide circle of friends.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Willimantic Trust company was held Tuesday forenoon at 9 o'clock at the banking quarters in the Jordan block and was largely attended. The institution is in a fine financial condition according to the report of the officers.

The following directors were selected: Clifford J. Alpaugh, John E. Brick, Arthur H. Benton, E. Frank Bugbee, Henry A. Bugbee, Dan H. Curtis, George S. Elliott, Leslie F. Hartson, Robert T. Jones, Fred D. Jordan; Lewellyn J. Storrs, Charles W. Wheeler and Henry R. Woodward. At the meeting of the directors the election of officers resulted as follows: President, Fred D. Jordan; vice presidents, E. Frank Bugbee and Clifford J. Alpaugh; secretary, George H. Gurley; treasurer, Herbert W. Huber; assistant treasurer, George H. Gurley; teller, Harold Mason.

The funeral services for Nathaniel L. Knowlton were held from the late home in West Ashford at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Rev. B. C. Bugbee, pastor of the Warrenville Baptist church officiated. Burial followed in the Knowlton cemetery in Ashford. The bearers were Howard Jacobs, Henry Knowlton, Robert Knowlton, and Fred M. Wright. The arrangements were in charge of Avery and Vaudt successor to Jay M. Shepard.

At the regular monthly meeting of the board of aldermen held Monday evening City Treasurer John B. Edgerton read the minutes of the previous meeting and the report of the chief of police, which showed a total of 25 arrests for the month of March. The report of Street Superintendent Irving M. Ford showed the expenditures of the department for the past month to amount to $1,261.12.

A petition from Solomon Belanger for extension of the water mains on High street was referred to the water committee for investigation and report. The sewer committee will investigate and report on the matter of installing sewers on Walnut and Washington streets in answer to a petition signed by nine residents. A petition signed by the lieutenant and patrolmen of the police force asking for a revision of their salaries was referred to the police committee.

The street committee are to investigate and report on the petition of Percila Brintamour, who asked that two maple trees abutting on her avenue be cut down. A damage claim of $300 was read in which Michael Mellinga of Chapman street stated that water had damaged his property. The matter was referred to the committee on claims. The petition of the Congregation of the Sons of Israel for a concrete sidewalk in front of their property on Bank street was referred to the sidewalk committee. A resolution authorizing the mayor to borrow $5,000 to defray current expenses of the city was adopted. Another resolution was adopted authorizing the street committee to advertise for bids for sidewalk construction. Alderman Jacobs introduced a resolution authorizing the street committee to cause the permanent paving of Main street for about 300 feet and extending westerly of the present permanent pavement.

The week beginning April 26 was named as Cleanup week by a resolution introduced by Alderman Roy which was adopted by the board and referred to the committee on streets. The water and fire committees were authorized to cause the installation of a hydrant on Ash avenue, and the water committee was instructed to extend the water pipe 200 feet on Chestnut and 125 feet on Brown avenue. As the result of resolutions introduced by Alderson Jacobson the employes of the street, water and sewer departments who were receiving 36 cents per hour will now be paid 40 cents per hour and one employe of the sewer department who was receiving 39 cents per hour is to have an increase to 43 cents per hour. The monthly bills were read and accepted, following which a recess was taken.

The police and street committees are to investigate the parking of jitneys and taxi vehicles on the city streets. It was stated that the members of the police department were dissatisfied that they were called out so often to march in street parades where a small delegation of their department would suffice. The aldermen stated that it was poor policy to call the patrolmen off duty and cause them to march in parades on so many occasions. No immediate action was taken. Alderman Flynn inquired as to the receipt of payment on back water rents and it was announced after a final warning the water would be shut off if payments were not made. Adjournment was taken at 9.45 o'clock, and Mayor Gates said that the city meeting would be held in the town hall April 23.

At the morning session of police court Tuesday Alex Malackalski of Packerville was charged with taking a child from its lawful custodian. The legal technicalities involved in the case were discussed by the attorneys previous to the session. Mary Karatina, of No. 136 Chapman street, the mother of the child, a seven year old boy told the police officials that Malackalski was the father of the child but that they were not married. She had married in Poland where her husband died and left her with three children who are now in that country. She later came to this country and became acquainted with Malackalski. A compact was formed and after living together for some time a child was born to them. She claimed that he often beat her and he had once been arrested for assaulting her in North Franklin. They have been separated for over a year and on March 24, last, Malackalski came to her home on Chapman street and on the pretext that he was to outfit the boy with new clothes he took him off to Packerville.

The meeting of the child and mother was most sensational despite the hookers and the place of meeting. The boy showed a return affection for his mother, but some surprise was expressed when he kissed his father. Mrs. Karatina said that Malackalski had wanted to marry her but she had declined the offer. The accused agreed to allow the child to remain with its mother and the case was nolled on payment of costs which amounted to $21.

The April meeting of the directors of the Willimantic Welfare Bureau was held in the office of the organization on Valley street and was attended by about six members of the board. President M. E. The contractors have been working on roads in Columbia and vicinity for the past three years and at the present time are engaged in state road work between Columbia and Hebron. The Columbia tax list shows that the firm owns three auto trucks, stone crusher, boiler for loading and a steam road roller. The taxes amount to $77.96 with interest of $6.96 on the list of 1921 which the company have neglected to pay although legally warned, according to Tax Collector Eva Collins. Attachment papers were served Tuesday on the loading boiler and steam roller, and the case is returnable before Justice of the Peace, Hubert P. Collins, on Monday April 16.

The following is the committee appointed: John Moriarty, F. McGillicuddy; Leo Normandin, Joseph Meikle, George Timmins, C. M. Burdick and Thomas O'Brien. DRINK WATER WHEN KIDNEYS HURT YOU

Take Glass of Salts If Your Back Aches or Bladder Troubles You

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

HOW TO SLEEP ON A BARE FLOOR

IT is more a matter of SLEEP, than of bed or board.

Some people can sleep sitting up, standing up, even while walking.

Many people can't sleep in the softest of downy beds; and all of us suffer occasionally from nerve-racking, wearing, tiring wakefulness at night.

There is always a reason for sleeplessness. Usually, it is a "sour" stomach, a liver that has "lain down" on the job, congested bowels, or biliousness.

Then, just before retiring, take Beecham's Pills. They soothe an uneasy stomach, encourage the organs of digestion and elimination to natural activity, and assure restful sleep no matter what!

DODGE BROTHERS TYPE-A SEDAN

Its dependability is taken for granted—its economy of operation is proverbial.

Comfort, as a rule, is directed to the richness of its fittings, and the dignified beauty of its coach work.

This beauty is not a superficial thing. It goes much deeper than mere external adornments.

Like all creations of genuine excellence, it emanates from the honest value which Dodge Brothers have built into the car.

You sense it in the depth and comfort of the seats—richly upholstered in genuine mohair velvet. It makes itself known the instant you close the doors—which snap solidly shut, like the doors of a safe. It announces unmistakably from every line and curve of the sturdy body.

It becomes most evident when you discover that in smart company, where a air of less distinction would appear at its worst, Dodge Brothers Type-A Sedan appears at its best.

PITTSFIELD HILLIES REPORT AND HAVE SHORT PRACTICE YESTERDAY

Eighteen clean cut athletes members of the Pittsfield baseball squad reported to Manager Art Wilson yesterday at the Wauregan hotel and were assigned the rooms which they will occupy during their two weeks of spring training in this city preparatory to the opening of the Eastern league season. This is a little over half the squad that will be here during the next two weeks and others will report to Manager Wilson today.

Tuesday was devoted largely to registering and reporting but in the afternoon thirteen of the players under Manager Wilson and Business Manager Henry J. Frank, who will be with the team during the next two weeks, went to the fairgrounds for a little limbering up work. The diamond was in better shape than was expected and with a few more drying days will be in mid-season condition. The boys tossed the ball around and hit a few balls but the chill winds that swept across the open spaces sent the squad back to the hotel after an hour's work.

The boys apparently had no fear of sore muscles and there was no signs of spring fever among them for they tore into the practice with vim and vigor. Today however will bring the old lineament out of the bags and many sore muscles will be the result of yesterday's pastiming. The work on Tuesday shed little light on the ability of the team or did any individual stand out from the rest although one or two showed that they could hit the old apple on the nose if it came across to their liking.

Manager Wilson said that he was very much pleased with Norwich from what little he had seen of it and was very well satisfied with the playing field and the hotel accomodations. Mr. Frank also spoke highly of the city and the grounds where his boys are to get into fighting trim. Manager Wilson said last evening that as yet he could say nothing regarding the calibre of players that he had as the practice yesterday did not give him much opportunity to get a line on the material but said that all the players came to him highly recommended.

The first real work will start this morning when the boys will get in the harness to do their stuff for the approval of Wilson's critical eye. Wilson has mapped out his schedule which calls for two hours work in the morning and two hours in the afternoon. The morning practice will be plenty of work and practice games between the regulars and the Yannigans will take place nearly every day. On Sunday there will be a real game between the regulars and Bill O'Leary's team. O'Leary expects to have a good team here Sunday and is trying to get Carroll of Holy Cross to do the mound work.

The players that reported were Johnny Tillman, pitcher of last year's team, Colonel Snover, also a pitching mainstay of the 1922 team, Freddie Gallagher, the high school phenom secured from Bridgeport, Babe Demers, the North Adams hurler who tried out early last season and Joe Batcheider of the Boston Twilight League, comprise the pitchers. Besides Manager Wilson, Walt Campbell was the only catcher that reported Tuesday but Harvey Russell, formerly Bridgeport and New London catcher is expected to put in an appearance today. The infielders that signed the register Tuesday were Eddie Zimmerman, utility infielder of last year who is going to make a strong bid for the keystone position against the youngsters this season; Charles Hewitt of Waltham, H. J. Tully of Boston, Ted Owen of Elmira, N. Y., Charlie Schlenger and Gene Campbell. The outfielders are Fred Smith of Troy, Milt Christe, Danny Sullivan and Joe Leary formerly with Albany.

NON-SPORTING EVENTS ELIMINATED FROM OLYMPICS

Rome, April 10 (By the A. P.).—Only athletics in which the element of sport predominates will make up the programs for the 1924 Olympic games which are to be held in the Colombes stadium, in the suburbs of Paris. Many of the events of a non-sporting character, which seriously handicapped the American teams in previous games, because the Americans had no entrants in them, have been eliminated from the official program which was published today.

The program gives the competitive events as winter sports, football, polo, fencing, field and track competition, boxing, wrestling, rowing, the Pentathlon, tennis, swimming, shooting, gymnastics, cycling, yachting and equestrian games.

Colonel Kentish, the British representative on the international Olympic committee, said that every effort had been made to keep the events of the Olympic games within the realm of athletics. He was sorry that hockey did not appear on the program, but this sport had been eliminated after the committee's meeting at Lausanne.

A long discussion occurred today during the session of the international committee on the definition of what constitutes an amateur. The Swedish delegate said their athletes demanded pay for competing, owing to the vast crowds that all types of athletic contests were attracting. They requested that a portion of the receipts of sporting events held in various countries be turned over to the athletes, inasmuch as the athletes were responsible for the attendance of large crowds of spectators.

The committee after hearing the Swedish viewpoint approved a resolution that the status of what constitutes an amateur should be left to each country. It was decided, however, that it was the principle of the committee that the payment of money to any athlete competing in Olympic games could not be permitted.

In an effort to insist on clean sport, a resolution was approved by the committee creating a jury of honor, which is to sit in judgment on all alleged unsportsmanlike acts during Olympic games. This jury will have complete power, even to the extent of barring forever from Olympic games in any country, persons guilty of unsportsmanlike practices during the holding of Olympic games. The resolution provided that the executive committee of the Olympic games will automatically become the jury of honor during the games.

Tomorrow the international committee will be received by Pope Pius.

At tomorrow afternoon's session of the committee discussion will be begun on the question of admitting nationals of former enemy countries to participation in the 1924 games. Colonel Kentish, who commanded a British brigade during the war, said he was of opinion that all the ex-soldiers now were agreed that the Germans and Austrians should be readmitted to participation. He added that there was a strong feeling among the committeemen for approving ex-enemy participation in the 1924 events.

SARAZEN SAYS HE HAS NO CHALLENGE FROM HAZEN

New York, April 10 (By the A. P.).—Three and probably four American professional golf stars will sail from New York on May 3 to compete in the British open championship to be held at Troon, Scotland, June 11 to 15.

This was revealed today when Gene Sarazen, American open champion, announced he would leave on that date, accompanied by Walter Halen, present holder of the British open title, and Charles Hoffner of Philadelphia. At the same time it was reported that Jim Barnes, Pelham Manor "pro" and former national open champion, also would join the invaders, but Barnes declared he had not yet reached a definite decision.

The fact that Hagen and Sarazen would seek new laurels abroad has been known for some time, but the addition of Hoffner and probably Barnes to the invaders was unexpected.

Hoffner was a member of the professional team, captained by Emmet French of Youngstown, O., which invaded England in 1921, when Jock Hutchison of Chicago scored the first American victory in the open championship.

Sarazen today denied the truth of a report that he had been challenged by Hagen to a special 72-hole match for a side bet of $10,000, to take place before the trip abroad.

"I have received no challenge of that kind from Walter," said the American titleholder, "but I am too busy now to accept it, if he intends to do so. However, I'll be glad to meet him at any time, any place and for any consideration, after we return from England."

According to reports of the challenge, Sarazen was to receive $2,500 as a bonus for accepting.

Last October, it will be recalled, the youthful American champion took Hagen's measure in a 72-hole test by a margin of 3 and 2. Ever since then, it was said, the British titleholder has been anxious for a return match.

Reach's Official Guide for 1923

With the advent of spring there comes to hand the annual harbinger of the new baseball season, the Reach Official American League Guide for 1923. This annual number is equal in all respects to the long list of preceding annual publications, and this means supreme excellence, as everything of moment in the major league and minor league fields, both statistically and historically, is completely narrated. As usual the volume is divided into parts, each covering fully the matter assigned thereto. Part I is devoted to exhaustive editorial review of the baseball of 1922 and to the luminous discussion of the legislation and prospects for 1923. Part II is devoted to special articles, such as the End of Gambling on Base Ball, End of the Baltimore Federal Club's Suit Against Organized Ball, Proposed Players' Union, and eight other articles of contemporaneous interest. Part III contains the complete official averages of the American League and National League, and tributes to the late President Dunn of Cleveland, and of Morgan G. Bulkeley, first president of the National league. Part IV contains an Editorial Review of the 1922 World's Series details and scores of the games, and a mass of reliable World's series statistics, and the complete record of other inter-league series. Part V contains the complete records of the 1922 season, the Death Roll of 1922, the Extra Long Games of 1922, and the No-Hit Games of 1922. Part VI contains the director of the National Association Annual Meeting, the Minor League World's Series, and the records and averages of three Class AA leagues, six Class B leagues, four Class C leagues and twelve Class D leagues. Part VII contains reports of the American League and National League annual meeting; the joint major league meeting, with its very important special articles; the American League and National League schedules for 1923; winding up with the Official Playing Rules for 1923, as daputed by the joint rules committee.

CHARLIE RADBOURNE PACKED HIS OWN PET CLUBS

Charles (Old Hoss) Radbourne, whose record of pitching 72 games and winning 57 of them back in 1884 (and this record is classed with the seven great achievements in baseball), was complete master of several teams in the National League during the days when he was supreme.

Philadelphia came into the National league in 1883 and didn't win a game from the "king" until the season of 1885 was well spent. A run of 18 consecutive victories was the record Radbourne had before the Phillies solved his delivery.

Detroit had a ball team in the National league those days and that aggregation, from May 1883 until August, 1885 failed to in a game from the "Old Hoss," losing 20 games during that stretch before beating him.

In a series of four games, Boston vs Providence, during 1884, Radbourne pitched all of them, beating Boston four times and allowing but one run, which meant three shutouts. A hurler today who turned a trick like that would be immortalized.

NEW YORK COMMISSION DETERMINED ON JOHNSON

New York, April 10.—The New York state athletic commission today crunched its heel on the proposed encounter between Floyd Johnson and Fred Fulton in Jersey City next Monday night.

While apparently hopeful of avoiding a clash with the New Jersey boxing authorities, the commission ruled that Johnson, as well as all other boxers under contract to appear in the milk fund show at Yankee stadium on May 12, must refrain from taking part in any contest prior to that date.

Johnson and Fulton also were matched to box in Boston next Monday, according to the claims of Boston promoters, who have taken their case to the Massachusetts boxing commission.

Because of these claims, the New York commission added to its ruling the promise that Johnson and Fulton would be compelled to go through with their contracts in other states after Johnson had carried out his contract to meet Jess Willard at the Yankee stadium. After that encounter the New York commission expressed a willingness to accept the rulings of other state commissions on Johnson and Fulton.

WARD MAKES GOOD ON HUGGINS MOVE

The judgment of Miller J. Huggins, Yankee manager will be vindicated once more, or all signs will carry to windward. Huggins got the joyous razz when he put Erin Ward on second base, and for time it seemed as if the razzers were right. But Ward stuck to the matter of learning how to play second, and this spring looks better than ever. He is working with Everett Scott in faultless style and performing around the keystone in snappy manner. Particularly he is improving on double plays—getting the ball over to Pipp with greater speed than ever.

PADDOCK LEAVES TODAY FOR PARIS RACES

Pasadena, Calif., April 10—Charles Paddock will leave tomorrow for Paris to race for the last time of his college career in the city where he first came into prominence as a sprinter.

After the Paris meet he will be ineligible to race longer under his college colors. He stated today that he never felt better, that he was in perfect condition and he hoped to equal his former records abroad. Paddock declared he planned to race as long as he was able to make speed.

O'ROURKE MAKES BID FOR DEMPSEY-GIBBONS BOUT

New York, April 10.—Tom O'Rourke, Polo Grounds matchmaker, today entered a bid for a heavyweight boxing championship match between Jack Dempsey, the titleholder, and Tom Gibbons of St. Paul.

Details were not revealed, but according to Dan McKetrick, partner of Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, the offer was in excess of the $200,000 proposition made by Shelby, Mont., promoters for a Dempsey-Gibbons bout for July 4.

O'Rourke said he would like to stage the bout some time in July at the Polo Grounds.

REGIONAL OLYMPICS TO BE HELD SOON

Rome, April 10.—The interpational Olympic committee today decided to hold regional Olympic games, one for South America and one for Central America, in 1926. Count Baillet Latour of Belgium, official representative of the committee to the Latin-American games, gave a favorable report on athletic conditions in South America, made during a recent tour.

OLD CLEVELAND MANAGER AND CAPTAIN IS DEAD

Syracuse, N. Y., April 10.—Jay S. Faatz, 63, famous old-time big league baseball player, died early today at his home here.

As captain and manager of the old Cleveland National league baseball club, Jay Faatz achieved country-wide renown. He always was regarded as one of the greatest fielding first basemen in baseball history. He was a fine hitter also.

He led the Cleveland club from 1888 to 1892. Previously he had captained and managed the Toronto team.

"BOOTLEG" BOXING PROMOTERS WILL MAKE CHICAGO "MECCA" OF PUGILISM

Chicago, April 10—(By the A. P.)—Chicago's ring fans, thirsting from two decades of boxing prohibition, and with their appetites whetted by a series of bootleg contests, are about to attain the light wines and beer stage of fistic intoxication.

The bootleg boxing promoters, who sold their wares last winter on the sly, have come out in the open, and with the staging of half a dozen shows, protected by injunctions restraining police interference, are preparing to make Chicago one of the boxing centers of the country.

As a result of a "boxing war" between rival promoters, April 23 has been selected for the day, and the Coliseum and Dexter Park Pavilion—two of the biggest convention buildings in the city—the place for two of the biggest boxing shows since Carter Harrison, Sr., then mayor, put a quietus on the sport 20 years ago.

Tonight one promoter announced that Johnny Wilson, the middleweight champion, and Frankie Genaro, the flyweight boss, would appear in contests at the Coliseum on April 23, while Mickey Walker, the new welterweight champion, along with some Chicago favorites, will attempt to draw the patronage to the Dexter Park Pavilion on the same night.

Boxing Bill Introduced

Springfield, Ill., April 10—(By the A. P.)—A boxing bill embracing the most important features of the three already introduced in the house, was reported out this afternoon. It will be presented in the house tomorrow and read for the first time.

The measure provides for a state athletic commission of three members appointed by the governor at a salary of $5,000 a year with a secretary at $4,000. The commission will make detailed rules for bouts.

PLAYER FOULED MUST TRY FOR BASKET

New York, April 10—New rules governing basketball, the most important one eliminating the specialized foul shooter, were adopted today at a meeting of the joint basketball rules committee attended by representatives of the Amateur Athletic Union, the National Collegiate Athletic association and the Young Men's Christian association.

The rule affecting the specialized foul shooter prescribes that when a personal foul is called against a player, the man against whom the foul is called must make the clear throw.

Technical fouls are to be shot by any member of the team.

During the past season when a personal foul was committed within the goal zone, two fouls were called regardless of whether the man had possession of the ball. The new rules states that two free throws only will be granted when the player has the ball in his possession within the goal zone, or when the player is in the act of shooting for a basket outside of the goal zone.

William H. Ball of the international Y. M. C. A. committee presided.

SISLER MUST UNDERGO OPERATION FOR SIGHT

St. Louis, April 10—(By the A. P.)—George Sisler, adjudged the best all-round player in the American league, will undergo an operation for infected sinus condition, probably Friday, it was learned today. The sinus condition has affected in some degree the star's vision, but the exact nature of the eye trouble never has been disclosed.

Announcement that Sisler would undergo an operation caused gloom among followers of the Browns here.

The Browns "rooters" expressed the opinion that Sisler's ailment would affect the playing of the team and would keep him out of the lineup for at least a month.

Bob Quinn, vice president of the club, said that Cedric Durst, recruit outfielder, who has been made a first baseman, would take Sisler's place in the lineup when the American league season opens.

NORTH AND SOUTH TENNIS PLAY REACHES SEMI-FINALS

Pinehurst, N. C., April 10—Both men and women players in the north and south championship singles lawn tennis tournaments reached into the round before the semi-final today.

Vincent Richards, national indoor champion, S. Howard Voshell, former holder of that title, G. Carlton Shafer, present north and south champion, and Dr. Philip B. Hawke of Philadelphia, all came through their engagements in the third round without the semblance of a struggle.

The first upset in the women's singles came in the second round meeting between Miss Marion Chapman of Nyack and Miss Anne Townsend of Philadelphia, one of the "first ten" among the feminine players of the country. Miss Chapman won in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4.

The second upset involved Miss Lillian Scharman of Brooklyn, who went down to defeat at the hands of Mrs. De Forrest Candee of Hempstead, who won at 6-3, 6-4.

ROUSH WANTS $16,000 CONTRACT FOR 3 YEARS

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 10—A 3-year contract calling for a salary of $16,000 is the demand of Eddie Roush, holdout outfielder of the Cincinnati Nationals, he announced late today, following a conference with the directors of the club. The conference became deadlocked and adjourned when the player refused to accept a one year contract at $15,000.

There was an unconfirmed rumor going the rounds tonight that Roush would meet again with the club officials, either tomorrow or Thursday, in a further effort to compose the existing differences.

Roush said he would remain in Cincinnati for several days.

BULGAR SUSPENDED FOR FAILING TO TESTIFY

New York, April 10.—Jack Bulgar, manager of Mickey Walker, world welterweight boxing champion, today was indefinitely suspended by the state athletic commission for failure to appear and give testimony in an investigation of the match between Walker and Charley Nashert at Buffalo March 14. Walker and Nashert were suspended for "an unsatisfactory bout."

Randolph and Beall Lead

Pinehurst, N. C., April 10—P. S. P. Randolph, Jr., of Lakewood, N. J. and Philadelphia, and E. C. Beall of Uniontown, Pa., led a field of 115 in the qualifying round of the thirteenth mid-April golf tournament today. Randolph covered the course in 42-38—80 and Beall went around in 41-39—80.

"He shows more skill than most third basemen playing in the big leagues today," says on well known scribe of Willie Kamm, the Pacific Coast third basing star now preparing for his big league debut with the White Sox. Which is another tribute for the kid to live down—another weight on his young shoulders.

Mayor Curley to include a cinder track in the big athletic field.

Mickey O'Neil of the Braves, says that a baseball player who can not hit a low ball should play golf to get the low swinging and hitting habit.

Mlle. Schier of Amsterdam, clever balkline billiard player, is expected to arrive in this country the latter end of this month.

The English rugby football team beat the Scottish players for the 11th year in succession in their recent match.

Rex, a dog attached to the fire department in Newark, N. J., has answered 2,000 fire alarms in seven years of service. It has saved many lives and assisted in capturing criminals.

Thirteen-year-old Vernon Blane of Southport, Eng., recently swam 100 yards in 1.06, a striking feat at this age. He used the American 6-beat crawl.

George Ward, Jersey lightweight, is hounding Mickey Walker for a championship match. Ward bases his right to a match with Walker on the back that he has met more good welterweights than has Walker and that he has a far better record than the champion can boast.

Over 3,000 students are expected to be attracted by Michigan's intramural program for the spring months. Tennis, soft and hard baseball, golf and horseshoe pitting, in addition to tryouts for the Sigma Delta Psi, national honorary athletic fraternity, comprise the list of athletics on the program.

Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals was in a class by himself last season when it came to accumulating total bases from his hits. He was one of two players in organized baseball who went over the 400 mark in total bases, garnering 450. East of Wichita, Western League, was his nearest rival, getting a total of .433.

President John D. Martin of the Southern League announces that he has decided to re-employ Hadley Williams as an umpire, thus giving the league a staff of nine to start the season with. There was some complaint against Williams last season, but then where is the umpire who is not complained about?

Double-header golf matches feature Williams college card. The Williamstown (Mass.) experts will play May 5 at Springfield (Mass.), meeting Dartmouth in the morning and Yale in the afternoon May 12 at New York the card calls for Penn and subsequently Princeton; May 19 at Springfield, Columbia and Harvard will be opposed.

Duffers will be out of luck in the British amateur golf event this year. Only entries of players with handicaps of five or less will be accepted, which eliminates the dub class. Entries close April 20. The tournament will be played over the course of the Royal Cinque Ports Golf club at Deal May 7.

Sid Barbarian will be out of the ring for several weeks as a result of an operation to his nose performed last week at Ann Arbor. The local southpaw lightweight hurt his nose in a recent match and has been bothered in his breathing every since. The operation forced Barbarian to call off several matches.

After all the talk about holdouts—the usual bunk of every spring—the list of players who have refused to sign contracts offered them has dwindled to probably less than a dozen in both major leagues, and of those refusing probably one-half of them have grievances that justify them in keeping the argument open.

Sam Pearlstein, manager of Sid Barbarian, has taken Pete McCluskey under his management and hopes to bring him to the front as he did the Armenian lightweight. McCluskey has a great deal of natural ability, a pair of good hands, a hard punch, and ability to take punishment. If properly coached he should develop into a fairly good lightweight.

Don Sutherland is the new greenskeeper at Dearborn Hills Golf club. He was formerly with Troy, Meadowbrook and Detroit Golf clubs. A force of workmen is busy getting the course ready for play May 15. The club's membership is being filled rapidly and Robert Herndon announces that no new members will be accepted after April 15.

The Memphis club has signed a high school kid pitcher from Parkin, Ark., aged 17, who is getting some lovely press notices. His name is Harry Kelly. Pitching for his high school team last spring he beat several strong college teams and is said to have demonstrated signs of being a world-beater. He is a right-hander and in spite of his tender years is a big fellow.

Shelton—Politicians in this locality are wondering who will succeed John H. Hill in the leadership of the party commencing next October when Mr. Hill becomes one of the county's commissioners. He was recently elected as a county commissioner for Fairfield county.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Cornell has started six weeks' football fundamentals practice.

Premier show of Switzerland at Lucerne will take place May 6.

Kentucky has a new golf course in Bardstown, making a total of 30 for that state.

The Yankees' big stands will have no stairs between the triple decks. All will be reached by ramps constructed near the entrances, easy to ascend.

Deer hounds are becoming popular in France. Madame Violet, of Paris, trains her deerhounds for filming purposes with great success.

TAX REDUCTION URGED.

The receipts from income tax returns for the past year have been the subject of study by the treasury department with the result that Treasurer Mellon presents again his recommendation that there be a reduction in the surtaxes on the ground that it would make available more taxable incomes and bring back into industrial activity money which has been placed in tax free securities and will be left there as long as such a large proportion of incomes must be given up in taxation under the present arrangements.

Secretary Mellon advocated a much greater reduction in the surtaxes than congress was willing to make. It did make a cut, and because of that cut it is maintained by Secretary Mellon it is possible to show a decided increase from income tax returns this year over last year of something like $70,000,000. Even though there have been better conditions it is also to be remembered that there is now no excess profits tax, that income taxes and surtaxes have been cut and yet the revenue therefrom is larger.

Imposing high surtaxes does not necessarily mean a larger revenue as long as there are tax free securities to which capital can be turned. Getting such capital out of such investments bringing a low return into the channels of business through a reduction in the amount that must be turned over to the government is what the secretary is aiming at, and he bases his belief in the good results of such a change upon what has already been accomplished.

If lower surtaxes will bring a larger yield to the government it is certainly preferable from the country's standpoint. The part which better conditions have played in the returns just made cannot be ignored. They are not being disregarded by Secretary Mellon, but from his inside view of the situation he cannot see that they alone have accomplished the results that have been reported in view of the tax reductions that have been made. Certainly if Secretary Mellon is on firm ground his recommendations should carry weight.

SETTING OUT TREES.

In connection with the governor's proclamation for Arbor day next month there is interest in the statement which Arthur N. Pack of the American Tree association made to a Waterbury meeting last week when he pointed out Middlesex county as an example of what is going on in many parts of the country and stated that the school children in that county are to join the great army of tree planters of the country by planting 1,000 trees during Arbor week.

The idea is one that might well be adopted by school children in other counties, but the matter of tree planting should by no means be left to the school children. However desirable it is to get them interested as children for the development of the idea as they grow older, it is to be realized that the chance to set an excellent example lies with others.

Another lesson in tree planting is to be gained from Massachusetts where two million spruce and pines are to be planted on waste land near towns this spring, and in this instance emphasis may well be laid upon the fact that it means the utilization of waste land for a crop of trees that is going to return a profit some day.

Tree planting need not be confined to Arbor day and it need not be restricted to the school yard or a village green. There are many highways, city streets, and grounds that can be greatly improved in value and appearance by setting out trees while the desirability of producing something on land which has been considered valueless should get a generous reception.

M. LOUCHEUR'S VISIT.

Whether anything will come of the visit of M. Loucheur to London remains to be seen. It is one of those steps that may be preliminary to important results or it may amount to nothing. Something of the kind seems necessary, however, if there is going to be accomplished the much desired bringing together again of France and Great Britain.

These countries are not so divided as to be enemies. They have failed to agree regarding the policies being pursued by France in connection with the Ruhr and are not in accord concerning this move in behalf of reparations, even though France is doing no more than it has a right to do under the provisions of the treaty.

When Great Britain refused to endorse the action of France and the other allied nations it decided to keep hands off. Whether it is possible to bring about concessions on the part of each at this time as the result of the developments that have taken place since France put its view into effect remains to be determined. From all indications M. Loucheur seems to think the situation is not insurmountable. France most certainly desired the cooperation of the British. It would not have permitted the Ruhr had it been possible at the time to reconcile its own views with those of the country across the channel.

In going to London for the purpose of finding out how the matter stands today, the right course has been pursued. That means direct dealing, even though M. Loucheur takes full personal responsibility for it. It isn't beating about the bush and relying upon hints. It is the course that promises to disclose just how far apart the two countries are, what concessions would be required to reestablish full accord and what sort of a plan could be agreed upon for further dealing with the reparations question.

M. Loucheur's visit may bear no fruit but certain thats can be no harm in such an effort. It is the course that must be followed if anything if to be accomplished in that direction.

SENATOR PEPPER AND THE LEAGUE.

Advocates of the league of nations have been quick to seize upon the recent statement by Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania as a flat about face on the league of nations. Rating him as almost an irreconcilable in the past they are rejoicing over his conversion. Regarding him as close to the administration they are elated over the new position which they consider he has taken. Coming in connection with the visit of Sir Robert Cecil they are giving the latter the credit for this remarkable change.

It would be a remarkable change were it what they undertake to picture it. As a matter of fact his views have undergone no change whatever. In his own words, "My views regarding the league of nations and the possibility of entrance by the United States are the same that I have constantly held and expressed ever since the covenant of the league was drafted in 1919."

Thus it would appear that the flurry in the camp of the league supporters in this country goes for naught. There has been no conversion as far as Senator Pepper is concerned. Whatever conversion there is comes from the other direction. He sees where the nations which have been trying out the league are coming to the view that a coercive alliance should be abandoned and development undertaken as a standing council of conciliation. It is such an interpretation that Senator Pepper puts upon Sir Robert Cecil's statement, and that means the reconstruction of the league into an organization which the United States can join and which he has for four years favored.

Senator Pepper has not advocated the present league in the past and he does not do so now. He stands four square to the position he has always maintained but he sees where the league members are wavering in their stand as the result of their experience.

KINDNESS TO ANIMALS.

Perhaps there are some weeks in the year when the appeal in behalf of kindness to animals might strike a more responsive chord in the minds of the people. When we are experiencing the extremes there is more thought being turned in that direction. But it is an appeal that may be properly made at any and all times.

In just such measure as kindness is shown to animals, to just that degree is it reflected by them. Much depends upon the way in which they are treated as to what they do and how they act. Those with a mean disposition have probably got that way through mistreatment. But because animals are not able to measure up to human standards does not justify negligence or harsh treatment. Kind words do far more than kicks whether animals or human beings are concerned.

Obvious though these things should be, it is nevertheless necessary that attention should be called from time to time to the importance of kindness to animals. It is mighty good food for the thoughtless. Many a person regrets what he has done to dumb beasts after thinking the matter over. Whatever can be done in an educational way to cause him to do his reflecting before instead of after a bad display of temper or neglect is highly desirable.

Just how much permanent good a Be-Kind-to-Animals week accomplishes in cold figures may be difficult to ascertain, but every influence in that direction is most certainly well applied, and like other similar movements any improvement at all is worth the effort that is required. It is the psychological effect in the long run that is really aimed at.

JOINING THE FAMILY

After the son of the house had just departed, beamingly escorting his brand new fiance who had made her debut, so to say, in his family at dinner that night, there was a large silence while everybody looked at every one else.

"Well!" said the head of the house, lighting a cigar and trying to make it casual, "how'd she impress you, anyhow, mother? Must-a been kind of hard for her coming here knowing she was going to be looked over by all of Tom's relations! I thought she was considerably pretty myself!"

"H'm!" sniffed Tom's mother. "Naturally! As for me, I can't say I like to see a girl so sort of sure of herself and her attractions! She wasn't a particle nervous when she first came in! I could easily see that! She expected to make just as much impression on us as she has on Tom!

"Why, I'll never in the world forget the time when I was just engaged to you, John William, and your mother invited me to come to tea! I was so nervous I never slept the whole three nights beforehand and I shook like a leaf when I walked in! I scarcely dared raise my eyes all evening—and the way Tom's Ethel made eyes at you was beyond words! Of course you liked it—she knew you would! It just shows how experienced she is and the idea of my boy spending the rest of his life trying to hang on to a flirtatious wife who doesn't appreciate him!"

"I'd like to know where she got that dress," mused the flapper of the family. "Of course it was more extreme than I am in the habit of wearing, though I'm sure it would look better on me than it did on her! My hair and eyes would go lots better with that color! I think it will be perfectly awful to have a sister-in-law who hasn't good taste in clothes!"

"You need never tell me that color hair is real!" burst out the older sister. "Of course I would not disillusion Tom for worlds, but she'll be paying good money every six months to have it re-dyed and putting it down on the grocery account! Arabesque Smith did that for years and when her husband one day wanted to know why they had used ten sacks of flour, six cases of laundry soap and 200 pounds of sugar in one month, Arabesque just burst into tears and got a divorce. She said she wouldn't live with a man who had such a suplcious and prying nature and I don't exactly blame her!"

"She smiled at me!" proudly announced the baby of the family. "I like her!"

"Do you, sweetheart?" sadly asked the mother of the family. "Well, I certainly hope it will all turn out for the best, but no girl with hands like hers is ever going to risk them in a kitchen! And Tom is so fond of griddle cakes and muffins! Of course she smiled! She wanted to make a good impression! If you ate mohasses candy, and then ran to her I guess you'd find out she wouldn't smile at you, poor child!

"I hope I'll never have to leave you to her care, because wearing such pretty clothes as she does they would come first in her thoughts. You would think she would never neglect Tom's baby brother, wouldn't you?"

"I saw her taking in that worn place in the large rug," suddenly announced the aunt who lived around the corner and who had run in to catch a glimpse of the interesting visitor. "And you didn't use your best dishes, either! I should think you would have tried to make as much of a showing as possible! These whiffets of girls nowadays look down on everything not utterly up to date! I just cringed in this last year's dress and I must say it will not be pleasant to have a niece who scorns one and is ashamed to acknowledge the relationship! I told her I was making her a recipe book and she said she had taken a domestic science course and always measured everything. I'll wager all she knows how to measure is a cup of water, and burned at that! Do you suppose that string of pearls could be real? They were so small and even! If Tom had to dress her to match those pearls!"

"Poor Tom!" sighed his mother. "I just know she is not the girl for him! If he had taken my advice and chosen my friend Minnie's daughter who is so fond of me——"

"She hardly ate any dessert," mused the flapper daughter. "And she is so nice and thin—I think I shall stop desserts myself. I don't think her complexion is a bit better than mine."

"Well," cried out the prospective bridegroom, returning with a bang of the front door and surveying them beamingly. "What did I tell you? What do you think of her—isn't she a wonder?"

"Oh, we think she is just lovely!" everybody said in one breath. "We were just saying so!"—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Nicholas Pashitch, who has been given an a new lease of power as a result of the general elections in Jugoslavia, is a veteran Serbian statesman who for nearly two decades either the titular head or leader of a succession of radical governments. He was one of the outstanding figures of the World war and has since survived every attempt of his political and personal enemies to oust him from office. Pashitch was born in eastern Serbia in 1846, and at an early age proceeded to Zurich, where he qualified as an engineer. In Switzerland he imbibed socialistic and revolutionary ideals, and on returning to Serbia he devoted himself to the fight against autocracy. This inevitably brought him into conflict with the supreme authority, and he varied terms of office with terms of imprisonment and exile. He formed his first cabinet in 1906, from which date he has been the ruling spirit in Serbian affairs. He is described as a practical man, a subtle diplomat, and a born political "boss."

Wives of Famous Men

Marianne Kent, Wife of Leigh Hunt.

A woman of infinite patience, tact and sweetness was Marianne Kent, beautiful young wife of Leigh Hunt, most eccentric of all eccentric poets. The two were childhood sweethearts, their friendship dating back to Marianne's 13th birthday, when the youthful poet first declared himself. The girl, warned by her parents and friends that her life would be one of storm and unhappiness if she married Hunt, nevertheless determined, even though she was little more than a child, that he was her mate, and defied them to prevent the marriage.

The wedding took place in 1809. Marianne, although still under 20, acted as housekeeper, friend, adviser and loving wife, filling all the roles, according to her husband, with "rare perfectness." The Hunts were exceedingly poor, but their little house was a love nest, in which Leigh's songs were rivalled only by his pretty wife's cheerful chirpings. Next door neighbors were the Carlyles, and Jane Carlyle has been quoted as saying that Marianne, until the illness which consumed her, was a wonderful housewife. She knew how to manage with little or no money. No matter how straitened their circumstances, Leigh was never disturbed or worried about bills. An utterly impractical man, it was necessary for Marianne to assume the entire responsibility of the home. Yet this never embittered her nor caused her to rail at her husband or her fate. She accepted her trials as a part of her love. She was rewarded however, with the sweetest reward that can ever come to any woman—the appreciation of the man she loved.

"My love," the author of "Abou Ben Adhem" once wrote to Marianne, "has made me better and more desirous of improvement than I have ever been. I am naturally a man of violent passions, but your affection has taught me to subdue them. Whenever you feel any little disquietude arising in your bosom, think of the happiness you bestow on me, and real love will produce the same effect on you as it had produced on me."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bible Knowledge.

Mr. Editor: This writer is loath to add to the encroachment on your favor in drawing public attention to the multitude of present Bible misconstruers, who are persistent in displaying their lack of comprehensive appreciation of what is plain and reasonable.

In the gospel times it is written (Ephesians iv, 11-12) that He—our Lord—gave some apostles, some prophets, some evangelists, some pastors and teachers, for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry (service), for the edifying (building up) of the body of Christ (the church). It seems now that there should be added to this "a public censor," whose duty it would be to pass on the letters to the editor on all Bible teaching, and attempted exposition in relation thereto.

There seems to be a lot of unadvised conjury at work on the Bible as if it was a dream book or designed for fortune telling and for fortune tellers' use only, not a book of precepts for human guidance.

Once this was not so. When this writer was young, the children were taught to commit Scripture passages to memory, and prizes of Bibles were given for excellence in repeating the Ten Commandments, the sermon on the mount and the golden rule, and a man's education was not complete unless he could easily and readily turn to any book or chapter at will. Even the Book itself was sacred from cover to cover and was held in reverence such as we do not see now.

Allow me to account for this. First, the introduction of the lesson leaf and its displacing of the whole book. The leaf had portions of the Scriptures in print, it is true, but soon one would light the fire or wipe his razor on "the leaf" who would have shrunk from tearing a leaf out of the Bible. Indeed, would have thought that, a sacriligious act.

Second, and following the use of the leaf in Sunday school, the Bible has lost its place in the church itself. You easily find a hymn book in your pew, provided, but seldom can you see a copy of the Bible. In former times when the pastor read his lesson or his text, the persons in the pew could, and did, follow him and hence had the attention held by both the spirit and the letter of the word of God. This is only exceptional now and marks the spirit of the times and the absence of the book for this or any other purpose, accents the irrelevance, and we must say, "ignorance" which results from this ignorance of the volume itself.

Third, the seeming abandonment of the Bible as a textbook. We know, it is not used in the public school, so that only in a short space on Sunday is it at all available for the young people to become acquainted with its worth or contents, but instead let me here insert a clipping from your columns of yesterday:

"Frank W. Browning was the speaker at the home time meeting Sunday evening at the Community house. His topic was The Culture of Fruit.

Now it is not this writer's wish to criticize either the topic or the teacher, it is for illustration of what goes before. Mr. Browning is held in largest esteem and is well posted on the topic, but is it for the best spiritual interest of our youth that an hour of the Lord's day should be devoted to an entirely secular topic which would be perfectly legitimate on any other occasion?

This is not an exceptional case. The speaker was adjusting himself to preceding meetings of the same kind and we hold that this is among the things that go to create so much ignorance of the Bible as we see. We do not mean to say that an adroit speaker could not draw important moral lessons from the growth of fruit, for our Lord himself said "Consider the lilies, how they grow" and that speaker knows 100 times more than this writer, about fruit culture. So, trusting that no offense will be taken at our using the clipping to illustrate the point we have in discussion, and our view of the causes that have led to the present condition, we append our signature cheerfully, as a most obedient servant.

JOHN TROLAND.

Concerning Mr. Robinson's Criticism.

Mr. Editor: Mr. Robinson's recent comment on a lecture by a representative of the International Bible Students Association—improperly termed by him Russellites—has come to my attention. Since Mr. Robinson has sought to set before the minds of your readers an idea of the teachings of the I. S. A. and since his conclusions as to what this organization teaches are on the whole false I request space that some of his false conclusions may be corrected. I am a Bible student and familiar with their interpretation of scripture.

Mr. Robinson represents the I. B. S. A. speaker as saying that God changed His plan. Since this is not the teaching of the I. B. S. A. I am sure that this was not the thought the speaker wished to convey. Our contention is that even before the creation of the earth God had a plan and Pastor Russell named his first volume of studies in the scriptures, The Divine Plan of the Ages. We most emphatically claim that God has not changed His plan. "In Him is no variableness, neither shadow of turning." Js. 1:17. Our further contention is that God's original plan was and still is to fill the earth with a happy and contented race of human beings having everlasting life. God created the earth not in vain but to be inhabited. Isa. 45:18. We claim that Satan attempted to thwart God's purposes by tempting the first pair and bringing sin into the world so that for a time the earth could not be populated as God intended it should be in due time. But God allows neither man nor Satan to interfere in any way with the accomplishment of His plan. In the carrying out of God's original plan the human race was to be redeemed from the curse of sin and death. God accomplished their redemption by the sending of His Son, Christ, to "give His life a ransom." Matt. 20: 28. Christ ransomed—purchased the human race out from under the curse of sin and death. Hence every human being who has not had an opportunity is to be given an opportunity when resurrected in the day of judgment. When the judgment day, which is a thousand year day, is over with and everyone not previously granted an opportunity has been given an individual opportunity or trial for life, then will the earth be filled with a happy and rejoicing family.

Man's experience with sin will serve as a great lesson which will prevent any of the saved ones from ever again desiring to experience sin. Thus Adam and Eve are the only ones who will be given a second chance for life. Children who have died must be resurrected and grow to manhood before they can be given a trial. This does not contradict any of Christ's statements in regard to children.

The Word Revelation means a book of symbols and one person has as good right as another to offer an interpretation for this symbolic book. I consider Mr. Robinson's interpretation of Rev. 14:1 as very unreasonable because there is no basis for his assumptions. There is no scripture anywhere to indicate that the 144,000 represent the children slain by Herod. Neither do we have any statistics to indicate that this was the number of children slain. This chapter says that the 144,000 were the redeemed ones and these could not have been redeemed until Christ shed His blood which accomplished their redemption. How much more reasonable to consider these as the "little flock" (Luke 12:32) of overcomers of the gospel age. There are the ones who will reign and be priests and kings with Christ while the world is having its trial.

Sincerely for the Golden Rule and a kindlier feeling toward all sincere professors of Christianity.

H. E. COFFEY.

Stories That Recall Others

Walking Is Healthful.

A young man was walking hurriedly home the other evening when he suddenly bumped with some force into a large, jovial man.

The older man said with a smile:

"Walking is a healthful exercise all right, sonny. But for the love of Mike be careful where you're going."

A Sad Blunder.

A minister making pastoral calls was entertained for a few minutes at one house by a sturdy young American, aged four. The minister wishing to engage the baby in conversation said: "You are not big enough to go to school are you?"

"Yes, sir, I'm big enough, but I'm not old enough,' came back the reply with considerable asperity.

POETRY

Easter Tomorrow.

Oh, dark the Heavenly Power
Brings ah things new,
And decrees the red-plowed hills
With living blue;
The Resurrection have their wills,
The thrushes, too.

Opens his door in heaven;
From skies of glass
A Jacob's ladder falls
On greening grass,
And o'er the mountain walls
Young angels pass.

Before them Rests the shower,
Light burst the buds,
And Spring the fevet hands,
And flush the floods;
The stars are from their hands
Flung through the woods.

The woods with living airs
How softly fanned,
Light stirs from where the deep,
All day's the sand,
Is breathing in his sleep,
Heard by the land.

O hollow, leaping blood,
The season's lure!
O heart look down and up,
Serene, secure,
Warm as the crocus cup,
Like snowdrops, pure!

Past future grimace and fade
Through some slight shell,
A gleam from yonder vale,
Some far blue bell,
And mortal's how frail,
In sound and smell!

Till at the rosebud note,
Their twinkling bird,
The fairy fancies range,
And lightly stirred,
Blow little bells of change
From word to word.

For now the Heavenly Power
Makes all things new,
And thaws the cold and fills
The flower with dew;
The blackbirds have their wills,
The poets, too.

April.

Distant the gun that climbs bare April's hill
That glistens like a golden scimitar,
The shield of bright Apollo in his car—
Distant but warm; beyond the purling rill
The coursing current bounds in joyous thrill,
The ghost of Winter in his whited hood
Folds close his cloak and seeks the shaded wood,
While forth there creeps the sprite of gay April!

Up leaps the sap in waiting twig and vine
Obedient to mood of Nature wise;
The Sun-god floods his press with sparkling wine.
Each opening bud that latent dreaming lies,
Responsive to the inner urge divine,
In soul of faith to God doth lift its eyes.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED IN FITCHVILLE MAN'S DISAPPEARANCE

Bloodstains on the floor and outside the kitchen door lead friends of William Tibbitts, a farmer living on the Fitchville road, to believe that he was murdered some time Monday evening and his body removed from the house and hidden by his assailants.

The house shows indications of being thoroughly ransacked and the kitchen is torn up as though a desperate struggle had taken place there. Two chairs in the room are overturned, one near the table being partly under it, while two rugs on the floor are disarranged as though pushed into a heap during a struggle. Near the kitchen stove is the lantern used by Tibbitts at night, overturned, the kerosene having run out onto the floor.

Bloodstains Lead to Back Door

These conditions, added to the fact that between the table and the door the floor is liberally sprinkled with bloodstains, give evidence of a struggle where some blow was struck causing blood to flow freely. The bloodstains lead from the middle of the floor to a doorway leading into a small hall and from there out the back door. The panels of the door on the outside show bloodstains and the flagstones and wall outside are marked with clots of blood, indicating that the struggle continued for some time or that the body of Tibbitts, if he was murdered, was carried from the house by those attacking him.

Buggy Tracks Toward Norwich

Leading into the driveway can be seen the marks of a horse and impressions made by the wheels of the buggy. These marks swerve sharply at the corner of the house, run close to the back door and to where the last of the bloodstains are noticed, then continue to the right out into the yard and down the driveway where they turn in the direction of Yantic and Norwich, and are lost on the highway. These marks it is believed were made by a horse and buggy owned by Tibbitts for they come from the barn across the road where the horse and buggy were kept.

Charles Frink Makes Discovery

The mystery was first discovered by Charles Frink, who, with his brother, John Frink, conducts a large retail milk business in Franklin. Tibbitts had delivered his milk for Monday at the usual place of collection but when the Tuesday delivery failed to show an Mr. Frink drove to Tibbitts' home to see what was wrong.

Going to the house he tried the front door and found it locked and then went to the back door. This door was unlocked and after knocking, Mr. Frink entered, and saw the furniture in the house had been knocked about. Bloodstains were noticed on the floor and on the ground outside the back door but Mr. Frink had no suspicion, that Tibbitts had met with foul play and, not finding his man, went away.

Cattle Not Milked

In the mean time men for whom Mr. Tibbitts was to work noticed that he did not appear and knowing Tibbitts was a man of his word, they investigated. By the time there was considerable excitement for Mr. Frink's son disclosed the fact that some 30 head of cattle had not been milked since Monday morning, and that the milk cans had not been filled. The unmilked stock on the table in the barn and the presence of blood-stains led them to believe that foul play was at hand, as should be with Tibbitts, and the Norwich police were notified.

Find No Trace of Man

[illegible] Sweeney, constable of Franklin, Mr. Frink, Michael Shea, Jeremiah Allen, Grand Juror, and [illegible] began a search [illegible] the [illegible] Officer Murphy [illegible] all parts of the [illegible] but [illegible] found no trace [illegible] the missing man. [illegible] and hat, which [illegible] were found in the [illegible] a small room off the [illegible] [illegible] Bureau drawers were [illegible] and [illegible] were found [illegible] money or valuables. [illegible] was hidden within. [illegible] the house [illegible] would lead to [illegible] as to what [illegible] upon or why Tibbitts was [illegible] the bloodstains and [illegible] horse and buggy were [illegible] from home.

Officers Investigate

[illegible] Detective William E. Jackson [illegible] Lieutenant M. R. Sterling of Norwich were notified and both [illegible] at an investigation, searching [illegible] outbuildings and yard for clues, finding nothing more that would give [illegible] clue than had been discovered by others who had searched the premises thoroughly.

Last Seen Monday Night

Mr. Tibbitts was last seen Monday [illegible] o'clock and had talked [illegible] to Truman Wilcox, a neighbor, [illegible] o'clock and this was the [illegible] he was seen. Mr. Wilcox [illegible] at the house on [illegible] after [illegible] and on the road not far from [illegible] house saw a man walking [illegible] wearing a [illegible] coat and dark cap, but [illegible] could not [illegible] a few minutes [illegible] and [illegible] this time beyond the [illegible]

At [illegible] o'clock [illegible] kitchen light had stopped at 8:25 and the [illegible] had been set for 3:30 a. m. The [illegible] had gone off and run down, establishing the fact that Tibbitts was [illegible] at that hour. It is believed that he was attacked shortly after 8 o'clock Monday night for it was his custom to milk the cows about that time. Friends had seen him in the barn before 8 o'clock feeding the stock and it is thought that he returned to the house after feeding the stock and was getting his supper when attacked, for the remains of a meal were on the table and a pot of beans stood on the stove. Another fact that points to foul play is that the two curtains in the kitchen facing the front are drawn down as far as they will go, a thing peculiar, since Tibbitts was never known to have pulled the shades in the kitchen, dust marks indicating that this had seldom if ever been done before.

Tibbitts, according to his friends was a quiet man and never carried much money on his person, but it was stated that many people who did not know him well thought that he kept considerable money on the house, a fact that might have led a stranger to attempt a robbery.

Officers at work on the case believed that Tibbitts had several enemies who might have attacked him but there was nothing that would establish this fact.

Found Horse In Norwich

The horse missing from the farm was described as a sorrel mare with a white patch on her forehead, the buggy being an open one with the rear seat broken. The Norwich police Monday night found a horse and buggy on Water street about 9 o'clock that seems to fit the description of the horse and buggy missing and officers at work on the case are to call in neighbors of Tibbitts to identify the animal and buggy. No blood stains were found on the buggy, however, or on the baker's blanket and dark overcoat found in the wagon. There was nothing in the coat that would show the owner, the only contents being a package of Piedmont cigarettes. The shoes on the horse corresponded to those worn by the horse that made the marks at the backdoor of Tibbitts' house, and the fact that no owner has appeared at the local police station to claim the horse and buggy, tends to show that they were stolen and abandoned.

County Detective Jackson and Officer Sterling are to continue their investigations this (Wednesday) morning and neighbors have volunteered to form searching squads and look for Tibbitts for it is generally believed that he was murdered and his body carried off in his own buggy and hidden or thrown into the river nearby by the murderer.

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Tibbitts and the belief that he has been murdered has aroused the people of Fitchville and they are determined to find him dead or alive and aid in every manner possible to run down the man or men who entered his home.

Rumors that Tibbitts had left his farm Monday night were given no credence by his friends for they state that he never left home, and under no circumstances would he go away and leave three horses and thirty head of cattle to starve.

Relatives Notified

Relatives of Tibbitts, a brother, Richard of Salem and his sister, Mrs. Phoebe Robinson of Colchester, were notified of his disappearance Tuesday night, after a search had proved futile, and are to make arrangements for the care of the stock at the farm until the mystery is solved.

The missing man is said to be about 50 years of age, of medium height, weighing about 150 pounds. No description could be given of his clothes as his best suit still remains in the house, and his sheepskin coat and hat is in the kitchen, just as he threw it down. A pair of boots is missing and it is thought that he was taken from his house by his assailants, thrown into the buggy and carried away from the house some distance before they dropped him off and hid his body.

Identified Horse and Buggy

Officer Sterling upon arriving back from Fitchville late Tuesday night got in touch with the police and Frank Marthers who know Tibbitts well was taken to the Bailly stable and identified the horse and buggy found Monday night on Water street, as belonging to Tibbitts.

How the horse and buggy were brought to Norwich and who drove it to this city is still remains a mystery for the officers at work on the case to solve today.

Tibbitts was last seen according to the story of a Fitchville man, shortly before 8 o'clock and Officer Fenton of the local police found the horse and buggy on Water street about 8:30 o'clock. The officers are endeavoring to establish the exact times in the case, in order to afford time enough for the attack to have taken place and the buggy to be driven to Norwich.

It was also learned that an automobile was seen parked in a field near the home of Tibbitts Monday night but this could not be verified Tuesday night.

Today's investigation is expected to bring startling disclosures and it is hoped that Tibbitts or his body may be found and the mystery be solved before another day passes.

THANKS NORWICH HADASSAH FOR 559 PILLOW CASES

At the recent meeting of the chapter of Hadassah a letter from Miss Henrietta Szold, acting director of Hadassah medical organization of Palestine, which had been received by Mrs. Samuel Taylor, ex-president of the Norwich chapter, was read. The letter, giving interesting details of the medical units' work and accomplishments, is as follows:

Hadassah Medical Organization.
Feb. 20, 1923.

Dear Mrs. Taylor:

Please extend to the Norwich chapter of Hadassah my cordial appreciation of their remarkable consignment of 559 pillow cases which Mrs. Fromenson despatched to us as long ago as Nov. 14. If I am writing to you only now to express my appreciation, it is because, in the first place, it takes time for consignments to reach us; in the second place, I am kept so busy with a thousand routine details connected with the Hadassah medical organization that I am forced constantly to neglect my personal and semi-personal correspondence. I am sure you understand, for the national headquarters of Hadassah, as I know by the reports sent to me, keeps all the chapters informed of what is going on in Palestine with reference to the medical work. You therefore know that circumstances have forced me to assume a task far beyond my strength, that of directing the unit until Dr. Rubinow's successor can be appointed. It would be useless for me to attempt to describe to you what this directorship means. Picture to yourself a responsibility that comes to one through four large hospitals and from 60 rural settlements, not to mention clinics, infant welfare stations, nurses' training school, and all the other institutions for medical work. My mind has to jump from drugs to babies, from milk to instruments, from stoves to alcohol, from rents to nurses—but it is impossible to enumerate all the details. Add to my responsibilities my anxieties. At this present moment I am working under the pressure of the knowledge that our debt to our employes is rolling up, rolling up. There is only one department that never gives me any anxiety—the linen department. That is always kept well supplied, because, under Mrs. Fromenson's marshaling directorship, there are, as I hear, 425 bands constantly at work throughout the United States to keep our shelves filled and our hospitals in linens. Your 559 pillow cases will not only keep our big hospitals supplied. They will also meet the needs of the field hospitals of the Kuppat Holim, the Workingmen's Sick Benefit society, scattered throughout the country, which, medically, are under our supervision. Everybody in Palestine who, in one way or another, is connected with a medical institution, knows of our wealth of linens, and not a day passes but that we have an application for a share in our treasures. Some day, when I have time, I shall try to compile a list of the gifts we have made to institutions outside of our hospitals. Then the Hadassah women in America will know how productive of good their industry has been. Convey my gratitude to the chapter and my best wishes for its continued success.

Sincerely yours,
HENRIETTA SZOLD,
Acting Director.

RADIATOR NOON MEETING WITH INTERESTING ADDRESS

The weekly [illegible] Y. M. C. A. auspices was held Tuesday at the Ribbon Room of company with a good attendance of the employes. Rev. Clarence H. Dickens as usual graced the audience, talking for the [illegible] garment of Light.

In part, Mr. [illegible] said:

"The [illegible] comparing the first [illegible] garment is something we [illegible] a two-fold purpose. As a protection, preserving the necessary bodily warmth and a conservation. Light and heat are inseparable and therefore the garment [illegible] stands for the comfort in that it [illegible] not to overlook the [illegible] of a good deed. To dress becomingly is a moral duty as there is no religion in untidiness. Let us look for stuff of color which is a creation of the light. How nature revels in gorgeous robes—grasses, autumn, flowers, sparkling forest. What each end of color in it relates. Let us not hesitate to appropriate the light.

Can we ought [illegible] to put on the garments of [illegible] days, as for the following season: I am a child of God, and I trust he something like my Father. If people can see nothing of the heavenly Father in and through me, then I am one first class fraud. If I am [illegible] child of God, I must be something like my Father, and as "God is light," I, too, must be its dispenser and its interpretation.

The program went on to elaborate what the light of God would do in and through us.

1. It would be constantly through our consecrated personalities.

2. It would make our very faces a living benediction.

3. It means the cultivation of a cheerful disposition which was an ideal stable influence for good.

4. It means the kindness of genial [illegible] in office hours, rendered by surprised and the kind [illegible]

5. It means the [illegible] of this [illegible] [illegible] no [illegible] that [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

6. There is nothing like a ray of light [illegible] to [illegible] discouraged lives [illegible]

RELIEF TO RUSSIA HAS UNDERMINED COMMUNISM

Sir Paul Dukes, who received his title for his work in the secret service of the English during the world war, delivered the closing lecture on Tuesday evening at Slater hall in the [illegible] auspices of the Norwich churches. He spoke upon Secret Service in Red Russia, giving an interesting description of some of his experiences in the ten months he lived in Petrograd in disguise.

Rev. [illegible] H. Roberts introduced him to the large audience that nearly filled the hall. Preceding his recital of his experiences as a secret service worker, the speaker gave an information of present conditions with [illegible] bolshevik government in Russia.

The term "Bolshevik Russia," he said, is a misnomer. Russia is not bolshevist but the government is. By their own figures there are 300,000 bolshevists (Communists) in Russia's population of 150 million. The [illegible] bolshevist to every 200 Russians, less than one-third of one per cent., and they are constantly decreasing. It is this tiny clique holds the nation in subjection. To understand why this could be so, it is necessary to understand the Russian character, the rut of apathy in which they have traveled for years in slavery and the psychological effect of the seizure of lands by the peasants. A third reason is the establishment by the bolsheviks of the red police system, more efficient and more brutal than even under the rule of the czars.

The bolshevik leaders announce to the world that it is a government of the dictatorship of the workers and the peasants. They themselves, are neither workers or peasants, and as a workers' and peasants' regime it is the biggest hoax ever foisted upon the world, declared Sir Paul Dukes.

The bolsheviks promised universal suffrage, the secret ballot and a constituent assembly, but as soon as they were in control they abolished the secret ballot, disfranchised four-fifths of the peasants to whom the revolution had given the ballot, and they made it dangerous to stand for office. By faked elections they kept the majority in the soviets.

Although all the economic measures of the communists have failed in Russia, there is good coming out of it, said the speaker. The relief that has been furnished from the outside world has taught the Russians that conditions outside are not as they have been painted by the communists. The bolshevik leaders had told the people that all the nations were ready for a great international soviet republic, that the intellectuals were effete, rotten, heartless. But the aid that the nations has sent has shown the Russians that the world does care for their suffering and that what the bolshevik leaders has told them is not true. Now the bolsheviks are concerned with saving their own necks. They admit their failure to establish communism.

Sir Dukes ventured the prediction that when the split comes in the communist party, Russia will produce neither socialism, monarchism, or republicanism, but a co-operative state on some new line which they will work out.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Residents along Mechanic street are delighted with the fact that the annual borough meeting voted an appropriation of $8,000 for the construction of 1600 feet of sewer through that thoroughfare. The section to be built will take care of the construction, according to an engineers estimate, from the corner of Hutchins and Mechanic street, where the Mechanic street sewer now ends, to a point near the residence of Julien Benac.

In explaining the sewer building proposal as a neighborly act in behalf of those interested, Attorney Harry E. Back pointed out that the proposed section of sewer is one of the most expensive for its length in the entire borough system. This is due to the fact that the pipes must be laid at an average depth of 18 feet because of the grade and because of the necessity of providing against the time when all sewage from the Connecticut Mills section of Danielson will have to come down through the main sewage lanes in the borough and pass out into the filter beds in time. The state is constantly striving for legislation that will stop the pollution of its streams and the day is sure to come when the Assawaga river will be relieved of its present service and sewage will come down from north of the borough into the main lines of the system.

Attorney Back further stated to the meeting that it is estimated that approximately one-half of the original cost of the sewer will come back to the borough in the form of sewer assessments, making the net cost only about $4,000.

As no one was present at the annual meeting to speak in favor of the clause in the warning asking for action on a petition for the construction of a sewer in Railroad street from a point opposite the plant of the River Weaving company to a point opposite a dwelling owned by Arthur G. Bill, the matter was tabled, though an effort was made for indefinite postponement of the matter.

This is short notice to those who may wish to attend, but there will be a pruning demonstration this (Wednesday) morning at 10 o'clock at the firm of W. R. Herr in the town of Canterbury. In his notice of this meeting County Agent F. L. Davis points out that apples are one of the most profitable farm crops when good care is received. Those who have either large or small orchards should consider giving them good care because of the profitable returns that are possible. One of the orchard management demonstrators made a net income of $1400 last year; three years ago this man's orchard was in bad condition. Fruit is receiving much more attention in Windham county than was the case three years ago, and there is something well worth while awaiting each and every one that attends this morning orchard demonstration.

What the expenditures are between now and August will determine in a measure what the borough tax rate will be for the ensuing year. The annual borough meeting has been adjourned until the first Monday in August, at which time the tax rate will be fixed and the time for collection decided upon. By that time a fairly good line will have been obtained on the most needed to run the borough during the current fiscal year. The largest special expenditures this year are likely to be for sewers authorized. Depending on the labor market and the delivery of required materials for sewer construction is the determination of how much of the work can be done, as authorized, during 1925, but the borough officials will exert themselves to the utmost.

A musical event that was of special interest and appreciated by music lovers in attendance was the presentation by the Treble Clef club at the Orpheum theatre Tuesday evening of the Lady of Shalot and a series of splendid concert numbers. The cast was made up of local singers, assisted by Miss Frances Waterman, soprano, and Miss Marion Waterman, harpist, the production under the supervision of Henry N. Flagg, director of the club. An orchestra assisted in making a success of the evening's entertainment.

The drinking font for horses is to be removed from where it has stood for many years at the head of Reynolds street, near the thoroughfare's junction with Main. The annual borough meeting instructed the borough officials to see that it is removed. It was placed many years ago by the borough and has been maintained by the borough. It has come to be regarded as a menace to the heavy traffic now passing through Reynolds street, which is all too narrow about the park without having additional obstruction that can be eliminated in place. It is anticipated that the font will be removed this spring. Possibly some other suitable location can be found for it, but this phase of the matter was not discussed at the meeting.

Every one of those who marked a ballot in Monday's annual town election voted for John McFarland to succeed himself as head of the borough police department, and it so happened that Chief McFarland was the only candidate on the ticket to poll the full vote cast. This is taken as a well deserved tribute to Chief McFarland by his fellow citizens and of their appreciation of the loyal and never failing manner in which he discharges the duties of his office. Likewise it is encouragement to a faithful officer, intent upon giving the borough the best possible service.

Adjusters were at Goodyear Tuesday to fix the loss suffered when a quantity of cotton in process of manufacture became ignited the past week end and was considerably damaged at the Goodyear Mills, Inc. From time to time since the first outbreak of the fire, believed to have been caused by a piece of metal striking against some part of a machine and causing a spark the fire has broken out anew, although it has been thoroughly wet down by the fire department and apparently thoroughly soaked by rains that have since fallen over the area where it has been spread out. The damage was several hundred dollars.

Such a carnival of automobile stealing is on throughout the country—and this territory has not escaped being touched by it—that local owners of machines are taking more than ordinary precautions against the loss of them through theft. Men who have not heretofore locked their cars are now doing so when they leave them parked and are to be absent from them any length of time.

The publicity given in this column Tuesday morning to the matter of stoning cars passing through Dyer street has developed the information that a number of persons who have not heretofore reported have had the same experience with boys who seem to delight in hurling a rock at a machine, especially if it is a pretty new car. No other part of the borough seems to be afflicted with this evidence of meanness among boys, and severe measures will be applied in bringing it to a prompt end.

At a hearing before Justice Frank M. Bedard, Fred Espaniosa of the West Side was fined $50 and cas, a total of $69.78, on a deputation count and sentenced to 30 days in jail on a charge of keeping with intent to sell, but the execution of the jail sentence was suspended. The fine and costs were paid.

In advocating the building of a sewer through Mechanic street Dr. W. H. Judson, health officer of the borough pointed out that all of the territory near the junction of Mechanic street and West field avenue is low lying and that in the summer time the conditions are right for the breeding of diphtheria conditions about the seapools in the territory. This condition will be greatly relieved by the building of the sewor.

An officer from the local barracks was called to Phoenixville Tuesday to investigate a break that occurred at the Wheaton store in that place the previous evening.

The ring of the axes of choppers may still be heard in woodland territory hereabout as the workers pile up a surplus of cord wood for next fall and winter and also to meet the summer demand for fuel. All stocks of dry wood hereabouts were exhausted during the coal shortage of the past winter.

PUTNAM

Among the various minor burglaries reported to the police here during the past few days was one that occurred at Phoenixville during the early hours of Tuesday morning, when a break was made at the Wheaton store and a quantity of cigars and a searchlight taken. The burglars forced a door to gain an entrance. Phoenixville is on the state highway between this city and Willimantic and approximately a midway point between the two cities. State police were investigating the break on Tuesday.

Announcement was received here Tuesday by friends of the death of Miss Ellen E. Osgood of East Hartford, formerly a teacher in Putnam High school and one of the best known and most able teachers in the list of those who have served at the local institution.

The past week end while her luncheon guests were upstairs visiting with her invalid sister and she remained downstairs to prepare the meal, Miss Osgood suffered a paralytic stroke from which it was evident from the first she would not recover. When the guests came downstairs they found Miss Osgood lying unconscious on the floor of the kitchen. Miss Mary L. Corning, who lives near the Osgood home, was summoned and Miss Grace E. Merritt a public health nurse, whose office is also nearby, was summoned. Dr. Howard B. Haylett said Miss Osgood had suffered a paralytic stroke and that her entire left side was paralyzed.

Miss Ellen Elizabeth Osgood was born in Abington, a section of the town of Pomfret, May 23, 1850, the daughter of Charles and Lucy (Holbrook) Osgood. Her early studies which were to lead to her becoming one of the best known woman educators of her day in southern New England were in the schools of her native village. Her preparation for entrance to Mt. Holyoke college was at Woodstock academy and Dedham, Mass., High school. She was graduated from Mt. Holyoke in 1872, and came to this city as assistant principal of the newly established Putnam high school in the fall of that year, remaining here as a member of the faculty for seven years. In 1882 Miss Osgood spent the year abroad, traveling and studying. In 1883 and 1884 she was a teacher of history at Swarthmore college in Pennsylvania and in 1885 was elected to the principalship of Cushing academy at Ashburnham, Mass. She taught there until 1895, having spent the summer of 1894 abroad, and then resigned to take a year entirely devoted to rest and study, spending the greater part of this time in Boston and benefiting from the educational opportunities offered by Harvard and other centers of learning in that city. In 1896 Miss Osgood was recalled to Cushing academy and remained there for a number of years.

She was an accomplished and brilliant scholar. Her specialties were English literature and French.

For the past ten years she has been making her home in East Hartford, caring for her sister, Miss Mary Osgood, 83, who is an invalid. She has always kept in touch with her many friends in this city and they will learn of her death with deep regret.

Miss Osgood was of an old New England family. She was well known in Hartford as the president of the Prisoners' chapter of the Kings Daughters and as a member of Martha Pitkin Wolcott chapter, D. A. R. She was affiliated with the First Congregational church of Hartford.

Now who in the world can "J. L." be? She is supposed to live in Putnam, is represented as being 26 years of age, a widow and of the Protestant faith. Interest in this mysterious personage is aroused through the fact that a Boston newspaper describes her as one of those who is sufficiently interested in a Virginian's proposal of marriage to put up $5,000 on her own account to show that she is the real thing with financial stability of her own and not a mere hunter after the southerner's great wealth and the comforts it would bring to her.

City directories were being industriously thumbed here Tuesday in an effort to check up every J. L. that comes anywhere near the brief description of the woman that appeared in the Boston paper. Up to sunset no definite decision as to who's who in the case had been arrived at, but it may be worked out in a day or two, even if J. L.'s full name isn't published to relieve the curiosity of those who would know all about this interesting woman and the venture she is represented as willing to enter into with the southern gentleman, who, it appears, has attached a $5,000 premium on his hand, as a means it is explained of keeping unworthy contenders for it out of the running.

An addition 50 feet in length has been authorized for the unfinished garage of the Buick Sales company of this city. The garage, started last fall, was originally planned to be 110 feet in length, but the firm finds that it is going to need the additional space, so has ordered that the length be increased to 160 feet. The walls of the main structure are of concrete blocks built around a steel frame and trusses and are rising rapidly. The building will have 130 car capacity. It will be completed some time in June.

What is known as the hospital sewage project has been practically completed and it is expected the new sewer will come into use this week. This sewer will relieve a very unsatisfactory condition that has existed about the hospital for a long time and will allow of cesspools going into disuse and disappearance of all the abominations connected with them. The new sewer runs from the hospital to the Quinebaug river, into which it empties. It has been built at a very considerable cost to the city, but the expenditure is regarded as one that was well worth while.

Putnam Aerie of Eagles put on a snappy minstrel and musical revue at the Bradley theatre Tuesday evening and the big audience that saw it rated the production one of the best in which local talent has appeared for a long time. Upwards of half a hundred local people were in the cast, which was ably directed by George A. Bartlett. All of the special features went over big, giving the audience a real evening of pleasure.

A fruit meeting and pruning demonstration a feature of the co-operative extension work in agriculture and home economics under the auspices of the state and the County Farmers' association is to be held Thursday morning of this week at 10 o'clock at the L. H. Lindeman place in East Woodstock. The affair will include a discussion of spraying, fertilization and cultivation by W. H. Darrow, fruit specialist.

County Agent F. L. Davis points out that now is the time to think about the carrying out of the plans made last fall for the production of better fruit. He says that it seems logical and good business sense to allot a reasonable amount of time to the care of a crop that is all grown, especially when it is generally a profitable crop.

The object of the Quinebaug Valley Fruit Growers' association is to bring about better fruit and the purpose of Thursday's meeting at East Woodstock is to talk over the necessary operations and come to an understanding. All interested in fruit culture are invited to attend this meeting.

The fire department answered two alarms for fire between 10.30 Monday night and 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. BREED THEATRE

"South of Suva," the latest release of Mary Miles Minter, at the Breed today and Thursday, concerns a bride who comes to the South Seas to join her husband only to find that he has fallen under the baneful tropic influences.

Before the girl works her way out to happiness there are some extremely gripping scenes, which include a native attack on a lagoon, their dispersal by dynamite, a real Fiji Island cannibalistic dance—all worked cleverly into the warp and woof of a most colorful story.

The accuracy of the picture is guaranteed by its author, who spent five years in the South Seas as the assistant manager of a 12,000 acre cocoanut plantation.

Miss Minter has as her leading man the popular John Bowers, while other players include Fred Kelsey, Walter Long, Winifred Bryson, Lawrence Steers and Roy Atwell. Frank Urson directed with supervision by Elmer Harris. Allen Davey photographed while Fred Myton wrote the scenario.

The New Leather Pushers will also be shown. This series is presented with the original cast featuring Reginald Denny and are made from the famous Collier's Weekly stories by H. C. Witwer. Movie Chats and Aesops Fables make up the remainder of the bill.

Milford—The two postal employes of the local office, who were laid off a week ago through lack of funds, will be restored to their former places and the office will once more return to "normalcy."

A SCHOOL GIRLS SUCCESS

Everything Depends upon her Health

Mrs. George E. Whitacre Tells of Her Daughter's Breakdown and How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Healthy, Happy, Strong Girl

Every mother possesses information of vital importance to her young daughter, and the responsibility for her future is largely in her hands.

When a school girl's thoughts become sluggish, when she suffers the consequences of wet feet, pain, headaches, fainting spells, loss of sleep and appetite, and is irregular, her mother should have a thought for her physical condition and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which has proved a reliable aid to nature for just such conditions in so many cases.

This Mother Writes:

Mahoningtown, Pa.—"I would like to say a few words about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About a year ago I thought it would be necessary for me to take my daughter out of school. She was losing weight, was nervous, and when she would come home from school she would drop into a chair and cry, and say, 'Mamma, I don't believe I can go to school another day!' I gave her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now she is a healthy, happy, hearty, strong girl and weighs 120 pounds. She has no difficulty in doing her 'gym' work, and she works at home every night and morning, too. I am a mother who can certainly praise your medicine, and if it will be of any benefit you may use this letter as a reference."—Mrs. GEORGE E. WHITACRE, 621 W. Madison Avenue, Mahoningtown, Pa.

Every girl ought to be healthy and strong, and every mother wants her daughter to do well in school and to enjoy herself at other times.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for young women just entering womanhood. Mothers can depend upon it. It is prepared from roots and herbs, contains nothing harmful, and has great power to tone up and strengthen the system, so it will work in a healthy and normal manner.

For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been used by women of all ages, and these women know its great value. Let it help your daughter and yourself.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

BROADWAY, THURS., FRI., SAT.

Another fine program of B. F. Keith standard vaudeville has been arranged for the last half of this week for the Broadway theatre which are as follows:

Dolly & Kelley in a musical offering; Calvin and OConnor, comedians; Four Madcaps, in dancing novelty; Hal Springford, the impersonator; Zenator & Smith, the flying minstrels.

From a hall bedroom to a home in a palace—that is the jump taken by Walter Miers as the star of "Mr. Billings Spends His Dime," a Paramount picture in which Jacqueline Logan is featured as leading woman. At the opening of the play, which comes to the Broadway theatre Thursday, Hiers is a twenty-dollar a week clerk in a department store, specializing in collars, ties and collar buttons. As the tale unfolds, he races at a dizzying pace through a series of romances, thrills, near-assassinations and South American wars; he steps from a hall bed-room to a hotel room, to an apartment, to a ship stateroom, and then, finally, to a room in the palace of the president of Santo Dinero, a South American republic. The picture is filled with laughs to hold one's attention to the final fade-out.

Norma Talmadge Continues at Strand

The Voice from the Minaret, Norma Talmadge's latest picture for First National release, which is now being shown at the Strand theatre, is noteworthy for its unique variety of settings. The story, from the pen of Robert Hichens, covers considerable ground, and Director Frank Lloyd was compelled to reproduce far off scenes on the studio lot in Los Angeles.

The story opens in Bombay, India, proceeds through the Suez Canal to Port Said; then to Damascus, back to Bombay, from there to London and finally has finis written to its exotic pages in Damascus again.

In order to secure realism, it was necessary for Mr. Lloyd to conduct extensive research into the customs, raiment and living conditions in those parts of the globe. However he did not have to do all the actual work, for in the film capital there are gathered "experts" who are acquainted with all sections of the world and can be relied on to give advice to motion picture producers along their special lines.

Eugene O'Brien heads the supporting cast in this production.

Here tempestuous love and desert dangers play. Here a thousand figures sweep across the screen in beauty—or berserk! Vast scenes—splendors—they come; they go. So never to forget is the incomparable are with which Norma Talmadge portrays the woman who dares—loving as though from the heart of Salome, Sheba, Cleopatra!

An added attraction is the Message of Emile Coue, with M. Coue personally appearing in this, his only motion picture explaining self mastery through conscious auto-suggestion.

A comedy and news weekly are the other subjects.

BRADLEY THEATRE, PUTNAM

What the press of a southern city think about Shuffle Along, coming to the Bradley theatre, Monday evening, April 16, is set forth in the following is set forth in the following from a Norfolk, Va., paper:

With the inspiration of a packed house the members of the "Shuffle Along" company just turned themselves loose at the Colonial last night. They shuffled their feet and they swung their arms. They lifted their voices in syncopated songs, solos, duets and ensembles. They sang and they danced and they danced and they sang. Sometimes they sang without dancing and sometimes they danced without singing, but whatever they did was done with all the ardor of persons who just loved to strut their stuff. They strutted it.

Talk about the singingest singers that ever sung a song and the steppingest steppers that ever stepped a step, that collection of jazz hounds in "Shuffle Along," from the colored Valentino with the high baritone voice to the last pair of feet in the chorus, just about elected themselves the high-joys of all colored entertainers. They syncopated and they shimmied and all through the music throbbed a rythmic beat that was steady and persistent, but joyfully joyous at all times.

To be sure there were moments when it seemed as if "Shuffle Along" had been conceived in seriousness, but had been seized with a Bert Williams sense of humor at times that was delightfully droll, not to say comic. It was often apparently unintentional burlesque, or parody, but it was none the less funny for all that.

John Vaughner and Edgar Connerr were the chief funmakers and Vaughner at times demonstrated that Bert Williams has a worthy disciple, whiel Edgar Conners' Sam Peck was evidently taken from the same original as one of Johnny Hesley's studies in cork.

ORPHEUM THEATRE, DANIELSON

A real treat and one sure to be remembered long after other offerings have faded into the realms of obscurity will be tonight's attraction at the Orpheum theatre, Danielson.

We refer to that riproaring and irresistibly funny show, Bringing Up Father, musical comedy entitled, Father On His Vacation. In this unique offering, Father essays to take a rest. In other words to his himself away from the world and his tormentor and helpmate, Maggie. If you have enjoyed your favorites in the pages of the dailies you will no doubt find additional pleasure in seeing them all in the flesh—from the beloved Jiggs Mahoney down to the eccentric, yet troublesome Dinty. A large and competent company has been engaged. An exceptional production is promised.

JEWETT CITY

After hundreds of musical organizations, and character sketch artists have done their best on the Finn opera house stage, it remained for the Orville La Fiamme Post, No. 15, American Legion, Monday evening, to set a new mark of excellence in many lines, and in the whole show to rank with the best that the local playhouse has ever seen.

The exceptionally large audience, only a few short of seven hundred, seemed to prove as an inspiration, for every character from the interlocutor to the junior members of the chorus, presented their best, in lines and songs. The audience also proved pleasantly responsive to the efforts made from the stage to entertain, and every number received its merited rounds of hearty applause.

The evening's entertainment had a most impressive and happy beginning. Responding to the request of William J. Duggan, the lights were dimmed, the audience rose, and stood with bowed heads for a moment, while silent prayers were said for those who rest in the great national cemeteries, or are asleep in the deep. Taps were sounded by William Maynard. The national anthem was sung, Charles Harrington leader. All the while, in the glow of an electric spot light, operated from the balcony by Gilbert Miner, were to be seen Walter Benjamin for the army, Irving Thornton for the navy and George Wilcox, color bearer.

The stage settings presented an artistic arrangement, with wide alternate panels of orange and black in the center of which was to be seen the national official insignia of the Legion. The management, determined to excel, had arranged so that every man in the grand introductory overture was dressed by a costumier who evidently was a past master in the up-to-date modes of the stage. The soloists and chorus appeared in black tuxedo suits, while Mr. Duggan was clad in a full evening Palm Beach outfit. The end men, in their special imported togs were well worth the price of admission.

The characters in part one, and the songs they sang so acceptably are as follows:

While the Years Roll By, opening by entire chorus; Coal Black Mammy, end men's entrance; Tomorrow, end men's overture, Carolina in the Morning, entire chorus; You Tell Her, I Stutter, Adrien Menard; Get Your Satchel Packed, Chester Stafford; For the Sake of Auld Lang Syne, Charles Harrington; I Ain't Got Enough to Pass Around, end song, Wilfred LeClaire; My Wild Irish Rose, William Dealtrey; True Blue Sam, Everett Hiscox; Call Me Back, Pal o' Mine, William Liberty; Cowbells, Herbert Thompson; Where the Bamboo Babies Grow, John LeClaire; All Muddled Up, first part finale, entire chorus. The running fire of local hits and jokes were funny and contained not one objectionable feature. "Cup" LeClaire, who is just in from a trip to the Orient, introduced the Singapore slip and the Red Sea glide, much to the general pleasure.

Part two—Scotty, Alex Powers; Take a Tumble, Harold Cady and Henry Ouillett; Bits of Harmony, William Dealtrey, first tenor; Harry Paul, second tenor; Everett Hiscox, baritone, Peter Flynn, bass. Melody Land William Dealtrey, soloist; James Olson, piano, Tyler Gilbert, violin. Grand finale, entire chorus.

In the Melody land number James Olsen gave Hungarian March, as a piano solo. Tyler Gilbert's violin selection was Sarabande, by Bohn, and Mr. Dealtrey's tenor solo was O Sole Mio, by Capua. Second to no other contributory part, which contrived for the common success, was the fine accompanying by Morey's orchestra: Louis Morey, piano; Tyler Gilbert, violin; Claude Leathers, saxophone; Wilfred Lamothe, drums.

The committee of arrangements, all of whom won ratings in the first class were: Gilbert Miner, chairman and stage manager; Alex Desjardins, H. George Wilcox, Homer Gagnon, William Maynard, Charles Campbell, William McGovern, direction of Herbert Thompson and William Duggan.

There is generally some outstanding feature in an affair of this sort, where so much honest study and labor is required. In this case it is the pleasant harmony with which the boys of the Legion and members of the K. of C. pulled together, the only idea being the success of the play. The services of Mr. Duggan, not a Legion man, have been invaluable, and helped a long ways to secure the common goal.

The Southern New England Telephone company have made application for permission to make a change in their overhead wire system just below the junction of North and East Main streets. The plan, if it becomes operative, includes the carrying of the wires across and over Main street almost above the entrance to David Hale Fanning park.

If the permission is granted, people on the state road approaching the park from the south will see the borough's beautiful soldiers' monument through a network of wires. Mr. Fanning of Worcester, the donor of the park and in whose know it is dedicated, has been notified of the matter.

In a letter from him, he deplores any such altogether unnecessary arrangement, and says the plans of the telephone people should be strenuously opposed. They are little concerned for the appearance of the borough's streets, or the beauty of its park, seen at its best, only when the view is unobstructed as one approaches from the south.

It is pointed out that there are ample other means available, for the perfecting of additions to the company's uptown party and private lines.

If The Wheels Stopped Turning

If the wheels in every one of the sixty mills operated by the American Woolen Company stopped turning today, more than 35,000 men and women would be jobless tomorrow.

Affecting all classes from the wool growers in the field to the man on the street, the cessation of the activities of this company would react adversely upon every industry in the country, such is the scope and magnitude of its operations.

That the wheels may continue to turn, that countless thousands may continue to be happy at their work, that men and women may continue to buy good clothing at fair prices, and that prosperity may continue to be the reward of endeavor—that is the purpose of the American Woolen Company and the reason for its existence.

NEW LONDON'S ESTIMATED EXPENSES SHOW INCREASE OF $16,000

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 10.—The estimate of expenses of the city, and what they have been during the last six months, for the money has been spent, up to the first of October have been made known by the published budget. They are a little over $16,000 more than they were last year and more than they were under the old form of government. The figures are grouped under departments so that no one knows what the expenses are except as they are charged to some particular department of the city and are given in round numbers. One of the claims on which the promoters of the new form of government laid great stress was that taxes were to be reduced, but they have not made good on that claim.

A hearing is to be held on the approval of the budget and then it may be known just what the specific expenditures have been and what they are estimated to be during the six months to come. Under the charter the budget should have been submitted the first of last October, and lawyers claim that every dollar that has been expended since then was illegally expended. But there is no one to find fault with that. The services the city secured and the goods bought was to be paid for and it was settled for so there will be no grumbling on that score.

Connecticut College for Women resumed its sessions today with a large attendance of pupils. It will be a day or two before the girls settle down to hard work at their studies.

It is estimated that the Crowley club will net something like $900 by the two entertainments it provided this week. The expense of the entertainments was reduced to the minimum and the attendance at the prices charged will realize a large sum for the club. It is said that the tickets cost the club nothing because there was an advertisement on the back of them and that the program was a source of profit for the same reason. The auditorium where the show was held was secured at a low price and the patronage was large at the cost of tickets.

Of course the proposition to make Bank street a one-way thoroughfare is meeting with a determined opposition. There are a great many doing business on that street who will declare most emphatically that the scheme should meet with such opposition that it will be abandoned. The plan is to allow parking on only one side of the street which would shut out the display windows and the fronts of many stores from view and the up-to-date merchants relies largely upon his windows to sell his goods. The most feasible plan yet proposed is that to send the trolley cars through North Bank street connecting with the main line at Hallams street. This would relieve much of the congestion on State street and on the lower part of Main street. The matter of making Bank street a one-way street for the trolley cars has been suggested to the street railway company, and merchants on Bank street expect that the company will "jump" on the idea with both feet. It would send the trolley business either going to or coming from the beach around through Washington street to get to State street, and the section of the latter street between Union and Washington streets is now so congested that there has been most serious complaint about it. It is understood that the planning board has in view the opening of North Bank street, or what was known as Bradley street to Main street at Hallam street. That would relieve the situation very much. But the planning board, like many city commissions, moves slowly and cautiously and is conservative in great degree.

An automobile, owned and operated by Hyman Broverman of No. 19 Shapley street and a machine, owned and driven by M. Rogers, a marine, stationed at the submarine base, were in collision late this afternoon on Cottage street. Broverman's machine suffered the greater damage.

That the police intend to enforce the law regulating the parking rules on the heavily traversed streets of the city was again illustrated this afternoon when two more violators were ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning. The violators were R. L. Holmes of No. 60 Pine street, Providence, who parked his car on Main street an hour and a half and Iman Fishel of Mattepan, Mass., whose car was parked on State street for a time longer than is regulated by ordinance.

Nathan Avery and family today moved from Ocean avenue to Bellefue place.

John Wallin will be arraigned in the police court tomorrow morning charged with breach of peace and drunkenness. Wallin was taken into custody this evening by Sergeant Samuel Hick when Wallin went to his home on Cedar Grove avenue and created a disturbance.

Four youths will be arraigned in the juvenile court the latter part of the week for this evening the quartette forced an entrance to the Yankee Fried Cake bakery on Moore avenue. They obtained a little plunder, stealing only a small quantity of the stock, for no money was secured. The youths gained entrance by forcing one of the rear entrances and then ascending stairs to the bakery where their search revealed nothing other than a quantity of fried cakes. The break was discovered a short time after it occurred and the four youths, none of whom are over 16 years of age, were taken into custody and later turned over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield.

The government will send to New London this week one or more specialists to examine Harry Morse, who with his brothers and father, are under indictment to appear in the United States supreme court at Washington, charged with conspiring to defraud the government on war contracts when the elder Morse operated the Groton Iron Works, for the purpose of examining Morse and determine whether the son's condition is such that prevents him from attending trial. The case has been postponed several times because of the alleged condition of Morse and it is for the purpose of ascertaining the exact condition of the accused that the representative physician of the court will come here. Morse has been in New London several weeks and under the care of a local physician.

Attorney James Joseph Lynch, chief of the naturalization division in the federal service at Providence, and Miss Beatie Cavanaugh, sister of Policemen John J. Dennis and Thomas Cavanaugh of New London, will be married Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church in this city with a nuptial high mass. Mr. Lynch will be attended by Edward Cavanaugh, brother of the bride, and the bridesmaid will be Miss Mary Kenure. The young couple will reside at Providence. Miss Cavanaugh is popular with a large circle of acquaintances. She has been employed at the Bishop music store in this city some time and is held in the highest esteem by her employers and the patrons of the store. Mr. Lynch's home is in Boston.

Jeremiah J. Lyons has sold a house and lot on Montauk avenue to Robert Rasmussen.

Warren Brown, deputy revenue agent, until recently stationed at New Haven, has been assigned to duty in New London. Mr. Brown assumed the duties of his new assignment today.

The estate of Joseph Smith 2nd today sold a house and lot on Broad street to Lucy Withey Gardner. The purchaser later transferred the property to Robert J. Sisk.

Harry Meadnis has sold a tract of land on Pequot avenue to Byrne A. Fones.

Frank McDuff of Pawtucket, R. I., and Miss Helene Dorsey of New London will be married in New York Thursday. Miss Dorsey is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Dorsey of Ocean Beach.

Harold Pinkham, residing on the Watrous farm in Groton, is under arrest here, having been taken into custody at the request of the department of justice charged with giving false testimony in bankruptcy proceedings recently. Pinkham is being held a prisoner at the police station pending the arrival of a United States marshal to take him to Hartford for trial.

Pinkham's arrest was requested by the department of justice and this morning Traffic Policeman Frank Linehan detected a fellow operating an automobile that answered Pinkham's description passing the corner of State and Main street. The officer interrogated the operator and it was then revealed that Pinkham was the man wanted.

Pinkham is employed as an automobile salesman.

Cadets Beverly Moody and Edward Wilcox, of the United States Coast Guard academy and Mrs. Michael Shunka of Winthrop street, patients at the Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel has caused the operator's license of Robert McPee of No. 84 Tenth street to be suspended.

Two Waterford autoists were fined in the police court today for violation of the traffic ordinances of the city. They were Joseph Perry and Nathan Traystrom. They parked their cars on Bank street for a period of two hours, while there were street signs right at the windshield of either car to tell all who ran and could read that they could not stop their cars there for more than 20 minutes at a time. The rural autoists paid no heed to the warning and today paid the penalty. The fines were not as heavy as they might have been and n costs were attached to make the penalty more severe.

Teamsters complain that the site of policeman at the corner of Howard street is misplaced in that it should be placed at the Bank street side of the crossing instead of at the Howard street side. It is claimed that heavy and large trucks do not have the turning space they should have and might have, had the policeman been put on the south side of the walk.

Kate Harris, a colored woman, who has been in the police limelight often, complained to the police yesterday that she had been attacked by a Polish man and she asked for his arrest. The man was apprehended, but when he was arraigned in the police court today she failed to appear to verify the charge she had made and the case against the Pole was then and there nolled.

New London's natal day is less than a month away and as no steps have been taken for the special recognition of it there is likelihood that the only celebration that will be had will be the raising of the flag on the municipal building and the floating of the Stars and Stripes at a few homes.

COLUMBIA

The continued case of George Dennis for reckless driving was brought before Justice Herbert P. Collins on Monday at 11 a. m. Dennis was represented by Lawyer Thomas Kelley of Willimantic, and the case was prosecuted by Grand Juror Dwight A. Lyman.

A. G. Tuffard of Cliffside, N. J., testified that he was driving from Hartford to Willimantic on March 13th, having his wife and a lady and gentleman in his car. He stated that in the vicinity of Loomer Rock hill while driving slowly because of the icy road, and being as near the fence on his right hand as possible, he was hit by a Blue Line jitney driving about 40 miles an hour, breaking his left front wheel, bending an axle, smashing a fender and the running board.

His car was towed to Willimantic for repairs while the jitney proceeded apparently uninjured. Several witnesses testified regarding the accident including Clayton Hunt, driver of the mail bus.

Dennis testified that he could get no nearer the fence and that the jitney was over on his side of the road, his left wheel being in the same ice rut as his own left wheel but that he could not get out and did not slow down. The testimony of the witnesses was very conflicting, the drivers stating the other was driving rapidly and that they were driving very slowly on their own side of the road.

In summing up Grand Juror Lyman stated that the state could not make out a strong case and Lawyer Kelley stated his client was willing to pay the costs if the case was nolled. The justice stated that he felt that Dennis was a reckless driver, and should have been more careful, because of the condition of the road. The court nolled the case upon the payment of costs of $45.98 by Dennis. Lawyer Kelley disputed the mileage charged in the costs, for the witnesses and stated that his client paid the costs under protest. He also stated that the court would hear from him later on the subject.

On Monday evening three delinquents in payment of personal taxes were brought before Justice Collins by Deputy Sheriff Allison L. Frink under complaint of Grand Juror Dwight A. Lyman, Theodore Sorokolet, William Schetman and Joe Dinner.

All stated that they had not received a notice to settle, but subsequently admitted they had. They wer echarged costs, respectively $13.53, $18.53, and $13.53, which were paid by Sorokolet and Schetman. As Dinner had not the money and would not have immediately, his case was continued to April 28th when he was told he must pay or go to jail.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

A Ride for the Boys and Girls

The Old Brown Horse felt very sad,
When an automobile went by.
He'd think of the days when he was young
And frisky as a fly.
And when he'd hear an auto horn,
He'd almost wish he'd never been born.

"Don't feel so blue," said kind Uncle Lucky, as the old brown horse seated himself in the luckymobile. "You can do lots of good in the world yet. You're not so old," and the old gentleman rabbit put on his thinking cap which is another way of saying he began to wonder what he could do to help his poor horse friend.

And away went the old brown horse.

"I know a man who wants a gentle horse for his little boys and girls," said Little Jack Rabbit, all of a sudden, for that was the way the little rabbit thought, you know, quick as a wink and sometimes quicker.

"Where does he live?" asked the old brown horse.

"We'll take you to him," said Little Jack Rabbit, and after a while and maybe a mile and a laugh and a smile, they came to the house where Mr. Jones lived and right in front of the gate was an old wagon.

"Ha, ha," said the old gentleman rabbit, "we're just in time," and he stopped the luckymobile. Then the old brown horse got out and hitched himself up to the wagon and began to neigh.

"Come out, little boys and girls and play,
I'll give you a ride to Far Away.
We'll go on a trot, and maybe a run—
Jump in and we'll have a lot of fun.
One little boy can hold the reins
And another swing the whip,
And the little girls can sit behind
And be careful not to slip,
And then we'll go with a merry song,
Over the road the whole day long."

Goodness, gracious meebus! No sooner had the Old Brown Horse sung this song than two little boys and two little girls ran out of the house and jumped into the wagon and away went the Old Brown Horse. When they were out of sight, Uncle Lucky said:

"Now's he happy, for who wants to be idle in this busy old world, and who wants to grow old and useless?" and the old gentleman rabbit took his old blue silk polkadot handkerchief out of his waistcoat pocket and wiped his old wedding stovepipe hat and then he pulled down his waistcoat and curled his whiskers.

"Hurrah!" he said, "I feel as young as I did thirty years ago," and tooting the horn three times and a half, drove away with Little Jack Rabbit at his side and in the next story if the Luckymobile climbs a telegraph pole to tell all the hoboes to do something good before they die, I'll tell you some more about these two little rabbits.

Day's total sales, 786,000 shares.

Twenty industrials averaged 101.88, net loss .35. High 1923, 105.28; low, 94.06.

Twenty railroads averaged 86.49, net loss .10. High 1923, 90.63; low 84.58.

MARKET WAS DULL

New York, April 10—Professional operations for the decline were resumed in today's relatively dull stock market. Virtually all sections of the list yielded to selling pressure but the recline was conducted in an orderly fashion and net losses in the major portion of the list were small. Brokers again reported a marked absence of public interest.

Additional wage increases in the steel industry, lower crude oil and gasoline prices in reflection of the enormous over-production and higher money rates furnished the necessary excuses for a free offering of recent speculative favorites. While distribution was apparent in several individual stocks, the comparatively small volume of sales was construed as an indication that forced liquidation was not very extensive.

Oils, as a group, were the hardest hit. Losses of 1 to 2 points were registered by California Petroleum, the Pan-American issues, Mariand, Producers & Refiners, Houston and Sinclair.

Republic Steel was heavily bought just before the close on reports that current earnings were at the annual rate of more than $17 a share, the stock closing 3 1-8 points higher at 84 7-8. U. S. Steel common and most of the independent steel issues closed fractionally lower. The relatively small increase of 119,343 tons in the unfilled orders of the steel corporation for March was explained by the fact that an unusually large volume of orders had been turned down during the month on account of oversold conditions. The production of steel ingots in March totaled 3,402,007 gross tons, a new high record for all time.

Sugar shares were buoyant for a time in response to another increase in the price of Cuban raw sugar to 5 7-8 cents a pound, a new high record, but early gains were materially reduced or forfeited in the late reaction. Cerro De Pasco Copper, which announced a resumption of dividend payments of $1 quarterly, improved fractionally but the other coppers were heavy. International Paper dropped 1 1-4 points on publication of a poor 1922 earnings report.

Call money opened at five per cent. and then advanced to 5 1-2 where it closed. Few loans were reported in the money market which appeared to be dead-locked with brokers bidding 5 1-4 per cent. and bankers holding out for 5 1-2 for all maturities. Commercial paper was fairly active with prime names commanding 5 and 5 1-4 per cent.

Foreign exchange rates were generally lower. Demand sterling dropped about a cent in the early trading but rallied later to $4.65 1-2. Yesterday's closing price. French francs dropped 12 1-2 points to 6.60 cents. The Italian, Belgian and Dutch rates also showed slight losses on the day.

BOND MARKET

New York, April 10.—Activity of sugar company liens, which registered mixed prices, and firmness of the U. S. government bonds featured today's relatively quiet bond market on the New York stock exchange. A slight stiffening of time money rates tended to restrict the upward movement of the last few days, but price changes generally were confined to fractions.

South Porto Rico sugar 7's dropped 2 3-8 points while most of the sugar liens advanced slightly in sympathy with the stocks. Punta Alegre Sugar 7's were up a point. Cerro De Pasco 8's were up 2 1-2 and Bethlehem Steel refunding 5's, 1 3-8. Railroad mortgages were dull, gains of 1 3-4 by Wabash first 5's and 1 1-2 by Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 4 1-4's being the only outstanding changes.

After opening heavy, U. S. government bonds became firm and most of the issues were up slightly at the close. Foreign bonds also held firm.

Total sales (par value) were $9,039,000.

An offering of 50,000 shares (par value $100) of the authorized capital stock of the International Telephone & Telegraph company, scheduled for tomorrow, was reported over-subscribed today.

An issue of $14,000,000 Public Service Electric Power company first mortgage 5 per cent. fifteen year bonds guaranteed by the Public Service corporation of New Jersey soon is to be offered at 97 1-2 to yield about 6.20 per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, April 10.—Expectancy that after five days' advance in price a reaction was due led to general profit taking sales today in the wheat market and brought about a material decline. The close was unsettled, 1 to 2 1-8 net lower with May $1.21 3-4 to 1.21 7-8 and July 1.19 3-4 to 1.19 7-8. Corn finished 1-2 to 1 a 1 1-8 down, and oats off 1-2 a 5-8 to 5-8 a 3-4c. In provisions the outcome varied from 5c decline to a rise of 7c.

According to the view accepted by a majority of wheat traders, the bullish aspects of the government crop report had already been discounted, and it was contended that the condition figures given in the report were probably the lowest that would be reached this season. Besides rising temperatures prevailing were regarded as likely to promotie seeding in the northwest and to check ravages by green bugs in the southwest. Libert primary receipts tended also to induce selling and to weight down values.

Notwithstanding that at times the buying of wheat was rather aggressive, the market failed to score any decided lasting rally. With premiums for ducum wheat easier and with gossip of slowing down of demand from Italy and England, bulls found themselves at a disadvantage throughout the day. Only 30,000 bushels and all of its Canadian was reported as having been taken for Europe.

Corn and oats declined in sympathy with wheat and as a result of better weather.

Provisions averaged higher owing to an upturn in hog values. Some increase of European demand for lard was noted.

a. "They all have stomachs" is Shakespeare's trenchant way of saying that supplying food and drink is a basic industry.

b. The satisfying of appetites is a regular and recurring demand, which will keep the purveyors of food and drink continually in business.

c. The selling of good food and drink, well prepared, from clean and beautiful fixtures, at moderate cost, is a service appreciated by a growing constituency. There is no business with which the soda fountain is exclusively connected. The number of customers is constantly growing.

Notice is hereby given that I, Robert W. Perkins, Receiver of The Shore Line Electric Railway Company, in pursuance of an order of the Superior Court made on the 9th day of March, 1923, will sell, free and clear of all encumbrances, for a sum not less than thirty thousand dollars ($30,000), at public auction on the premises on the 17th day of April, 1923, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, the property of The Shore Line Electric Railway Company in Norwich, Conn., bounded and described as follows, to wit:

Beginning at the northeasterly corner of Main and Park streets; running thence along the easterly side of Park street one hundred and sixty-two (162) feet to land now or formerly of A. J. Wholey; thence easterly at right angles to Park street by said Wholey land one hundred and twenty-two (122) feet to land now or formerly of Clinton W. Harvey; thence southerly by said Harvey land parallel to Park street about one hundred and forty-five (145) feet; thence westerly along the northerly side of Main street to the point of beginning.

Being the premises conveyed to The Norwich and Westerly Traction Company from The Storrs and Leasing Company by warranty deed dated Aug. 20, 1916, and recorded in Norwich Land Records, Volume 148, Page 187; and a portion of the premises conveyed to The Shore Line Electric Railway Company from The Norwich and Westerly Traction Company by deed dated Oct. 30, 1916, and recorded in Norwich Land Records, Volume 149, Page 379.

The highest bidder at said sale will be required to pay, before his bid is accepted, 10 per cent. of the amount of his bid to be applied as part of the purchase price in the event said sale is completed. If the purchaser does not pay the balance of his bid within twenty-four hours after the tender to him of a deed of said property approved by the Superior Court, or a judge thereof, following the confirmation of the sale, said payment of 10 per cent. is to be forfeited and the property shall be resold without further application to the Superior Court in the same manner upon the same terms and after notice published as at the first sale, the defaulting purchaser to be liable for all additional expenses incurred in connection with such sale and for any deficiency between the purchase price at the first sale and the price upon such resale. The said Receiver reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to sell to the highest bidder that said Receiver deems the amount for the interest of the estate, or any part of the property to be offered, or of any portion in the event that the second sale results in a price other than that obtained at the first sale.

HAVE NEEDED AMENDMENTS TO AUTOMOBILE LAW

A proposed amendment to the automobile law will be heard before the roads, bridges and rivers committee on Thursday, April 12, at 1.30 o'clock in the State Capitol.

This amendment is presented by the department of motor vehicles to correct inaccurate or defective language in the wording of the present law. It also makes some changes in practice.

The dealer's registration will be provided for by a new plan. In the past there has been considerable doubt as to whether or not a dealer might use his car or cars for his personal use, as well as for demonstration. It is now proposed to supply an unrestricted registration at a fee of $20 for each pair of number plates, under which a dealer may use his car without restriction; that is, may use it for any purpose for which a registration granted to an individual may be used, and, in addition, may loan number plates for a period not exceeding five days. The second form is a demonstration marker only, at the present fee.

The bill restricts the use of commercial motor vehicles owned and operated by non-residents to two days or parts of days in a year, on the same maximum load and registration as now exists.

An additional rating on commercial motor vehicles is made for a half ton load to take care of small commercial cars which never carry more than that load.

A special camp trailer registration is provided and also a special number plate for a motor hearse.

The section of the law relating to evasion of responsibility will be clarified, so that any person who knowingly causes injury to a person or persons, animals, or property will need to stop and ascertain the extent of the injury or damage.

Any person who is instructing another in the operation of a car shall be held responsible for the car, is another provision of the bill.

SUSPENDING LICENSES FOR NEGLECTING ACCIDENT REPORTS

An intensive campaign against motor vehicle operators who refuse persistently to report accidents is being staged by the Connecticut Department of Motor Vehicles, according to a report just issued, which states that an average of twenty-five licenses a day are being suspended this week for failure on the part of the holder to make a written report of an accident.

The state law provides that a motorist who is involved in and has knowledge of an accident which results in any personal injury whatsoever or in property damage over $10 shall make a written report to the commissioner of motor vehicles. The department avails itself of elaborate schemes to check up on these accidents and combs the ground so thoroughly that very few of these major accidents occur without the state's knowledge. Every chance is given to the driver involved in an accident to make a report, but after registered letters are sent out, and after the driver persists in not making a report, his driving license is suspended.

This means of enforcing the accident report law has always been a recognized one, but it has only been recently that such drastic measures have been taken to see that reports are forthcoming immediately. The law provides that the report shall be made within twenty-four hours after the accident.

The suspension record for the month of March shows 141 drivers lost their privilege of operating automobiles for this reason, and the April record shows signs of being two or three times as large.

KENTUCKY MOUNTAIN FOLK MADE VISIT IN CITY

It may not be known to many that some of the close relatives of the descendants of the Mayflower Pilgrims (our cousins one may call them) were in Norwich to make a brief visit recently. This company of eight boys from Pippapass, Kentucky, came to the parlors of the Y. M. C. A., just at the close of the inspiring and helpful address by Rev. J. Rowmyn Danforth, of New London, the speaker of the day at the weekly luncheon of the association.

They represented real "Mountain Folk," descendants of Americans and pure blooded Americans at that; no foreigners among them (although we were all foreigners once.) These people were thrown through the force of circumstances back into the mountains of the Carolinas, Tennessee, West Virginia and Kentucky. Through the same force of circumstances they have been almost submerged and entirely forgotten. They, through these years became poorer as their numbers increased, each generation with its ever increasing population finding it harder and harder to wrest a living even from their little mountain farms. Their educational privileges and facilities likewise getting more scarce and with the taste for them the same way; things you can't have, some people feel better not to be longing for them.

Two of the boys in the party were the speakers, telling their story in part as follows: A woman by the name of Mrs. Loyd, who was in Boston in journalism there, lost her health, and procuring a horse and buggy, accompanied by her mother, started south seeking to find it. She got into these southern mountains and finding that her health was somewhat improved; and seeing what the needs of the people were, she set out to find a place to stay and in some way to help them. This kind woman soon found that right in that locality the people resented as an insult any religious teachings, thinking their very primitive sects were filling all religious creeds, missionaries there having failed completely to accomplish anything.

But the children wanted to know and they were glad to have them taught, so gradually they came to be friendly, and to know that this woman and her friends were anxious to help them. Mrs. Loyd eventually located at Caney Creek and established a school there, where now she has several graduates from Wellesley college for young women, helping her, also one from another college and some help from Smith college in Northampton, and others.

One boy, 14 years of age, who made the principal address, told that there were fully 5,000,000 mountain people needing help, and the towns and counties too poor to raise enough money by tax to provide books and school for them. In the vicinity of this community center, the towns have paid one-half the expenses and Mrs. Loyd and her friends the other half. Here she maintains a training school for teachers as well as those of the lower grades, making Christian boys of most all who attend, not having the slightest backing of any missionary board of any denominations, feeding and teaching at an expense of about $100 a year, per pupil ,getting it all from willing givers, voluntary support for all the various enterprises, saw mill and all, that are units in this community center.

All who heard these boys have felt that they were deserving of a real chance, both for an education and to better their lot in life. Conditions somewhat improved, they are already being taught better living and their parents are being lifted up. The towns are improved, homes also. Bad roads, much needed bridges, all these things come after a while when they come to see the needs and benefits derived.

Mrs. Loyd carries quite a burden and needs help, although no collection is taken on any of these visits, by the boys. This school at Pippapass, Knott county, Kentucky, has an industrial department and mechanical trades are taught, same as at other southern schools.

Few men of 25 years with high school and academical training could have given as good talks as these boys and the hope was expressed by several who were privileged to hearing them, that they would make another enlightening visit to Norwich.

The object of these boys visiting various towns where the same line of talks are given, is to demonstrate to the people the conditions of these poor mountaineers, how uneducated they are; and yet how much could be done to help them and how much they desire an education.

The boys travel by automobile and when they have covered the route outlined for them will have travelled 3,000 miles. Before coming to Norwich they visited Danielson, Hartford and many other nearby towns. Usually arrangements are made ahead as to the time and place of their visit; but through some oversight there was a little confusion concerning their visit at the local Y. M. C. A. However, when their mission was told the officials of the association warmly greeted them and their stay while in Norwich was a most pleasant one.

SECOND MEMBER OF CLASS TO MEET SUDDEN DEATH

The death of Herbert T. Spears, an Academy boy, through an electric shock last Friday night on Crescent street, disclosed the sad coincidence that he is the second member of the class that entered the Academy in 1921 to meet sudden death. In both cases an electric shock figured.

The other boy was Albert Rogers whose home was at 160 Spruce street. He was climbing on the iron work of the Laurel Hill bridge on the night of August 23 last when he touched an electric wire, the shock throwing him to the floor of the bridge and he received injuries that caused his death.

APPOINTMENT TO MAKE ON CITY G. & E. COMMISSION

An appointment to the board of gas and electric commissioners is due to be made by Mayor Mills B. Walters by the first of May as the five-year term of D. T. Shea, who is president of the board expires then.

Mr. Shea was first appointed in 1913 by Mayor T. C. Murphy for a five-year term and was reappointed five years later by Mayor J. J. Desmond. For a large part of the time he has been president of the board, giving much time and attention to the work that the position entails.

CASUALTY CO. OFFICIALS WILL COMPLETE INVESTIGATION

Owing to a misunderstanding Coroner J. J. Desmond was unable to take testimony of Officers Ryan and Murphy Tuesday afternoon, in the case of the electrocution of Sergeant John H. Kane and Herbert T. Spears. The officers were to appear before Coroner Desmond at two o'clock, but as they are on the night force and had not been notified to appear at police headquarters when reporting off duty, they failed to go before the coroner. The testimony of the officers will be taken this (Wednesday) afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Supt. C. W. Taggart stated Tuesday that the gas and electrical department was doing nothing in the line of investigating until the casualty company, having the insurance of the company, has completed its investgiation. Two representatives were here Saturday morning conducting an investigation and they are expected to come here today (Wednesday) to complete their end of the investigation.

Supt. Taggart stated that he did not want to interfere in any way with what they might want to examine, and that the pole and light fixtures have been left just as they were on the night of the accidents. Every clue, when the proper time arrives, is to be run down by the department and a thorough examination will be made to determine if possible, the causes of the accidents, and how the cable became charged, and how the electric current came in contact with the cable.

SCHOOL BOARD PREPARES REPORT FOR MEETING

At the monthly meeting of the town school board Tuesday night in the school office in the court house, with President Walter F. Lester presiding, the report on the Academy and high school situation was prepared and approved for presentation to the special town meeting to be called on this subject.

It was reported that after a conference by the school committee, the bonding company and the Dose company, which built the Elizabeth street school, this company is soon to send workmen here to repair some minor defects according to the terms of the contract. These concern leaks around the window heads, some trouble with the chimney and other small matters.

Miss Rose Beckley, sixth grade teacher at Elizabeth street, presented her resignation to take effect at the end of the school year and it was accepted.

Advances in pay were granted for two teachers, but other requests were refused. In accordance with the usual policy of the board they declined to make any of these public.

Secretary T. J. Kelly was instructed to send out requests to the coal dealers for bids on 1,200 tons of anthracite coal for next year. It is the hope of the school that there will be no occasion to use soft coal next year as their experience this season has been unfavorable and the fires in the Greeneville school and the Broad street school are laid to the use of soft coal.

DROWNED MAN IDENTIFIED AS MATTHEW M'CAULEY

The body of the man found drowned in the harbor Monday was identified on Tuesday as that of Matthew McCauley, 60, a former resident of this city, whose home had been in Hartford for the last eight months.

The identification was made by James J. Dutton, who gave the police the first clue to work on and by Officer Barney Keenan who saw the body at the morgue of Hourigan Bros. Others also saw the body and positively identified it.

Mr. Dutton, who is manager for the Gately and Brennan clothing store on Shetucket street, told the police that McCauley called at the store on Jan. 30 to see him, but did not find him as he was out at the time. The police learned that McCauley had rooms in the American house for four or five days about that time, but from then all trace of him is lost. Three or four weeks ago, the family in Hartford made inquiry here for him, reporting that they had not known his whereabouts since some time in February.

It is understood that since his removal to Hartford he had been very much discontented and had longed to get back to this city where he had made his home for many years.

Mr. McCauley was born in Ireland 60 years ago. In this city in October, 1897, he was married in St. Patrick's church by Rev. P. P. Shahan to Amelia Croker. In his early life he drove a tea and coffee wagon and later he was employed for a number of years at McNamara Bros. on Franklin square, at Remmert's on Railroad avenue and at E. C. Madden's on Franklin street. He had also been employed at the Crescent Firearms factory and at other shops. He was a member of St. Patrick's church.

He is survived by his wife and by three sons, James E., John J., and Matthew A., all of Hartford. Two of his sons came here Tuesday night and made arrangements for the funeral in this city.

Mr. McCauley was genial and companionable, faithful in his employment, and a lover of his home and family.

Big Prospects for Supper

At a special meeting of Mercier assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus which was held Monday evening with the president, Mrs. Hannah Ehrmann, presiding, it was decided that as the ticket sale for the supper to be given for the benefit of Sacred Heart church at Norwich Town had been so large the supper would be served at the Community House instead of at the Buckingham Memorial. Details in the plans for the supper were arranged for and the prospects are for a great success.

GERMANY'S DEFAULT ON REPARATIONS GREAT ECONOMIC LOSS TO ENTIRE WORLD

Occupation of the Ruhr is Estimated by the Economic Staff of the Reparations Commission to Have Cost 5,000,000,000 Francs for the Three Month Period—Germany is Spending in Cash Abroad Money Sufficient to Have Met the Cash Reparations Payments of 60,000,000 Gold Marks Monthly—The Loss in Business to the Allies is Placed at Upwards of 500,000,000 Paper Francs—Experts Declare That France Will Unquestionably Outlast Germany in the Present Contest.

Paris, April 11.—(By the A. P.)—The economic loss to the entire world through the occupation of the Ruhr has been estimated by the economic staffs of the reparations commission to be approximately 5,000,000,000 francs for the three months period.

The French experts are particularly interested in Germany cash outlays for her program of passive resistance. These are dealt with under several headings, such as her average monthly imports of 1,500,000 tons of coal at from 32 to 35 gold marks a ton, or, roughly 50,000,000 gold marks. This average is struck upon the actual importations and prospective requirements of Germany.

Other items are the payment of half wages to some hundreds of thousands of workmen in the Ruhr, the losses to the German export trade, which is the most difficult category to deal with at present owing to inadequate figures, and the losses of Germany's internal trade.

These calculations satisfy the French that the German government is spending in actual cash abroad and in her reduced income of foreign monies sufficient to have met cash reparation payments under the Cannes agreement of 60,000,000 gold marks monthly. The conclusion is reached by these experts that, if Germany were to show the same zeal making payments as in resisting them, she would have been able to continue meeting the Cannes program.

On the other side of the balance sheet it is figured that the three months' occupation of the Ruhr has cost France and Belgium a direct outlay and losses in cash amounting to 441,000,000 francs. This figure includes the budget allowances for the additional cost of maintaining the troops in the Ruhr, which is about 50,000,000 francs monthly for France and 12,000 francs for Belgium. Then there are added the sums paid for imported coal to replace that normally delivered by Germany, the expenses of operating the Ruhr railways and payment of the allied engineering staffs.

The loss in business to the allies is estimated by the reparation experts as upward of 500,000,000 paper francs while the loss to Germany exceeds that estimate and both are increasing rapidly.

The exact figures are difficult to fix because the real loss lies in the disturbance of economic conditions rather than in money actually expended in connection with the Ruhr operations, and one of the principal factors is the uncertainty of the situation.

The largest loss, the experts say, is that of lost production. Lack ofcoal and coke from the Ruhr means that many blast furnaces in France and factories in Germany cannot operate; the lack of raw materials for finished products ties up the by-product factories, and this in turn affects the sellers, so that an endless chain of nonproduction ensues.

The increasing world-wide effect of this disturbance on imports and exports is evidenced by the action of the Swiss in going to South Africa for coal and the prospective arrival of two vessels of the German East African line at Hamburg also loaded with South African coal.

These shipments are described as "economic monstrosities," illustrating the general condition that is reflected in the increasing cost of living in Germany, France and Belgium, where the price of coal has almost doubled since January and that of coke trebled.

Business in the three directly interested countries also is losing through the idleness of a million or more workers, some of whom are on part pay.

Those viewing the situation in its larger political aspects declare that France unquestionably will outlast Germany in the present contest, as she is far richer in credit, ready money and resources; the fact that Germany has not yielded does not mean that she will not, they say.

The French official view as expressed by Premier Poincare at the outset of the occupation contemplated a wait of several months, and at the closing session of the chamber of deputies, he said he did not expect results before the end of May.

AUTOMOBILE DEALER IN CONCORD SHOT DEAD

Concord, N. H., April 11.—Vernon F. Atkins, sportsman and dealer in automobile accessories of this city, was shot and killed tonight at his home by one of two men who came from Boston to discuss the ownership of an automobile taken as security by Atkins when he paid the fines of two convicted rum runners two years ago, last March.

Francis L. Henning of Boston, one of the callers at Atkins' home, was captured after a long pursuit by Atkins' son, a football and track star at the Concord High school. The other man, said by Henning and by members of the Atkins family to have done the shooting, was still at large tonight.

Atkins, his wife and son were at dinner when the doorbell rang, and Mrs. Atkins answered it. As she opened the door a man pressed a revolver against her body, and another man grabbed her by the throat. Atkins and his son heard the woman scream and ran to the door, and the men released Mrs. Atkins and covered her husband ordering him to throw up his hands. Atkins refused, and tried to get out of range of the revolver. Three shots were fired, and Atkins reeled out into the yard and fell dead.

GREAT POWERS SAVE LIFE OF RUSSIAN PATRIARCH

Riga, April 11 (By the A. P.)—Reports are current here that the postponement of the trial in Moscow of the Most Rev. Dr. Tikhon, former patriarch of all Russia, was due to the great powers informing the soviet government that they would completely break off relations with Russia if the patriarch was condemned. The report adds that the bolsheviki therefore thought it expedient to do no more than proceed with the unfrocking of the prelate.

Citizens to Continue Control of Clocks

Freedom Assured by Defeat in the Senate, 18 to 15, of the Anti-Daylight Saving Bill.

Hartford, April 11.—The senate, by a vote of 18 to 15 today defeated the anti-daylight saving bill.

Possibility of reviving it was destroyed when, a moment later, the senate voted not to reconsider its action.

This is in disagreement with the house which passed the bill last week.

The bill, as rejected in the senate, was in amended form, which struck out the first section forbidding schools and public institutions to change their hours in conformity with daylight saving time.

The amended bill simply imposed a fine of $100 or ten days in jail upon persons or corporations wilfully displaying any but standard time in public.

The senate chamber was crowded and at one point Lieut. Governor Bingham was forced to call for order. The house adjourned and representatives filed into the back of the chamber.

An amendment to the bill striking out Section 1, was submitted by Senator Rudd. This section provides that schools or state institutions shall not change their time schedules in conformity with daylight saving. He said that daylight saving was merely a temporary obsession which would pass. "However," he said, "we are faced with a condition and not a theory. The cities, for the most part, are in favor of daylight saving and as a result the railroads will change their schedules to conform with it."

Pointing out that many persons were depending upon railroad service, which would be changed, he declared the employes would be placed under the burden of getting to work too early. This same condition would affect the schools, he said.

"The daylight saving craze," he said, "was largely as a result of the war, and undoubtedly will pass." He added, however, with conditions as they are, it would be inadvisable to "temporise."

Senator Trumbull who endeavored to kill the bill last week, contended that the bill should be rejected. He declared that Connecticut as a manufacturing state would lose at least four hours a day in "non-co-operation" as long as the railroads operating between Boston and New York ran in conformity with daylight saving time.

Senator Wilder, who is a member of the judiciary committe, said that since the bill had passed in the house, it had bee nexamined by school heads, who declared that it would cause endless confusion. They feared, he said, that it would change the hour of opening and closing and impose burdens on the school heads, which would be unfortunate.

He supported the amendment as did Senators Ells and Bakewell. Senator Bakewell said that section 1 would entail endless hardship. "The condition is entirely tied up with the New Haven road and as long as it runs in conformity with daylight saving we must deal with the conditions and not consider out theories.

Senator Suisman then introduced an amendment to section 2 striking out the provision or a fine of $100 or ten days in jail for anyone who wilfully displayed any but standard time. This "will take the teeth out of it" he said.

Senators Bakewell, Ells and Trumbull then said that while they favored the spirit of the amendment they preferred to have the bill considered in a different fashion. The amendment was defeated.

Senator Rudd, speaking on the bill as amended, traced the history of standard time in the state and pointed out the reasons why the bill had been adopted. He favored the bill as amended, contending that the state should run on standard time as far as possible.

Senator Trumbull, however, opposed the bill entirely. He maintained that while he favored but one time, he felt that passing the bill would cause confusion in the state industries.

SCHLEIFER WITHDRAWS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

New Haven, April 11.—The plea of not guilty entered by Ernest Schleifer, a labor leader, charged with inciting others to commit felonies in the shopmen's strike on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, was withdrawn by his counsel this afternoon and a demurrer filed in its stead. Judge J. H. Webb in superior court set Friday morning as the time for arguments on the demurrer.

It is understood that counsel will attack th elegality of the proceedings as a whole. This action follows the denial by Judge Webb of the motion for a change in venue and refusal of the court to bar State's Attorney Alling and his assistant, W. M. Pickett, as the prosecutors. The memorandum by Judge Webb has been filed and the action of counsel for the accused is based on the ground taken by the court in refusing a change of venue.

DID MURPHY INVEST IN A "NEAR-BEER" WAR BABY?

New York, April 11.—Charges that Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader, invested in a near-beer "war baby" and then pulled certain strings at Washington to help the concern with a British order that promised $2,688,000 profit in ninety days, were made by counsel for the defendant today at the trial of Murphy's suit to recover $175,000 from Louis N. Hartog, "maltodextrine" manufacturer.

Hartog's counsel, Max D. Steuer, further charged that his client had recently been intimidated by Tammany friends of Murphy with such speeches as:

"You want to understand where you're fixed. Anyone who don't do what Mr. Murphy wants can't live in New York. If you don't do what he wants you'll find every branch of the administration in New York against you—the food administration, the district attorney's office and the internal revenue department."

JOHN G. ROGERS DIED SUDDENLY ON GOLF COURSE

Camden, S. C., April 11.—John G. Rogers of Chicago, a vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, died suddenly today on the golf course of the Camden Country club.

Mr. Rodgers had played two holes of golf when stricken. He was 59 years old, was born in Philadelphia, and had been connected with the Pennsylvania railroad since 1886.

Violent Uproar in House of Commons

Bedlam Broke Loose When Motion Was Introduced to Counteract Defeat of the Government.

London, April 11.—(By The A. P.)—Perhaps never since the days of Parnellite obstruction has such a scene of violent uproar been witnessed in the house of commons as that which today transformed the ordinarily placid and dignified chamber into an absolute bedlam.

The disorders arose primarily out of the defeat sustained by the government by a small majority on a mere technical point last night. Today Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, introduced a motion framed to counteract this defeat, only to meet with a storm unexampled in present day parliamentary annals, in the face of which the speaker, powerless to obtain a division, declared the motion carried under closure and the house adjourned until tomorrow.

The laborites clearly felt that they had a big stick to wield against the government in the interests of ex-service men, which was the question originally before the house. In this attitude the labor members are likely to receive the support of the whole laborite electorate.

All manner of epithets and threatening gestures against the treasury bench came from the laborites, especially from the small extreme group, including the coddish members, led by John Joseph Jones and George Lansbury, the house, in striking contrast with yesterday's scene, was crowded.

Excitement was at fever heat, and the speaker from time to time vainly appealed to the better feelings of the members, but was completely unable to stem the disorder. Jones vehemently expounded the grievances of the former service men and was repeatedly called to order by the speaker, who declared that the question could not be debated until tomorrow.

All the speaker's efforts to pacify the recalcitrants only appeared to inflame them still further. The speaker protested that it would be "a very bad thing" if the members should force an adjournment on account of grave disorder, and begged them to refrain, all at no purpose—"We demand an answer," was shouted on every hand by angry laborites.

The government, constrained to bow before the storm, had to abandon the important agricultural debate set down fortoday and also the expected statement from the minister of agriculture concerning the government policy on the recent recommendations of the agricultural tribunal.

Mr. Lloyd George had just previously asked the government to grant a special day for discussion of the important agricultural problem, only to meet with Chancellor Baldwin's regretful rejoinder that he could see no possibility of giving a day in the future and the declaration that it is most important that the minister of agriculture should make his statement today.

Two views prevail tonight over the exciting events. On the government side, although some of the members admit that Mr. Baldwin and the other ministers acted somewhat flippantly and that the government was hasty in invoking the closure motion, it was mostly held that when the house meets tomorrow the effervescence will have subsided and some means of accommodation will be found. On the other hand, the laborites characterize the plan devised by the ministers and speaker as an ingenious quibble and declare that strict adherence to parliamentary tradition would have dictated the resignation of the government.

J. Ramsay MacDonald, the opposition leader, in inviting the government to explain its plans, plainly declared that last night's vote was a vote of censure. He expressed ironical sympathy with the government which, "after a series of unexampled defeats in by-elections now finds itself faced with an unexampled defeat so far as the records of the house of commons are concerned."

The government has issued a strong whip for the attendance of all its supporters tomorrow, when the first business will be to get the speaker out of the chair.

Amid the general uproar from the labor benches was heard the singing of "The Red Flag." It was the first time the chamber of the "mother of parliaments" ever echowed with its familiar words and tune. No one seemed to attach special significance to it, however, as the song has become familiar throughout the country by repetition at countless meetings and demonstrations and is recognized as labor's "National Anthem."

AMAZING SCUFFLE IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

London, April 11.—The Times gives the following version of the scuffle in the house of commons, which the reporter describes as amazing:

The laborite Robert Murray rushed up to Ormesby-Gore and exclaimed: "Take that grin off your face."

A ministeralist sitting behind, thinking this was an attempt at assault, flicked Murray with an order paper. Murray then aimed a blow which caught the Honorable Walter Guiness on the nose. A scuffle began in front of the speaker's face, and the chancellor of the exchequer and Ramsay Macdonald hastened forward to separate the contestants.

The fiery laborite Buchanan of Glasgow came tearing across the floor, inquiring fiercely "Who hit you, Bob?" and dashed out in pursuit of the supposed assailant. Then came a general mixup and challenges to fight outside.

INFORMAL RECEPTION BY GOV. TEMPLETON

Hartford, April 11. — Governor Charles A. Templeton today held an informal reception at Memorial Hall, the state library building, and greeted members of the general assembly, some of whom he was meeting for the first time. Many of the members had brought their families. Governor and Mrs. Templeton greeted their guests at the end of the hall which houses the portraits of Connecticut's former governors. The governor's military staff was in attendance.

Miss Constance DArcy, Mackay, widely known producer of historical pageants, was married at Grace church, New York, to Roland Holt, son of Henry Holt, publisher.

MIGHT WIPE OUT FOREIGN MARKET FOR AMERICAN SHIPS

Complications Have Arisen Between the Washington and Canadian Governments Over Stipulation in Sales Contracts That Would Prevent Any Purchaser of Shipping Board Vessels From Using Them as Run Runners—Canadian Authorities Maintain That Ships Under Canadian Registry Are Not Subject to the Domestic Laws of the United States—Controversy Over Two Small Vessels on the Great Lakes

Washington, April 11.—(By the A. P.)—Shipping complications of an extended character between the United States and Great Britain and her dominions are regarded here as not improbable as a result of a controversy between the Washington and Ottawa government over the two small vessels on the Great Lakes.

The ships were purchased from the shipping board under contracts which stipulated that they should not be used in any manner which would violate the laws of the United States, and for that reason they were refused registry by the Canadian government. The particular language contained in the contracts and held objectionable by the Canadian government, apparently with the backing of London, was drafted by the department of justice to prevent any purchaser of shipping board vessels from using them as rum runners. The Canadian authorities notified Secretary Hughes that they could not admit ships to Canadian registry which were subject to domestic laws of the United States.

An answer to the Canadian note, handed to Sir Auckland Geddes for transmission to the Ottawa government, contains a defense of the language employed by the shipping board and clearly states that the restrictions imposed upon operators of craft bought from the board are legal and enforceable from the American point of view.

Secretary Hughes' reply was based on opinions obtained by him from the department of justice, from Secretary Hoover of the commerce department, and from other officials of the state department. It was said to represent the unanimous belief of the three departments in the right of the shipping board to continue with the sale of vessels, either to American or foreign citizens, under the form of contract now being used.

Such a development, in effect extending to all the British dominions the prohibition already laid down by Canada, would bar the shipping board from disposing of its surplus tonnage to any British subject, and if the example were copied by other nations might wipe out entirely the foreign market for American ships. That contingency, American officials will not discuss in the present stage of the negotiations.

BRITAIN CONSIDERING "BOIZE" PROTESTS FROM U. S.

London, April 11.—(By the A. P.)—The British government is giving due deliberation to representations made by the United States government concerning the smuggling of liquor to the American mainland from Nassau and other West Indian ports, the house of commons was informed tonight by Ronald McNeill, under secretary for foreign affairs.

The question came before the house when members asked whether attention had been called to the participation in the traffic of ships flying the British flag, and whether steps were being taken to prevent "this action against the law of a friendly power."

Mr. McNeill, in confirming that representations had been made by the United States, said that the liquor appeared to be introduced subsequently into the United States by small craft from the American coast manned by United States citizens.

"It is very difficult," he added, "for his majesty's government to interfere with the legitimate export of any articles from British territory, especially as action by the British government alone would merely drive the trade into other channels.

"The government would, however, deplore any complicity of British subjects in the infringement of the law of the United States and is considering, in consultation with the other departments concerned, whether any action can be taken in the sense desired by the United States government."

Emanuel Shinwell, laborite, asked whether the under secretary was not aware that vessels were leaving ports of the United Kingdom manned by British seamen who were handed revolvers at the commencement of the voyage and offered fairly high wages as an inducement to undertake what was regarded as a risk in conveying liquor from these shores to American ports.

John Hope Simpson, liberal, asked if Mr. McNeill was aware of the rising indignation in America on the subject, and to this the under secretary replied: "I am aware of that indignation, and think my answer shows that the British government appreciates this and is trying to take action accordingly."

He declined to answer a supplementary question whether he would obtain information from the British embassy in Washington in regard to a reported attack on the Yarmouth schooner Eddie James off the New Jersey coast recently.

The government spokesman replied that no information about "this alleged incident" had been received at the foreign office.

NEW YORK POLICE INVOLVED IN BOOTLEGGING PROBE

New York, April 11.—Two investigations, one by the district attorney and another by the municipal commissioner of accounts, were begun today into Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier's reported speech at Albany denouncing Police Commissioner Enright and his force for being, respectively, "in league with the bootleggers" and "bootleggers' agents."

Joab H. Banton, district attorney, began his inquiry by calling upon Cuvillier to present the evidence upon which the charges were based, as a preliminary to prosecutions. He wrote the assemblyman:

"Will you please present at this office, at your earliest convenience, the evidence you have regarding the statements made, so I may prosecute to the limit of the law any person guilty of the charges made in your statements."

The investigation Mayor Hylan instructed David Hirshfield, commissioner of accounts, to undertake has been stretched to include an inquiry into City Magistrate Corrigan's statement from the bench yesterday that he "deplored the depths to which the New York police department had sunk."

The magistrate's criticism was uttered when he held Detective Robert McAllister, "the flying cop" of athletic fame, in bail for perjury in connection with his testimony concerning a liquor raid conducted without a warrant.

FORMER CONGRESSMAN T. F. SMITH KILLED BY TAXICAB

New York, April 11.—Thomas F. Smith, former congressman and for more than twenty years secretary of Tammany Hall, died in Bellevue hospital tonight, an hour after he had been struck by a taxicab. He was 56 years old and for years had been one of the democratic leaders of the state.

Mr. Smith was born in this city and was graduate of Manhattan college and the New York Law school. After he was admitted to the bar, he plunged into politics, becoming clerk of the city court of New York in 1897, a position he retained for twenty years. He was married to Miss Margaret Furlong in 1895.

He was closely associated with democratic politics in this city for more than two decades, numbering among his close friends many political leaders and persons prominent in municipal and state activities, among them the late Richard Croker, Tammany chieftain.

For twenty-four years Mr. Smith was secretary of the New York democratic county committee and secretary of Tammany Hall. He was elected a delegate to the state constitutional convention in 1915 and to the democratic national convention in 1916.

In April, 1917, he was elected to congress from the Fifteenth New York congressional district, but resigned from that body to accept a position as public administrator.

He was chairman of the board of stewards of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, a member of the Knights of Columbus and of the Irish-American Historical society. He was governor of the National Democratic club and president of the Amen Corner club of Washington, D. C.

Mr. Smith was crossing Fourteenth street at Fourth avenue in company with Magistrate Max S. Levine. Just as they started across the street, a few yards from Tammany Hall, they were halted by a traffic officer.

When they again started to cross, Mr. Smith was struck by a westbound taxicab driven by William Nelligan. Patrolman Conaughton and Magistrate Levine placed Mr. Smith in the cab which had struck him and all three rushed to the hospital. There it was found that he had suffered a fractured skull.

ESCAPED FROM MATTEAWAN; CAPTURED IN KENT

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., April 11.—Four patients who escaped from Matteawan State Hospital for the criminal insane at Beacon early this morning, forcing three keepers and a chauffeur to accompany them in a stolen hospital car, were in custody tonight.

John Hawkins, of New York, and Frank James of Brooklyn, who were shot in the legs by a village posse which surrounded them in an abandoned railroad cut at Kent, Conn., this noon, were seized in Kent by Poughkeepsie deputies and brought to a local hospital. John Conley, of New York, and Marquis Curtis, who were captured without a fight by Connecticut police near Kent were being held at Sharon, Connecticut. Authorities said the men would insist on extradition papers.

The escape was effected by first overpowering a night attendant with whose keys the quartet gained access to the corridors. The men then routed out Leroy Krom, driver for Dr. Kleb, forced him to start a car and began their trip north. When Krom attempted to jar the steering wheel when the car was traveling at sixty miles an hour, a few miles north of here, Hawkins who was driving, released the three keepers and the chauffeur. Scantily clad the four hospital men walked back a mile and a half to the Hudson River state hospital where they were given clothing and where the first warning was sent out.

HOOVER FAVORS COURT OF INTERNATIONAL JUSTICE

Des Moines, Iowa, April 11.—American membership in the permanent court of international justice organized by the league of nations was advocated by Secretary Herbert Hoover here tonight as "an essential step" in the direction of world peace.

Those who have opposed membership in the league itself, he said need not hang back from participation in the court nor fear political entanglements through its operation. He replied directly to criticisms by Senator Borah of Idaho, who, he declared, really wanted to go "further" than the American people were willing to follow him.

Secretary Hoover spoke before the annual convention of the National League of Women Voters, and his address was the first detailed reply from administration quarters to those who have assailed the court proposal since it was laid before the senate by President Harding. It marked the beginning of the public debate in which most of the leading public men of the country are preparing to take part.

The combination wooden structure on Center street, known as the Chenette garage was in a mass of ruins as the result of a savage fire which gutted the building late Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. The fire which is of unknown origin has caused an estimated loss of $40,000 including the damage to the building and to the automobiles which were stored there. The night watchman of the Hosiery Veiled plant, which is across the street, discovered the blaze and notified Mr. Chenette. The latter ran to the garage and upon opening the door was met by a dense cloud of smoke. Returning to his house he telephoned to the fire department quarters on Bank street and Engine Company No. 1 answered to the call. Later a bell was rung in from Box 45 on Lincoln square and all the available fire fighting apparatus in the city turned out.

Mr. Chenette claimed that there were twenty-seven automobiles in the building at the time of the fire and nine of that total were removed from the burning structure by spectators and firemen. The remainder were more or less damaged by fire and water. Two horses in an adjoining barn were led to safety.

It seems that the flames spread from the garage, then to the blacksmith shop on the same floor and to the paint shop on the upper floor and only for the creditable work of the firemen under the direction of Chief J. J. Tighe there is little doubt but that several of the surrounding buildings would have been consumed in the conflagration. Eight streams were played on the blaze and as soon as the flames had reached the paint shop which was close to the residential section of the building, the fire was surrounded and confined to the rear of the burning structure.

Thick clouds of smoke filled the two tenements and the household goods were removed by the occupants and spectators.

Mrs. Frances Giard, aged 90, who has been ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Theophile Guilpeau in the adjoining tenement was carried from her bed to the home of Max Schemman's by John Shea, electrician. Two of Mrs. Giard's grand-children called the attention of Mr. Shea to the elderly woman lying helpless.

When the roof of the paint shop fell through the sparks flew high into the air and landed on the roofs of nearby houses but luckily none of them caught fire. The fire spread into the residential section of the building and it was only through hard fighting that its path was stayed. At 12.45 o'clock the fire was under control and the recall was sounded at 1.35 o'clock.

Some of the rear rooms of the tenements were damaged while the roof above them was totally destroyed. The lower tenement, occupied by George Maine was not touched by the flames but was thoroughly water-soaked and damaged by smoke. Mary Lee, Mrs. Timothy Day and Alfred J. Lariviere served coffee and doughnuts to the firemen and the latter wish to express their thanks for such kindly and timely service.

Of the twenty-seven cars stored in the garage, nine were saved, thirteen were damaged and eight of the latter number are total losses judging from appearances.

Most of the cars were covered by insurance and a careful estimate of their value placed them as worth $25,000.

Those who lost by the fire and carried no insurance were Elmer Duchange, whose loss is $1,500; Joseph Robinson, who conducted the paint shop, $1,200 or more; Fred J. A. Lambert, who conducted an upholstering and furniture repair shop estimates his loss at several hundred dollars. George Maheu and Theophile Gallipeau who occupied the two tenements in the west wing of the building saved all their furniture and belongings although some of their property was damaged by water. They estimate that loss of $600.

Theophile Loiselle, the owner, estimates his loss on the building at $13,000 of $15,000 and on that amount he carried $6,000 of insurance. Mr. Chenette's loss totals about $8,000 with $3,000 insurance.

The damaged building was two stories high of wood construction with an ell. The main structure was 80 by 60 feet and was built over forty years ago. The paint shop on the upper floor was 40 by 60 feet and the ell which included two tenements is 40 by 80 feet. The rear of the garage was the most damaged part of the building. The business conducted there was formerly a wagon shop and was changed to that of automobile repairing two years ago.

William D. Garrison, the eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Garrison of South Chaplin is confined at St. Joseph's Hospital, this city, suffering from a severely fractured left thigh and bruised leg below the knee. The boy sustained his injuries Tuesday afternoon when he was run over by a loaded lumber wagon hauled by a pair of horses and driven by Frank Platt. The Garrison boy and his chum, John Mankin were returning home from the Chaplin school about four o'clock when they approached the lumber wagon. The first intimation that Platt had of the accident was when the Mankin boy, who was on the back of the wagon, shouted and pointed to the Garrison child who was lying in the road. It was found that the boy had tried to climb onto the wagon in front of the left rear wheel and had slipped to the ground and was run over.

Mr. Platt brought the child to his home and later he was taken to the hospital.

The last funeral rites for Mrs. Mary Malvey Hickey were held Wednesday morning from the late home, No. 151 Union street at 8.30 o'clock and were followed by a solemn requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. The celebrant was Rev. Charles M. Kelley; the deacon, Rev. O. S. Beaumister and the sub-deacon, J. H. Castelani. The pastor, Rev. John E. Clark, acted as the master of ceremonies. The organ music was rendered by Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance. As the body was taken into the church, Nearer My God to Thee was rendered by a quartette consisting of Mrs. Henry Mathieu, Mrs. J. E. Sullivan, Walter Costello and Arthur Roy. During the services Mrs. Mathieu sang O Salutaris, Arthur Roy rendered Farewell, and the quartette sang Home Sweet Home.

Following the services the funeral convoy proceeded to St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. O. S. Beaumister read a committal service at the grave in the Hickey burial plot. Rev. Father Kelley assisted.

A profusion of floral pieces represented the love and esteem of the many friends of the deceased. The bearers were Hormidas Dion, P. J. Hinds, John O'Rourke, John Moran and Timothy McQuillan of this city and Michael Sullivan of Providence, R. I.

Surviving her are two daughters, Mrs. Milton Smith and Mrs. William Ellis of this city; two sisters, Mrs. J. F. Thompson of this city and Mrs. Edgar William of Merrow, this state.

He is survived by a wife and one daughter by his first wife, Mrs. Emma Bland of Riverside, Cal., and the following sons and daughters: Mrs. William Clapp of this city, Otis Kenyon of Hampton; Durwood Kenyon of Abington; Frank Kenyon of Hampton, Louis Kenyon of Hampton; Mrs. Everett Whitehouse of this city, and the Misses Rachael and Lena Kenyon of Hampton; three grandchildren, two great grandchildren and one niece, Mrs. George Wright of Hartford.

The funeral of Elisha F. Tucker was held Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the undertaking parlors of Killourey Brothers on Union street, with the Rev. William Woolworth of Lebanon officiating. Burial was in the family plot in the Willimantic cemetery. The bearers were John Killourey, Charles Goodrich, Raymond, James and Burton James. A large number of floral representations were in evidence.

At a meeting of the committee of the Masonic Charity and Educational Association held in Masonic hall a report was read in regard to the purchase of building quarters for the Masonic societies in this city. A long discussion ensued after hearing the report but no action was taken.

Mrs. Herbert R. Glengell, regent of Anne Wood Elderkin Chapter, D. A. R., has received the following communication from the chairman of the Emigrant Aid committee at Ellis Island in regard to the well filled boxes sent out by the local chapter. "The donation was very much appreciated and we assure you that everything will be done to put it to good use for our D. A. R. worker in the detention room."

J. Wilder Tasker, former coach of baseball, football and basketball at the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs, has been made the defendant in a suit brought by the town of Mansfield through its tax collector, Henry E. Knowlton, and the case will be heard before Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews April 28. Damages of $35 are claimed.

Tasker is alleged in the complaint to owe the town of Mansfield $21.16 property taxes. According to a statement by Deputy Sheriff Addison J. Greenslit Tasker left Mansfield recently with the tax assessment outstanding and he placed his Chickering piano in the hands of the Storrs Garage company for shipment to Virginia. Mr. Knowlton received information to the effect that the piano was being transported to this city and he came here, had a writ of attachment filled out with the result that Deputy Sheriff Greenslit served the papers and attached the piano, which is now in storage in this city. The attachment was made Monday afternoon about five o'clock.

Attorney Samuel B. Harvey represents the town of Mansfield in the case to be held before Justice Andrews in Mansfield Saturday, April 28.

MONTHLY MEETING OF THE WILLIMANTIC SCHOOL BOARD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, April 11.—Reports of a number of visitations to Windham High school were read at the regular monthly meeting of the school board held Wednesday evening in the town building. After hearing the reports and statements made by the principal of the high school, Egbert J. Case, in which he strongly defended the teachers and discipline of the pupils of the school in answer to the broad charges made by a number of local residents at the March meeting of the board, the members adopted a resolution introduced by Mrs. Robert H. Fenton by which they voted their approval of the administration, teaching methods and grade marking at the Windham school. Mrs. Fenton read a report of her visit to the high school and expressed her full satisfaction with her observation. Dr. W. P. S. Keating, H. C. Lathrop and Dr. F. E. Guild also stated that they had attended several sessions of the school and had found everything in the best of order and the teaching of a high standard.

In referring to complainants who are dissatisfied with certain features of the school, Mrs. Fenton asked: "Have you visited the school during session?" That, she stated, is the keynote to the best information available.

The report of State Investigator Jessse D. Davis from the state board of education, who was summoned here to investigate at the Windham High school, following several strong statements made by parents, and which personally affected some of the teachers, besides the administration and the discipline of the school was lengthy and was in the form of favorable answers to a number of questions which had been presented to him. These fully expressed the complaints made last month. He included in the report statements to the effect that the organization at the school was of high calibre, although the school was handicapped by the fact that a large number of students came from out of town and could not be present for every session. The discipline is good and there is no lack of respect. The teachers are well qualified, the pupils are in sympathy with the administration, the marking system is identical to that of all other high schools, failure to graduate is not due to improper instruction or unreasonable marking.

The report of Truant Officer Jane B. Paulhus was read and accepted, as was also the report of Medical Examiner Dr. W. P. S. Keating, which showed 150 examinations during the past month. Dr. Keating said that his examinations were causing good results. Walter R. King and Principal E. A. Case were appointed a committee to confer with the proper authorities in regard to a clause of the Smith-Hughes appropriation act for domestic science classes at high schools. According to the clause, the class is to be considered as a two unit subject and freshman girls would be compelled to make a choice between that and a college preparatory course. Principal Case stated that he did not think that this was fair and he said that there were over 50 pupils who had shown their willingness to take domestic science as a one unit course. It was stated that the matter had simmered down to changing the clause or else the local high school would have to run the class at its own expense.

Before the close of the meeting announcement was made that a ruling exists whereby all complaints against schools are required to be written and not made orally.

It is common knowledge that hundreds of Packards are rounding out fourteen years or more of consistent daily service.

With the Single-Six inheriting the ripened experience of more than twenty years, it is safe to say that exceptionally long life may be counted on with certainty.

Undoubtedly this has a strong bearing on the general acceptance of the Single-Six as the greatest value yet offered in the fine car field.

Owners testify to a cost of operation far lower than has been hitherto possible with performance of Packard standards.

The combination of long life and low cost of operation means just one thing—that the Single-Six is the best possible investment. Without this conviction there never can be complete satisfaction.

COULD NOT SLEEP OR EAT FOR DAYS

WINCARNIS Was the Only Thing That Seemed to Do Mrs. Hawkes Good

"Before taking Wincarnis, I was completely run down. My nerves were in an awful state. I also had indigestion so badly that, as a result, I was unable to keep anything on my stomach. I could not sleep for days at a time, and I was in a terrible state. Wincarnis was the only thing that seemed to do me good. I soon felt better after taking it, and I could sleep and eat as well as ever. I am pleased to recommend Wincarnis to all my friends."—(Signed) Mrs. HAWKES.

NERVOUS WOMAN COMPLETE WRECK

Tells How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Indianapolis, Ind.—"Now I want to tell you just what induced me to take your medicine. It seemed that I had some kind of weakness in that I could not carry a child its full time. The last time I was troubled this way I had a nervous breakdown and was a complete wreck. The doctor thought I would not live, and if I did that I would never be well and strong again. But I told them I was going to get well, that I was not going to die just then. My husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took six bottles of it. I soon got strong again and had three more children. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound ever since, and if you could see me now you would think I was always been well."—Mrs. MARY F. HIGGINS, 234 Detroit St., Indianapolis, Ind.

A special meeting of the Colchester Chamber of Commerce was held in Grange Hall Monday evening with a large attendance. The business of the meeting was to hear the report of the committee on residential lighting, the new rate which has been in use since February 1st is not satisfactory to the consumers. The electric light company has offered an option rate to those who want it at the rate of 18c per K. W. which also has been turned down. The postal card vote which was taken showed that 101 were in favor of the old rate of 15c per K. W. and a minimum of one dollar per month and 6 in favor of the new charge. But the company refuses to recognize the vote it is said.

The committee met Tuesday afternoon to take a final stand on the question. A proposal was made out and sent to the electric light company and if the result is not satisfactory, the committee will go before the public utilities commission for a hearing. The committee is as follows: Charles F. Brown, justice of the peace; Rev. W. A. Berckman, pastor of the First Congregational church; Myron R. Abell, ex-justice; Frederick O. STAFFORD

The Community gathering in the Memorial hall on Tuesday evening was nearly filled and everybody had a good time and enjoyed the program. The Phoenix band played three fine selections which were rendered in a masterly way. The junior band was a novel and pleasing feature. Under the leadership of Master Billy Dobson this band gave several numbers in response to the hearty applause they received. Through the kindness and perseverance of Mr. Frank Ladburg a group of boys ranging in age from seven to fourteen are becoming very efficient. Some of these boys are real artists and it is hoped to hear from them again in the near future.

What to Eat and Why
"Proteins" in Your Food Important for Tissue Building

The Proteins in our foods are in charge of an important work for us. They are a necessary factor in building and maintaining the body-tissues. We need a certain, definite quantity of Proteins daily from our food—and the quality as well as the quantity of the Proteins is important.

Grape-Nuts includes the excellent Proteins of the wheat, and the supply of Proteins is supplemented by the cream or milk with which Grape-Nuts is eaten.

The Proteins in Grape-Nuts are combined with a very desirable form of carbohydrates (the grain starches) which are partially predigested through the long, slow baking by which Grape-Nuts is made. Insures easy and quick digestion and assimilation (Grape-Nuts helps prevent the unfavorable intestinal conditions which often occur from other sources of Protein supply and which greatly interfere with nutrition.

Grape-Nuts, with cream or milk, is a complete food, containing phosphorus, lime, salts and blended elements vitally necessary for the body's needs but often lacking in modern "refined" foods.

COLD WEATHER SLOWS UP FIRST DAY'S PRACTICE OF PITTSFIELD HILLIES

A cold southwest wind that swept across the baseball grounds all day yesterday chilling the players to the very marrow was responsible for the Pittsfield Hillies going through their first practice session without any great degree of energy being shown. However, showed no mercy on the candidates and kept them chasing flys, scooping up the hot ones, and taking a turn at the bat. The diamond is still a little heavy and not in speed trim enough to prevent any real snappy work. The recruits failed to show any more than ordinary ability, but with a few warm days may show some real class.

The morning work was largely a preliminary workout to limber up the muscles and take out the kinks. But in the afternoon Manager Wilson drove the lads through a stiff session and was able to get a line on his material with which he intends to build up a first division team. Wilson is far from being a slave-driver, but the boys will have to toe the mark and meet the qualifications or the little pink slips that have blasted the hopes of many an ambitious ball player will be passed out. Manager Wilson had little to say regarding the practice yesterday, but expressed the hope that more life and pep would be shown than was displayed during the first practice.

The majority of the recruits failed to show anything remarkable in the line of ball playing, and some will have to show decided improvement within the next few days if they would make the grade. Among those who stood out in the work yesterday afternoon was Freddy Smith, recommended to Wilson by Johnny Evers, who is trying to hook on to a position in the infield. Smithy was given a chance at second base and showed the most pep and life of any of the rookies.

Others who showed up well were Fed Owens and B. T. Barry among the infielders.

In the outfield, Jack Clabby, local boy, who is getting a tryout with the Hillies, stood out among the candidates for the garden positions. Jack fielded exceptionally well considering the high wind and also hit well and attracted the favorable attention of both Business Manager Frank and Manager Wilson. Jack has a natural ability and under careful guidance will make a good outfielder if given the chance. Hoy Leary, who came to Pittsfield from Albany, looked good in the outfield and showed a world of speed on the paths.

Henry Boone, a veteran of last year and the fleetest of foot of any on the team, is just as good as last year and is out to beat his average of .277 of last year. Other veterans who were full of life yesterday were Eddie Zimmerman, Danny Silva and Gus Gardella. The pitchers were given a little warming up but held strictly to tossing them up to the batters without putting any stuff on the ball. Shaver and Van Alstyne, veterans of last year, tossed a few over and found no difficulty in locating the plate. Some of the recruits, however, found the plate a whole lot more elusive, but will come around with a little more practice. Batchelder, the Boston Twilight star portsider, looked good with his sweeping side arm delivery. Gallagher, the high school prodigy, also looked fairly good for a youngster. Harvey Russell, veteran of many a pennant chase, and Walt Campbell did the catching.

Toward the latter end of the practice there was some snappy infield practice by the regulars and it was not hard to tell the difference between them and the "rookies," as Manager Wilson has dubbed his recruits.

The arrivals yesterday were Harvey Russell, C. O. Van Alstyne and B. T. Barry.

MATHEWSON KICKS TWO FIELD GOALS AT BUCKNELL

Not many persons who followed "Big Six" now president of the Boston Braves, through his brilliant career as one of the baseball world's greatest hurlers, probably realize that the sentence quoted above told the story of his first achievement on the athletic field that brought his name prominently before the public.

For despite the diamond fame of later years, it was known best while in college.

It was while at Bucknell, early in the season of 1896, that Matty kicked his way into fame down on Franklin field, the great playground of the University of Pennsylvania. Penn was a real power in football in those days, while the height of Bucknell's aspirations was to score on the Red and Blue—Bucknell had no hopes of winning.

WALSH SETS FIELDING MARK NEVER TIED

Few pitchers in major league baseball will ever show better fielding records than Ed Walsh when the now White Sox coach was the leading hurler for the Chicago club.

In 1907 "Big Ed" accepted 227 chances during the season. His record of 12 assists in one game, made on opening day, April 10, 1907, has been equaled twice. George McConnell of New York, did it Sept. 2, 1912, and Mel Wolfang, also of the White Sox performed the feat Aug. 28, 1914.

In the National League Christy Mathewson had 141 chances in the 1908 campaign. George Meekin, Washington, holds the league record of assists in one game, 11, made July 31, 1913.

FIRES 50,000 SHELLS FROM SAME SHOTGUN

August Sarcander, president of the Fort Collins (Colo.) Gun Club, claims that he has fired at least 50,000 shells with the same shotgun. He purchased the piece 15 years ago and asserts that during the last ten years he has fired an average of 4,000 shells a year, making a total of 40,000, and that he fired enough during the first five years to make at least another 10,000. The gun is a Winchester, hammer model, of the vintage of '97. It has been in the factory but once for reblucing and brushing up.

CANADA HAS MONOPOLY ON LACROSSE SPORT

Intercollegiate lacrosse in the United States is a monopoly closed to Canadians. Every one of the coaches at the leading American lacrosse centers, with two exceptions, is a native of the Dominion. Harvard and St. John's College are the only institutions which boast American lacrosse coaches. Canadians head the organizations at Navy, Cornell, Penn, Penn State, Colgate, Hobart, Lehigh and Army.

A Heavy Sport

Who says that horseshoe pitching is not a game of exercise? Figures compiled by the management of the Cleveland indoor courts state that during the Industrial and County League schedules of the last winter players walked 1,812 miles and pitched 173,156 steel shoe, totaling in weight 709,932 pounds. Of these 39,045 were ringers. Approximate averages for individual players are: walked 27 1-2 miles, pitched 14,732 pounds of steel and averaged 814 ringers.

Norman Ross of the Illinois Athletic Club has been chosen as chairman of a promotional and educational committee of the Central A. A. U. to help further the cause of amateur athletics in the Central district.

'Game called on account of poera" is likely to become one of the familiar announcements from the Polo Grounds during the summer.

Andy High, Brooklyn third sacker, who has been holding out for more money, today departed from his home here to join the Dodgers.

Willie Keeler for eight consecutive years in the National league made 200 hits or more, reaching the high water mark for that organization in 1897 with 243.

Bryan Bolich, of Winston-Salem, a graduate of Trinity college in the class of 1917 and winner of the Rhodes scholarship two years ago, is going in for English football at Oxford.

Baltimore, in 1894, had an infield in Dan Brouthers, Reitz, McGraw, Jennings, Wilbert Robinson, Kid Gleason, and Hawke, a pitcher, that easily ranked in the .300 circle.

In 1887 the National League had two teams with .300 infields, Boston and Detroit. The Detroit infield was probably the greatest of all time as far as batting is concerned.

Six tennis matches have been scheduled by Coach Bearg of the University of Illinois in addition to the conference meet at Chicago the latter part of May. Two of the matches are with non-conference teams.

If early reports from the camp of Dan O'Neil, president of the Eastern League, are to be believed, even though there is no official confirmation forthcoming, Hugh Rorty, the sorrel-topped arbitrator, who for many seasons past held the indicator in league ball games in this neck of the woods, may again don the wind protector and call them as they come across the plate.

People of the size of Miller Huggins are called "shrimps". Huggins is a "shrimp" but in spite of lack of size Huggins managed a team of giants, representing the largest city in the country and having as its home lot the largest ball park in the country. Huggins, five feet four, was born in a big city, Cincinnati, which is in a big state, Ohio. Everything he's connected with is big but Huggins will continue to be five feet four.

Few records tell of strange putouts and assists. Players have been known to field balls with hands, feet and body, but it remained for Alex Jones, southpaw burler of certain fame, to field one with his head. Jones was pitching one day when the batsman raised a high one that Jones concluded would go to the outfield but it came down where he stood and hit him on the head. The ball bounded off Jones head, roiled toward first. The first sacker grabbed the ball, touched the bag, retired the runner and Jones was counted with an assist.

DECISION RESERVED ON THE WARD INJUNCTION

Albany, N. Y., April 11.—Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley today reserved decision on an application of lawyers representing Frances B. Ward of New Rochelle, and the Western Union Telegraph Company for an injunction which, among other things, would restrain Attorney General Carl Sherman from obtaining copies of certain cablegrams to be used as evidence in the state's investigation of the alleged slaying of Clarence Peters, Haverhill, Mass., youth, at the hands of Ward, last May. The injunction also would raise the question of the constitutionality of the inquiry.

The cablegrams passed between Ward's father and brother and are believed to have contained reference to a blackmail plot which Ward's counsel put forth as one of the reasons for Peters' death.

An injunction, similar to the one sought today, was issued in New York recently by Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel, but was set aside by an order from the appellate division yesterday on the technical grounds that it had been issued in the wrong supreme court district. Today the Ward counsel and Isaac N. Mills, counsel for the Western Union Company, carried their battle to Albany. After hearing preliminary arguments Justice Staley directed that both sides submit briefs by next Wednesday.

BUCKLEY TO CALL FOR SHOW-DOWN ON THE SUNDAY BASEBALL BILL

Hartford, April 11.—Rigid enforcement of the present laws concerning the observance of Sunday, which would prevent Sunday baseball among other things, will be sought by House Leader Buckley in an amendment which he announced today he would offer to the bill legalizing Sunday baseball which Governor Templeton has said he would veto. He declared that either the present law should be enforced or what is justified in Sunday sports should be legalized.

The bill, which is now on the house table, would permit local option on Sunday baseball. Governor Templeton, expressing himself in opposition to it, has declared that under the present law Sunday baseball could easily be stopped if the citizens of any community desired to prevent it. His attitude is that local option now exists in reality.

Sunday baseball is played just outside of Waterbury, New Haven and Bridgeport. While, technically, the games are played against the law, few efforts to stop them have been made.

Mr. Buckley announced that he would call the bill from the table tomorrow, but instead of asking to have it passed, would strike out everything but the enacting clause and offer an amendment providing for drastic enforcement of the present laws regarding the observance of Sunday.

"It is common knowledge," he said, "that the present law is violated. It is evidenced by the printing of schedules of Sunday ball games and the publishing of reports of the results. When arrests are made, juries refuse to convict, prosecutors and grand jurors refuse to act and witnesses practically refuse to testify to violations of the law."

ROUSH REFUSES $15,000 SALARY CONTRACT

Cincinnati, April 11.—(By the A. P.)—Ed Roush, the recalcitrant outfielder of the Cincinnati national, will in all probability play unorganized baseball this season. The outfielder said late today that he would leave for his Oakland City (Indiana) home tomorrow and start overtures with industrial league teams.

"There is no disposition on my part to meet with the directors of the Cincinnati club," he said in response to a query whether he would see the Red directors before his departure. "They have turned down my proposition for a three year contract at 16,000 a year and there is nothing left for me to do. I will return home tomorrow and start correspondence with industrial league teams. Which ever one offers the best contract will get me."

Roush declared he had been approached by a representative of a Pennsylvania industrial team but refused to disclose the name of the team. He said he told the representative that he would communicate with him later.

The offer the Cincinnati club made to Roush is said to have been $15,000 a year minus a $50 fine imposed upon him for every day he remained away from training. Roush flatly refused to consider this offer.

UNDECIDED ABOUT ALLOWING CERTAIN NATIONS TO COMPETE

Rome, April 11.—(By the A. P.)—The question whether the nationals of former enemy countries are to be permitted to participate in future Olympic games still remains unsettled, notwithstanding the fact that the international Olympic committee had it under discussion for two hours this afternoon. Another important question before the committee was that of the participation of Russia in the games, and it finally was decided to refer both to a special committee, which will make its report to the main committee tomorrow.

Baron Pierre De Coubertin, president of the international committee, told the Associated Press this afternoon that the Russian situation was a difficult one for the international committee to handle.

"You see," said Baron De Coubertin, "there are 4,000,000 Russians residing outside Russia. Generally they do not look with favor on the present government in Russia and therefore would want to come into the games under their own jurisdiction. This would mean, if soviet Russia and the Russians abroad were invited to take part in the games, that there would be two Russian flags at the stadium."

The international committee, on the personal invitation of President Masaryk, president of the Czechoslovak republic, has decided to hold the regular Olympic congress of 1925 in Prague. Every university in the world will be invited to send a representative to the congress. Likewise as many labor athletic organizations as can be reached will be requested to attend.

NORWICH MARKSMEN LOSE TO SOUTH BEND TEAM

In the second match of the Norwich Rifle Club with the champion West Bend (Iowa) rifle club the local club was defeated by a margin of 39 points. This match was shot at 25 yards offhand. Each man fired 50 shots using 22 calibre rifles, telescopic sights. The local club averaged 90 and a fraction per man, while the West Bend Club averaged 93 and a fraction per man. The local club turned in the same average per man as the West Bend club when they won the offhand championship of the United States in the N. R. A. last December. On the whole the local boys done some very fine work. Bidwell and Dr. F. W. Holms shooting way above their usual average, while Stebbins and Brand also got fine scores.

Palmer shooting in his usual form tied F. E. Border for first place, each man getting 482, which is a very high score and is within a few points of the record for that distance.

F. E. Border is the Grand Aggregate Gallery champion of the United States.

Following are the scores:

Norwich Rifle Club

Charles Palmer	482
J. Bidwell	462
Dr. F. W. Holms	456

WAS WHIPPING BOSS AT A CONVICT CAMP

Madison, Fla., April 11 (By the A. P.).—Walter Higginbotham, "whipping boss" at a convict camp of the Putnam Lumber company at Clara, Fla., was indicted here late today by the grand jury on three counts charging first degree murder in connection with the death of Martin Tabert, North Dakota youth.

Tabert died three days after he had been whipped by Higginbotham in February, 1922, according to witnesses who appeared before the grand jury today, but camp officials contend the youth died from natural causes.

Higginbotham was released tonight on bail of $10,000 pending his trial. Circuit Judge Horne announced that Higginbotham probably would be tried at a special term of court May 15 at Cross City, Fla., the county seat of Dixie county, where the whipping is said to have been administered.

Higginbotham's attorneys said they would admit that the lash was used on Tabert, but that the blows were not hard enough to have inflicted severe injuries.

LEVIATHAN WILL BE THE LARGEST SHIP IN THE WORLD

New York, April 11.—When the reconditioned Leviathan sails on her maiden trip July 4 she will sail as "the largest ship in the world," William J. Love, vice president of the United States shipping board, announced today.

The British steamer Majestic is 7.9 feet longer than the Leviathan, Mr. Love conceded, but the Leviathan's beam is 2-10 of a foot wider, and he declared alterations made during her reconditioning gave her a gross tonnage of 59,956.65, against the Majestic's 56,551.

Lloyds Register gives the measurements of the Leviathan as: Length, 907.6 feet; beam, 100.3 feet; depth, 58.2 feet; and the Majestic's as: Length, 915.5; beam, 150.1; depth, 58.2 feet.

The gross tonnage of the Leviathan is given by Lloyds as 54,282 and the Majestic 56,551.

GOLDEN GATE ENGRAVED ON NEW 20-CENT STAMP

Washington, April 11.—The Golden Gate, an engraving taken from Coulter's oil painting of the entrance to San Francisco Bay, will adorn the new twenty-cent stamp to be put into use by the postoffice department. Postmaster General New, in approving the design, explained today that difficulty in obtaining a good engraving of Yosemite Falls made it necessary to abandon the plan to make the falls the subject of the stamp.

SMALL ISLAND RAIDED BY TURKISH IRREGULARS

London, April 11 (By the A. P.)—Turkish irregulars have raided the small island of Castelorizo, off the Asia Minor coast, which figured in the recent allied-Turkish peace negotiations, an dassassinated the Italian garrison and a number of Greek notables, says a Central News despatch from Athens quoting advices received from the island of Rhodes.

The raiders, the despatch adds, took possession of the civil administration of the island but were arrested by forces sent from Rhodes by the Italian authorities.

LIBERTY HILL

The Men's club held their monthly meeting at the church rooms Tuesday evening.

The Christian Endeavor society will have a social at the church rooms on Thursday evening.

The Ladies' Sewing circle will meet at the church rooms Friday afternoon.

Although there was a hard rain, accompanied by thunder and vivid lightning, many attended the 30th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Dimon Thursday evening of last week. They were the recipients of many fine gifts from relatives and friends, including a silver tea set from church people.

The frost is nearly out of the highways, but there are many deep ruts, making it very bad traveling. Selectman E. C. Payson is making repairs as fast as possible.

Elisha Tucker, in his 80th year, who has been in Willimantic hospital for about three months, passed away at 5 p. m. Sunday. He was a mechanic of unusual ability and an honored and upright citizen. He was a devoted Christian and a member of Liberty Hill Congregational church.

James Haddad is employed by Representative John G. Lewis of Hampton.

J. Earl James is confined to the house by illness.

Mrs. J. Earl James will be the leader of the C. E. meeting next Sunday evening.

Fred Higgins, of Nyack, N. Y., 69-year-old Erie flagman, who recently inherited a fortune from the estate of a wealthy brother in St. Louis, decided between a wife and a racing car. After consultation with friends the racing car won.

SPECIAL-SIX TOURING $1275

Wherever motor cars are discussed, and that's nearly everywhere, somebody is sure to remark—"That Studebaker Special-Six is a regular automobile."

The Studebaker Special-Six has been on the market for four years. Each year has seen added to it such refinements and improvements as time has made possible. Today there are more than one hundred and twenty-five thousand in every-day service and we don't believe there's a dissatisfied owner.

The name was selected because comparative tests against all kinds of cars made this car stand out as something special and apart from the ordinary run of automobiles. It requires special merit to warrant calling any car a special—and if the value isn't special the car quickly fades away.

Count the "Special-Sixes" that have appeared since the arrival of the Studebaker Special-Six. That's the proof of the value of the original Special-Six.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Helping an Injured Bird.

Now, let me see where we left off in the last story before this. Oh, yes, I remember now. Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit were out for a ride in the Luckymobile, and the old brown horse had just found a comfortable home with Mr. Jones' children, who had gone out for a ride in the old wagon. Oh, yes, oh, yes, that's where we left off, just when everybody was as happy as a clam at high tide; as an old sailor used to say, when I was a little boy and sat by his side to listen to wonderful stories about the sea, which he'd tell me if I'd been a good boy all the week.

Then he set to work.

Well, after a while, Uncle Lucky said:

"Where were we going anyway, I declare I've forgotten."

"Never mind," answered the little rabbit, "let's forget and do something else, for what's the use of trying to remember anything this lovely Spring morning. It's all I can do to keep quiet, for I feel like hopping over that big white cloud to see who is hiding behind it."

"Don't you try," said the old gentleman rabbit. "Robber Hawk might be there for all you know." And just then, they heard a voice say:

"Where are you going, this sweet day?
Over the road, so far away?
Take me along, for I'd like to go
Over the hills where the breezes blow."

"Who are you?" asked Uncle Lucky, stopping the Luckymobile just like that and if he hadn't he would have run over a little bird.

"Goodness me!" cried the old gentleman rabbit, "what's the matter?"

"I've broken my wing," said the little bird.

"Oh, dear, oh dear!" said Uncle Lucky, "that's very bad. You ought to go to the doctor."

"How can I?" said the little bird, "I can't fly."

"Climb inside," said the kind old rabbit. "I'll take you to Doctor Quack, the famous duck doctor, and fix your wing in no time."

So the little bird who had blue wings and a white breast, hopped into the Luckymobile and pretty soon not so very far, they came to the doctor's house, and wasn't it lucky he was in? Well, I just guess it was, and after he had looked the little bird all over he said:

"I'll mend your wing so you can fly
If you want to, up to the big blue sky.
You'll never know when I get through,
That you almost broke your wing in two."

Then he set to work. First he smoothed out the feathers and then bound it around with little pieces of clean white cloth and after that, he gave the little bird a millet seed and a drop of honey and said:

"Flap your wings and fly away.
And, when you get rich, why you can pay.
I hope you'll make a million cents
So you can pay me just two weeks hence."

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Confidence that the senate would do the right thing in regard to the effort to block daylight saving was not misplaced. It has dealt with this matter in accord with what is believed to be the majority sentiment of the state, and it has prevented the establishment of conditions that would have, provided it was constitutional, forced Connecticut to be out of harmony with the neighboring states.

After these persistent activities on the part of the minority against the known wishes of the majority, covering a period now of several years, it is to be hoped that the decision will be accepted. Conformity to such matters is invariably much easier than studied opposition, and even though it is tried against the will there's a possibility that it will be found so desirable that nothing else will be thought of in the future. On the other hand there are many to whom it makes no difference whether it is daylight saving time or standard time. They are not governed by the actions of others and can begin and end their day at whatever hours they please.

Connecticut would have been placed in a most ridiculous position had the proposed law been enacted. That the clerk of bills should give it as his opinion that the bill was unconstitutional only indicates that prolongation of the contest through the courts had it become a law.

The senate has looked at the question from a sensible viewpoint. Even advocates of standard time were opposed to the restrictions the bill would have placed upon those who might have desired to observe a summer schedule as was displayed in the amended form of the bill.

Action at this time by the senate makes it possible for the different communities in the state to arrange for changing the time on April 29 in keeping with the neighboring states and the schedule of the New Haven road. Connecticut by its action stands for uniformity.

CURBING HUMAN FLIES.

What is the direct outcome of the tragic death of H. F. Young, the human fly, who lost his hold and fell to the pavement and death while attempting to climb the front of a hotel, is the adoption of a new ordinance in the city of New York, prohibiting such exhibitions, and imposing a fine and jail sentence for those who violate it.

New York isn't trying to prevent people from doing hair-raising stunts but it sees no excuse for making circus rings of the streets, and more than that it believes that the public is entitled to protection against the danger of being struck by such a person falling, against being forced to witness a possible tragedy and against the clogging of traffic which cannot fail to result.

The action in the big city establishes its attitude for the future. Conditions there may be a bit different than in smaller places, but it is nevertheless in keeping with the position taken by mayors in several communities since that time when permission has been sought to engage in such a stunt.

Such exhibitions contribute nothing to the welfare of the crowd or the community. They are for the sole benefit of those who are willing to take their lives in their hands. If they please and thrill some, they also shock others of a nervous make-up. No hardships will be experienced as the result of the prohibition of such exhibitions. Some lives and many nervous chills may be saved. New York acts in anticipation of other cases like the misstep by Young. It is only what must be regarded as a sane and sensible step, and one which others are likely to follow.

There is a legitimate opportunity for the human flies to display their nerve and serve the needs of a community through the work on steeples, towers, flagpoles and the like. New York has no desire, and does not intend, to interfere with anything of that nature.

EXCLUDING MADAME KALININ.

While the cause for which she was slated to tour this country—the orphans of Russia—might be regarded as a perfectly good one, there will be no great opposition to the action of the department of state in withdrawing its authorization of the privilege of entering this country to Madame Kalinin, wife of the Russian president.

It was impossible that she should be regarded as other than a representative of a government that has not been and will not be recognized by this country, so long as it clings to its present policies.

Likewise would she be the representative of a government that has ignored the plea of civilization against the execution of a priest. Wherever she might appear, even though her efforts were confined strictly to the raising of funds and relief for the orphans of Russian, it would only be the excuse for the display of the feeling of indignance that prevails at the conduct of the soviet government. Being the wife of the man who signed the death warrant she would be especially subject to attack.

Perhaps, in view of the fact that the United States has persistently declined to give any encouragement to recognition of soviet Russia, it might not expect that there would be an eagerness to heed such suggestions as this government made concerning the doomed priest, but this government was not alone in protesting the execution. Nearly all civilized nations endeavored to prevent it. Soviet Russia displayed an unwillingness to even delay final action.

Madame Kalinin's exclusion must be regarded as a wise move. What she might have accomplished in the interests of the Russian orphans may well be left to the American relief workers.

CUTTING THE TAX.

Secretary Mellon recently urged a reduction in the surtaxes in order to get a larger amount of capital now in tax free securities back into the general channels of business. He based his belief that it could be done without any loss in revenue by pointing out the fact that the income tax returns had increased even though there has already been one reduction. If cutting the surtaxes would again serve to boost the revenue it is obvious that it is a desirable thing to do. Instead of paying a large tax on part of the income a smaller tax on the entire income might produce even larger revenue. That, at least, is the view which has been persistently urged in behalf of a further reduction.

Cutting surtaxes means that only a certain number of the income taxpayers would be affected. That change would probably have the only influence upon the bringing out of hidden capital, but in the opinion of President Harding, if the revenue is such that there can be a reduction in taxation, it should be made to apply all down the line. It is perfectly apparent that entirely different results would be obtained according to the action taken, but there is no question but what popular sentiment would incline toward the view of the president. Even though the cutting of the surtax might attract more capital into the industrial channels such a move alone would be certain to be subjected to the claim of class favoritism and the favoring of those best able to pay. A cut affecting all would have a decidedly different appeal as well as a different influence upon the revenue returns.

HARVARD'S DECISION.

Whether class or race discrimination was to prevail at Harvard has been a question for some little time. Indications that efforts were aimed in that direction are now upset by the decision of the board of overseers to continue to maintain the traditional policy of freedom from discrimination on grounds of race or religion in connection with its admission rules.

Harvard is an institution that is supposed to be for all who are intellectually fitted for its courses. It is a non-sectarian institution and for that reason there should be no discrimination. It cannot penalize or exclude unless it treats all alike.

Because there are those who are fully appreciative of the opportunities afforded and are anxious to make the most of them, it does not behoove such an institution to say that Harvard cannot accommodate them while it is open to those who are disposed to waste their time and opportunities. Social exclusion can hardly be sanctioned by those who are guiding the activities of such a broad institution of learning.

This has all been recognized by the board of overseers as they have wrestled with the problem. They have recognized their duty to the institution and to the cause of higher education in reaching their decision They have not been disposed to go outside the American ideas concerning universities that make such an appeal as does Harvard and they will be heartily supported in the position taken. The appeal of Harvard would be greatly narrowed to do otherwise.

CHLORINE'S CAPTURE

"Well," said the tall, lank householder as he entered the house and shed his overcoat, "that tall, homely sister of the Whackers who lives on the next corner is married at last! I came by there just in time to get a wad of rice in one ear and an old slipper in the small of my back! It just shows what settled determination will do!"

"Why, Chlorine Whacker is a perfectly nice girl if she is homely!" declared his wife, rescuing his wet umbrella from the new upholstery and putting his hat where it could be found when next wanted. "She would no more chase a man who didn't want her than—than—"

"I didn't mention any names," growled the tall, lank householder, shaking rice from inside his collar. "All Chlorine had to do was to sit pretty and watch her family hunt!"

"'My goodness!' no doubt Mrs. Pervius Whacker said to herself after the first sweet glow of matrimony had worn off, 'here we are, with Pervius' sister, Chlorine, tacked onto us for life unless somebody does something about it! Well, watch my dust! I simply cannot endure the thought of an extra woman at all the dinner parties I may give hereafter, or somebody in the house who will always be telling me when I have got on too much rouge. From now on my motto is "Never give up the ship, boys!"'

"'If I buy pink lampshades and tell Chlorine always to sit in that farthest chair, where she will be in the shadow, she won't look nearly so much like a poor crayon portrait of somebody's first wife—and if she remembers not to open her mouth so wide when she laughs that gold tooth never will show. I think the best bet will be a middle-aged bachelor who has just been turned down by some sweet young thing.'

"That was why the Whackers had Andrew Peppersauce to dinner five nights a week for a spell. Any time you ran into the Whackers' to borrow some tobacco or a cup of sugar you stepped on the toes of Andrew Peppersauce.

"'Chlorine cooked the dinner tonight,' Mrs. Whacker would whisper to Andrew in an off hand way. 'I was busy darning stockings. It's so nice for me to have somebody in the house a clever and capable as Chlorine is! I just don't know what I should do without her!' Or 'Chlorine made this Italian doily set we're using to-night. You've no idea how clever that girl is with her needle—she can just make anything!'

"Well, by dining you can make an absent-minded person believe anything and Andrew Peppersauce, brooding over the flapper who had turned him down, was impressed with the ability of Chlorine—and, anyhow, he hadn't looked at her much, being occupied with his thoughts. But just as the Whackers were holding their breath and Chlorine was beginning to look conscious, Andrew Peppersauce met another sweet young thing at the dance and she caught him before you could count ten.

"However, do not think Mrs. Whacker was discouraged. Every time she wanted to lie down with a novel and a box of chocolates and loaf on her job she didn't dare because there was Pervious' sister keeping an eye on her. So in desperation she picked on this good, earnest young man, Peter B. Lickorish, and from the start Peter had just as about much chance of escape as rain of not falling down when it once starts.

"Pervious would meet him at the corner cigar store, smite him on the back and ask him home to dinner. Mrs. Whacker would phone him, saying prettily that she and Pervious simply couldn't go to the theatre as they had planned and wouldn't he like to use their perfectly good orchestra seats? They would really be grateful if he would do so! And after he had said yes he would remember that common courtesy demanded that he ask Chlorine to share them with him. While Chlorine was putting the last disguising touches on her face upstairs Mrs. Whacker would put in some good licks explaining to Peter what a noble character she was and what a big, generous heart she had, and how nobody would dream how lovely her disposition was.

"'Keep your hat brim tilted down low over your eyes!' she would hiss in Chlorine's ear as the two passed out. Whenever anybody mentioned asking Chlorine to anything Mrs. Whacker would pipe up with a significant smile can't imagine, m'dear, how devoted and suggest they ask Peter too—'you he is!' No man can withstand the press of public opinion and Peter Likorish was roped and tied before he knew it. Well, at that, he'll probably be as happy as he deserves."

"I'm sure I don't know why we keep on marring you horrid suspicious creatures!" declared the wife of the tall, lank householder. "My goodness! I'll bet poor Chlorine took him just to get rid of him, as most of us do!"—Exchange.

Wives of Famous Men

Jemima Jones, Wife of Cornwallis.

That most vitally necessary quality for a soldier's wife—sturdiness—was undoubtedly lacking in Jemima Jones, bride of Charles, Lord Cornwallis, famous British general of the American Revolution. In spite of the fact that she was a soldier's daughter (her father was a colonel in the King's Guards) Jemima's character was totally devoid of any trace of the strength so desperately necessary to army wives.

Jemima, who was married to Cornwallis in 1768, was the type of woman described today as a clinging vine. Her love was the kind that took rather than gave, and consequently caused her and her husband much grief. Young, delicate, lovely, it is easy enough to understand her desolation at the thought of separation from her sturdy oak husband. When the exigencies of war demanded his departure to America, Jemima was utterly stricken. Having some influence in court, she secured an audience with the king, and ultimately got permission for Cornwallis' American appointment to be relinquished.

The general, of course, refused to give up the journey, considering it a matter of honor. Shortly thereafter he left and remained across the sea for two years. During this time grief so preyed on Jemima's mind that she developed a form of melancholia. Her husband came to England for a four months' visit, during which she rallied slightly, but after his return to America she grew steadily worse, and in 1779 she died.

She requested that no stone should be erected over her remains, but that a thorn-tree should be planted above her vault, as nearly as possible over her heart—significant of the sorrow which destroyed her life.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Philip Snowden, the man who made the British parliament discuss socialism by his introduction of a bill for the abolition of private capital and the nationalization of land, is known as the "brains" of the socialist movement in England, and the cleverest of the socialist members in the house of commons. It is said that his conversion to socialism was the result of an accident. He was employed in the civil service in his native village of Cowling when an accident laid him up for many months. During his convalescence he studied socialism. Soon he became well known for his lectures and writings on the subject. His election to parliament and then as chairman of the independent labor party followed in due time. With the increased political power of the independent labor party Snowden has become to be recognized by the leaders of all factions as a man who must be reckoned with in the future.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Redness of "Red Russia."

Mr. Editor: It may be of interest to the large audience who heard the brilliant lecture of Sir Paul Dukes last evening, to know that the Otis library contains his book, "Red Dusk and the Morrow."

Therein will be found explanatory details of the personal experiences to which he so modestly alluded in his talk.

The library has many books dealing with Russia, past and present; but none which so graphically describes the redness of "Red Russia" as this, in my judgment. It is a good book to buy and own.

WILLIAM A. AIKEN.

Norwich, April 11, 1923.

The Town Clock Expresses an Opinion.

Mr. Editor: Possibly due to metereological disturbances, aggravated by radio broadcasting, I have failed to gain a clear understanding of the theological controversy which has occupied so much space in your columns for the past one or two months. It seems to me, however, to center upon a question of scriptural truth and interpretation, chiefly the latter. I am not a theological but a horological oracle; and as such am accepted by all of my numerous and diversified constituents able to read what is imprinted upon my face and pointed out by my hands, and to hear the sermons, short or long, delivered from my pulpit. But a speaking oracle, of whatever character, is only a medium through whom or which hidden knowledge is revealed; and in giving intelligence I act solely as a medium and servant of an inexorable law, that law which of all divine laws is the oldest—time. I interpret nothing of my own private conceit, but stick to that definition revealed to me and received by all as standard. In my humble way, and governed by standard, I represent another and higher oracle, the holy scriptures, which were given to the world to be interpreted agreeably to divine standardization; and therefore ask space in your theological section, which for enterprise is in fair competition with that of any of the several distinctly religious papers with which I am familiar.

I haste to assure you, Mr. Editor, that I am devoid of theological opinions except such as are born of the analogy I find to exist between the sciences of theology and horology. My bell sounds to summon no one to any particular church service; indeed I write for neither saint nor sinner, hoping that my words may fall in benediction upon the just and the unjust alike.

Now each private interpreter of scripture is, like myself, an announcer of doctrine. He is a sort of theological clock; and, as am I, is well wound up and provided with a bell. But I announce doctrine in accord with horological facts, while his theological announcements must be speculative because of his inability to speak in accord with what may be compared to the standardization that controls my horological announcements. From my horo-theological standpoint I fail to see that a question of such importance as to involve eternity, of which time is but a passing figure, can be settled by human agency. The words and operations of divinity cannot be expressed and standardized by mortality. However, as one of your correspondents has said, the whole controversy might be left, and perhaps logically, to the determination of Mrs. Eddy.

TOWN CLOCK.

Norwich, April 10, 1923.

Treatment of Electric Shock.

Mr. Editor: I have just read of the fatal accidents, caused by the handling of the electric cable on Crescent street and also the suggestion, by "Im Pri Ma Tur" that some of the readers of the paper write on the treatment of electric shock.

The writer of this letter is not an authority on first aid, but having been instructor, in this study, at Valparaiso university, and also in the United States navy, I submit this article for the information of those who would be interested. I welcome constructive criticism.

The first essential move is to remove the victim from the contact. This is done by the use of some nonductor, such as rubber gloves, dry clothes, rope, board or a branch of a tree. If it is necessary to cut the wire, use an ax with a dry wooden handle and beware of the wire flying back after it is cut. As a rule the shock does not kill instantly and life may be saved after the breathing has stopped.

As soon as the patient has been removed from the contact, start artificial respiration. Begin at once as every minute counts. Don't wait to loosen clothing. Remove any foreign bodies such as false teeth, chewing gum, tobacco, etc., that may be in the mouth by introducing the finger. If the mouth is closed tightly don't wait to open it but begin the artificial respiration and later remove the bodies, if any are present.

While the respiration work is being done upon the patient another can loosen the clothing and hot one shoe heels with a stick twenty times every five minutes till respiration (normal) has been restored. Any form of artificial respiration will do, but the Shaefer method is the easiest for one person as it is the least tiresome.

Keep the patient warm, give nothing by mouth till the patient is conscious, and watch carefully for signs of breathing so as not to block them by the artificial respiration motions. Keep the patient lying down till the doctor arrives. But if you are alone do not leave the patient to go for a doctor, as help might be attracted by shouts and sent for the doctor. Do not stop the artificial respiration movements till a doctor pronounces the victim dead and in the absence of a doctor continue for at least four hours before giving up your efforts to revive the victim.

Hoping that this will be of some interest and help to anyone seeking information along this line, I am,

Very sincerely,

DANIEL J. BOWEN.

CHILD TRAINING

AN OLD FASHIONED QUALITY—RESPECT.

By Carrie A. Ritter.

"Mother had a hen-party yesterday," gleefully exclaims a young girl of sweet sixteen. "Mother had seven old hens here and you ought to have heard them cackle and seen them eat ice-cream."

Many people might call this a cute up-to-date speech, but the mother of this same girl complains, "Mary is not respectful to me. She thinks I'm old, too, and I'll not be fifty-six until September. I don't see why she talks so about my age."

Casually observing these cases we wonder how much of this is training or rather lack of it. We notice the same attitude in the parents not infrequently in speaking of, or to, elderly relatives. Children are often allowed to be saucy to their grandparents or to their elders.

So it comes to us that the atmosphere in which a child is reared is responsible for his respect or disrespect for those older or in authority. Sometimes it is not the words so much as the tone in which the parent speaks of an elderly person that conveys disrespect.

There has always seemed to me to be a natural bond between children and very elderly persons. The little ones love stories which the older ones can tell delightfully. I know of a case in which a grandmother and her only granddaughter are chums They camped together for a month when the rest of the family did not care to go. "Grandma had the time of her life," explained the girl, "only we did eat such a lot, both of us, it kept her busy. The young folks used to come over too. Grandma let us have all kinds of fun, and invited them to meals. She seemed to enjoy it as much as I did."

It was the same girl who said of her grandmother, "Grandma does not hear very well over the 'phone, in fact she does not hear it ring unless she is in the room with it, but don't hesitate to call up, there are some persons she can understand so she will answer if possible."

Does not this sound better than, "She's deaf as a post, what's the good of her trying to understand anything? No use your telephoning unless mother is home, or I am."

We wonder, yes, we wonder, very much if the attitude of sons and daughters-in-law to aging widowed mothers has anything to do with the way young people speak of "Grandma."

"Old folks aren't wanted." You hear it often. Perhaps they are not, but sometimes it may be their own fault because years before they allowed themselves to speak carelessly of other elderly persons, forgetful of the law of suggestion. Let us be thankful for the mothers who taught us that filial respect and consideration were their due, that members of the generation older than themselves were to be treated with deference, loving care, and gentle thoughtfulness for their comfort, and that selfishness and disrespect to our seniors are neither more uplifting nor ennobling to our own characters than they are pleasant to the elderly people.

Stories That Recall Others

A College Advocate.

A couple of five-year-olds were mulling over the affairs of the day, when one of them inquired of the other:

"Say, did your father ever go to college?"

"No, my father never went to college," was the prompt reply.

"Well, that's too bad. It would have done him a lot of good if he had."

Going—Gone.

Skidding off a wet road into a four-foot ditch the automobile was overturned out in the country, but the occupants escaped injury and the car was not damaged to any great extent.

"We weren't particularly frightened when the accident occurred," said Mr. A. "Mrs. A. said, 'We're going,' and I said, 'Why, we're gone,' and by that time we were ready to climb out."

POETRY

GAEL HARBOR.

We stood on the headland light and bold
And waved our hats to the vessel
The sea and sky were ruddied to gold.
Where the sun tipped ocean's crest.
And, o'full, rippled many a pennant, a whitened mast,
As she sailed through that golden sea;
Straight to the heart of the dying day,
To the wind's and Beauty's.

She nosed her way through molten waves,
Where the purpling swell swings past,
Her forefoot gleams where the bright flood leaves,
Bright shines her rigging and mast,
But straight she holds to the sinking sun,
In a fading ark of light,
Whose gold is blent to purpling dun,
Till lost in the murk of night.

Adown the path is a light arrow
With cheer for my love and me,
And we turn from murm'rous waves below,
That beat 'gainst that pentland free.
Our beacon guides us to cottage door
And as ship to her charted flight,
Finds harbor safe and the voyage o'er—
So we leave the world to its night.

SAME OLD STORY.

We get sad news of a coming end
From our returned globe-trotters;
They say "we've gone too far to mend—
All civilization tottars!"

'Twas Adam coined that phrase, he said,
"A terrible pair of plotters
Old Satan and the serpent be—
And civilization tottars."

And Noah voiced the selfsame fear
When his ark rode the waters;
He sighed and said as he dropped a tear,
"This civilization tottars."

"What, what'll I do?" So King Tut cried
(He was one of our first what-whaters),
"Go make me a tomb and let me hide—
For civilization tottars."

Yet good still governs the world today
And man stands on his trotters;
So let's take heart and be on our way—
Though civilization tottars.

—Farm Life.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Guess we will. But why that $10 bill in his hand?"

"That's to square himself with his wife."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Teacher—"Now, Robert, can you tell me how a bat hangs with his head downward?"

Bobby—"Please, miss, do you mean a chimney bat or an aerobat?"—Boston Evening Transcript.

Young Man—"I—I'm afraid it's my heart, sir."—Detroit Free Press.

A Scotsman said to his friend after a merry evening: "Do ye ken whaur Andy Graham lives the noo?"

"Whist!" said his friend, "ye're Andy Graham yersel'."

"I'm no askin' ye if ye ken Andy Graham," was the reply. "I'm askin' if ye ken whaur he lies."—Exchange.

"Fancy! He had known me only two days when he proposed to me in his automobile."

"What did you tell him?"

"I told him he was speeding."—Boston Evening Transcript.

The Chinese philosopher, Confucius, who lived 500 years before Christ, mentions the chrysanthemum, and authorities tell us that there were noted growers of the flower in China, where it was known earlier than in Japan, before A. D. 400. There is no evidence of the existence of the flower in English gardens before 1746, although it may have been known in continental gardens before then, and it must be assumed that it was introduced into England about that time.

According to the latest figures available, about 5,000,000 boxes of grapefruit were consumed in this country in one year, although not so many years ago this popular breakfast delicacy was without commercial value and had no place upon the American bill of fare. Florida and California are the sources of a large part of the supply, and it is also cultivated to a great extent in Jamaica and the Isle of Pines. The grapefruit, or pomelo, with other members of the citrus family, was brought to Florida by the Spaniards about four centuries ago. It grows in great yellow bunches upon trees that attain a height of thirty feet.—Washington Star.

"Cure Your Rupture Like I Cured Mine"

Old Sea Captain Cured His Own Rupture After Doctors Said "Operate or Death."

His Remedy and Book Sent Free.

Captain Collings sailed the seas for many years; then he sustained a bad double rupture that soon forced him to not only remain ashore, but kept him bedridden for years. He tried doctor after doctor and truss after truss. No results! Finally, he was assured that he must either submit to a dangerous and abhorrent operation or die. He did neither. He cured himself instead.

"Follow Men and Women. You Don't Have To Be Cut Up, and You Don't Have To Be Tortured By Trusses."

Captain Collings made a study of himself, of his condition—and at last he was rewarded by the finding of the method that so quickly made him a well, strong, vigorous and happy man.

Anyone can use the same method; it's simple, easy, safe and inexpensive. Every ruptured person in the world should have the Captain Collings book, telling all about how he cured himself, and how anyone may follow the same treatment in their own home without any trouble. FIND HOOFPRINTS OF MISSING MAN'S HORSE AT BRIDGE AT THE FALLS

Every indication late Wednesday night tended to show that the body of William Tibbitts, of Bozrah, missing from his home on the Fitchville road, has been thrown into the Yantic river at a point about 10 feet from the southerly side of the new concrete bridge in the Canada section of the city, and in all probability officers will be on the job this (Thursday) morning dragging the river bed near the bridge in hopes that the body of Tibbitts may be recovered and the mystery surrounding his disappearance from his home at Fitchville about 8 o'clock Monday night be solved.

Searching parties were out Wednesday afternoon and covered the road from Yantic into Asylum street but nothing was seen at that time to indicate that the stolen buggy carrying the body of Tibbitts had passed that way.

A Bulletin reporter who had been working on the case Wednesday followed the trail over the back road and figured that the most natural way the buggy would be driven into Norwich and left on Water street would be to cut over from Asylum street through the Falls district and down Washington street, straight on into Water street.

Find Marks on Bridge.

A careful search of the two bridges over the river at this place disclosed marks of a buggy and horse and these were marked off by the reporter. A search on the bridge showed that a team had been driven in from the Canada side, across the first bridge and at the extreme right hand side of the concrete bridge had been driven to a point within a foot of the low railing. Here were found two heavy smudges that appeared to be blood stains and to the right of them on the upper rail were three marks that might have been finger prints. Word was immediately sent to the Norwich police and State Policeman Sterling came to the bridge and after looking over the smudges and hoof prints and wheel mfarks in the road called upon Coroner Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve to make an examination of the marks on the rail. After his first examination the medical examiner stated that he believed the marks to be blood stains but later was in doubt and took pieces of the stains to give them a more thorough test and later reported to Officer Sterling that they were not blood stains.

After learning of this Officer Sterling abandoned the search for the night, it being nearly 10 o'clock.

Medical Examiner Gildersleeve in a statement to the reporter said that in his belief the fact that marks of the buggy were seen close to the rail, the hoof marks could be distinguished on the bridge, made it well worth while to investigate the findings of the reporter and see if the body of Tibbitts had been thrown into the river from the bridge.

The theory has been advanced that the murderer made sure that the body would sink out of sight by tieing to it the hitching weight from the wagon or the milk can that might have been filled with stones. Both these articles are missing.

Took Hoof Mark Measurements.

Civil Engineer George E. Pitcher, who had also been called after the marks at the bridge had been found took measurements of the hoof marks of the front and rear hoofs in the road on both sides of the bridge and went to Fitchville in the evening where he compared his measurements with those leading up to the back door of the house. His finding was that the hoof marks were indical and that the same horse had made both marks. In his opinion the marks on the rail were finger prints evidently made by a man whose hands were bloody.

When the examinations had been made and the facts established there were conflicting evidences. The marks on the bridge were not blood, but the marks leading close to the rail had been made by Tibbitts' horse and buggy.

It was evident that if these marks are identical with the ones found at Tibbitts' home 1 person or persons committing the supposed crime were familiar with the back road and after loading his body into the buggy drove over it in quick time, keeping from the main highway where their gruesome load might have been discovered. As officers had searched the road from Fitchville to the back road and had covered the back road as far as the Canada bridges it seemed evident that this place was the only place where the body could have been safely disposed of, and the buggy driven quickly into this city and abandoned.

The fact that the tracks of the horse and buggy led over the hill towards Sachem street tended to show that the trip into Norwich was made down Washington street into Water street.

Saw Two Men in Buggy.

Evidence secured by the police and Constable Jeremiah Sweeney of Bozrah Wednesday night from Charles Lavarge, fireman at the Auditorium hotel, proved the theory of the reporter that the buggy had come into the city over the Canada road as Mr. Lavarge stated that the buggy came from the direction of Washington street and was stopped in front of the Strand theatre.

Mr. Lavarge stated that when the wagon drove up there were two men in it; one got out, the second remaining in the buggy. He thought nothing of it at that time but attention called by the press recalled the fact to his mind and he gave his story to the police. Where the second man got into the wagon is a mystery yet to be solved as the buggy was seen Monday night headed for Norwich, only one man riding on the seat.

The police are at work with Constable Sweeney gathering in several loose threads of evidence and it is hoped that some of the mystery surrounding the case may be cleared up within another 24 hours.

Several people have been under suspicion in the case but evidence brought in during Wednesday night freed them from suspicion and the officers are looking for parties as yet unknown in the case.

Bank Books Missing.

On Wednesday it was found that Tibbitts had banked with the Dime Savings bank of Norwich but the bank books were missing from the house. Rumors were current also Tibbitts on Monday had cashed a check for $175 and with other money on his person might have had over $200 on him Monday night, and this being known might have been a motive for the crime.

Although evidence seems to indicate that his body may have been thrown into the Yantic river there is the possibility that this like other clues will not prove to be the fact and the mystery will remain as deep as ever.

Blood Stained Axe Found

About noon Wednesday while searching the grounds at Tibbitts' home a bloodstained axe was found behind some barrels in the shed. The blunt end of the axe was clotted with the blood and stains reached up onto the handle to the axe. A blood stained finger print was on the handle and showed that someone had struck down Tibbitts with the axe.

It was evident that the assailant was familiar with the Tibbitts' farm and with the habits of the owner for the man knew that the back door of the house was always unlocked and did not waste time in trying the front door. The fact that he hid the axe in the shed to the rear of the house, and knew where the horse and buggy were kept tends to show that the assailant must have been someone who had been at the firm and knew where to find the things he used in committing the crime.

Saw Tibbitts' Team

New light was shed on the matter Wednesday when State Policeman Sterling and County Detective Jackson traced down a rumor that a man answering the description of Tibbitts was seen driving along the road towards Yantic shortly after 8 o'clock on Monday night. They located Elmer Lathrop who stated that he was driving from Yantic towards Fitchville about 8 o'clock Monday night and suddenly a horse and buggy appeared ahead. There was a man in the seat, slouched forward, wearing a dark overcoat with the collar turned up over the ears and face. He said to a companion in the car with him: "That looks like Tibbitts and his team". He also noticed a milkcan in the front of the buggy. They were at that time about 200 yards south of Tibbitts' home.

From the testimony of Mr. Lathrop it was established that the horse and buggy was driven to Norwich about 8 o'clock Monday night, the same found by Officer Fenton on Water street sometime after 8.30 o'clock and reported to headquarters.

During the afternoon Officers Sterling and Jackson with Constable Sweeney of Bozrah took an automobile and starting over Ohrobando road searching both sides of the road over the back roads as far as the Canada bridge below the falls. At the same time Oscar Main, Norwich jnder, and a Bulletin reporter covered Starr street, Lovers Lane and other back roads branching off Ohrobando road. Another party comprising Officers Briggs and Congdon of Willimantic searched the back roads leading from the Fitchville highway, and friends searched the meadows and woods nearby all searches ending back at the farm.

The search continued at the farm until late in the afternoon without any result and clues given were run down only to fall through completely. The mystery remained as deep as ever.

Took Photographs at Farm

During the day George E. Pitcher, civil engineer, was sent to the Tibbitts farm by State Attorney Hadlai Hull and with his men took photographs of the blood stains on the floor in the kitchen and on the panels of the backdoor and flagstones leading into the yard. The photographs were taken of all rooms in the house and show the condition of the kitchen resulting from the struggle that took place there, the condition of the den and the bedroom upstairs where bureaus and desks had been ransacked and the bedding tossed about by the person who had gone through the house during the evening Monday.

During the day Wednesday Richard Tibbitts of Salem, a brother of the missing man, arrived at the farm and left it in charge of Leroy Lathrop, First Selectman of Bozrah, as he could not leave his own farm.

Blood Found in Buggy

The buggy belonging to Tibbitts was taken to the farm Wednesday morning and identified as his by several friends. On the floor in front of the seat were bloodstains and they run back under the seat a distance of about a foot. The marks left by the milkman seen in the buggy Monday night by Elmer Lathrop of Fitchville were clearly shown on the floor of the buggy. The milk stick badly frayed was also in the buggy, and had evidently been used freely on the horse for it was badly smashed and covered with red hairs from the back and sides of the horse. It was evident that the horse had been pushed hard on the trip from the farm to Norwich and made it in fast time.

Cigarettes in Coat

The coat which was found in the buggy was also taken to the farm but no one was able to state that it was one belonging to Tibbitts. A package of Piedmont cigarettes in the left hand pocket found Tuesday night, according to friends of Tibbitts, seems to make it certain that it was not his coat. Tibbitts did not smoke as far as they knew and they had known him for several years.

A watchman is in charge of the house at night and the search for Tibbitts is to continue until he is found dead or alive.

Several parties known to have been at his home at various times were questioned by the officers Wednesday but could account for themselves on the night of his disappearance.

Indications are that the crime, if Tibbitts was murdered, was committed by someone who knew him and his farm, and the officers are searching and running down clues that might disclose a motive for the crime.

DANGER SEASON NOW BAD FOR FOREST FIRES

Fire wardens throughout Connecticut are now preparing for the danger period of the year—the dry weeks between the melting of the snow and the appearance of green foliage.

In 1922, 3,137 fires burned 83,000 acres in Connecticut, 94 per cent. of which occurred in March, April and May. These fires were largely unnecessary and caused damage to timber estimated at over $500,000. The injury to the beauty of many scenic points in the state, among them the Devil's Hopyard State Park, cannot be calculated. In the past 10 years 420,000 acres have been burned by forest fires in Connecticut. We have averaged nearly 1,000 fires each year and no other eastern state has had as large a percentage of its forested area burned in this time.

Special efforts are being taken this year to reduce the extent of forest fire damage. County meetings of the fire wardens are being held, and the Connecticut Forestry Association is co-operating with them in an educational campaign. President Harding has issued a proclamation setting aside April 22-28 as Forest Protection Week. He has urged the governors of the various states to arrange for suitable observance of this week in the schools, by the press and other organizations.

One tree will make a million matches, but one match can destroy a million trees.

Forest fires are largely the result of carelessness. It pays to be careful.

MRS. MINER ADDRESSES WASHINGTON BOY SCOUTS

At an interesting ceremonial in Washington, D. C., Saturday afternoon, when 42 parade size American flags were presented that number of boy scout troops of the District of Columbia, one of the most telling brief addresses was made by Mrs. George Maynard Miner of Waterford, Conn., president general of the National D. A. R. The climax of her talk to the scouts was her ringing recitation of T. A. Daly's inspiring poem, "Flag of My Land".

The exercises took place at 3.30 on the south portico of Memorial Continental Hall, the day being springlike and beautiful. The 42 flags were gifts from the District Daughters of the American Revolution to troops lacking parade flags, in recognition of the patriotic work of the scouts of the district in serving during the world war, especially their three months' daily service without pay during the Limitation of Armament Conference in Washington. Each regent presented her chapter gift-flag to the two representatives of each particular scout troop; four of the flags were memorials.

The principal address was by Secretary of State Hughes. The drum and bugle corps of the scout organization played. The exercises were in charge of Mrs. Frank Foster Greenaulf, ex-state regent and chairman of the Children and Sons of Republic committee of the D. A. R.

The flags were formally accepted by Houston Thompson, president of the executive board of the boy scouts of the district. The scouts of Washington number over 3,000. The invocation was by Rt. Rev. Alfred Harding, Episcopal Bishop of Washington.

Mrs. Miner spoke of the oppose of the gift of flags from the Daughters, who stand for home and country, to the scouts who stand also for home and country, impressing the lesson that just now there are those who would take away both the country and the flag, leaving in their place something that is not. She closed her address with the recitation of the Daly poem, winning words of applause for her splendid, patriotic message.

HOME CHAPTER ELECTS STATE CONVENTION DELEGATES

Seventy-five members of Home Chapter of the King's Daughters, attended the April meeting Monday afternoon at the Johnson home. Two new members were received into the chapter. The roll call was responded to with a verse of Scripture by each one present.

Mrs. Herbert E. Branche was elected first delegate and Mrs. Alfred W. Davis second delegate, to the King's Daughters convention early in May. A motion was made that the remainder of the delegates, 14 in all, be appointed by the leader, Mrs. John C. Atterbury, at a later date.

A silver collection and the silk sock social collection was taken in at this meeting, and the following programme was given: Reading, Mrs. Fred Rogers; vocal solo, Miss Adelaide Christman; reading, Mrs. Hutchins; piano selection, Miss Helen Burdick; vocal solo, Mrs. Charles Burke; reading, Mrs. Adelbert Maynard. Miss Christman was heard in another solo and Miss Burdick gave another selection on the piano in closing. This was followed by a social hour, when sandwiches, cake and coffee were served under direction of the entertainment committee.

GOVERNOR PRESENTS VETO OF "KENT HUBBARD" BILL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, April 11.—Soon after the opening of the house this morning the governor's executive, Anson J. McCook, presented the first veto of the session. It was a veto of the bill introduced as H. B. 2 which was aimed at E. Kent Hubbard of Middletown and which ousted him from the state board of finance, if he was to remain as trustee of other state institutions. At the conclusion of the reading the house leader moved that the message be tabled and stated that at some time in the future he would call the bill from the table and move its passage, regardless of the veto.

The vote will have to be by roll call and will require every member to vote.

HOLDING FATAL ACCIDENTS DOWN TO THE MINIMUM

Connecticut's control of the fatal accident situation has been shown again in a report which has just been issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles stating that there were only seventeen fatalities in the state for the first quarter of this year.

During March of this year there were only eight fatalities as a result of automobile accidents, while there were fourteen during the same month of 1919; nine in 1920; fourteen in 1921; and ten last year.

While Connecticut continues to keep its fatal accident situation in perfect control in spite of the yearly jumps in the registration figure, reports continually are being made public from other states showing that fatalities in other sections of the country and in the United States as a whole are growing by leaps and bounds. The Connecticut situation is credited to the spirit of cooperation which is shown by pedestrians and motorists alike in fatal accident prevention. The mediums for this work being done by the state officials are stated as newspapers, business men's clubs, and automobile clubs

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY SKIN

Irritation and Breaking Out Often Healed Over Night, Says Skin Specialist

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up leaving the skin clear and smoothe. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Following a meeting of the newly elected borough officials Warden William A. Burrows announced the following committee appointments Wednesday morning for the ensuing year: Building, W. Irving Davis, Gaston A. Maindon; fire, Richard Bannigan, Irving W. Davis; lights, Frank Kennedy, Roland H. Gray; park, Gaston A. Maindon, Richard D. Bannigan; police, D. E. Jette, Frank Kennedy; sewers, R. H. Gray, D. E. Jette; board of relief, Frank Kennedy, R. H. Gray, Richard Bannigan.

Mrs. Anna M. Chase, 66, wife of Canova M. Chase, died early Wednesday morning at their home in Elmville, where they have lived for many years. Mrs. Chase had been in poor health since last fall.

Mrs. Chase was born in Webster, Mass., June 29, 1867, a daughter of Erastus and Ann (Shumway) Alton. She has been a resident of Elmville the greater part of her life. Mrs. Chase leaves her husband and a daughter, Miss Laura Chase, a teacher in the school at Goodyear.

There is local interest in an act, recently approved by the general assembly, which permits any town, city borough, fire or sewer district maintaining a sewerage system to contract with any adjoining town or property owners therein for connection with and use of such sewerage system. This particular bill may at some time in the future permit of the borough of Danielson making arrangements for the disposal of sewerage through lines already constructed or to be constructed from points adjoining but outside the borough and which now go out into the Assawaga river.

It appears that not much came of the holding by local state police of Gennaro Di Domizia for the police of Bristol, R. I. After holding him here for some time the state police were notified by the Bristol police that Di Domizio could be released, as the Rhode Island police felt there was not evidence enough to warrant holding him. All of the mystery of his coming to Danielson with an unknown passenger who drove away a stolen car that had been temporarily abandoned in Broad street did not constitute sufficient ground, the Rhode Island police thought, for holding him.

There have been no developments of special interest in this particular case, which developed in all of its ramifications a week ago tonight.

At the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam it was stated that the condition of Byron Larkin, last survivor of a family of five stricken with pneumonia, was a trifle better, though the young man is by no means out of danger. He has been seriously ill now for about two weeks and was in critical condition when the first of the members of his family died two weeks ago tomorrow (Friday.)

Notice has been given the members of the Windham county bar that Louis A. Wolsard of Danielson intends to make application for admission to practice law in this state. Mr. Wolsary formerly was in the Danielson postoffice as a clerk. He served over seas in the postal service during the World war and for several years past has been in Washington, devoting much of his time to the study of law, a course which first claimed his attention while he was in the office of the late Judge Oliver E. Getty.

It has been suggested that it would be a very good plan for Danielson to have a clean-up week some time in the near future, either the latter part of this month or early in May. This particular spring there are many backyards that look particularly disreputable. In some measure this is due to the severity of the past winter. With months of cold weather and constant storms of snow and ice little effort was made by many to dispose of debris in the usual way. Hence it has accumulated in greater quantities than usual and today presents unsightly conditions in many sections of the borough. A clean-up week would contribute materially toward restoring Danielson to its usual spic and span condition.

Present indications are that the next grand list of the town of Killingly will list more motor vehicles owned here than ever before in the town's history. For the past few weeks orders for cars have been placed in unprecedented numbers for the town of Killingly, and there are those who estimate that close to 1,000 motor vehicles will be listed as owned in town when tax lists are returned as of October 1 next. On this basis there will be one motor vehicle to about every nine of the population of the town.

High winds of this week have contributed materially to drying up country highways, but as yet they are not safe to venture upon with motor vehicles unless one is willing to run the risk of becoming stalled in the mud. Daily reports of such occurrences are coming in. State roads also continue to break down in some places, one example being on Plainfield street, near the store of Mathieu Brothers.

More families have arrived here this week to take employment at the Connecticut mills. It is of interest that these new families coming in from Canada are blessed with many children, so Danielson's population is materially increased by their arrival here. The coming of these families will mean that the mills company will use more of the dwellings it erected about three years ago and which in a number of cases have been rented to tenants who have not been connected with the company as employes or in any other capacity.

Bringing Up Father was the theatrical attraction that brought one of the largest audiences in the house it a long time to the Orpheum theatre Wednesday evening. The company was a large and capable one and gave an entertaining interpretation of the George MacManus piece. This play was the most important given at the house in some time and was regarded as a welcome temporary change from the picture programs.

As is usual each spring—perhaps a certain sort of spring fever is responsible —one hears complaints about cars speeding through Danielson's business section. Such complaints are again coming in. In most cases those who are criticised drive cars with registrations of other states, and it may be possible they are unfamiliar with Connecticut's speed regulations. However, some Connecticut cars speed through the business section at too high a rate of speed. There is special danger in this on account of the side streets and of the usually congested condition of traffic in Main street, none too wide a thoroughfare for present day needs.

Mrs. Ethel J. Richmond left Wednesday to spend a few days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Reed at Cumberland Hill, R. I.

At Wildwood park early preparations for the opening of the season next month have been underway during the present week.

Howard G. Benson of Fall River was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Wednesday.

For the fifth consecutive morning the temperature was below the freezing point in Danielson just before sunrise Wednesday.

An evidence that workers of this territory are making hay while the sun shines is the fact that savings bank deposits here continue steadily to show an increase.

Watching with keen interest what appeared to be a police dog puppy strolling toward him in the mists of the early morning while fishing a trout brook in an outlying section of the town, a local man was amazed finally to discover that the animal was a splendid gray dog fox.

Miss Marie A. Senecal of Concord, N. H., returned to her home Wednesday after spending a few days with friends in Danielson and other towns in this vicinity.

Jack Feeney has so far recovered from his illness that he is able to be up and around the house daily. He is at his sister's home in Westerly.

PUTNAM

Announcement was made Wednesday of the sale of the site of the Donahue block, recently destroyed by fire, to John E. and E. Stroumbelis, proprietors of the Progress store in the Court House block. The price was $35,000. Of this sum, the records show, $2,000 has been paid for a bond for a deed and the balance is to be paid on or before May 10 next. The papers on file also stipulate that a brick building of not less than two stories in height shall be erected on the site within one year.

This transaction clears up one prospective building matter that has been of interest for some time. Following the complete destruction of the Donahue block by fire on Washington's birthday there has been much speculation as to when the building would be replaced. J. F. Donahue, the owner, promptly re-established his business in the Pelcquin block and had the site of the fire cleared. Since then there have been various rumors as to the rebuilding plans, but nothing definite until the announcement of the sale was made Wednesday.

The property purchased by the Stoumbelis brothers has a frontage of 63.8 feet on Main street and extends back about 120 feet. At the present time only some sheds and a small barn are standing on the structure. It is one of the finest locations in the city and when in use again as the site for a new brick structure will afford business quarters for a number of firms and professional men.

In view of the fact that the bonds for a deed stipulates that a brick building must be erected upon the property within a year, it is taken as granted that the Stoumbelis brothers will lose no time in making plans for the erection of a block.

In view of the fact that the cellar and foundation walls are already in much time over what would be necessary if they were not there can be saved in rushing the building to completion.

The new owners of the Donahue block site have been very successful in their business since locating in Putnam about a decade ago.

Following a conference of attorneys in the case and a discussion of the matter before Judge M. A. Shumway of Danielson it was made known Wednesday that the case of Oscar Rich vs Jesse Rich has been settled in full by the payment of Jesse Ri. of $5,000 to Oscar Rich.

This case was tried in the superior court here and had to do with a division of the profits of the firm of Jesse E. Rich and Son. It was contended by the defense that Oscar Rich, the son, was a partner in the business only in a nominal way and that he did not actually own an interest in the business. The plaintiff, on the other hand, asserted, that he was in fact a partner and as such was entitled to a division of the profits of the concern when he left the business. The court decided in favor of the plaintiff. Since the trial and the decision final settlement has been delayed while certain phases of the case were developed but it has now been finally settled.

The minstrels and musical revue of Putnam Aerie of Eagles closed Wednesday evening was the best local entertainment of the kind staged in this city in a number of years. The company made a real hit, deserved the applause accorded it and gave the capacity audiences a splendid entertainment.

Former Mayor J. J. McGarry was master of ceremonies and the end men were Arthur Auger, Ernest LeBeau, Leo Vanasse, Arthur Vanasse, Arthur Maloney, Louis Mongeau and Wilfred Martineau. The ballad singers were Edward King, Emil Young, Mary Mathieu and Joseph Barry.

The first part was made up of specialty numbers featuring Eva Benoit, Mary Mathieu, Little Evelyn Leavin, one of the hits of the show; Florence Bezaillon, Etudienne Forest and Catherine Byrne. A group of dancing girls included Eva Benoit, Helen Bernier, Florida LaBonte, Bernice Larrow, Odile Benoit, Eva Riel, Gertrude Diggins. In the chorus were Laura Bouley, Harry Hawkins, Anna Rickey, C. Brooks, L. Berthiaume, Edgar Lucier, Florence Kelleher, R. Nelson and George Lajeunesse, L. Brooks, Lillian Pan, Yvonne Gagnon, Joseph Bove, Arthur Jette, William Dumas, Victor LaPointe, George Child, D. J. Williams, A. St. Onge, Clara Maloney, Delphis Bousquet, William Misho, Armand Gauthier, Armand Berthiaume, Thomas Hannifan, Salvadore Beausoliel, Peter Lefevre.

Features of the first part of the program were Down in the Old Swimming Hole, starring Miss Eva Benoit, assisted by Eva Riel, Bernice Larrow, Helen Bernier, Gertrude Diggins, Florida LaBonte and Odile Benoit. A pretty feature was the solo dancing by Miss Catherine Byrne of Cambridge, Mass. Another was 57 Varieties of Strawberries, by Miss Theresa Shea. In presenting Crinoline Days Mrs. Henry Mathieu was assisted by Leoso Brooks, Eva Riel, Etudienne Forest, Yvonne Gagnon, Lillian Pan.

The second part opened with an overture, the opening melody being Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny and followed by Down South Everybody's Happy. This scene was set to represent a lawn party and offered opportunity for the presentation of musical numbers by Arthur Maloney, Ernest Lebeau, Etudienne Forest, Edward King, Wilfred Martineau, Eva Riel, Red Bouley, Joseph Barry, Philip Bisseault, Louis Mongeau, Mary Mathieu, Evelyn Lavin, Leo Vanasse, Albert Duyea, Florence Bazillion, Arthur Vanasse, Emil Young and Arthur Auger.

The Bulletin sincerely regrets premature announcement Wednesday morning of the death of Miss Ellen E. Osgood of East Hartford, formerly principal of Cushing academy and assistant principal of Putnam High school. A misunderstanding of a telephone message caused the error. On Wednesday Miss Osgood was still alive, but unconscious, and practically no hope for her recovery was held out by those who are caring for her.

There is a prospect of Putnam's policemen developing into crack shots with revolvers. Captain Remi Delage stated Wednesday afternoon that the matter of making provision for target practice by all active members of the department has been presented to members of the common council and that favorable action is anticipated. The police here are not unmindful of the fact that in this day and age it is incumbent upon a police officer to be a good shot, and the daily press is constantly recording incidents in which revolver duels take place between officers and criminals they are trying to arrest, often during the commission of serious crimes. In such situations it behooves an officer to be able to get the criminal before the criminal gets him. Only practice will make an officer a good shot, and practice is what it is expected the Putnam police are going to have. The Connecticut state police through constant target practice have developed some splendid revolver shots and with this in mind the Putnam police will exert themselves, once the opportunity is offered, to develop into high class handlers of the weapons with which they are equipped.

Arthur Messier, age 6, was bowled over Wednesday afternoon on Providence street when he dashed across that thoroughfare and ran into the rear end of a truck of the Dolbey Ice Cream company of Danielson, the truck driven by Nicholas J. Longo of that place. The child was picked up by a passerby and carried to the office of Dr. G. T. LaMarche, who, after a careful examination, found nothing wrong with the child. Eye witnesses of the accident say the driver of the truck was in no way to blame for the accident, and a report to this effect was made to the police.

Incident to the coming here of a group of Rockville Elks for the installation of officers of the local lodge a special dinner was served for the visitors and their hosts, the officers of Putnam lodge, at the Elks' home here. The following was the menu:

Grapefruit Cocktail
Olives Gherkins Radishes

ESCAPED PRISONER DOING TIME IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, April 11.—Leon Kempt, twice escaped prisoner from Brooklyn jail, is now an inmate of the New Hampshire state prison serving a sentence of not less than a year and a day nor no more than two years, following his recent conviction in New Hampshire on a grand larceny charge.

This information was conveyed to Captain Remi Delage in a letter from Chief Orville Stewart of the police at Berlin, N. H. In this letter Chief Stewart goes into some detail relative to what the Red Cross and other such organizations have been doing for Mrs. Kempt, a resident of Burlington, Vt., where Kempt was arrested after his first escape from Brooklyn jail and held for the police of this city, from the court of which he was first sent down to Brooklyn jail. He was sentenced here after having been found guilty of the theft of an overcoat and of a suit case containing clothing, these articles taken from cars parked in the streets. He was arrested in Danielson while asleep in a barn by Captain Delage and other officers of the local force.

Kempt escaped the second time upon entering the jail after being brought back from Vermont. He made a getaway from the jail office after throwing his overcoat over the head of an official of the institution and dashing from the building. The first authentic information as to his whereabouts came in the letter received Wednesday by Captain Delage.

It appears that Kempt told the Berlin police various fake stories concerning himself, but they finally checked up his activities more or less fully, including the fact that he is a married man and has his wife and two children at Burlington, in which city the Red Cross has been aiding the family. Kempt told the Berlin police that he was a single man. Chief Stewart's letter to Captain Delage asks for detailed information relative to Kempt's activities while he was in this territory that the police record of the New Hampshire city may be made complete about him.

Broadway Theatre

The B. F. Keith vaudeville attractions booked for the Broadway theatre starting today is as follows:

Four dancing Madcaps, including Zeler Madcap, offer "A Variety of Entertainment."

Dolly Kelly offers a musical novelty.

Lester Galvin and Charles O'Connor present, "In the Dark," a comedy hit.

Hal Springford is a female impersonator is sure to please.

Senator A Smith are called The Flying Minstrels, the offering being full of fun and thrills.

Romantic, adventurous—and a haberdashery clerk at twenty dollars a week! A rare combination, indeed, are the ingredients which go into the character portrayed by Walter Hiers in his first Paramount starring vehicle, "Mr. Billings Spends His Dime," which will be the feature at the Broadway theatre for three days, beginning today.

Between dodging a love-struck girl, escaping the assaults of a gang of plotting uprisers in a foreign country and planning how he will win the hand of the girl he loves, Mr. Hiers has one of the fastest comedy-drama roles of the photoplay year.

Opening in New York city, the story becomes a rapid whirl of exciting situations. A generous portion of ocean scenes and a climax that takes place in Santo Dinero, a Latin-American country where the natives are in the throes of a revolution, furnish backgrounds of unusual variety.

It is through the efforts of Mr. Hiers, as Billings, that the government is saved from the revolutionary gang who seek to establish a rule of their own. Billings faces death several times and almost loses the girl of his heart before he manages to restore order in the country.

Jacqueline Logan, who is featured as leading woman, heads a strong supporting cast.

At the Strand Friday and Saturday

To be graceful will make even the plainest girl popular. On the other hand, a most beautiful girl may be unpopular if she is awkward.

That is the assertion of Bebe Daniels, who is featured with Conrad Nagel in Penhyn Stanlaws' production of "Singed Wings" for Paramount, which will be on view at the Strand theatre Friday and Saturday. In the picture, Miss Daniels is called on to do a beautiful creation, "The Dance of Death." Clothed in the costume of a moth, she dances around a burning candle. A marvelous effect of grace, combined with entrancing lights and schadows, is conveyed to the screen by the dainty star.

"Grace," explains Miss Daniels, "is largely a matter of correct and complete control of the muscles and nerves. In my opinion, nothing is so conductive to graceful movements as classic and ballroom dancing. I think every woman should also partake of breathing and body exercises every morning and night.

"A woman should practice making certain moves—moves that are common in her everyday actions— until she is able to do them in the most graceful manner possible. I believe grace is attainable by any woman if she but strives to attain it. And I don't believe the woman lives who does not desire to be graceful at all times."

It's the mental and physical fighting blood in each person that counts in the race for success. This was H. C. Witwer's thought when he conceived and wrote his series of "Fighting Blood," stories for Collier's Magazine, which have now been filmed. The second of the series, a two reel feature, will be shown at the Strand theatre on Friday and Saturday.

Although there is a smashing ring battle shown in each of these pictures, "Fighting Blood" is not a story of pugilism. Gale Galen, the lovable young hero who rises from a soda-jerker to middleweight champion of the world, is not the ordinary pug. He is a typical 20-year old American youth, with a live sense of humor ready to bubble into action at the slightest provocation, and a goodly streak of romance. The story is crammed full of wholesome comedy and a pleasant love story. George O'Hara, playing the leading role, brings a distinct personality to the screen and is rapidly becoming one of the greatest favorites of motion picturedom. Clara Horton plays the role of Judy Wilcox. The pictures were all directed by Mal St. Clair.

A news weekly is also included.

Bread Theatre

Picture patrons who attend the Bread theatre today to see Mary Miles Minter in "South of Suva," find it a most unusual and refreshing story of the always fascinating South Sea Islands.

Ewart Adamason, the author, has departed from the usual South Sea story and gives us something that strikes really true, a tale of two planters, one successful, the other a prey to the degenerating influences of the tropics. The drama, which ensues when the English wife of the failure arrives to join him gives Miss Minter one of the hardest bits of acting she has yet been offered. And she acquits herself in splendid style.

The two men in the case are John Bowers and Walter Long. We have seen Mr. Long in many "villain" roles, but never in one that for sheer quality of sustained and accurate characterization surpassed that of his Latimer.

The direction by Frank Urson is smooth and even. Altogether it is a "somewhat different" and decidedly intriguing picture.

Other pictures on the bill include Reginald Denny in "The New Leather Pushers," Movie Chats and Aesops Fables.

Derby.—Congressman P. F. O'Sullivan, who has been in Washington, has returned to his home in this city.

BLISS JEWELRY STORE BURGLAR IS ARRESTED IN PROVIDENCE

Charles E. Spencer, 31, of 4173 Third avenue, New York, who the Norwich police have wanted to get hold of for months on the charge that he burglarized the Bliss jewelry store at 128 Main street on Nov. 22nd last, was arrested in Providence Tuesday night.

Spencer is a former employe on the steamer Chelsea, formerly running between this city and New York.

Inspectors have been trailing Spencer ever since last fall, wanting him for three jewelry store robberies in Providence in which the thief used the same method that he used at the Bliss store, kicking in a window in the early hours of the morning and getting away with what he could. At the Bliss store about $700 worth of watches, cuff links, brooches and pins were secured. In the three Providence robberies the thief got about $4,000 worth of jewelry.

Spencer, alias George Baxter, alias Charles Engel, was arrested at the Union station in Providence, just as he stepped from the "Knickerbocker Limited" from New York. The inspectors who made the arrest have been making a search that led them through many eastern cities in the past four months.

Spencer is the "raffles" type, a young man of good appearance, well dressed and a fluent talker, with nothing of the roughneck about him. He not only admitted his operations in Providence when submitted to a long grilling by Chief Inspector James Ahern and Capt. John T. Hagan Tuesday night, but willingly dwelt upon details concerning his method of operation, movements subsequent to the robberies and the disposal of the loot.

In each case Spencer selected the early hours of the morning, when the streets were practically free of pedestrians, he said, to carry on his window smashing and subsequent looting. He began in Providence on Aug. 6 when he broke the window of the Empire Jewelry Company store, John Weinbaum, proprietor, the loot consisting of many men's watches, wrist watches and ladies' rings, all valued at about $1260.

The store window of the Weybosset Diamond Company, 189 Weybosset street, Sam Rapland, proprietor, was smashed on the morning of Oct 27, and watches and rings, valued at $540, were carried away. At about 2 o'clock on the morning of Dec. 14 he broke a window of the Tilden-Thurber corporation store, Westminster and Mathewson street. The value of the watches taken there was set at $2085.

Spencer, who admits having served time in Baltimore for larceny in 1916, and in the New York City Reformatory in 1914, was trailed to various cities and is known to have narrowly escaped capture on three occasions following the receipt of requests for his apprehension broadcast by Providence police headquarters.

The alleged thief denied that he had any accomplices in any of his breaks and also refuted the supposition that he used a diamond cutter before breaking the heavy plate glass. He described his methods in smashing the windows and said he never used anything else but his sturdy right heel.

Soon Suspected of Norwich Burglary.

Soon after the burglary at the John and George H. Bliss jewelry store, the Norwich police had their suspicions that the trick had been pulled off by Spencer, against whom they were already holding two warrants for the theft of clothing from members of the crews of the boats he had worked on.

Although Spencer was not working on the Norwich boats at that time and was not living in this city the police learned that he had come to the city the day before the burglary and had taken a room at the Auditorium hotel under the name of George Baxter, for the night. He left a call with the clerk of the hotel for 4 o'clock in the morning. He was called at that time and he left the hotel and did not return.

This apparently fixes the approximate time at which Spencer kicked the jewelry store window in and stole the watches and other articles, for Officer Frank E. Henderson reported that the windqw was not broken when he passed the store at 3.45 that morning.

Spencer was second mate on the steamer Chelsea, worked also on the steamer Hart and was mate on the Cape Cod. He claimed to be a deserter from the navy and he always had plenty of money, although those who knew him say they didn't see where he got it. It is said that he had sometimes claimed, in a joking way, that he was the most slippery crook in the country.

While he was employed on the steamer Hart, it is claimed he was suspected of stealing cloth, but nothing was fastened on him. An engineer on one of the other Norwich boats had his satchel cut open and $80 stolen from it, Spencer was suspected in this case.

About two years ago Spencer ran off with the daughter of a Norwich woman who kept a boarding house. He took the girl to Providence and New York, but she came back after two or three weeks and the mother was so glad to get her girl home again that she would not press the prosecution. For this trip Spencer outfitted himself by stealing a suit of clothes, and overcoat and some money from a man named Herbert Taylor who had just come out of the navy. Taylor was a mate on the boat and Spencer offered to help him by giving him sleeping accommodations in Spencer's room. In return Spencer stole Taylor's clothes. The tears of the girl that he ran away with got him free from this without prosecution. Taylor was subsequently killed in a motorcycle accident in New London.

Another incident in Spencer's checkered career happened in the last year of the steamer Chelsea, while he was mate on the boat. He got into a fight with a deckhand while the boat was at New York, knocking the man down with a club. The deckhand went to the hospital and Spencer to jail from which he obtained release on bonds through a professional bondsman, a Jew. Spencer skipped his bond and the bondsman had to pay. That ended Spencer's employment on the Chelsea.

Spencer claimed to be married but had left his wife and told his friends here that he was living with an actress in New York.

As Spencer has been arrested in Providence for alleged crimes there, the Rhode Island authorities will be the first to prosecute him. The sentence which he will receive there will first have to be served before the Connecticut authorities can prosecute him for the Norwich charges against him.

Manager Clifford Wilson of the Bliss jewelry store went to Providence Wednesday when he was notified of Spencer's arrest.

Against Lebanon Division

The committee on new towns and probate districts presented an adverse report on the bill annexing a certain portion of the town of Lebanon to the town of Windham. It was stated that while the bill had merit, it was not advisable to pass the bill. It would change county and town lines and would be the means of causing much confusion.

House.

The house was called to order at 11.15 by Speaker Nickerson. At 11.22 Secretary to the Governor Anson T. McCook appeared with a veto of H. B. 2, known as the Kent Hubbard bill. On motion of House Leader Buckley the house reconsidered its action in passing the bill and the bill was then tabled.

Unfavorable reports were received on several bills and they were rejected. Among them were bills compensating the town of Woodbridge for money expended for roads, compensating the town of Bethlehem for transportation of school children, for state inspection of agricultural seeds, relating to district and superior courts at Waterbury, Waterbury bonds, Bridgeport trade school bonds, diversion of proceeds of municipal bonds, setting off a part of the town of Lebanon to Windham, and the consolidation of the towns of Orange and Woodbridge.

Bills favorably reported were: Authorizing the First Methodist church in New Haven to sell certain property, authorizing the town of Fairfield to transfer certain trust funds, providing for exemption from taxation of farm produce, concerning exemption from taxation of soldiers', sailors' and marines' widows from payment of personal tax, concerning issuance of bonds by the town of Danbury, annexing a part of the town of Harwinton to the town of Torrington and including in the highway trunk line system the road leading from Plainville to Unionville. They were tabled for calendar and printing.

Senate bill 218 concerning advertising signs was recommitted to committee on finance.

Among bills that were on calendar and tabled was the sedition bill. The amendment concerning the construction and maintenance of bridges on trunk line highways, and the resolution providing an amendment to the state constitution permitting a partial veto.

House Leader Buckley gave notice that on Thursday he would recall from the table, the Sunday amusement bill and would offer an amendment that would place the prosecutions in the hands of the several states attorneys instead of the local prosecutors.

The house adjourned till 11.15 Thursday.

SENATE.

The committee on the judiciary reported favorably on a bill concerning cruelty to animals. It provides that any person who shall use any animal, reptile or bird for the purpose of soliciting any alms, collection, subscription, donation or payment upon any street, highway or public park or at any fair, exhibition or place of amusement, recreation or entertainment, and every person owning, keeping or having in his custody any animal, reptile or bird for any such purpose shall be fined not more than $100 or imprisoned not more than 90 days, or both, provided no provision of this act shall be construed so as to apply to the exhibition of any animal, reptile or bird by any educational institution, zoological garden or in connection with any theatrical exhibition or circus. The bill was tabled for calendar.

The senate reconsidered its action in passing the bill incorporating the Hartford college of law and concurred with the house in recommitting it to the committee on incorporations.

The senate passed a bill governing the use of badges of societies, labor unions, etc. The bill reads:

Section 1. Any person who shall copy, imitate or simulate the insignia, flag, ribbon, badge, rosette, seal, button or emblem of any society association, labor union or incorporated club registered under the provisions of 4817 of the general statutes, of of any society, association, labor union or incorporated club which shall have been in existence for twenty-five years prior to the passage of this act, and any person who shall wear the button, badge or insignia of the Grand Army of the Republic, or the American Legion; or the insignia, rosette, badge or other indicia of membership of any fraternal or beneficial order or society or of any historical, naval or military organization; or shall use the same to obtain aid or assistance; or shall use the name of any such society, organization or order, or the title of any of its officers, or its ritual or ceremonies, unless such person shall be entitled to do so under the constitution, by-laws or rules and regulations of such order or society; or who shall falsely claim to be a member thereof, shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars.

Section 2. Section 4529 of the general statutes is repealed.

Section 3. This act shall take effect from its passage.

521 MOTORISTS HAVE HAD THEIR LICENSES SUSPENDED

So far this year there have been 521 Connecticut motorists who have lost the privilege of driving automobiles, according to a statement recently issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

The month of March saw the high mark reached for this year when 277 operators had their driving privilege in Connecticut suspended. This figure has been topped only once in the history of the department in October last year when 306 driving licenses were suspended.

In January of this year 136 licenses were revoked in February 116, and in March 277. This brings the three month total up to 521, or an increase of 291 per cent. in the number of drivers put on suspension the first quarter of this year in comparison with the 128 drivers put on suspension the first quarter of 1922.

Of these 277 suspensions, 141 were for failure to report accidents, 44 for operating without a license, 28 for intoxication, 11 for overloading trucks, 9 for reckless driving, 5 for misuse of markers, 6 for giving bad checks 5 for improper registering of a motor vehicle, 5 for fatal accidents, 5 for evading responsibility, 5 for operating unregistered cars, 5 for having improper registrations, 4 for loaning licenses, 3 for driving under age, 3 for operating a car without the permission of the owner, 2 for failure to appear at a hearing, 2 for forfeiting a bond, and one each for an improper person using a motor vehicle, for a physical infirmity, for a registration suspension, for the mutilating of an engine number, and for having an oversized body on an automobile.

Let this trial offer prove for you at our expense whether more Iron in your blood will make you well and strong

Physician tells why you must have Iron to give you Health, Strength, Energy and Endurance.

Blood corpuscles rich in Iron, highly magnified. Starved Blood Corpuscles highly magnified.

"Lack of iron in your blood produces the most terrible of all devitalizing conditions and makes a man or woman a physical and mental wreck," says one. Irritable and easily tired out," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly Physician at Bellevue Hospital (Out-door Dept.) and the Westchester County Hospital. "It is the iron in your blood that takes up oxygen from your lungs. The food you eat combines carbon. As digested food is absorbed into the blood, the carbon in the food unites with the oxygenated iron in your blood, and by so doing gives off tremendous power and energy, thereby giving you great force, physical and mental vigor, and awakening the material which becomes active, living cells, good muscle, bone and tissue, thus performing all the most remarkable miracles of life. Without iron, often three big meals a day will not do you any good—you do not get any strength out of your food—it is like putting coal into a stove without a fire."

"Blood examinations by physicians all over the country show that three people out of every four you meet look blue and pale because they have not enough iron in their blood, often due to endless multitudes of weakening cold medicine dope. Pale complexion specialists tried in vain to restore iron into the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, raw, with apples or apricots. By a clever chemical combination of organic iron and nux vomica, Nuxated Iron is ready for immediate absorption by the blood the moment it enters the system. A single dose of this newer form of iron gives your blood the enormous quantity of assimilating iron contained in 7 ordinary iron tablets or in many times as much iron as you could get by eating raisins, apples or spinach. It is often remarkable what a tremendous amount of strength, vigor, force and energy a little pale iron will give a person whose blood is deficient in this magic-like substance. Nuxated Iron often increases the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, run-down folks in two weeks' time.

The suds of this new soap soak dirt right out
Rinso
For the family wash
For boiling white cottons nothing is so good as this new soap
Leading washing machine manufacturers say to use Rinso in their machines

When you soak—or boil—or wash in the machine this new kind of soap does the whole job

"I FIND this new kind of soap simply wonderful for soaking. But I like to boil my clothes, too, and I wonder how it is for that."

Don't hesitate for a minute! Rinso is splendid in the boiler. Just put in enough dissolved Rinso to give you the suds you want. Of course you won't need as much as you do for soaking.

And in washing machines? Here is what "1900" Cataract says: "In solution it permeates the water so evenly that its cleansing action reaches every garment. Consequently we found that we were not obliged to do any rubbing either before or after operating the machine."

Apex, Bluebird, Coffield, Gainaday, Getz, Haag, Horton, Laun-Dry-Ette, Meadows, "1900" Cataract, One Minute, Rotarex, Sunnysuds, Surf, Trojan, Voss—all say, "Use Rinso."

One of the most comforting things about Rinso is that you don't have to change any of your washing habits at all. Do just as you usually do.

Wherever you would use bar soap use Rinso. This new soap takes the place of bar soap—does the whole washday job.

For soaking, for boiling, for use in washing machines it is the easiest and best soap you could use.

With this new soap soaking takes the place of rubbing

Only on those places where the dirt is literally ground in—where you used to do your hardest rubbing—there is now just a little light rubbing with the new kind of soap sprinkled on the spot. For the rest, all you need is just the soaking in the wonderful suds. Safely and gently it loosens all the dirt. You rinse out the clothes. And the loosened dirt just washes right out!

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux, the largest soap makers in the world. It does the family wash as wonderfully as Lux does fine things.

Now you no longer have hard rubbing even for the big family wash any more than you do for fine fabrics. Both you and your clothes are spared that steady wear and tear.

Rinso is so simple to use, too. It dissolves instantly in boiling water making rich, thick suds. No bothersome shaving of bar soap to boil up. No trouble with other soaps or with any powders. Rinso does it all.

Get Rinso today. Sold in two sizes at all grocery and department stores—the regular size and the big new package. Lever Bros. Co., 164 Broadway, Cambridge, Mass.

JEWETT CITY

Charles Edward Prior of Hartford has sent to a friend in Jewett City, a Ralphatype registered post card, No. 5574, a real "Tuck" printed in Holland, by Raphael Tuck and Sonn, are publishers to their majesties the king and queen. It shows a remarkable view of Laurel Hill, Norwich, taken from the west side of the Thames. It bears this text.

Laurel Hill, U. S. A., a picturesque tract of elevated ground is a beautiful residential district, rivalling in importance the older portion of the city as a place of handsome dwellings. A few years ago Laurel Hill was a wild and hilly piece of land, covered with rocks, laurels, cedars and brush, with a crooked path winding over it.

Mr. Prior from whose sets this card was taken from, has a collection of fare cards, postage stamps and other postal matter, which meets with few equals as a private exhibit.

The American Legion minstrels gave their entertainment in Voluntown Tuesday evening. The show was reported as the finest ever, with both sides of the contract pleased and satisfied.

Mrs. Hattie Tillinghast is at her home on North Main street for a few days.

Important meeting tonight, K. of P. hall, members please attend.—adv.

Frank Minsky has bought the Alex Perricini property on Main street, the deeds being passed Wednesday afternoon. This property includes what in latter years was known as the Murray house. Additions and alterations have made apartments for one of the Jacob Weschler stores and Mr. Parricini's store. The main house built more than 150 years ago, in the latter part of another century, was prominently identified with Griswold's history. James Maryott bought it in 1840. Samuel C. Morgan was a previous owner. One hundred years ago it was owned by the Young family, during which time two men, who were potential leaders for two generations, during the advancing strides of Griswold at that period, were born there. They were Francis S. Young and Alfred A. Young. James Maryott was Mrs. George A. Haskell's grandfather, and she, too, was born there in the late 40's. In latter years its owners as well as its occupants have been many. Many sorts of business have been carried on there, including dry-goods, a fruit store, a restaurant and fifty years ago it is said in the days of David Bushnell, one could procure a "little something to take."

Mr. Minsky, the new owner, will at some time in the near future, again make changes and improvements, contemplating a modern business block. Mr. Perricini is to remove to Memphis, Tenn., where with his brother a resident of that city, he has other business plans and interests.

Mrs. Henry E. Olsen, delegate from Anne Brewster Fanning chapter, D. A. R., and Miss Ida I. Foster, a member of the chapter, leave on Friday for Washington, D. C., where they will attend the annual D. A. R. congress.

Mrs. S. H. Holmes has purchased the corner lot front on Tracy avenue and Mathewson street. The deeds were received from the Dr. J. Byron Sweet estate, James O. Sweet former owner this property and at his death it was inherited by his daughter, Mrs. Rena A. S. Vaughn of Norwich, being sold by her to the late Dr. Sweet.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Congregational church will be entertained this afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. W. Robinson, on Soule street.

Information has come to Jewett City that George S. Goddard of Hartford, librarian of the state of Connecticut, is desirous that information be gathered concerning ancient chimneys and fireplaces. Such records, when brought together in permanent form, become a tangible collection of treasured memories, that, as the years go by, will not only be of much interest, but of historic value.

Right in Griswold, there are chimneys today, that are a dozen feet square at the bottom, containing from ridge-board to base enough stone to build a modern garage, with a paved driveway to the street. A century, more or less, seems to matter little, as one examines their condition. They stand as firm today as when the Revolution was being fought, solid monuments, to the master builders' skill.

Into these, on the living room floor, great fire places are built, where once were place the back logs and fire sticks by hands whose cunning has long since been forgotten. It is records such as these of which Mr. Goddard, may yet more definitely speak.

In the eastern part of the town a man was arrested recently for burning brush and grass without a permit and another man came very near arrest from a similar offense. These permits may be secured of the fire warden without cost and the penalty for failure is a heavy one. The fire warden for the Plainfield district is Judge Arthur H. Matherson.

NEW LONDON GROCERY STORE DAMAGED BY MYSTERIOUS BLAZE

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, April 11—New London had another mysterious fire this morning when a blaze did considerable damage to the grocery store of Harry Wolf at No. 24 Grand street, the fire being well under way when it was discovered some time before the hour at which the place is ordinarily opened for business.

About 5.30 o'clock a baker went to the store to leave a quantity of bread and as he approached the doorway he observed flames behind one of the counters. The baker rang in an alarm from Box 343, corner of Connecticut avenue and Prest street, to which the department made a quick run. When they arrived the store entrance was forced and the blaze, which was beneath the counter, had gained considerable headway. A quantity of chemicals was poured upon the burning material causing it to be extinguished after a half hour's work. There was no fire in the store used for heating the stove and neither was the stove located near where the fire originated. There were no electric light wires near the point of the origin of the blaze. The damage will be several hundred dollars.

The residence of George Chipman at No. 126 Shaw street was threatened with serious damage this morning by a chimney fire and during the absence of the family. With the discovery of the fire a still alarm caused the Niagara Engine company and Hook and Ladder companies respond. With the arrival of the firemen entrance to the house was made by Deputy Chief Rose using a skeleton key. The fire was located in a chimney and had broken into the kitchen. Chemicals were used in extinguishing the burning soot, but it required much of the fluid to do it.

Patrolman Timothy T. Sullivan is the latest officer of the New London police force to be on the sick list. Patrolman Sullivan being confined to his home on Montauk avenue by bronchial asthma.

Frank S. Gardner of Ocean avenue, who has been in ill health a long time and who has subjected himself to several blood transfusions in an endeavor to regain his former health, is at a New York hospital where another blood transfusions was given the patient yesterday.

Thomas F. Robertson, the well known barber, whose health has been impaired over a year, is again confined to his home on Huntington street.

Mrs. Joseph Schwartz has returned to her home on Montauk avenue after having spent a week with relatives in Providence.

A motorcycle is at the submarine base awaiting a claimant and whether the cycle was stolen and later abandoned, it is not known. The police were informed late this afternoon that the cycle had been alongside the highway on the naval reservation throughout the day and as it was believed that the machine had been stolen it was taken charge of by being stored at the base.

Harold Pinkham of Groton, arrested yesterday at the request of the department of justice, who hold a warrant for him in a charge of perjury in falsely testifying in bankruptcy proceedings recently, was arraigned in the police court this morning, charged with being a fugitive from justice. The case was continued until tomorrow morning to permit a United States marshal from New Haven to arrive here and take charge of the prisoner. Pinkham could not furnish a surety on his bond of $500 for his appearance tomorrow and he was remanded to jail.

Pinkham declares that he is at a loss to understand why he is wanted, stating that he is at liberty on bail to appear in a court in New Hampshire, but his case is assigned for next month.

Walter A. Denison, a well known resident of Groton and formerly a New London business man and proprietor of the amusement park at the Golden Spur, is critically ill with pneumonia.

The condition of Mayor John F. Murray, who suffered a severe attack of pleurisy several weeks ago, is such as to permit his enjoying out-of door exercise and it is possible that he will preside at the meeting of the city council next Monday night.

Margaret, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Gramoline of No. 36 East street, died this morning following a brief illness.

The condition of Patrolman George Laboue, ill several days with the grippe is considerably improved and the officer will resume his patrol duty the latter part of the week.

The Crowley club of Catholic girls, realized approximately $750 by its minstrel entertainment. But that was 150 more than the older society realized by its production of a drama last week. There is a spirited rivalry between the societies. Some of the local hits the girl minstrels perpetrated are said to have been very clever. And some of them were by no means of that nature.

A down town man was probably spared the experience of shooting someone this week when he sought permission to carry a revolver for his self protection. Then he was told of the danger that surrounded any such foolish proceeding as having a dangerous weapon in his possession. He believed that a young fellow who was loitering about his store and who happened to be there every night when the place was closed was intent upon robbing the place or the proprietor. Then it was shown to the seeker after the license to carry the revolver that a better way was to warn the intruder that he was suspected and to ask him to desist from his practice of loitering about the place. This the storekeeper decided to do and thus probably spared himself the experience he would have if he should use the gun on the man he suspected.

The question of who is to pay for the blasting out of a ledge on Moore avenue in order that sidewalks may be laid there has not yet been settled so that the work can be proceeded with, though it is understood that the city will stand the expense of taking out the ledge and that the sidewalks will be laid on a 50-50 payment basis by the city and the property owners. Law Director McGuire reported to the city that he did not believe the property owners could be made to pay for blasting a ledge on the street in order that a sidewalk might be laid any more than it could expect property owners at the Band street end of Montauk avenue to pay for blasting a ledge at the south end of the avenue in order that walks might be laid there. The laying of walks will be an improvement to Moore avenue, but that a resident at the west end of the street should be expected to pay for work that is done at the east end of the highway, is out of all question.

An automobile, a Studebaker, owned and operated by Martin W. Higgins of the reportorial staff of The Day, was damaged late this evening when it was in collision with a trolley car of the Connecticut company on Bank street. The tire of one of the wheels and a mudguard of the automobile were wrecked. Mr. Higgins declares that when the trolley car struck the automobile the latter was motionless and that had the motorman not been in conversation with a passenger, the accident would have been averted.

Harry F. Morse, son of Charles W. Morse, who with his father and brothers have been indicted for conspiracy in connection with business affairs, and the sale of certain stocks, is making his home in New London. When the case has been called in court on several occasions the Morses have failed to appear because of alleged illness, so now the government wishes to establish the facts as to the physical condition of young Morse, and has sent a couple of physicians to this city to make a physical examination of the younger Morse. The doctors are Messrs. Hensby and Barton. They arrived here last Saturday and completed their duties and returned to Washington to report to the department of justice. The elder Morse sought to save off appearance by alleging that it was absolutely necessary that he should consult a specialist in Europe, but the government would not consent to so long a delay in the trial. All the indications now are, that Mr. Morse and the three sons will be in Washington when the case is next called.

John Wallin, when he was arraigned in the police court this forenoon disclosed that he had not been intoxicated in nineteen years. He said it was a mistake that he indulged freely in liquor yesterday but he met sailors down near the government landing and when they offered him a drink from a bottle they carried he could not resist the temptation to take a drink. Then he was ugly and made a disturbance at his home. Mrs. Wallin had him arrested on her complaint but she would not appear against him in court. Judge Prince, believing Wallin's record was too good to be interfered with now, suspended judgment and told him to add nineteen more years to his good record.

A Hartford autoist, Iman Fistell, when he was ordered to court for parking his machine for an unlimited period on Main street, gave a bond of $10 to appear in court to answer. He didn't appear so he saved a few dollars as a fine and costs would have amounted to more than the $10 he deposited. And that fact may lead to a raise in the bonds that may hereafter be accepted.

Edwin Northrup of Stonington, Albert Labrie of the tug Casey and Joseph Vaughetti, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Byron A. Fones, employed by the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking Co., and who was transferred to the New York office of the company several months ago, will vacate his Pequot avenue residence May 1st and with his family take up their permanent residense in New York.

The Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking Company today floated another craft that was driven ashore during the heavy gale that swept the New England coast a fortnight ago. The vessel to be rescued today was the lightship No. 90 that went ashore on Quick Hole, Mass. The wreckers had a hard time floating the lightship for when work was started to haul the craft into deep water she was standing on her beam's end.

Mrs. Mary B. Potter, wife of James T. Potter, died suddenly early this morning at her abode, No. 236 Willetta avenue of heart trouble, an affliction for which she had been under treatment a long time. Besides her husband, Mrs. Potter is survived by a daughter, Miss Edna Potter, employed in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Potter spent the evening with acquaintances, returning to their home about 11.30 o'clock. Shortly after retiring Mrs. Potter suffered the attack and expired before medical assistance could be summoned.

Tug Elmer A. Keeler, which went ashore on the rocks of Bartlett's Reef a fortnight ago during a terrific gale and which was floated by the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking company last Saturday, will be towed from the wharf of the wreckers Saturday morning to the dry-dock at the New London Ship & Engine company, where the tug will be hauled out and repaired. It is believed that the tug's steel hull is extensively damaged for she was tossed about on the rocks many days before she was hauled into deep water.

It has been stated that the number of automobiles in use in the country during next summer will be nearly twice what it was in 1922. If that estimate proves to be correct New London will have its share of them for a campaign is now on by which anyone can become possessor of a machine by paying $5 a week till the entire cost of the auto has been put into the hands of the seller. It has been said that real estate owners have in the past mortgaged their homes that they might get autos, but the $5 price will put a stop to that sort of thing.

Capt. Walter Minor of Groton appears to have left the position of a master of the tug Elmer E. Keeler at just the right time Capt. Miner was the tug's master for many years and without having a serious mishap. Now that he is not at the wheel of that craft she had the misfortune to go on the rocks at Bartlett's Reef, where she sustained heavy damages. She also lost a couple of coal scows the night she struck. That was one of the coldest nights of the winter too.

RAMISTELLA HELD ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, April 11—John Ramistella of No. 197 Bank street, operator of a public service automobile, was taken into custody this afternoon by Detective Sergeant Charles F. Hammond on a warrant issued by the Groton authorities charging him with reckless driving. The accused was arraigned in the Groton borough court later and held in bonds of $200 for trial on the 50th inst. Ramistella furnished a surety on his bond.

The charge against Ramistella may be amended when his case comes to trial for it is the belief of the Groton authorities that it was the accused's car that ran down and seriously injured C. G. Bower, a sailor stationed at the submarine base last Sunday morning. Royer is a patient at the base hospital, but it is believed that his condition will be such as to permit his being in court when Ramistella is arraigned on the 30th inst.

Last Sunday morning Ramistella reported to the New London police that he had found a sailor, who later proved to be Royer, lying badly injured in the highway just north of the railroad bridge in Groton and while he went to summon an ambulance to take the victim to the hospital, Royer had disappeared. It later developed that Royer was picked up by Tony Di Laura, another taxi operator, and conveyed to the base hospital.

The Groton authorities have been at work on the case ever since and acting upon the information laid before him, Prosecuting Attorney Burrows issued the warrant whereby Ramistella was taken into custody.

Ramistella is a former deputy fish and game warden for New London county.

EXPERT OBJECTIONS TO NEW LONDON BUDGET

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 11.—It is probable that the council chamber will be filled to capacity next Wednesday evening, when the council, sitting as a committee, will give taxpayers an opportunity to be heard in relation to the tentative budget, which was submitted to the council at its last meeting and which it is proposed to adopt at the meeting of the council to be held on the 23rd inst. The budget, as prepared, calls for an expenditure of approximately $1,250,000 for the fiscal year ending Oct. 1st next, which amount is an increase of about $14,000 over the expenses of the city the previous year. The numerous appropriations it is tended to make, will be explained to the citizens and it is probable that there will be objections made to some of the intended expenditures.

When the question of salaries is reached there is likely to be much information sought, for there have been no reductions made in the compensation that the city officials receive and as some were expected to be made, it is probable that the taxpayers will expect to be informed the reason for the compensation paid some of the officials now is not to be reduced. It is an open fact that some of the councilors are in favor of reducing the salary of City Manager Barlow, but his salary of $7,500 remains the same in the budget. Councilors Clarke, Whiton and Fox are opposed to a salary reduction of the city manager, while Mayor Murray and Councilors Gragan and Scott believe that the salary now paid the city manager is excessive. Councilor Thompson, the seventh member of the council, is of the opinion that the taxpayers should decide whether the salary should remain the same as last year or be reduced, inasmuch as it is the taxpayers' money that pays the salary. At any rate when the matter is publicly heard there is sure to be remonstrances against some of the expenditures.

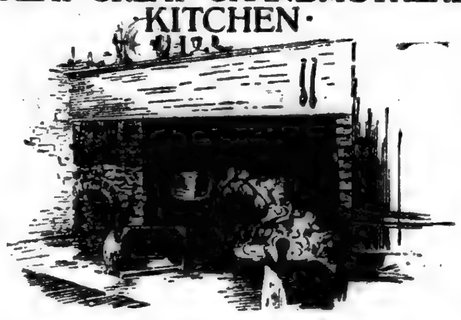
A safe, certain method for ridding the skin of ugly, hairy growths is as follows: Mix a paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface about 2 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is entirely harmless and seldom requires repeating, but to avoid disappointment it is advisable to see that you get genuine delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.

GREAT·GREAT·GRANDMOTHER'S KITCHEN·



A ROMANCE OF COLONIAL DAYS

When that sturdy band of Pilgrims set out for the new land, they had courage in their hearts and in their minds a determination to overcome all obstacles.

Soon after landing at Plymouth, rude huts were built, and in each hut was a fireplace.

These hearths were the centers of the colony. Before the hearth John Alden sat with Priscilla Mullens and heard her shy hint that has come down to us in poetry. Before the hearths the children learned their letters and their psalms. In the flames, the colonists saw fantastic pictures and in the firelight glow they dreamed dreams of the new world.

But the fireplace had another and more practical use. It was the primitive range of these sturdy adventurers. There were no stoves; there was no coal along the bleak New England coast.

The colonists built fireplaces of generous proportions. So large were they that they could accommodate a huge back log, which had to be dragged in from the forest by a horse. This back log rested at the back of the fireplace in the ashes. A pair of andirons supported the smaller piece of wood.

In the wall beside the fireplace, there was a small brick or stone compartment. It was a crude make-shift for an oven, but the colonial housewife was accustomed to kindle an extra wood fire on baking days, and when the oven was thoroughly heated turned out surprisingly good foods, considering her primitive equipment.

Strong iron cranes suspended pots and kettles over the fire in the fireplace, when she wanted to boil food; a gridiron placed over the flames was her roaster, and an ingenious tin kitchen set before the fire was used to bake her pies.

Those housewives of early America! What inconveniences they suffered. Think of the labor that was involved in the process of baking—the bulky fire logs to handle and keep burning, the awkward oven in the side wall, whose temperature must have been extremely variable, the heavy pots and kettles that swung over the smoky fire.

Then think of her daughter of today, with a spotless kitchen, free from smoke and soot—with a Scientific Sterling Range that boils, roasts, bakes and broils with absolute accuracy, with the utmost economy and surprising ease.

Baking day must have been a bugaboo to the woman of the colonies. Today it is something quite different. The Sterling combination gas and coal range does most of the work. There is no need to worry about the fuel, for it is built like the Sterling coal range which has proved that it can bake a barrel of flour with a single hod of coal.

With gas or coal it maintains an even temperature, because it has been built scientifically and there are no "cool spots." It is compact, satisfying to look at, always dependable, and has the patented gas or coal water heater.

Why don't you speak for yourself and have a truly modern kitchen. Call upon the Sterling Dealer today and say—I want to save fuel, steps, food and time, so I want you to send a Scientific Sterling up to my house and have it connected ready for me to use tomorrow. Please tell me about your convenient terms of payment because I expect the range to practically pay for itself by the savings it effects. Priscilla Mullens said, "Why don't you speak for yourself, John." We suggest that today you speak for yourself.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

Day's total sales, 1,167,300 shares.
20 industrials averaged 101.08. Net loss .78. High 1928 105.38; low 96.96.
20 railroads averaged 86.28. Net loss, 20. High 1922, 90.63; low, 84.65.

MARKET WAS ACTIVE.

New York, April 11.—A concerted attack on the oil shares, which registered extreme losses of 1 to 6 points, was the chief feature of today's more active stock market.

Heavy professional offerings of the oil issues followed announcements of price cuts in Pennsylvania and Kentucky Crudes and circulation of rumors that similar action was contemplated in the mid-continent fields, new low prices for the year were established by Standard Oils of California and New Jersey, Pan American and B. Houston. Skelly, Pacific, Associated and Pierce Oil preferred. California Petroleum showed a net loss of 5 points. Trading in these issues comprised more than one-third of the day's business which ran well over a million shares.

Selling pressure was extended to other groups but it encountered more effective resistance and net losses, for the most part, were confined to fractions. Some of the more vulnerable stocks, however, were American Woolen, American Water Works, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Steel & Tube preferred, off 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 points, International Paper dropped 3 1-4 points following the announcement of a wage increase on top of the publication of a relatively poor 1922 earnings report.

Republic Steel, which was run up more than 3 points in the late trading yesterday, forfeited half of its gain today but the other steel shares held steady around yesterday's closing prices. Considerable interest was manifested in the statement of John A. Topping, president of Republic that an increase in steel production is not probable from present levels and that any further expasion in demand would mean an increased shortage of the product. He also pointed out that whereas wages were 20 per cent. below the 1920 peak, prices were 30 per cent. below those of that year.

Heavy buying of Canadian Pacific, which crossed 150 and then slipped back to 149 3-8, up 1-2, was the feature of the trading in the railroad shares, most of which yielded slightly in sympathy with the decline in industrials. Many of the buying orders in Canadian Pacific were reported to be for foreign accounts.

Call money opened at 5 per cent. but eased off to 4 1-2 just before the close. The money business was quiet with occasional 30-day loans arranged at 5 1-4 per cent. Banks are still holding out for 5 1-2 per cent. with renewals arranged at that rate. Prime commercial paper sold at 5 and 5 1-4 per cent. for the best names.

Moderate improvement was noted in foreign exchange rates, demand sterling advanced half a cent to $4.66 5-16 and French francs rose 8 points to 6.68 cents. Brazilian milreis jumped 10 points to 10.75 cents with nominal gains in the other principal rates.

BOND MARKET.

New York, April 11.—Bond prices were irregular and confined to narrow limits in today's trading on the New York Stock Exchange. In the face of the relatively inactive market for listed bonds, new issues offered the public during the day met with ready sale.

U. S. government bonds, with the exception of the Victory 4 3-4s, which advanced 3-32 of a point, declined from 1-32 to 6-32 of a point. Foreign bonds were firm but inactive.

Losses of a point by Canadian Pacific 4's and 1 1-2 by Wabash first 5's were the only important changes in the railroad group. Tractions were heavy, Third Avenue adjustment 5's closing 1 1-8 off. Trading along the industrials was relatively dull and irregular. Punta Alegre sugar 7's dropped 2 point and Bethlehem Steel refunding 8s 1 1-2 3-8.

Total sales (par value) were $10,404,000.

Among the new issues offered, were: $2,700,000 St. Louis Southwestern Railway 5 1-2 per cent. six months to fifteen year equipment trust gold certificates; series "H" at prices to yield .545 per cent.; and $14,000,000 Public Service Electric Power Company 6 per cent. 25-year first mortgage sinking fund gold bonds at 97 1-2 to yield about 6.20 per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, April 11.—Sudden expansion of buying brought about a sharp advance in the wheat market today, with July and September deliveries scoring a new high price record for the season. All deliveries of corn, too, and July and September oats outdid the season's previous top record quotations. Wheat closed unsettled at 2 3-8 to 2 7-8c up with May $1.24 1-2 to $1.24 5-8 and July $1.22 1-2 to $1.22 5-8. Corn gained 2 1-8 to 2 5-8@2 3-4, and oats 3-8 to 7-8@1c. In provisions the outcome ranged from 7c decline to 5c advance.

At first, the wheat market showed apparent indecision, starting with a show of firmness, followed by a moderate sag, then, heavy buying in which houses with eastern connections were conspicuous hoisted values quickly, with gossip meanwhile current that export aggregating 1,000,000 bushels was under way. Unfavorable weather northwest threatening delay to spring seeding counted meanwhile as a bullish factor, and so likewise did adversed reports about crop conditions west and southwest. Besides relative firmness of the Liverpool market in the face of declines yesterday on this side of the Atlantic received a good deal of notice.

One of the largest shipping firms in Omaha was named as authority for an assertion that the yield of wheat in Nebraska this season would be only half of last year's total. There were reports current also that much land in Ohio would be idle this year as a result of scarcity of farm labor. As the end of the session approached, profit taking sales were large, but were without any decided effect on prices.

Gossip that corn would soon be moving rapidly out of Chicago gave impetus to buying of that cereal. Seeding delay tended to strengthen the oats market.

Lower quotations on hogs made the provision market easy despite the rise in the value of grain.

TAFTVILLE

A large and appreciative audience was on hand in Ponemah hall Wednesday evening to see "Contents Unknown," a comedy drama of mystery in three acts presented by the Dramatic club of the Taftville Congregational church for the benefit of the organ fund. The question of who had the locked box kept the audience completely mystified, and added to the interest of the play. The first scene was laid in the living room of Craig Rutherford's apartment, on an evening in August. The second scene was the side porch of the Country club the next afternoon, and the third scene was Rutherford's apartment. The plot deals in lost pearls, a murder and love theme.

The cast of characters was as follows: Cynthia Sayre, an amateur sleuth, Miss Helen Campbell; Sidney Stanton, a married Romeo, Fred Knowles; Claudia Van Buren, an actress, Miss Mary Taggart; Sally Gordon Stanton, a bride, Miss Nyra Yerington; Kenneth Gordon, an importer, William H. Whitehead; Judith Shelby, an everyday girl, Miss Elsie Heap; Craig Rutherford, a collector of beautiful things, Earle M. Wood; Carol Kling, chief warbler, Miss Helen C. Aberg; Meredith Marshall, the messenger, Miss Flossie M. Meyer; Keith Winthrop, of the customs, George W. Welfer, Jr.; Wu Fong, a Chinese servant, Victor H. Davis; Ted Gordon, Sally's younger brother, Oscar Mathewson; McDonald, from headquarters, Albert Mathewson.

The stage settings were very attractive, many antiques being used in the play. The davenport was loaned by the Plaut-Cadden Company. The play was directed by Miss Gertrude M. Young, assisted by Mrs. Earle M. Wood, and Mrs. George W. Weller, Jr. The ticket committee was Edward L. Sigrist, John D. Sharples and Everett M. Pingree. The properties were in charge of Albert J. Aberg.

While the scenery was being changed, solos were sung by Mrs. James A. Bidwell, soprano, and James B. Jackson, basso. The accompanist was Miss Nellie S. Howie, who also rendered a piano selection before the opening of the play.

There was a sale of home made cookies and home made candy, for the benefit of the Sunday school picnic fund. This was in charge of Mrs. Edwin G. Crowdis and Mrs. Eugene N. Monty. Those assisting at the cake table were Miss Eleanor Heinrich, Miss Dorothy Campbell and Miss Lydia R. Adams. The candy table was in charge of Miss Mary Greenhalgh, Miss Elizabeth Houston, Miss Margaret McBride and Miss Bertha Monty. Ice cream was sold by Miss Dorothy Wood and Miss Mildred Kloss.

John Ely of Lisbon was thrown from his bicycle Wednesday while attempting to ride over some trap rock which is being used for state road repairs. He was cut about the face and head, and was attended by Dr. George M. Thompsons.

The Burgess property in Lisbon has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Gaspard

RHEUMATIC PAINS GO SWOLLEN JOINTS VANISH

Rheuma—The One Safe and Quick-Acting Remedy for Rheumatism, Gout and Sciatica. Money Back If It Doesn't Satisfy.

Thousands of sufferers have freed themselves from the bondage of rheumatism; rid themselves of the torturing pain; reduced the swollen joints; thrown away canes and crutches, and from helpless beings became able to work and be of use to themselves and their families.

They took Rheuma; the modern enemy of rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, arthritis, gout and chronic neuralgia.

Don't be skeptical about Rheuma. You will know in a few hours after beginning the treatment that the poisonous uric acid is leaving your system through the natural channels. You will feel better in a day; you will know you are going to be helped in less than a week.

Don't think because Rheuma is not expensive that it won't bring you back to health. There is no guess work about it. That's why Lee & Osgood Co. and good druggists everywhere sell it with guarantee of money back if it does not give quick and blessed re-

McKinley; trustee (3 years), Grosvenor Ely, Nathan A. Gibbs.

Mr. Pullen replaced Charles L. Stewart as recording secretary as Mr. Stewart found the pressure of other business too great to take the office again.

Department reports were made by the chairman and Secretary Edwin Hill presented his annual report. A rising vote of thanks was passed to President Macpherson and Secretary Hill.

President's Annual Report.

President Macpherson gave his annual report as follows:

At this, the thirty-eighth annual meeting of your Association and the thirteenth year of my participation in its labors agreeable to the requirements of its by-laws I am pleased to render herewith my report as your president, and I am sure it is a privilege to record a year of very real accomplishment along every line that will prove an epoch in its history.

In the year 1885 this association was organized by a few men who had a vision of what it might eventually mean to the boy life and the young man life of this community and a warm desire to render a great service to the on-coming generations. I very much doubt, however, if they ever realized what a factor it would prove as the years passed.

The work and service of this association has developed to such a point that through its ministry we are touching the lives of our young people in a very effective way and this new property while entailing new problems and new responsibilities is at the same time enabling us to extend our efforts and enlarge our field of usefulness.

The reports that have been rendered here tonight give you perhaps a more intimate idea of what has been accomplished through the year by the different departments but I realize that your desire is a report of the twelve month period as a whole.

It is gratifying to be able to again express the sincere appreciation of your president to the directors, officers and members for a most hearty co-operation and encouragement during the year when problems arose during the re-adjustment to our new home.

Business and Finances.

It has been for over ten years a fact without successful dispute that the building on Broadway was not only unsuited to our work but also that we had outgrown it in every sphere of our activities.

As you know our building campaign was put on just prior to the war and during the war our hands were tied because of the need of bending all possible resources and effort to helping government projects. Your committee, however, felt last year that the time had arrived to make a definite move for a new building and while somewhat fearful a start was made and you are enjoying the result of that effort tonight. The total value of this property is approximately $150,000, subject to a mortgage of $48,600 which will be materially reduced when some unpaid building pledges are secured. Considering the fact that our total resources at the start were $35,000 plus some $20,000 of unpaid pledges and plus the plot which had been purchased some years prior and our contracts called for an outlay of $115,000 and that we have paid all of our obligations with the exception of the above named mortgage I cannot refrain from assuring you that we are in a very much stronger position than ever in the history of the organization. This accomplishment was only possible through the encouragement and guidance of The Master of Men who has exerted His benign influence over all praiseworthy undertakings.

As our work enlarges from year to year the need of increased income is evident in every department and this is particularly true on entering this new plant where a greatly enlarged heating system is being used, a swimming pool must be heated and filled frequently and a first class gymnasium must be developed. Our annual campaign of one year ago under the capable leadership of Harry M. Clark, proved a fine success, being closed up in four days' time and the association was assured a greater income than in any previous year. As a result of this despite the fact that owing to our need of new equipment in the lobbies and other furnishings our expenses have been almost double what they were in the old building we have nevertheless closed our year for the eighteenth time with all bills paid and a small balance in the treasury and we look into the future with confidence that the loyalty of the people of this community to a labor of this character will remain unquestioned.

Religious Work.

It would be extremely difficult to estimate the real spiritual values that accrued to this city from the visit of Dr. Jefferson of Broadway Tabernacle, New York city, and his week of special services all churches of the city uniting which again emphasizes the great blessing that the Sturtevant endowment is proving year by year. Few men who have come to the city under Y auspices have left so fine a benediction as he for through the simplicity and helpfulness of his messages and a remarkable personality he stirred his audiences deeply and caused a craving to hear him again and again. During the Lenten season Dr. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London held weekly noonday services in the lobby of the association building a light luncheon being served and these were attended each Friday by an average of forty to forty-five of our prominent business men who were enthusiastic over their opportunity to enjoy an hour of Christian fellowship and at the same time hear a real inspirational message that was rich food for thought and guidance. Under the leadership of General Secretary Hill, whose devotion to duty and whose real helpfulness to our organization cannot be overstated, weekly shop meetings were held at the Richmond radiator plant with Rev. C. H. Ricketts as the speaker and you can little realize the appreciation of the employes of that industry nor the wrapt attention accorded the message at all times.

Secretary Hill has conducted the Sunday afternoon meetings with good attendances each time and leaves the impress of his own consecrated personality upon his auditors. It has also been our privilege to enjoy such Sunday afternoon speakers as Congressman Upshaw an outstanding member of the present congress and Y County Work Secretary for India Swamidoss whose fluent English gave us a clear insight into conditions among his people and what the Y is accomplishing for them. In addition to these local activities this association continues to support a foreign work secretary in China field Robert W. Clack at Paotingfu where an excellent work is being done yearly for increasing numbers.

Membership.

The membership of the association keeps steadily mounting until we are now within touching distance of a thousand members and the coming warm season will undoubtedly cause numbers of men and boys to seek the comforts of our gym and swimming pool so that the outlook for a membership of fifteen hundred seems bright in the near future.

Social Department.

The social activities of the association have been kept up to the usual high standard. The opening of the new building offered a fine opportunity to invite in our citizens and with music, refreshments and the new surroundings the evening was thoroughly enjoyed by hundreds. The members' course of entertainments held in our new gymnasium was a complete success and received general public approval because of its high grade and refinement.

Dormitories.

Naturally on entering upon so great an undertaking as this new property seemed, your committee and your officers were fearful to go too far in the matter of incurring new obligations, but the old dormitories were in such condition that it was imperative that something should be done to properly equip the new ones and have all furnishings fresh and clean. In this dilemma, as in so many others, some devoted friends of the association voluntarily contributed the sum of $1,000 to furnish new standard Y. M. C. A. beds and mattresses, and at the same time to equip our new and thoroughly modern laundry with mangle, washing machine and drying room, etc., and I should feel ungrateful indeed did I not pay tribute at this time to the unfailing loyalty and generous impulses of the Misses Norton, who have meant so much to our cause. The rooms are employed at all times and because of their bright, clean attractiveness they are in constant demand at a slightly increased rental over the rooms in the Broadway building.

Educational Activities.

The educational work of the association is an increasingly important feature and will soon take on new life because of better facilities. A first class reading room is now freely used and well supplied at all times with the better grade of reading material. Under this committee a group of small orators visited the association during March and spoke to large group of men relative to the mountain school facilities in the rural counties of Kentucky, and this proved a rare treat.

Physical.

In one of the finest gymnasiums in the state, properly heated, ventilated and lighted at all times, the development of the physical well being of our boys and our men goes steadily on under a well trained and faithful officer, E. J. Fritz, who at once seized his opportunity to interest numbers of the business men of the city and scores of younger men and boys who daily and nightly keep the physical department and its attendants busy and the committee in charge of this work, of which John M. Swahn is chairman, deserve great credit for a strong factor in our work.

Boys' Work.

Perhaps the most vital, at least one of the most vital, activities of our labors is exerted in behalf of the boys of this city and adjacent thereto. Under Emery H. Davis, who is now entering his third year in the work, there is a great increase in both interest and attendance in the junior department, and the recent Father and Son banquet was a whole-hearted demonstration of his ability to organize as well as retain the interest of the boys and win the approval of the parents.

Endowments.

The trust funds of the association, now amounting to $57,000, are being administered by a capable, conscientious and faithful board of trustees, and the income from these funds applied to the specific purposes for which they are intended. With a slight increase in these funds the future of the association could be guaranteed along certain lines, and no more laudable memorial could be established for any citizen.

The Osgood memorial swimming pool is now in active use and many a boy in the poorer walks of life is enjoying a privilege he seldom thought possible, and a new blessing has entered his life through the forethought of one whose kindly heart knew of his needs and ours.

The Sturtevant memorial year by year attests the Christian forethought of another loyal Christian woman who had confidence in this organization's ability to properly carry through a much needed service for all men of our city. May numbers of others have faith in like measure.

Ladies' Auxiliary.

The Ladies' auxiliary continues to carry on an active co-operation with our work and their great help in every way toward securing this new home is a matter of sincere gratitude frequently expressed and keenly felt by all.

And now in conclusion I trust you will permit me to express again my thanks for your interest and help as the years speed along, for some of our

FOURTH DEGREE ASSEMBLY CONDUCTS LADIES' NIGHT

Ladies' night by Rev. Daniel Mullen assembly, Fourth Degree, K. of C., was carried out Wednesday evening at the Wauregan house with a programme that was thoroughly enjoyed and included as a feature a strong address by Gordon Bodenwein of New London upon The Voice in the Tumult.

The evening began with the banquet for which covers were laid for 140, the tables being prettily decorated with baskets of flowers. Faithful Navigator Francis T. Diggins who presided, was seated at the head table with Rev. M. H. May, Rev. C. W. Brennan, Rev. W. F. Keefe, Rev. Myles P. Galvin and the speaker as the guests of honor.

The blessing was asked by Father May and there was singing from the Rotary song sheets, with Edward T. Connelly as leader and the music by Herb Smith's orchestra during the banquet. Special numbers were rendered by groups of singers called out by Leader Connelly to the great pleasure of the banquetters.

Sympathy for Father Brennen

When the banquet was over Faithful Navigator Diggins pleasantly extended a welcome to the members and their guests and expressed sympathy for Rev. C. W. Brennan and the members of the Sacred Heart parish at Norwich Town in the recent loss of their church by fire.

The following resolutions, presented by Ex-mayor T. C. Murphy, were voted by the gathering:

Resolved: That the members of Rev. Daniel Mullen assembly, Knights of Columbus, extend to Rev. C. W. Brennan our sincere sympathy in the serious loss which he and the members of Sacred Heart parish sustained in the recent fire which practically destroyed their church. And be it further—

Resolved: That the members of the assembly pledge to Father Brennan their support, individually and as an assembly, in any plans which he may have for rebuilding, to the end that the people of that parish may once more be privileged to attend divine worship under their own roof.

Toastmaster Diggins then introduced Mr. Bodenwein as the speaker of the evening, and at the conclusion of his address, which was received with much applause, the dining room was cleared for dancing, while cards were enjoyed in the parlor of the hotel.

A committee of the Faithful Patrons of the Assembly, Nicholas J. Spellman, Joseph P. Gadie and William Fitzgerald, associated with Faithful Navigator Diggins and Faithful Comptroller Walter G. Casey, successfully carried out the arrangements for the evening.

Address by Mr. Bodenwein

Speaking on the topic, The Voice in the Tumult, Mr. Bodenwein discussed some of the evils afflicting the modern world with special reference to their effects upon Catholics and Catholic life.

The first evil discerned, he said, is the spirit of non-sectarian which has brought about the idea that religious considerations are of secondary importance and has had a deadening effect upon expression and tended to make people inarticulate.

Second, the triumph of machinery, which has made daily toil distasteful and taken from life a gay spontaneity it formerly had, so that in a mechanical era, human expression has become not a matter of real imagination and endeavor but a thing largely mechanical.

Third, the desire for pleasure and amusement, which has made men forget the real end of existence and threatens the world with a new paganism which is becoming every day more widespread and accepted as the ordinary mode of life.

In part he said:

We live, it would seem, in dangerous times. The old order changes and the modern world faces many disasters which are coming every day more clearly into view. Terrible unrest and the strife of conflicting forces cast their shadows over the face of the earth. War-torn Europe is threatened by new wars the peoples of the nations sick unto death of government by the sordid treacheries of professional politicians are waiting for new guides, while from the north the bolshevist and from the east the Turk wait the chance to fall upon the western civilization which already seems to bear the marks of doom. In our own land, for recurring strikes there seems no solution but the legal violence of an injunction and final compromise which but postpones to the future the inevitable reckoning, while such things as Herrin massacres, the reign of terror and murder instituted by masked mobs, not to mention the every increasing daily records of crime show a condition not pleasant to contemplate. Nor does it make matters better that all this is accompanied by the hysterical and rabid propaganda of deluded and vicious reformers whose cures are much worse than the original ills.

No less a person than our Holy Father himself in His first encyclical has declared that it has come to pass that "the habit of life which can be called really Christian has in a great measure disappeared, so that human society does not seem to be progressing on the road to good, as is men's boast, but actually going back towards barbarism." It is only too true that "the habit of life that can be called really Christian," even among Catholics has become obscure. Many Catholics are today all too prone to fall into forms of thought which at the worst are expressly forbidden and at the least are anything but Catholic. Possessed of a great tolerance in both thought and action, they fail utterly to distinguish between the things that are truly Catholic and the things that are not.

This condition is due, in part at any rate, to the so-called non-sectarian atmosphere in which we live. The current philosophy of non-sectarianism says that religion is something not to be talked of, that it doesn't make any difference what a man believes as long as he lives a good life, that all religions are more or less equal because they all have a great deal in common, that one is about as good as another, that all truth is relative and such things are only a matter of personal taste, and, anyway, it is much better to discuss live topics of the day and engage in activity, physical culture or acts of philanthropy, than to spend time arguing about creeds. From Catholics, each and every thesis of this modern creed demands an absolute and categorical denial as the most obnoxious kind of heretical cant which is as false as the pleasure of hell.

Our holy religion is not something to be ashamed of or to be afraid of, it is not something to hide under a bushel, out of sight and knowledge of men. It is meant to be spoken of openly in the marketplace to all manner of men, and it is to be the basis of every interior and exterior act of the faithful until life's journey is done. The Catholic religion is to be shouted from the housetops because it is the only thing worth shouting, because its ineffable and startling beauty is enough to thrill the human heart and enrapture the soul, but of the sort, literally, to make one's hair stand on end.

The present situation requires not only individual effort but also a decided intellectual effort. The day is past when an unreasoned faith can any longer be accepted as the normal expression of Catholic life. The generation in which we live demands an intelligent and to some degree an intellectual faith. It is because only in the Catholic faith is there found a perfect exercise for both faith and reason that her theology is called the queen of sciences. By a certain class of educated, but ignorant non-Catholic it is believed that no intelligent or cultured person can really belong to the Catholic church. Those, they say, who have been brought up Catholics are either so stupid or they have been so thoroughly deluded that they don't know any better—as for the person who becomes a Catholic, there are but two explanations, he is either immoral or insane!

It really is time that the world was told something of the knowledge and wisdom which the church possesses and with which she instructs her children. Those outside the church will very seldom take the trouble to find out any of these things for themselves and it is Catholics, therefore, who must tell them. There are many well-disposed people in the world today who really would like to know about the faith to which they are strangers.

They do, indeed, believe many wierd things about Catholics and Catholic practice. Having never learned anything else, they are very apt to regard the Catholic church as that awful bug-a-boo which they have been taught that it is. This fact should be realized by Catholics to whom it is obligatory to dissuade them from the foolishness of the things they believe about our holy faith.

This is the spirit of Catholics loving peace, but let there be no mistake in supposing that meekness be allowed to degenerate into cowardice. Let it be remembered that Catholics, while loving peace, do not despise the sword, and that in the prejudice that exists today there is found that class of scoundrel, whose brazen affrontery knows no limits in insult, in defamation, and in lying, who, without honor, makes it a business to spread deliberate falsehood about our religion. And for this sort of wretch who dares to lift his voice against our blessed mother of the church, let Catholics not hesitate to display that just wrath sins not, that fine anger which scourged the many changers from the temple, and shouted in the faces of the ancient Pharisees those splendid words, "Ye vipers and ye hypocrites!"

There is indeed enough to demand the attention of Catholics in the present days, and it does not behoove Catholics to take their faith for granted. Once the lust of one man, King Henry VIII, and the treachery of one woman, Queen Elizabeth, extinguished the fire of faith throughout a whole realm. But may it be the splendid note of the church in our land, that no wickedness can ever prevail against it—may it never suffer itself to be crushed as it has, in years past, in France, or to allow the tryanny of a handful as is the case in Mexico today. The devil engaged in a huge conspiracy against the Catholic church, modern life shows it all too well, for he hates, the slimy thing, this creation against which he cannot prevail.

And the only answer to these manifold problems of evil is the teaching of the Catholic church, whose voice in the tumult only can bring order out of the existing chaos. It was she who civilized Europe and has been the bulwark of the western world ever since. It is she only who consistently proclaims truth and peace upon earth. It is she who has the only intelligent answer for the questioning of the individual soul and for the guidance of nations, and it is she alone that, as the world about us sinks deeper and deeper into the corruption of a new paganism, can save us from disaster even as she once before in the first centuries of the Christian era revivified the decayed life of ancient Greece and pagan Rome.

For what is this thing of which we are members, whose life is in the very blood in our veins? This is no sect among sects, nor an institution like any other institution that the earth has ever seen. This is the Living Voice of the Living God, who once on Mt. Sinai wrote His commandments on tablets of stone and now holds high court in the city of Rome! This is the Catholic church, vision above all other visions, whose voice comes from the far places beyond the stars, for which St. Lawrence was burned on his gridiron and St. Catherine was broken on her wheel, which was the lowliness of St. Francis of Assisi and the mightiness of St. Gregory the Great, whose seed is the blood of her martyr and whose glory is the lives of her saints, which has given to man the only joy worth having and the only peace he has ever known, and which continues to be his constant hope of a life everlasting and promise of a world without end.

Governor Templeton accompanied Mrs. Sylvester Z. Poll of New Haven to the state prison and heard an urgent plea for Angelo Lanzillo of New Haven, under fifteen-year sentence, for a pardon. The executive spent over an hour at the prison.

BRITISH GOV'T RETRIEVES ITS DEFEAT IN COMMONS

Crisis Overcome by Yielding to Laborite Demands That a Committee be Appointed to Investigate the Grievances of Ex-Service Men—The Government is Generally Considered to Have Suffered Badly in Prestige in Its Encounter With the Laborites.

London, April 12—(By the A. P.)—The parliamentary crisis was quietly surmounted today when, the government having yielded to the laborite demands and undertaken to appoint a committee to investigate the grievances of the ex-service men, the opposition permitted a motion that he speaker leave the chair to be put without further resistance.

Thereupon, in accordance with constitution usage that grievances must be heard before supplies are granted; the house began a discussion of various subjects; including the question of the serious hindrances placed upon British trade by the French action in the Ruhr. The discussion having proceeded about three hours, with only occasional effervescence from the labor benches, Sir Philip Lloyd-Greame, for the government moved closure, which was carried 242 to 155, and the motion that the speaker leave the chair was agreed to unopposed.

The government thus retrieved its defeat of Tuesday with a vote showing its normal majority, but is generally considered to have suffered badly in prestige, in this connection, Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, who, owing to the prime minister's loss of voice, is temporarily acting in his place, comes in for considerable criticism from his own side and in the press for unskillful untactful handling of the situation, thereby playing into the hands of the laborites.

The Ruhr debate tonight mainly concerned technical questions, but revealed continued strong dissatisfaction on the part of the opposition members with the government policy of benevolent neutrality relative to the French action.

One effect of the crisis has been avoidance of what probably would have been a somewhat acrid debate on the agricultural policy, but as the ministers were clearly not disposed to embark upon the semi-protective policy advocated by the agricultural Tribunal they may be assumed to have escaped some strong criticism from the protectionist elements among their own supporters.

GOMPERS DENIES A. F. OF L. HAS THE HARLAND FORTUNE

Washington, April 12—Charles that the fortune of more than $800,000 which Charles Garland, of Boston refused to accept as an inheritance from his father is being used to "bring together an interlocking network of pacific and revolutionary organizations of more or less extreme character," were made tonight in a public statement by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Along with the statement, Mr. Gompers made public a letter from the American Fund for Public Service, Inc., to which Mr. Garland turned over the bulk of his wealth, refusing to contribute to the workers' education bureau, a labor federation organization, because the bureau was not "definitely committed to a radical program", in the way of 'carrying on the struggle for the emancipation of their class in every sphere."

An investigation of the Garland fund Mr. Gompers said, has served to "reveal to some slight extent the ramifications of revolutionary propaganda and revolutionary influence in the United States," and "to link the American fund for public service with perhaps 50 or more of the leading pacific, probolshevist, and parlor pink organizations. He declared that Roger Baldwin, Robert Morss Lovett, Scott Nearing, William Z. Foster, Sidney Hillman and others of the directors of the Garland fund had been more or less constantly associated with radical labor and and other organizations which the American Federation of Labor considered as "subversive of the best interests of American citizenship and the principles upon which the American republic and the American federation of labor was founded."

"It should not be necessary here to declare with emphasis," Mr. Gompers continued, "that no organization in which the American Federation of Labor is officially interested could accept money from any such source. The federation, by vote of its conventions and by the convictions of its membership, is unalterable in its support of democracy and in its hostility to every subversive movement, whether the movement be 'Red, revolutionary, pacific or autocratic and reactionary.'"

CLEVELAND WOMAN DANCED 50 HOURS AND 16 MINUTES

Cleveland, Ohio, April 12.—Miss Helen Mayer, 21, Cleveland saleswoman, is the new marathon dancing champion of the world, establishing a new record here today of 52 hours and 16 minutes. This breaks the record set in New York last Monday by Miss Alma Cummings, or 50 hours and two minutes by two hours and 14 minutes. Miss Mayer started dancing at 9.35 a. m., Tuesday and finished at 1.51 p. m. today. She danced with seven partners, making ten changes.

Two other couples who started dancing several hours after Miss Mayer dropped out this morning after dancing approximately 28 hours.

During her performance, Miss Mayer wore out six pairs of stockings and four pairs of shoes; took seven rest periods of three minutes each; wore out three orchestras and four piano players and danced approximately 50 miles.

At the conclusion of her endurance marathon, Miss Mayer was examined by a physician who reported her limbs badly swollen but asserted "she would have been good for four or five hours more." Her weight had dropped from 113 to 108 pounds.

During the 52-hour period, Miss Mayer partook of malted milk, soup and sandwiches without stopping her dance.

RUMOR OF DEATH OF HOUSE OF DAVID LEADER

Lansing, Mich., April 12—Rumors that Benjamin Purnell, missing leader of the Israelite House of David, is dead, and that his body has been secreted in an underground tomb at Benton Harbor by his lieutenants in order that his claim to immortality may not be exploded, probably will be investigated by state officials.

The rumor is the latest to be advanced as explaining the possible whereabouts of the cult leader. It is based upon two things—a strange story of a subterranean chamber beneath the house of Shiloh, Purnell's official residence, and upon the faith of his followers that he is immortal.

Purnell last was seen by those closely associated with him at Christmas time last year, according to their statements. He was ill and announced he was going away for a rest. Knowledge that Purnell had died, it is explained, would have destroyed the rock on which the cult is built.

Although intimating they probably would investigate the latest report, state officials still clung to their belief that Purnell had died.

REPUBLICAN ASPIRATIONS BEFORE 1924 CAMPAIGN

Washington, April 12 (By the A. P.)—Preliminary discussion relative to the 1924 convention city of the republican party, together with the making of plans to wipe out the remainder of the deficit incurred by the republicans in the 1920 campaign and a survey of the general political situation constitute the outstanding developments of a series of conferences with republican leaders concluded here tonight by Fred W. Upham, treasurer of the republican national committee.

Participants in the conferences with Mr. Upham included John T. Adams, chairman of the republican national committee, who returned to Washington today after a trip abroad Secretaries Weeks and Davis, and others prominent in the councils of the party. Mr. Upham, during his two-day stay in the capital, also has had two conferences with President Harding, but at these politics have been onetred upon, it was explained, only in a general way.

The discussions which have been in progress and which will be continued by Mr. Upham tomorrow in New York with Charles D. Hilles, republican national committee for New York, and Will H. Hays, former republican national chairman, are understood from some of those who saw the republican treasurer, to have developed:

That consideration now is being given to six cities, Chicago, Kansas City, San Francisco, Cleveland, Washington and Buffalo as the site for the 1924 convention.

That the deficit of approximately $1,700,000 resulting from the 1920 campaign has been reduced to about $300,000, and that steps have been taken which it is hoped by party leaders will wipe it out completely by June 1.

That party leaders expect that the fortunes of the republican party in 1924 may turn largely on the general business conditions obtaining during the next nineteen months.

VOLSTEAD UNABLE TO OUTWIT PHOTOGRAPHERS

Washington, April 12—Facing fire until the last, Andrew J. Volstead, author of the prohibition enforcement act, who retired from Congress, on March 4, called at the White House today to say farewell to President Harding before returning to Minnesota to resume the practice of law.

The attack directed against the dry law author today came not from the anti-prohibitionists but from a dozen photographers desirous of recording his exit. The former representative, who has an aversion to being photographed, side-stepped the cameramen on entering the executive offices and attempted the same tactics on leaving.

The photographers were not to be denied, however, and while half of them pursued him up a private walk and across a stretch of lawn, the other half made a flank attack and stepping from behind a bunch of shrubbery turned their cameras full upon him recognizing that he was cornered he accepted the consequences good-naturedly and smilingly waved farewell to a crowd of sightseers, who, watching the chase, had been howling with laughter and yelling "Get off the grass."

RUSSIAN COMMUNISTS POSTPONE CONVENTION

Riga, April 12 (By the A. P.)—The congress of the All-Russian communist party, which was to have begun its session next Sunday, has been postponed until June. The communist leaders assert the postponement was made because preparations had not been completed.

Trustworthy advices received here, however, say the real reason for the postponement is believed to be the growing unpopularity of the Moscow groups among the provincial soviets. It is also asserted that the absence of Nikolai Lenine's "cementing influence" is becoming more visible daily, especially since the recent trial and conviction of the Catholic priests in Moscow.

More or less reliable reports indicate that the Moscow leaders are mediating radical changes in the soviet constitution with the intention of diminishing the power of the provincial soviets.

WALL STREET FIGURES IN PROBE OF SUGAR PRICES

New York, April 12.—A focusing upon Wall street of the government's investigation of sugar prices was indicated today in the arrival of Acting Attorney General Seymour from Washington for a secret conference with William Hayward, United States attorney for New York.

Mr. Seymour was reported to have conferred with President Harding yesterday as to the most direct method of prosecuting the sugar inquiry instituted by the department of justice. Shortly thereafter he started for New York.

Mr. Hayward, who was placed in direct charge of the inquiry, admitted that Mr. Seymour had arrived here and telephoned arrangements for a meeting tonight at a place Mr. Hayward declined to designate. Mr. Seymour had expressly cautioned him about making any statement that would disclose the plans of the department of justice, he said, and had requested that all information concerning the proposed inquiry be withheld until issued from Washington.

While he acknowledged that the burden of the investigation had been entrusted to him, the district attorney implied that he would be guided by Washington in planning his line of attack.

"It is logical that we should maintain secrecy at this time," he said. "We want to get the big offenders in this thing, and if we make our plans public it will only serve as a warning to the enemy."

TO PROBE FLOGGING OF CONVICTS IN CAMPS

Tallahassee, Fla., April 12 (By the A. P.)—Flogging of convicts in camps to which they have been leased in this state will be the center of legislative attention here tomorrow.

The joint investigating committee will enter on the first phase of its inquiry into the death of Martin Tabert, North Dakota youth, while the senate will act on a resolution adopted by the house today which seeks to broaden the scope of the committee's inquiry to cover every instance of flogging in Florida.

A bitter fight is expected in the senate. If it is adopted, Senator T. J. Knabb, owner of a camp at MacClenny, where convict labor is employed, will be placed under fire. John Redenberry, reonvict camp boss in Mr. Knabb's employ, is under indictment for cruelty to prisoners.

Walter Higginbotham, another convict boss, was indicted yesterday by a grand jury at Madison for murder in connection with Tabert's death. He was released on $10,000 bail.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., April 12.—With the identification today of the last of the eight bodies recovered after the sinking of the steamer John Dwight, supposed rum-runner, in Vineyard sound last Friday, Martha's Vineyard folk added the loss of the vessel to their list of unexplained tragedies of the sea. Although the bodies of all the known dead have now been claimed, no more is known of the circumstances that led to the sinking of the Dwight, or of her cruise after leaving Newport, R. I., a few days before, than was apparent last Friday morning when Cuttyhunk coast guardsmen saw the vessel go down.

Priest Shot Dead By His Assistant

Rev. Father O'Neill of St. Augustine's Church, Kalamazoo, Mich., Was Slain After Argument.

Kalamazoo, Mich., April 12.—The Reverend Father Charles Dillon, assistant rector of St. Augustine's Catholic church, shot and killed Rev. Father Henry O'Neill, rector of the church, as they sat at the dinner table tonight, then calmly went to the telephone and notified the police and coroner.

Dillon fired four shots, all of which took effect. As Father O'Neill fell dead, Dillon turned to the Rev. Father McCullough, the only witness of the tragedy, and handed him a phial containing holy oils, with the request that he administer the sacrament of extreme unction at once.

According to a statement the assistant rector is said to have made to police and county officers, he was "driven to fury" by alleged ill-treatment at the hands of the dead priest.

"He treated me with disrespect ever since I came here, 13 months ago, from Battle Creek," he is reported as having told the authorities. "He assumed toward me the attitude of a czar.

"He treated me as a little boy, refusing to permit me to visit the families of the parish, or take any part in the life of the parish. I protested in vain against his attitude and tonight, when we quarreled over the matter at the dinner table, he ordered me to pack my belongings and get out.

"I got up from the table and went up stairs to pack up, but it was a revolver, not a suitcase, I packed. I picked up a phial of holy oil and then went down stairs where Father O'Neill and Father McCullough were reading. I intended to give him a chance to confess and to repent before I killed him, but as I advanced into the room, with the hand holding the revolver extended, I saw him grab a salt cellar to throw at me and I fired twice. After that I do not recall very well what happened."

Rev. Father O'Neill was born at Hubbardston, Mich., about 56 years ago. He was a graduate of Assumption college, Sandwich, Ontario, and of the seminary at Baltimore. He was ordained 24 years ago and became pastor of St. Augustine's November 1, 1921.

Father Dillon was a member of the Carthusian Fathers Order. He had travelled widely, serving as missionary in many countries.

Calmly discussing the shooting in the office of Chief of Police Ben Taffee tonight, Father Dillon said that for some time he had been prepared for such an ending to the long-continued differences he said existed between him and the slain priest.

"At first thought, you'd think I was insane, but I'm not," he said. "I can go through with all the mentality tests, and they'll show I am sane."

FATHER DILLON HAS BEEN NOTED FOR HIS ODDITIES

Chicago, April 12.—Father Charles Dillon, an assistant at St. Augustine's Catholic church at Kalamazoo, Mich., shot and killed Father Henry O'Neill, pastor of St. Augustine's, following an argument at the dinner table tonight, according to word received here from Detroit by Bishop Michael J. Gallagher, bishop of Detroit.

Bishop Gallagher said that, according to his information, Father Dillon entered into an argument over a trivial matter with Father O'Neill and then pulled a pistol from his pocket and fired, killing Father O'Neill almost instantly.

Bishop Gallagher in a statement to the Associated Press tonight expressed the opinion that Father Dillon was insane, stating that he was "noted for his oddities" and declaring that many pastors of the Detroit diocese where Father Dillon had assisted had remarked about his peculiarities.

"Father Charles Dillon was working as an assistant at St. Augustine's church, Kalamazoo, Mich," Bishop Gallagher's statement said. "He did not belong to the diocese of Detroit, but was a visitor helping out in different places in the diocese. Father Dillon belonged to the Carthusian order in France and when this order was sent out of France he was expelled with it. He went with the order to Spain and from there to Italy, then to the Philippine Islands. In his travels he went through many hardships and suffered greatly from climatic changes to which he was not accustomed.

"Father Dillon had relatives near Merrill, Mich., and came to Michigan to visit them. He was a good speaker and helped out in the diocese in various ways. He was, however, noted for his oddities and many pastors of the diocese with whom he worked had remarked on his peculiarities.

"In view of what has occurred I cannot but believe the man was insane. While I had made up my mind not to adopt him into the diocese on account of his many peculiarities, I of course had no idea that his mind was deranged which I now believe to be the case. According to my information his argument with the Kalamazoo pastor was over a very trivial matter but the mere fact that he carried a pistol would indicate to me that his mind was disordered."

WORLD WAR VETERANS TO URGE GENERAL AMNESTY

Washington, April 12.—All posts of the World War Veterans will be ordered within the next few days to organize meetings at which release of persons still imprisoned for violation of wartime laws will be urged.

In making this announcement today, Jack Bradon, president of the organization, declared the meeting "will rally the freedom-loving elements in every locality and if need be a political weapon against anti-amnesty officials will be created." The executive department of the organization has moved its headquarters to Washington, it is announced, and is prepared to stay until results are achieved.

In addition to the amnesty program, it is proposed to press veterans' compensation cases and to work for passage by congress of a bill providing federal loans to enable ex-service men to build homes in cities or on farms.

Decision on Bonus Bill Expected Today

Provides for Payment by the State of $10 a Month for Each Month of Service in the World War.

Hartford, April 12—Attorney General Healy's opinion on the constitutionality of the bonus bill is expected to be ready tomorrow although it is not known just when its contents will be made public. It is believed at the capitol that he will report that the bill is not constitution inasmuch as he has already orally expressed that opinion.

When the question of the constitutionality of the bill was first raised Senator Rudd and Mr. Fenton, chairman of the committee on military affairs which is handling the measure sought Mr. Healy's opinion. He replied that it was his belief that the bill was contrary to the state constitution. The chairmen of the committee, however, were not satisfied with an oral answer and asked the attorney general to submit a detailed written opinion.

If Mr. Healy's opinion is that the bill is unconstitutional it will be reported unfavorably.

The bill, which was introduced by Senator Ells, provides for the payment of $10 a month for each month veterans of the world war saw service between April 6, 1917 and November 1, 1918. Officers, enlisted men and nurses in the army, navy and marine branches are provided or under the flat rate.

The state constitution provides that appropriations may not be made for other than "public purposes" and it has been asserted that a bonus does not come under this definition.

WOULD MAKE CHANGES IN MOTOR VEHICLE LAWS

Hartford, April 12—Commissioner Stoeckel of the department of motor vehicles this afternoon appeared before the committee on roads, bridges and rivers, in support of a bill prepared by his department which makes many changes in motor vehicle laws. Some sections of the proposed changes were opposed by trucking men who asserted that the bill placed additional restrictions upon their business.

Some of the changes sought are: Permitting the commissioner to make a biennial report instead of an annual one; providing for a general license for automobile dealers which would be transferable for a period of five days; requiring non-resident drivers of commercial cars to take out a license if they drive in the state for a longer period than 48 hours in any one year; providing for computation of fees based upon horsepower and piston displacement; providing for penalties for racing or evading responsibility for accidents and forbidding towns to pass ordinances dealing with the general operation of motor vehicles.

RAILROAD SITUATION IS "FAR FROM HOPELESS"

Boston, April 12—The special committee appointed by New England governors to investigate the railroad situation has found conditions "far from hopeless" and believe there are prospects of a broader market for New England than the section has ever before enjoyed and is still of an important factor in the question of consolidating New England lines in one system or of merging with trunk lines, James J. Storrow, chairman of the committee, told the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce today. The committee has virtually completed its preliminary inquiry, he said, but has not yet undertaken formulation of its conclusions.

The physical conditions of the roads, as far as tracks, bridges and ordinary buildings are concerned was found to be excellent. Motive power and equipment, however, on many of the roads is not so good as they should be, Mr. Storrow said. More attention must be paid to traffic routes and to avoidance of congestion in some of the city gateways to New England.

Howard D. Kelly, former president of the Grand Trunk railroad, now acting as expert consultant to the New England committee, said he found deplorable congestion at regular periods each year at some of the gateways. New England, he said, can compete successfully with the middle west in transportation by sending its goods by water through the Panama canal and up the pacific coast, as advantageously as the middle west can ship by rail across the continent.

FIVE ALLEGED RADICALS WERE FINED $200 EACH

Kansas City, Mo., April 12.—Five men arrested here last night at an alleged radical meeting, were fined $200 each today on charges of disturbing the peace. Henry Julian, attorney for the men, said the meeting was to obtain funds for the defense of William Z. Foster.

Mr. Julian said that about 250 persons attended the meeting and that they had a right to do so.

"This is a free country," he declared.

"This is not a free country for I. W. W.'s and radicals," Judge Edward Fleming replied. "We of the general public are going to run this country for a while yet."

KILLED HIS FATHER "TO PUT THE OLD MAN OUT OF MISERY"

Confession Made by George Virgin, 43, in City Court at Evansville, Ind.—The Father Was 73 Years Old and a Paralytic—Son Threw Father Into a Concrete Tank Containing Water, Then Struck Him Over the Head With a Hatchet.

Evansville, Ind., April 12.—After thinking the matter over, he decided it was best "to put the old man out of his misery," George Virgin, 43, declared today when arraigned in city court charged with the slaying of his father, John Virgin, 73, a paralytic. Virgin entered a plea of guilty and was bound over to the circuit court without bond.

"We were lying together on a bed last night," Virgin said, "when I decided to put him out of the way. He had been paralyzed for eight years and I wanted to end his sufferings."

He dragged the old man from the house and down a hill to a small concrete tank used for butchering cattle, the witness said, and threw him into the water. He then obtained a hatchet and struck his father in the head with it, the man declared.

"I hit him a powerful lick, but his skull was thick. I must have hit him ten times, but he didn't die right away.

"The old man didn't realize what I was doing to him. He just mumbled. He didn't put up a fight at all. The only time he said anything was when I was pulling him to the tank. Then he said: 'Oh, you're hurting my arm. Don't, don't, George'."

Virgin said he did not regret killing his father, declaring he did right to stop the latter's agony.

NEW ENGLAND NOW IS A HIVE OF INDUSTRY

Boston, April 12—An increased demand for competent farm labor, and a generally healthy industrial employment condition are reported by the employment service of the United State Department of Labor in an analysis of industrial employment and unemployment in New England for March, made public today.

In commenting on the industrial employment situation in New England the report said: "It is safe to say that there is a healthy and robust condition existing, which is producing an optimistic outlook for the steady decrease of unemployment in every section of New England states

"What is perhaps the outstanding feature of the March analysis is the increased demand for competent farm labor due to the resumption of agricultural activities in the farming sections of this district.

"The expansion of nearly all industries that was note in February was continued during the month of March and was marked by increased demands for all classes of labor. Particularly was this true in the building trades with extensive building programs either in course of construction or commencement of same is anticipated by the middle of April. Building tradesmen in most parts of the district are fully employed.

"The outlook for the iron and steel industry is exceptionally bright and in some of the larger centers there is a shortage of certain classes of this labor with an increasing demand evident.

"The following cities showed a decrease in the number unemployed as compared with the previous month: Lowell, Springfield, Worcester, New Bedford, Brockton, Lawrence, Providence, R. I., Manchester, N. H., Bridgeport, Conn., Waterbury, Conn., New Haven, Conn.

"Fall River, Mass., was the only city in the New England states that showed an increase in employment for March over that of February."

EIGHT ARMY AVIATORS OUT OF 100 KILLED OUTRIGHT

Lincoln, N. Y., April 12—Eight army aviators out of every 100 were killed outright and two incapacitated from further duty each year during the period of 1919 to 1922 according to statistics made public today at Mitchel field, army air service base.

Practising of "stunts" for combat and pursuit training and hazardous experiments in formation flying by the army airmen were responsible for many of the casualties, it was said. Commercial aeronautics where only straight flying was done was less hazardous. One firm operating 27 airplanes carried more than 9,000 passengers 117,000 miles through the air without a single casualty, it was reported.

The army aviators, because of the hazards of their service, are endeavoring to secure through congress a single promotion list for the air service and an earlier age of retirement for army pilots.

DID OFFICIALS IGNORE THE RIOTS AT HERRIN

Springfield, Ill., April 12 (By the A. P.)—Declaration that "Adjutant General Carlos E. Black, when informed by his personnel officer, Colonel Sam A. Hunter, on June 21, that serious trouble was impending near Herrin, Ill., replied: "Let them damn fools go to it," was made by the colonel today before a committee of the Illinois house investigating the Herrin riots.

In direct contradiction to testimony yesterday of the adjutant general, Colonel Hunter asserted that he repeatedly asked his superior to send troops that bloodshed might be averted. Even as late as 3 p. m., June 21, a short time after two union men were slain, according to the colonel, the despatch of troops would have stopped bloodshed.

General Black testified he had received no request from any source at any time for troops in Williamson county. Colonel Hunter declared he requested troops during every telephone conversation with the general and that he also had transmitted to him requests for the militia from W. J. Lester, president of the Southern Illinois Coal company and C. E. McDowell, superintendent of the company's mine, who was slain June 22.

After the alleged remark of Black's was mentioned by Colonel Hunter, another sensation came when he declared in answer to a question that General Black recently asked him to change and revise his written report of the Herrin trade July 6.

"Has Black ever asked you to change it or to revise it in any way?" the colonel was asked.

"Yes, sir."

"Who was it?"

"General Black. He asked me if I'd change my report."

"What reply did you make?"

"I said I'd give his request due consideration."

"Have you changed the report?"

"No, sir."

The witness said that General Black's request had been "a week or ten days—possibly two weeks," after the house ordered investigation of the failure to send troops to Williamson county.

FORCED TO REJECT BIDS FOR NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, April 12.—Four members of the building committee and a number of the representatives of the contracting firms were present at the opening of the sealed proposals for the proposed addition to the Natchaug Grammar school at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Proposals were read read from the New England Engineering Company of Norwich, The Clark Construction Company of Waterbury, Doyle and Murphy and Oliver L. Willard of this city. Due to the fact that all the proposals exceeded the $80,000 which is the appropriation amount, they were rejected.

The Doyle & Murphy bid was the lowest of those read.

Bids for plumbing, heating and ventilating were read and rejected. They came from Philip J. Dubey, F. A. Shafer, and Lyman D. Mills Co., concerns from out of this city, and Moriarty and Rafferty of this city.

At a special town meeting the appropriation of $80,000 was voted upon to include the construction of the building and provide for heating, plumbing, and ventilating. The architect who drew the plans and specifications led the building committee to believe that the appropriation was sufficient.

The present situation brings out but two alternatives and they are to ask the town to vote an additional appropriation of several thousand dollars in order to meet the lowest bidder or bidders who are offering the most under the plans adopted for the new addition or else to revise the plans and erect an addition that will meet with the appropriation amount. The building committee has voted to follow the last resort.

Those present at the opening of the proposals were: Chairman Fred D. Jordan, Secretary Charles W. Hills, Michael E. Sullivan and W. H. Latham. With the exception of Oliver L. Willard the other bidding concerns were represented.

Will Marry Italian Princess

Count Harlos Calvi di Bergola, whose betrothal to the Princess Yolanda, of Italy, has been announced. Although he is of the nobility, and is a distinguished Captain of Cavalry, still he is hardly on the same plane with the Princess. Much surprise was manifested when both King and Queen of Italy gave their consent to the marriage. Evidently there are not enough princes to go around, and those whose blood is red and not blue, are becoming eligible.

A Profitable Plow for Hillside or Level Land

WITH our John Deere Two-Way Sulky Plow you can turn full width furrows in plowing around curves or on hillsides, plow out all of the nooks and corners of irregular fields, work close to fences and do away with dead furrows and back ridges where these are not desirable. The Patented Auto Foot Frame Shift regulates the width of furrows in response to slight pressure on a foot lever. Bottom lift and clevis shift are both automatic. The mechanism is fully reliable—it can't get out of order.

This plow can be backed and turned easily. Its perfect balance and comparative lightness make it easy on horses. Wide tread—doesn't tip over on hillsides. Ask us to show you all of the features of this successful plow the next time you are in town.

WILSON PUTS ROOKIES THROUGH RUGGED PRACTICE YESTERDAY

Snappy work both in the outfield and infield featured Thursday's practice of the Pittsfield Hillies giving Manager Art Wilson his first opportunity to get a real line on his rookies. The weather was the most favorable of any since the Hillies took possession of Norwich and Manager Art made the most of his opportunity. Wilson drove his rookies through three hours of stiff work and then called it a day which was heartily in accord with the desires of the candidates who had run themselves ragged during the session.

The high wind which hampered good outfield work during the first two days of practice was a welcome absentee, especially so to the outfielders. The outfielders put in a long three hours chasing flys and fielding short hits. Manager Wilson devoted most of the time to instructing the new candidates in fielding ground balls and short hits.

Manager Wilson who is a firm believer in speed on the bases gave his men much to do in the line of base running and made them run the bags for a long period.

The pitchers were put through a short course of work, Manager Wilson striving for control above everything. Van Alvestyne and Sawyer, the veterans were given a short warming up and then the rookies were given a chance to show their ability. Of the rookies Batchelder, the Twilight star, displayed the best control and has a beautiful side-arm cross fire delivery. Babe Demers also showed much improvement over last year.

Wilson got into the harness himself and worked out behind the bat and showed that he has forgotten none of his old time stuff when he was with the Giants. Harvey Russell and Walt Campbell were also given a chance and showed up well.

Harold Leathers, the Pacific Coast star, reported for practice yesterday morning and created a favorable impression. Leathers has been playing ball all winter with the Winter League in California and is in great condition.

Clabby and Smith continued their good work and stand out among the most promising candidates. The veterans were worked as hard as the rookies and look a whole lot more seasoned.

On Sunday will be the first practice game the Hillies going against Bill O'Leary's Independents. Bill has collected a good team with Bill Bergen on the receiving end and a league pitcher in the box. Bill will announce his team tomorrow. The Hillies will use their regulars but the rookies will get an opportunity to show their wares in real action.

GENARO GETS $3,000 VERDICT AGAINST SPORTING CLUB

New York, April 12.—A judgment for $3,000 against the Madison Square Sporting club, settling the claim of Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion, for an amount due him from the contest in which he won the title from Pancho Villa, was entered by default today in state supreme court.

Genaro complained that after the contest in which he won the championship Madison Square Garden promoters paid him $3,342, or $3,000 less than the amount due him. The promoters said they withheld the $3,000 to pay Genaro's fine in New Jersey for failure to fulfill a contract to meet Villa in a contest in that state.

Genaro declared the New Jersey settlement was made without his consent.

EAST AND WEST TENNIS RIVALRY TO BE RESUMED

New York, April 12.—Tennis rivalry between the east and west will be resumed this season with two series of matches, bringing together the best players of both sections, it was announced tonight.

Mrs. Benjamin E. Cole, of Boston, who recently was victorious in both singles and doubles of the national women's indoor championships will be the third eastern representative.

The personnel of the western team has not yet been definitely announced but it is expected that it will be chosen from William M. Johnston, No. 2 ranking star; Clarence J. Griffin, former doubles champion with Johnston; Robert and Howard Kinsey, second ranking doubles team; and Harvey Snodgrass, who created a sensation recently by defeating Johnston, Griffin and Robert Kinsey in a Pacific coast tournament. "CHICK" EVANS GUEST AT FOUNDATION BANQUET

Cleveland, O., April 12.—Charles "Chick" Evans of Chicago, famous American amateur golfer, was the guest of honor at a banquet and entertainment given by the Cleveland District Golf association last night as part of the Western Golf association's campaign to complete the success of its "Chick Evans Caddie Foundation." Three hundred golf enthusiasts were present.

In explaining the purpose of the foundation, J. W. Busch, secretary of the Western Golf association, said the Caddie Foundation idea originated with Evans, who, remembering his own caddie days, and his debt of gratitude to golfers who took an interest in him, conceived the idea of incorporating in a set of records the knowledge he gained in 20 years' experience in golf, and through the sale of these records to benefit the caddies, through the foundation. The money from the sale of the records will be deposited in a trust fund, and sectional tournaments held to determine the qualifiers for a national caddie tournament, the prize to the winner to be a four year university education.

A. A. U. BARS ALL ATHLETES FROM INTERNATIONAL CONTESTS ABROAD

New York, April 12.—(By the A. P.)—The Amateur Athletic Union tonight announced that with the exception of the Harvard-Yale track team, which is slated for a meet with Oxford-Cambridge in England next July, permission would be refused to all athletes under A. A. U. jurisdiction to take part in international contests abroad this year.

The decision, reached upon the recommendation of the international affairs committee of which Joseph B. McCabe of Boston is, chairman, was made to bring about concentration upon this country's participation to the same effect previously was made by William C. Prout of Boston, president of the A. A. U., and the American Olympic committee.

The attitude taken by the A. A. U. will affect a number of prospective foreign invasions by American athletic stars. These included, sending track and swimming teams to the 300th anniversary of Gothenburg, Sweden, followed by invitations to compete in Germany, Denmark, Norway, Holland and Czecho-Slovakia; a water polo team to visit a number of European countries; an educational swimming tour of England and Scotland by Johnny Weismuller, Illinois A. C. star, and the Misses Helen Wainwright, Aileen Riggin and Gertrude Ederle, of New York; and the trip of Charles W. Paddock, University of Southern California sprinting star, to Paris for the international college meet in May.

Paddock, according to dispatches was to leave today for the east to embark for France.

Immediately after the decision had been reached, Frederick W. Rubien, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., cabled all foreign athletic governing bodies of his organization's attitude.

The Yale-Harvard track invasion was exempted from the effect of the decision, it was announced, because plans were laid for the meet in 1921 and consummated a year ago by John T. McGovern of Cornell, representing the Intercollegiate A. A. A., when he accompanied the University of Pennsylvania relay team to England.

Under an arrangement with the English universities, Mr. McGovern revealed, they are to compete in meets with Harvard-Yale and Cornell-Princeton, alternately in the United States and Great Britain, except in Olympic years.

Mr. McGovern announced the following schedule for a period of years had been agreed upon:

Yale-Harvard vs Oxford-Cambridge, in England, 1923.

Oxford-Cambridge vs Princeton-Cornell and vs Yale-Harvard, in the United States, 1925.

Princeton-Cornell vs Oxford-Cambridge, in England, 1926.

Yale-Harvard vs Oxford-Cambridge, in England, 1927.

Mr. McGovern also said that in all probability, outside of Olympic years, the relay teams of Oxford and Cambridge would meet the University of Pennsylvania alternately in England and the United States. The Britons this year are sending over a team for the Penn relay carnival, April 27 and 28 at Philadelphia.

Miss Green of Tolland and Mr. Brinsmade of Washington asked that the proposed amendment be printed in the House Journal. Mr. Buckley finally agreed he would present his amendment Tuesday and it would be printed in the journal for action on Wednesday.

The amendment provides in substance that the states attorney for the county upon information to him by anyone that professional baseball or football is to be played on Sunday on is scheduled to be played and to which an admission is charged either at the gate or for a seat, shall apply to the superior court for an injunction restraining the playing of such games under the illegal conditions and shall prosecute for contempt of court any violation of the restraining order.

Authorship of the amendment rests wholly with Mr. Buckley, and not with the judiciary committee, which divided into three groups, some favoring strict shut-down on professional sports as provided in the amendment; another group favoring leaving matters as they are with Sunday baseball played as long as it is clean and free from disturbance, and still another group who claim that if Sunday professional ball is to be played it should be played legally as provided in the original bill which Governor Templeton said he would veto.

Currie Beats Shubert.

New Haven, April 12.—Joe Currie of New Haven was awarded the referee's decision over Al Shubert of New Bedford in a 12-round bout here tonight. Both are lightweights. Nick Pettite of Bridgeport received the decision over Frankie Victola in an eight-round bout.

Indians Buy Outfielder Shaner

New Orlean, April 12.—Outfielder B. Shaner was sold to the Cleveland American league team today by the New Orleans club. Shaner came to the Pelicans from the Danville club of the Piedmont league, where he hit .344 last season.

Norton Elected Captain.

New Haven, April 12.—Bayee M. Norton of Vineyard Haven, Mass., was elected captain of the Yale freshman track team for the coming season.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Ray Ouimet, city golf champion of Kansas City, has accepted a position as professional of the Bristol Country club of Bristol, Penn.

The Hillies have made arrangements to use Pine Grove park in Dalton for their early home games in event Wahconah park is not in condition.

Owner Powell of the "Boosters" gags every time he hears the nickname of his club and has started a contest through the Worcester newspapers to give it a new name.

Elmer Bowman, the Eastern's Shiek of Slam last year, will handle affairs at first for the Profs, although he is still far from being in the pink of condition.

Billy Murphy of Staten Island is still in the ring and pulling strong. Billy boxed 10 rounds to a draw with Dutch Brandt at the Brighton club Monday night.

Jack Bentley has shortened his swing at the plate. He used to swipe at them like Babe Ruth, but says he finds he can make base hits more often by not stepping quite so far into the ball.

Carl Linder, winner of the Boston Athletic association 25 mile Ashland to Boston marathon in 1919, is among the latest entrants for the 1923 race, which will be held April 19.

On the recommendation of Harry Hesse, who joined Hartford's squad Tuesday, Manager O'Connor will give Alfred Kellert, a former sailor stationed at Newport, R. I., a tryout.

Bowman struck camp overweight and started in to reduce too quickly, and the task has left him all tattered and torn. He hasn't been working out regularly on account of his seemingly run-down condition.

Jesse Burkett and Jack Mack, former owners of the Worcester club, are following the workouts of the "Boosters" closely and it is a rare day they are not out watching the squad perform.

Two weeks ago and the fans were all smoked up and ready to battle dissenters over the basketball situation. In a flash, almost, the situation has changed and the court fans have switched to baseball.

Boston university golf team will open its season with Brown at Providence on May 3. Two Japanese players, Kenson Morie and Shirow Osabe, and one Chinese golfer, Charles H. Yeh, are members of the B. U. team.

Neither Bowman, Mulrennan nor Hyman has signed up yet with the Profs, but Weiss declares that he isn't worrying because the wired acceptances by the trio to his terms stand in lieu of regular contracts until papers are officially signatured.

Worcester may have an entirely new park next year, if the city takes kindly to baseball this year, Owner Powell has promised. The club, of course, will use Boulevard park this season and extensive outfield improvements are being made.

Frank Emmer, shortstop last year with Albany, had a long conference the other day with Manager Rodgers and Owner Hawkins; object, salary. He refused to sign and from the latest reports is still sitting on the fence, refusing to budge.

Sammy Berne, a New York lightweight, and Frankie Sinclair, a bantamweight, have left for Chicago, where they have been billed to box on next Monday night. Berne will take on Sid Barbarian and Sinclair is paired with Joey Sanger.

Johnny Dundees two leading challengers, Jack Bernstein and Billy De Foe, have been signed to meet in a 12 round contest at the Commonwealth Sporting club Saturday night. A capacity attendance is expected to witness the bout.

Johnny Clinton will engage in another contest Monday night when he is slated to cross gloves with Johnny Lombardi, formerly Ray Mitchell of Philadelphia, in a 12 round set-to at the Broadway Exhibition club at Brooklyn.

Work on the second nine holes of the Gedney Farm golf course, White Plains, N. Y., is progressing rapidly. The tees and green in front of the clubhouse will first be built and it is expected that the whole 18 holes will be in play by July.

Eddie Reilly, Bridgeport High school coach, claims to have one of the strongest nines in the state this season. He has already picked this first team and will send it against the Choate school tossers of Wallingford Saturday.

Jess Willard, former world's heavyweight champion, has been established as the favorite at two to one to beat Floyd Johnson when they meet in New York May 12, according to Darnell & Co. One bet of $3,000 on Willard against $1,500 has been placed.

The championship tournament of the Women's Western Golf association originated at Exmoor club of Chicago and to celebrate its 20th renewal the tournament this season will be played over the Exmoor links, Aug. 7 to Sept. 1.

"Hoiman" Bronkie, the Brasscos' new pilot, is going to clamp the lid down tight on his string of holdouts, and has declared that no player will be allowed to don a Waterbury uniform until they had scrawled their monickers on the necessary parchments.

Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis heavyweight, is suffering from an ulcerated tooth and has been compelled to call off two matches. He was billed to meet Al Carpenter at Altoona, Pa., on Thursday evening, and Charley Weinert at Rochester next Monday night.

The Brooklyn featherweight, Eddie Brady, has been billed for three bouts, Friday night at the Freeport auditorium he is paired with Mickey Brown; on the 28th he will battle Willie Davis at Yonkers, while two days later at Philadelphia he will mingle with Eddie O'Keefe.

That was quite a crack Jimmy Wilson took at "Wild Bill" Donovan the other day and which ought to make Bill wilder. Wilson said: "I learned more on the bench of the Phillies in one day than I did in a whole season at New Haven." Now let's hope that Wilson isn't returned to Donovan, after all, for more seasoning.

Pal Moran, New Orleans lightweight, who has not boxed in two months because of a severe attack of the "flu," has been signed for two important matches. At St. Louis April 24 he is paired with Harry Kabaloff, while at the baseball park in Philadelphia May 15 he will battle Lew Tendler in a return bout.

Matchmaker Tom McArdle of the Harlem-Fairmount Sporting club, has completed his card for Monday night's show. Tony Lyons will hook up with Jimmy Kelly in the feature bout of 12 rounds. In three special six-round contests the pairing will be Carl Duane vs. Charley Hayes, Lew Hurley vs. Bobby Wallace and Sid Terris vs. Joey Silvers.

Benny Valger, the so-called French Flash, claims to have been robbed of the decision in his bout with Jimmy Goodrich at Buffalo Monday. Benny got a draw, whereas he figured on a win. Perhaps Benny can appreciate how the Hartford fans felt after that "fight" he pulled with Jack Lawler last week in the Capitol City.

Sam Tolon, Cuban boxing promoter, who is in New York at present, made Lew Brown, manager of Bobby Lyons, a flattering offer to allow his protege to box two opponents at his arena. Brown states he will accept the bouts if Tolon will post the money here before he and Lyons leave for Cuba. Lyons will take on Rocky Smith at Yonkers Saturday night.

The groundskeeper at Waconah park, Pittsfield, didn't know what to do the other day when he turned up at the field to find it under a couple of feet of water. He donned hipboots, however, and started in to grade the diamond. When he got through he had collected 15 perch and six alewives. Nature will have to be kind to the Hillies if the park is to be ready for the Boosters on the opening day of the season.

Norfolk.—Announcement has been made that the marriage of John F. Dyer, son of Representative and Mrs. William B. Dyer, and Miss Julia E. Finnegan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Finnegan of Salisbury, will take place Monday, April 16, at St. Mary's church in Lakeville.

Phonograph records with an invitation to attend his party were recently sent to friends by a New York man.

THE ACADEMY PLAN.

Following the thorough study which has been given to the question of providing adequate high school instruction for the pupils of Norwich, as the result of the cramped conditions revealed by the Academy trustees at that institution, the recommendation made by the town school board is the logical one, and there are reasons to believe that it will meet with the approval of the townspeople.

This takes into consideration the importance of retaining the excellent educational plant which the town now has in the Academy, an institution established for the benefit of Norwich young people.

The idea of continuing to buy our high school education under most favorable terms, must make its appeal not only to the supporters of the Academy plan but to all who give thought to the good business involved in not attempting to establish and operate a competitive institution.

The committee has been able to get at the facts, and to have them set forth in a much more satisfactory manner than would have been possible had it been attempted at a town meeting, even though there are reasons to believe that Norwich was committed to the Academy plan, because of its manifest advantages from the beginning.

The recommended action, however, calls for a smaller expenditure than had first been contemplated. It will temporarily serve to meet the yearly increase and overcome the crowded conditions, while it will for the most part serve as a permanent enlargement of the institution, with such further additions being left for developments to present as time goes on.

Under the contemplated change the town will continue to get the benefit of the Academy plant and its invested funds. It will be called upon for an increase in its expenditures for high school purposes, but as it does so it will have that high degree of satisfaction of getting it much lower than the average cost in such institutions and at the same time make possible a more successful educational institution.

The committee has rendered conscientious service. The report will unquestionably be accepted and there are reasons for believing as a recognition of good business in educational matters that its recommendations will be followed.

PUT BLAME WHERE IT BELONGS.

The tariff commission hasn't completed its investigation of the sugar situation but it has been at it long enough to determine that the high price of sugar is not due to the tariff, and it has so reported to the president.

Though it may be a surprise to some who have been maintaining for political reasons that it was the tariff that boosted sugar sky high, the report is only what was expected. There has been no good ground for charging the high figure up to the tariff, and those who have relied upon that excuse have been turning the attention of themselves and others from the real causes.

Sugar hasn't been boosted because of the tariff, and it hasn't been advanced because of a legitimate shortage. That the opportunity to boost it, because of a wrongly interpreted report, was recognized seems highly probable, but that the trouble lies with those who have gone about it for the sole purpose of gauging the public is becoming more and more clearly established.

This calls for the disclosure at the earliest possible moment of just where the responsibility lies. If the fault lies with the Cuban interests it should be established. If the cause of it rests with the refiners who also control the raw sugar market it is time it was made known. If the ones back of it are brokers, or speculators, who have made the most of the false view that was created, it should be made disclosed.

It is time to tear away all the masquerades back of which they are hiding and turn the full light of exposure upon the situation. In the meantime the consumers of sugar will contribute to their own welfare by purchasing in no greater amounts than are necessary for current requirements. Such a course is justified under the oft repeated statement that the supply of sugar is such that there is no reason to be driven into a panic of buying at high prices and thus keep playing into the hands of the gougers.

THE ELECTIVE JUDICIAL SYSTEM.

From time to time there are those who want judges of the courts elected by the people, as well as other officials whose duties are of a judicial nature. That would mean the drawing into politics what should be kept just as far from that condition as possible.

How the matter works out is illustrated by the situation in Pennsylvania today. There an effort is being made to obtain a law that would prevent any participation in partisan politics by judges of its courts.

That judges are taking part in partisan politics is evident from this effort. That they are doing so because they owe their jobs to partisan politics is patently evident. The effort to prohibit them from such activity seems to be thoroughly justified in more ways than one, but particularly when judges are acting as ward bosses does it appear to be time to correct conditions.

Just how much respect there can be for courts under such conditions is difficult to estimate. When judges find it necessary to cultivate the good will of political leaders and act as they wish when it comes to the matter of making court appointments it cannot contribute to the confidence in the work of the courts.

Connecticut has maintained that the elective system for judges should not be adopted. Men are selected for fitness rather than because of their politics and if they have ever been identified with partisan activities before appointment, it ceases when they go upon the bench. Keeping the courts free of political influence is far the best for the judicial system.

THE FIRST VETO.

In applying his first veto to the so-called Hubbard bill, Governor Templeton displays his opposition to legislation which is intended to reach one man.

This is a piece of legislation that is by no means new. It has undergone many changes and it has certain good features but the question arises as to whether it would have been brought forward had E. Kent Hubbard not been a member of the board of finance.

At the present time the bill affects no one else. Its purpose is to prevent a person serving as a member of a board of trustees of a state institution and at the same time being a member of the state board of finance. As a trustee of state institutions he has a say in their budget making but he also has a say as a member of the finance board as to what should go to those institutions in which he is interested as a trustee and what should go to those in which he has not that same interest.

If the legislation had no personal flavor, and was dependent upon its merits as a good policy for state business, it could hardly draw any opposition, and quite certain is it that such opposition as it has gained would not have developed but for the one-man feature of it.

THE CHESTER CONCESSIONS.

Just at present it doesn't appear that the situation in the near east has been cleared by the recognition of the Chester claims by the Angora government. There is a possibility, however, that it may be action that will lead to an adjustment of the bigger problems that have prevailed in that region for a considerable time, even though they do not antedate the Chester concessions.

Back in the days when Theodore Roosevelt was president there was obtained from the Turkish government by certain Americans, in which Rear Admiral Chester was interested, the right to construct a railway 1200 miles long from Alexandretta bay to Persia with the right to develop mineral resources and oil fields for 20 kilometers on each side of the line. This meant a path across Asia Minor in which American capital would have been employed long ago but for the series of wars that have involved Turkey.

It is the recognition of an agreement made a score of years ago that the Kemalists have now announced. New difficulties now arise from the fact that in certain respects it conflicts with the manner in which the allied nations have undertaken to cut up Turkey since the World war. They have not given any consideration to the rights granted Americans but seek to appropriate certain portions of that strip of territory to themselves. The British want part of it and the French want part, while there is some which neither seek to obtain.

This country has consistently stood for the open door in Turkey, even in connection with the territory claimed by the respective allied nations. It was emphasized anew at the Lausanne conference by Ambassador Child who maintained that American interests should not be excluded.

Because The Kemalists have recognized the concession to the American interest in that region. It likewise provides the opportunity for the other nations to show new interest. This country isn't in the habit of disregarding American rights, but there appears to be an excellent opportunity for a better understanding all around. The open door is always good.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Joy cometh in the morning with the appearance of daylight.

About the only thing that has been growing much the past several weeks has been wages and the price of sugar.

The blowing up of the canal lock in the Ruhr shows that Germany hasn't forgot how to carry on successful destruction.

What a lot of admiration Mer Rouge and Herrin must be wasting upon each other for the quality of the justice they dispense.

This is the month of the year when the dog realizes how important a place he holds in the family. A new tag means a home for another year.

The date of the first snow storm may indicate the number that can be expected for the season, but there's no such rule in regard to the first fly.

The mystery about the John Dwight has not been cleared up. The finding of bottled ale and cases of Scotch points to the possibility that it was a medicine ship.

The idea of Germany making its last reparation offer to the world and by wireless. What it should do is to get down to business with France and talk it face to face.

Being a philanthropist is admirable, but when it is carried to the limit as in the case of a New York man who gave away so much that he may go to Potters field perhaps a conservator would have done better.

WASTED LABORS

"Oh, Alexander!" cried the pretty coed, smiling bewitchingly, as she met the handsome law student sauntering down the Midway. "How nice that you came back early, too! I am so glad to see you!"

"Are you?" asked the handsome law student, grimly. "What's the trouble? Isn't Cresco Hooker back yet? Can it be that I am the only man here that you know? Why the enthusiasm?"

The pretty coed moved a little closer to his side and buried him a reproachful little glance warranted to kill at ten paces. "Now, Alexander," she began in kind, gentle tones, "I am not going to pretend that I don't know what you mean! But you don't know how it hurts and surprises me to find a man your breadth of character cherishing resentment for this length of time! I am sure that Cresco regards you as a friend and there is no reason——"

"Oh I'll bet Cresco does!" the handsome law student said, grimly. "He ought to love me like a brother!"

"You were so unjust to me just before college closed last June," the pretty coed reminded him, sadly. "You don't realize how terrible your displeasure is, Alexander! You frightened me simply terribly that night!"

"I don't believe it!" the handsome law student declared. "You weren't paying any attention to what I said, anyway! You didn't know there was any one on earth but Cresco! It was not in the least that I was jealous of Cresco; it was merely that my sense of justice was offended! You lamped as you rode away with him! How was I to have known that his flivver and mine got changed about in that fool garage, and they were equally dirty—and after I had worked three hours washing and polishing and oiling and brushing the thing so that I could ask you to go for a ride up steps Cresco, who has been lounging around watching me. He points out extra bad places for me to apply the chamois, says I have done a very good job and he's much obliged, steps in and tootles away! And left me flat with my own muddy car standing where his always stands! And you laughed when you rode past later! What I may have said to you——"

"You can't imagine how I felt, Alexander," the pretty coed told him pathetically, dabbing her eyes daintily as she kept step with his fierce strides. "I didn't sleep a wink all night and I cried, too! You really don't know how a strong personality like yours can terrorize a simple, quiet girl like myself——"

"Aw," said the handsome law student, pleased in spite of himself. "I didn't do a thing to make you feel that way, Viola! Why, I think that a man who makes use of his strength and vocabulary and reasoning powers to frighten a woman is beneath contempt! When I remonstrate with you I——"

"Oh, Alexander!" gasped the pretty coed, round-eyed, "you cannot imagine how handso—I mean how grand you look, standing there so straight and saying those terrible things to me! Even now I can hear those awful words—you called me a flirt and said I was heartless and that I had deceived you. It completely spoiled my whole summer and I haven't had a happy moment, thinking how you misjudged me."

"Don't cry, Viola," begged the handsome law student earnestly. "I had no idea. How was I to know?"

"You should have known," the pretty coed told him, misty-eyed and reproachful." When I felt that we understood each other so wonderfully and everything it was a shock to find that you wouldn't even let me explain!"

"I trust I am not so stubborn, Viola," the law student said firmly. "There didn't seem to be anything to explain, you know, and I couldn't see the joke from Cresco's point of view, naturally, and you seemed to prefer him and——"

"Oh, my, you stupid!" the pretty coed cooed at him, slipping her hand into the crook of his arm in girlish manner. "Cresco is absolutely nothing to me and I had a thousand times rather have gone riding with you and I was laughing at—well, I can't just remember what it was but it was something my sister said before I left the house—and you are just a goose! Why, Cresco is the nicest——"

"Oh, here you are!" said Cresco, stepping around the corner in a hurry. "Come on, Viola, we'll be late! You've been back five days and this is the fifth time we've been late since you came—why, what's the matter with Alexander to run away like that?" a

"Oh my goodness," snapped the pretty coed viciously, putting up her handkerchief and gazing after the indignant departing one, "now I've got it all to do over again! What a life!"

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Charles E. Townsend, who is understood to be the choice of President Harding to succeed Obadiah Gardner, a former member of the United Joint Commission, is, like Mr. Gardner, af ormer member of the United States senate. Mr. Townsend is a product of Michigan, in which state he was born in 1856. After completing a high school education he studied law and began practice in the city of Jackson. His public career began with his election to county office in 1886. Two years later he was chosen a delegate to the republican national convention. For four years he was a member of the republican state committee and in 1902 his sphere of political activity was widened with his election to congress. As a member of the house he became prominent as the author of important railroad legislation, with the result that he was sent to the senate in 1911, where he served until the present year.

Stories That Recall Others

Cause for Worry

A Sunday school teacher was telling the children about the miracle of Christ changing the water into wine at the marriage feast of Cana. One little fellow jumped to the floor, saying: "Oh, that's nothing, my dad made some wine and then changed it into vinegar."

Now dad is worried for fear the boy will get him in bad.

Could Not Fly; Ran

Even great catastrophes, involving the loss of thousands of dollars, and possibly human life, develop their amusing incidents. Following an explosion in an industrial plant, recently, Sam, a colored laborer, was seen "beating it" from the plant almost before the sound of the explosion reached the street. A fellow workman, who had just arrived at the plant, not knowing the cause of the explosion, inquired into the cause of Sam's undue haste.

"Why are you running?" asked the workman.

"Man," replied Sam breathlessly, as he hurried on his way, "I'm running because I can't fly."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Birth of the Unitarians.

Mr. Editor: In the 160 years after the settlement of Jamestown, Va., the people of the land now known as the United States are credited with the production of one book containing an original idea, that book being "The Freedom of the Will," by Jonathan Edwards. The pastor of the 1st Church in Lebanon for about 50 years, at the time that book was brought out and was being read by many, was Dr. Solomon Williams. He took the ground that it was impossible for one man to write out a statement of that which another man knew and believed about God, that is draw up a creed for another man. These influences led that church to adopt and act upon that idea with the result that a large number of people came in to learn about God's will as to the way that men should act toward each other.

About the same as this occurred in many other places.

"By their fruits ye shall know them." Among Dr. Williams' hearers were some of the most active of the opponents to the usurpation of authority by King George III. One was Governor Jonathan Trumbull, the only governor in the thirteen colonies that opposed the king. The doctor's own son was a signer of the Declaration of Independence and was busy all of the time in the obtaining of supplies. Several sons of the governor were hard workers for the cause. Notories have ever been mentioned as living within several miles or nearer than the Rev. Samuel Peters.

Of the committee of five that drew up that most important paper, the Declaration, it is well known that three, Franklin, Jefferson and Adams, did not believe that Jesus was a God or the son in the flesh of God. Of these, Adams and Jefferson became the president. Several others of our presidents have been in the same class. No one can say that Washington or President Lincoln ever accepted or gave assent to any creed.

During the Revolution and the following wars many men became accustomed to a life under authority. In those times a clergy came on who had the type of mind that has a desire for authority. They maintained that the church, that is, themselves, could not maintain a proper discipline over its members under such loose rules and regulations as Dr. Williams allowed. This led to discussions and those bodies of creedless men that came out of it and held their meetings were given the name of Unitarians.

Among the names of those who were classed as Unitarian then are many that will be long remembered, and worth some attention.

A list of the names of a few will be here given. Chief Justice Marshall, Daniel Webster, Edward Everett, Charles Sumner, the historians, Sparks, Parkham, Motley, Prescott, and Bancroft.

The writers E. E. Hale, T. W. Higginson, Thorean Hawthorne, G. W. Curtis and Emerson.

The poets, Whittier, Holmes, Lowell, Bryant and Longfellow.

The well known public women, Lydia M. Child, Maria Mitchell, Julia Ward Howe, Louisa M. Alcott, Mary A. Livermore.

Many of those whose names have been given were noted for their anti-slavery work. In fact, nearly, if not quite all of the abolitionist agitators were not classed among the othordox in religion.

Those years before the Civil war when these men lived and worked may be called the golden age of America for many reasons, howbeit there were then no millionaires and but little gold.

$4,900 SCOUT BUDGET APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

At a meeting of the executive committee, Norwich council, Boy Scouts of America, the report of Treasurer A. E. Story showed a total of $4,974.64 on hand or pledged as a result of the recent campaign and a balance brought forward from last year; $22 additional was reported by Scout Executive F. A. Benton as a result of one mill collection with more to come from others.

The scout executive report showed 15 troops in Norwich and vicinity and more in prospect. The number of Scouts enrolled April 1, 1923, is 316 which is an increase of 75 per cent. since Dec. 31, 1921.

Five of the troops have won the President's Pennant awarded for an increase of 25 per cent. more since Jan. 31, 1921.

President A. L. Peale gave an interesting report of a recent meeting of the regional committee of New England in Boston where he represented the Norwich council.

Connecticut proved to be the best Scout state of the New England states. Two extra field men will probably be assigned to Scout work in the New England states as a result of generous contributions.

By unanimous vote Scout Executive Frederick A. Benton was engaged for the year ending April 1, 1924.

The budget for the year calling for an expenditure of $4,900 was approved.

LOCAL NAVAL RESERVE SHOWING MUCH ENTHUSIASM

The local division of the U. S. naval reserve force which comprises both New London and Norwich now has a total of 17 men and 5 officers. Eleven of these men are from this city and they are as follows: Alfred M. Berry, 18 Hickory Street; Arthur J. Disco, 491 Main Street; Stephen P. Hoffman, 178 Hickory Street; Felix A. Lenkiewics, 302 Boswell avenue; C. H. Lorello, 318 Boswell avenue; Gordon A. Rainey, 111 Hamilton avenue; Edgar J. Robsky, Y. M. C. A.; Peter P. Skindzer, 115 Boswell avenue; Leonard W. Staubley, 17 Russel Road; Walter C. Streich, 19 Elm street; Normand L. Turcotte, 57 Cliff street.

There are also four other men who have been examined and whose enrolments will soon be completed. The Norwich section is far ahead of the New London section, which totals only 6 men.

All but two of the 17 men have drawn their free $80 uniform allowance and the others expect to get theirs shortly.

The dates have been set for the coming training cruises in July and August and it is expected that during the cruise the naval reserves will visit New Haven, Greenport, L. I., Block Island, Jamestown, R. I., Newport, New Bedford, Woods Hole, Vineyard Haven and other popular resorts.

There is at present a campaign under way to try to enrol 35 more men before July 1, and any men enrolled can take the cruise. Arrangements have been made for any men to be examined by the doctor at the submarine base, free of charge and at any time including Sunday. If a man passes he can then be enrolled at the reserve meeting any Wednesday night. The physical examination does not enrol a man but merely makes him eligible if he passes.

Meetings are held regularly every Wednesday evening at 7.30 at the Central fire station. Information will be gladly furnished to any one who wants to attend these meetings.

THE HAPPY PEOPLE

Thanks for the happy people, out of whose gladness springs
The touch of a common comfort, the faith of a mutual cheer;
Thanks for the heart among us that sings and ever sings,
Leading the way with laughter that might have been dark with fear.

Thanks for the happy people, unconsciously spreading afar
The light of their merry spirit, peace of their tender youth;
Thanks for the bright-eyed friendships set like a golden star
Over the roads of duty, lighting the way of truth.

Thanks for the happy people that make of the world they know
A pleasanter place to live in, to toil in and to wait;
Thanks for the smiling natures that give of their gift of glow
A sunshine laden with healing to soften the blows of fate.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Say," objected the regimental chronic kicker, poking his nose inside the supply sergeant's shack, "this hat's too small for me. Every time I laugh it slides off my head."

"Here's one two sizes larger," remarked the sarge, pleasantly. "Try and laugh that off."—American Legion Weekly.

He had reported the theft of his motor car to the police. The inspector put down his pen and frowned.

The Code de la Route, recently put into force, will have to be studied by Americans who undertake to drive automobiles in France. Being very comprehensive, it undertakes to regulate pedestrians and stray animals on the highways, as well as automobiles, but it has automobiles expressly in view. Persons under 18 years of age cannot obtain drivers' permits, except for motorcycles. Every automobile must be equipped with a "sound-muffling system, and the system must be used in agglomération and at intersections."—The Nation's Business.

St. James' palace in London was formerly the royal residence. It was erected by Henry VIII and dedicated to St. James. After the destruction of Whitehall by fire in 1697 it became the chief residence of the reigning sovereign of England, and for that reason the English court was referred to as the Court of St. James. After her accession in 1837, Queen Victoria moved the royal household to Buckingham palace, but until the death of the prince consort in 1861 she held her levees and drawing rooms at St. James.

TELLTALE SYMPTOMS OF WOMAN'S ILLS

Every woman who suffers from backache, headaches, dragging-down pains, nervousness, irregularities, displacements, irritability, or despondency should recognize in such symptoms some derangement of her system which should have attention before some more serious ailment develops. These conditions are often evidenced by a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, insatiude and sleeplessness. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been pre-eminently successful in overcoming such conditions, and it is now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

GAS POISONING FATAL TO THEOPHILUS M. BROWN

Theophilus M. Brown of 17 Stanton avenue was asphyxiated probably during Wednesday and was found dead on a lounge in his home Thursday morning when entrance was made to the house. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve who was called decided that it was a case of accidental gas asphyxiation and that Mr. Brown in passing around the room had brushed against the gas stove in such a way as to open one of the burners without noticing it.

Mr. Brown, who was a widower, lived alone. Persons who looked in through a window Wednesday saw him on the lounge and when the smell of gas was detected Thursday morning Charles H. Gallup of 93 Oneco street, his half-brother, was sent for. Mr. Gallup was able to get into the house through a window and when it was found Mr. Brown was dead the medical examiner was summoned.

Mr. Brown was born in Ledyard, the son of Jeffry Brown and Phoebe Peckham Brown, both of that town. When a young man he married Miss Jennie Holdridge of Ledyard, who died March 31, 1919, aged 56 years. There were no children. Relatives surviving are an only sister, Mrs. Charles W. Grant of North Franklin, and a half brother and half sisters. His mother also survives him.

About 30 years ago Mr. Brown came to Norwich and was in charge of the estate of the late Dr. George C. Harris of the East Side. He entered the trucking business about 25 years ago with Thomas E. Hartley and they were successful.

Mr. Brown was a member of the Loyal Order of Moose and Norwich Lodge of Elks. He made many friends while in business here and was popular in business and social circles in the city.

PARISH MEN CLEARED RUINS OF SACRED HEART CHURCH

The men of Sacred Heart parish, Norwich Town, have proven themselves faithful in assisting Rev. C. W. Brennan in clearing away the ruins of the church which was recently destroyed by fire. Many people visited the ruins on Sunday and were inspired at the sight as practically every man and boy of the parish worked faithfully all day, in spite of the heavy rain which fell that day.

This will save the parish many hundreds of dollars. On Monday, the J. H. Martin Co., through the courtesy of Robert Boisson, gave the use of a double-truck which carried away the debris.

John Hafner also loaned his pair of horses and big wagon for carting away the rubbish.

Father Brennan has the sympathy of the entire community and is at work with plans for a drive, hoping to obtain money which will enable him to start at once to rebuild the church which was totally destroyed. A great many, both Catholic and non-Catholic people, have already guaranteed their support and co-operation.

ELECTRIC CURRENT LEAKED THROUGH BROKEN INSULATOR

General Manager Charles W. Taggart, Line Superintendent N. C. Pierce of the Norwich Gas and Electrical department, with a representative of the casualty company holding the insurance of the company, have discovered that a broken insulator on the pole at Crescent street allowed the current to flow into the cable on the pole resulting in the deaths of Sergeant John H. Kane and Herbert T. Spears on Friday night, April 6th when they touched the cable.

In the test the electric light fixtures were replaced in the same position as when the accident occurred and the power was turned on, lighting the lights on the circuit just as they were on the night of the accident. A testing instrument was used and no leak was found. General Manager Taggart then had the voltage doubled and a test showed a leakage. Investigation disclosed the fact that an insulator was broken.

In speaking of the leakage General Manager Taggart said there might be leakage at the regular voltage through a broken insulator under right conditions. For instance with a certain amount of moisture on Friday night a leakage might have taken place. But when dry it took double the usual voltage to show up the break and leakage. The second insulator on the pole was in good condition.

A test was made also by stopping and starting the trolley car near the pole but nothing resulted and the officials stated that the trolley had nothing to do in the case. The broken insulator was the cause. It was of standard type and it is not known how it came to be broken.

GETTING NARCOTICS ON ALLEGED FORGED PAPER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 12.—Charles R. Noyes of Old Lyme, real estate dealer, about 40 years of age, was taken into custody tonight by Sergeant Frank Howard, charged with violation of the narcotic act. He is held in $1,000 bonds for appearance in police court tomorrow charged with being a fugitive of justice. He will be turned over to Louis Kelly, an officer of the narcotic division of the federal government, and arraigned before the U. S. District court charged with violation of the narcotic law. He was unable to obtain a surety on his bonds and was held to await a hearing.

Noyes, who it is said has been a narcotic addict, for four or five years went to the store of Star Bros., druggists, where he left a prescription which it is said he made out himself and signed with the signature of Dr. H. E. Woodward, of New York, calling for 6 ounces of laudanum. He said he would return in half an hour and get the prescription which he did and was taken into custody by Sergeant Howard. It is said Noyes has been writing fraudulent prescriptions, having them printed in New London and signed with name of Dr. Woodward. The narcotics division made an investigation and found that there was no licensed physician by the name of Dr. Woodward in New York. The matter was taken up with the New London authorities with the result that Noyes was arrested.

SAYS HE SAW TIBBITTS AND TWO MEN WITH AUTO AT TIBBITTS' HOME

Important evidence was brought in Thursday afternoon in the case of the mysterious disappearance of William Tibbitts from his farm on the Fitchville road when Myron Wilcox of Fitchville stated that he had driven by Tibbitts' home about 7.30 o'clock Monday night and had seen a Ford car parked out in front near the fence and saw Tibbitts walking towards the house with two men.

This information was taken by Superintendent Robert T. Hurley of the state police and other officers at work on the case and gives them another clue to work upon. Unfortunately the number of the Ford car was not taken by Wilcox and it is not known who owned the car or who the men were who were seen with Tibbitts shortly before the time of his disappearance.

The two men were seen at Tibbitts' home is taken to be a possible link with the story of Lavarge, fireman at the Auditorium hotel, who stated Wednesday to Constable Sweeney of Fitchville and the local police that there were two men in Tibbitts' wagon when it was driven up and hitched on Water street on Tuesday night somewhere about 9 o'clock.

Falls Woman Heard Automobile.

Another statement which was made to the Bulletin man Wednesday night by a woman living in the Canada district in the Falls also suggests a possible link in the case. According to this woman, she was up in her home about 3 o'clock in the morning Tuesday when she heard an automobile drive by and to her it seemed that it was backed up into a garage. She thought it was a neighbor coming home with his automobile, but the next morning she learned that he had not been out with his car that night. She thought nothing more of the automobile, although she said it was an uncommon thing to hear an automobile going over the back road at that time in the morning, but on Wednesday night after the Bulletin man had found hoof marks of Tibbitts' horse on the road leading to the Falls bridge, which, according to measurements by George E. Pitcher corresponded with those in the yard at Tibbitts' house, she thought perhaps the automobile she heard might have in some way been connected with the mystery.

Think Two Men In It.

A theory advanced Thursday night which was given some credence by the police and Constable Sweeney was that the mystery surrounding Tibbitts' disappearance concerns two men. This theory was advanced on Wednesday night but was not thought of importance at that time. According to this suggested solution of the mystery two men were at Tibbitts' farm and attacked him and loaded him into the wagon, for he would be a heavy man for one man to handle. One of the men then took an automobile to the city and parked it and waited at a known place for the arrival of his companion with Tibbitts' buggy, jumped in and rode into the city. This in itself, if the buggy were seen in Fitchville and in Norwich, would add mystery to the case, and confuse any officers at work on the mystery.

Evidently after arriving in Norwich the two men remained for some time to avoid suspicion and fearing to return toward Yantic on the state road, went over the back road, coming onto the highway near Yantic, this automobile perhaps being the one heard by the woman who gave the information Wednesday night.

All evidence has pointed to the fact that someone familiar with the farm and the habits of Tibbitts is concerned in his disappearance and it would be possible that, if they lived around Fitchville, they might fear that the crime had been discovered, and therefore took a back road to get as near home as possible, before hitting the state highway.

According to the story Wilcox told the officers the Ford car was parked close to the fence in front of Tibbitts' home, near the mail box and was headed towards Fitchville, the men evidently having come from the direction of Yantic.

Trying to Establish Time.

During the day the officers at work on the mystery worked to establish the time that Tibbitts was last seen, and most important of all the time when Leroy Lathrop saw the horse and buggy headed towards Yantic, about a quarter of a mile below the home of Tibbitts. Acting on information by Lathrop the officers followed his trail in Yantic and out to Tibbitts' farm and by their figures he saw the team at about 8.15 o'clock Monday night.

A checkup on the reported time when the buggy arrived in Norwich made it evident that it was between 8.50 and 8.55 o'clock Monday night. These two times would allow about 40 minutes for the buggy to be driven from where Lathrop saw it to Water street in Norwich, and it is stated that this would give sufficient time for the trip.

The mystery which is puzzling the officers is the appearance of the second man in the buggy upon its arrival in Norwich, when only one was in it when Lathrop saw it on the state road. This mystery may be accounted for in the theory advanced by the Bulletin man Thursday night, based on the story of the woman given him on Wednesday.

Another piece of information was given the officers by Peter Nawrocki of Yantic who describes a man he saw Monday night walking on the highway towards the home of Tibbitts. Nawrocki had told of seeing a man on the Fitchville road, when at the Tibbitts home Tuesday night after it had been discovered that Tibbitts was missing, but at that time it was not thought of importance although the description was taken by the men working on the case.

Found Horse Weight.

While looking about the farm Thursday a horse weight was found in a buggy there and identified as the one Tibbitts always carried with him in his buggy. This weight was in the buggy he usually drove and ended any question about the weight being missing. At first it was thought the weight might have been used to sink the body of Tibbitts, if he had been killed. The only thing remaining that could have been used for this purpose is the milk can, still missing, which could have been filled with stones and used for a weight. The can was seen by Lathrop when he passed the wagon near Tibbitts' home but was not in the buggy on Water street, and as yet has not been discovered anywhere between Tibbitts' home and this city.

It was also ascertained Thursday that the bank book of Tibbitts' held at the Dime Savings Bank here, had been missing for several months. Notice of Tibbitts' disappearance had been sent to the bank previously, however, and the fact that the bank book was missing was not of great consequence.

No Money For Hay.

Parties to whom Tibbitts had sold loads of hay on Monday were questioned Thursday and stated that no payment had been made by them, and it was evident that the story of Tibbitts having cashed a check Monday were not substantiated, as no check had been returned to banks bearing his signature.

Sheriff Sidney A. Brown and Jailer Oscar Main were at the farmhouse Thursday morning and aided in the investigation with other officers, and after looking over things Sheriff Brown stated that if murder had been committed the tracks had certainly been well covered. He agreed with everyone when he stated that there still remained much to do to uncover before the mystery could be solved.

Comparatively Little Blood.

A peculiar thing about the blood stains about the house and near the back door is that they are scattered and few in number. An axe found in the shed back of the house had some blood on it and at first it was thought this might have been used to strike down Tibbitts. The fact that there are so few bloodstains seemed to indicate that a murder could not have been used or there would have been more blood.

There is the chance, however, that the blow struck did not make a deep wound and as Tibbitts had a heavy head of hair not much blood flowed from the found made by the axe.

Whether the blood stains in the house and on the axe had been analyzed to determine whether or not they were caused by human blood is not known, as the authorities have made no statement on this point.

Dreams He Saw Tibbitt's Struck.

There is a story that dreams sometimes come true and if this is so perhaps a dream described by a Polish resident of Fitchville might shed light on the mystery. This man, whose name is withheld, tells that he had a dream Monday night, during which he saw a colored man strike Tibbitts on the head with some implement, while the missing man was sitting at the table in the kitchen. The dream continued and he saw Tibbitts and the assailant fight in the kitchen but did not know how the fight ended as the dream died out while the men were struggling together.

This story was not given much credence as newspapers had described what was supposed to have taken place in the kitchen of Tibbitts home on the night of the supposed murder, but the man who told it to the officers evidently told it in good faith for he left his work in Fitchville Thursday afternoon to go down to the farm where the officers were working, and told his story.

Taftville Man Gives Motive.

A Taftville man, George Morse, has sent The Bulletin his explanation of the possible murder. He writes as follows: The William Tibbitts who was brutally murdered at his home in Fitchville, was brother to Mrs. Albert Johnson of 17 North B street. Mr. Tibbitts was a man of wealth and lived a quiet life. He had one of the best equipped farms in the state. He kept considerable money in his house, which was the reason for the murder. He owned considerable property besides his farm. He refused an offer of $30,000 for his farm.

False Alarm of Finding Body.

A report early Thursday afternoon that the body of Tibbitts had been found on the bank of the river near the Canada bridge had the police, medical examiner and an undertaker all hurrying there on the double quick, but it was a false alarm. Before any of the officials could get there, the man who was expected to be the "body" had got up and walked away.

Alfred Johnson, colored chauffeur at the Backus hospital, was the one who started the official wheels revolving. He came across a man lying on the bank of the river and gave him a push with his foot. There was no motion in response and Johnson at once dashed for a telephone to get the word to police headquarters. Officer Charles Smith, who took the message, told Johnson to stay right by the body until the police could arrive. The officer then started for the Falls in the motor patrol wagon, while Chief George Linton notified Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve, who waited only long enough to summon an undertaker before he, too, started for the Falls. Close after the doctor came Joseph P. Cummings in his motor undertaker's wagon, prepared to carry the body to his morgue.

The police machine reached the Falls first, but could find no traces of the body. While Officer Smith was looking around, Dr. Gildersleeve arrived and Johnson was found near by.

When Dr. Gildersleeve found that the supposed "body" had been merely a man asleep on the bank, probably somewhat intoxicated, who had pulled himself together enough to get away before the officials arrived, he said a few impressive things to Mr. Johnson in a sharp-edged manner and the officials returned to the ordinary routine of the day.

REPORT UNFAVORABLE ON DEEPER RIVER CHANNEL

Report was made Thursday to the noon meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce that the board of army engineers is making an adverse report on the Norwich petition for a deeper and wider channel in the Thames river from Allyn's Point to this city. The report was made by Russell Clapp, Jr., chairman of the transportation, who told the directors that this would be the action of the government engineers, although the official report has not been received here yet. As soon as this official report is received, arrangement will be made by the Norwich chamber of commerce for a hearing in Washington.

The directors discussed with the mayor and members of the city council in attendance the enforcement of traffic regulations in the business section of the city. The support and cooperation of the police department was urged in the annual clean-up week, usually held in cities throughout the country the first week of May. The active cooperation of the police department for cleaning up the city of Norwich in its annual campaign was urged upon the commissioners.

The question of the establishment of a civic council for Norwich was considered by the board. Civic councils are very much in vogue in the western states and have proved valuable and effective. This council would be composed of representatives of the various civic and fraternal organizations of the city, men and women, who would discuss matters pertaining to the civic developments of the efforts of the chamber of commerce. In this way and by this method a better understanding of the various projects proposed by any of these organizations would be more effectively brought to the attention of the community, and would be of great assistance in having these various things better understood by the general public. The board will take action on the creation of a civic council at its next meeting.

KEEPS UP INTEREST IN NEWS OF HOME TOWN

Mrs. Lucy A. Sparks, of 24 Fairmount street, recently received a letter from her son, Marton F. Sparks, a diamond setter in Chicago, Illinois. Mr. Sparks has been located in the middle west for the past 20 years and has always been interested in the news from his home town, as the following letter indicates:

Chicago, Ills.,
April 9th, 1923.

Dear Mother: Have just finished reading The Courier that came today and was very much interested in the Porteous and Mitchell facts and faces that adorn one whole page. I can just remember the store as it looked some thirty years ago when The Bulletin Co. had its offices upstairs in the building on the old Post Office hill. The different members of the firm look very natural with the exception of John and Louis Porteous, so I suppose the others were old photos. Robert Braun and John Lee look just the same as they did twenty years ago but the Porteous boys I wouldn't recognize at all.

There is certainly lots of news of interest in The Courier and there's nothing like keeping posted on the doings in one's home town.

Ellis of Bozrah read an interesting paper and there were reports of the home director, Mrs. C. C. Gildersleeve of Norwich, of the White Cross work overseen by Mrs. Charles A. Hagberg, and the report of the director of the World Wide movement given by Miss Mabel Hagberg of Norwich.

WILLARD H. WILLIAMS, sporting goods dealer of Philadelphia, who is often mistaken for President Harding. Mr. Williams, who recently was in bad health, gives Tanlac full credit for his recovery.

"I suffered for years with stomach trouble, but the Tanlac treatment has put me on my feet feeling fine, and I don't hesitate to speak my mind about it," declared Willard H. Williams, 10 S. Fifth St., Philadelphia, well-known and popular dealer in hunting and fishing equipment.

"I suffered so fearfully with indigestion that often the simplest foods caused me terrific pains, and I didn't know what it was to enjoy a hearty meal. My food would not digest and felt like a lump, heavy as a bag of shot, in my stomach. I was forever taking something to try to get relief, but it did no good.

"The best thing I ever did was when I got Tanlac. I can now eat anything, any time, and never have a trace of those awful after effects. I certainly can go on record as a Tanlac advocate."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute.

Over 37 million bottles sold.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Stockholders here of the Connecticut Mills company received statements Thursday reviewing the activities of the big corporation for the fiscal year ending January 6, 1923. These statements set forth that substantial progress has been made in re-establishing the credit of the company and stabilizing its business and affairs.

The consolidated profit and loss statement for the fiscal year shows profit from operations during the period of $878,011.63, and an additional profit of $348,072.38, which represents the advance of the selling price above the value at which the shares were taken in of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber prior preference stock, or a total profit for the year of $726,084.01.

The ratio of current assets to current liabilities at the time of the report was better than four to one, that the total cotton commitments was $280,674.34, and that current assets exceeded by $979,559.41 all liabilities of the company and its subsidiaries, including the two mortgages on the Taunton Cotton Mills company.

The forward business of the company, the statement says, now on the books is sufficient to warrant the belief that the company will operate at a substantial profit during the balance of this year, although the demand for fine fabrics is not believed to have caught up as yet with the capacity of the fabric mills of the country.

At the request of the preferred stockholders' committee holders of second preferred stock are advised that those of them who have deposited such stock with the committee may now withdraw it, surrendering their certificates in exchange.

The public here and hereabouts will be interested in the fact that Hart Franklin Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wood of Academy street, has been elected an assistant professor of English at Brown university. Mr. Wood is but 29 years of age, and probably is the youngest member of presidential rank on the Brown university faculty. He is in the English department at Harvard university as an instructor this year.

Mr. Wood was graduated from the Killingly High school in 1911. From 1912 to 1916 he was a student at Brown university, specializing in English and an active participator in college activities, especially in editorial work. He was editor of the Brown Daily Herald for two years, was elected associate editor in his junior year and managing editor in his senior year. He also was associate editor of Liber Brunensis in his junior year and in his senior year editor-in-chief. He was graduated from Brown in 1916, with final honors in English and history and with the degree of A. B.

From 1916 to 1918 Mr. Wood remained at Brown as an assistant in English, and at the same time continuing his studies. He was awarded his M. A. degree from the university in 1918. In 1918-19 he was elected a university scholar at Harvard university and in 1919 was awarded his second M. A. degree, this time from Harvard and for English. He also was elected a university scholar at Harvard, but resigned to take position as instructor at New York university, where he remained 1919-21, in the meantime continuing his studies at that institution and at Columbia university.

In 1921 Mr. Wood became a member of the English department of Harvard university, serving until the present time. At the same time he has continued his studies and research work, being regularly enrolled as a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in English. He is a member of the honorary scholastic society Phi Beta Kappa, also of Phi Sigma Kappa of Brown and of the Harvard club of Boston.

August 20, 1922, Mr. Wood was married to Miss Helen R. Finch of Sunny Crest, Port Chester, N. Y.

Tuesday evening of next week Mrs. L. E. Kennedy is to have all of those interested in the local chapter of Catholic Women's Welfare council at her home on Furnace street for a meeting, which will be addressed by either Rev. John Roux, M. S., or one of the assistants at St. James' church.

A matter of special interest to be discussed at this meeting will be the new vacation houses, recently purchased by the council, with the approval of Rt. Rev. J. J. Nilan, bishop of the diocese, who will officiate at its dedication to the purposes it is to serve on Memorial day. The vacation house is to be known as Lakeville Manor and is situated on the southern slopes of the Berkshires, in a beautiful setting. It will have accommodations for 100, will be open the year round and will be in charge of a matron.

PUTNAM

This week the king of Sweden made Hamilton Holt, a summer resident of Woodstock, widely known publicist and educator, president of the American-Scandinavian foundation, a Knight of the North Star, for his work in the exchange of 250 students between Sweden and the United States during the past ten years. Mr. Holt already wears the decoration of the the Order of the Sacred Treasure of Japan, the Legion of Honor and Public Instruction of France, the Order of the Crown of Italy, The Order of George I of Greece and the Order of Polonia Restituta of Poland. Mr. Holt is a familiar figure on the streets of Putnam during the summer and early fall months of each year.

The Day Kimball hospital nurses' home fund was enriched $60 and now amounts to $5,700 as the result of revenue obtained at a booth conducted at the recent Moose carnival in this city by Mrs. L. L. Lorrilard of Pomfret. Nurses from the hospital sold flowers at the booth.

It is anticipated that ground for the nurses' home will be broken some time in June. In the meantime an intensive campaign to increase the building fund to at least $10,000 is to be undertaken an deonducted not only in Putnam but in all county towns that have a live interest in and receive real benefits from the hospital.

The projected home is a pressing necessity. At the present time numbers of nurses are obliged to occupy rooms intended for patients. So limited are the quarters provided for the nurses that little rest or proper recreation is possible. Building of the home will relieve this condition.

It is probable that the third week in May will be designated officially in Putnam as Nurses' Home week and every effort made during that period to arouse the interest of the general public in the home and boost the fund to at least $10,000 and as much more as may be possible. It is estimated that the home will cost about $20,000.

Of interest hereabouts is the marriage, on Monday of this week at Holy Name church, 96th street and Amsterdam avenue, N. Y., by Rev. B. G. Farrelly, of Miss Laura Davern of Worcester and Bernard F. Farrell of New York, formerly of Pomfret. The bride is a former resident of the city. Frank A. Leavitt was best man and Miss Lucy Davern of Hartford, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. The wedding breakfast was served at the Hotel Biltmore. Mr. and Mrs. Farrell are now at Washington, D. C., on their honeymoon trip. Both are graduates of Putnam High school. The groom is in the employ of the American Brake and Shoe company.

Loss of a pocketbook containing about $200, and papers making possible prompt identity of the owner, has been reported to the police by a well known business man. The pocketbook is believed to have fallen from the owner's pocket while he was on his way to business from the Church street section of the city. As the owner's name is within the pocketbook there is a possibility it may be returned if in the hands of an honest person.

The organ and song recital to have been given next Sunday at the Congregational church by Kenneth C. Sharpe and John Whitehead has been postponed until Sunday, April 22, it was announced Thursday.

Men of St. Philip's church will be hosts this evening at a social and business gathering of the members of the parish to be held in the Sunday school rooms of the church. It will be an evening of freedom from labor on the part of the ladies, as the men have agreed to take the burden of the work. During the early part of the evening a supper will be served—from 6.45 to 8 o'clock. The rooms are to be specially decorated and there are to be vocal and instrumental numbers during the supper and after it. A business meeting of the church also will be held and the Sunday school and plans for its future discussed. It is hoped to have practically the full membership of the parish at this meeting, which is an important one.

Purchase of the Donohue block site by Stoumbelis brothers makes practically certain that Putnam will have at least two new business blocks built during 1923. Construction of the Putnam Savings bank building is assured and a part of the agreement in the Donahue site sale is that a building shall be placed upon it within a year. As a matter of fact, Putnam may rate itself assured of three new business blocks, for the extensive remodeling being done at the First National bank building will make practically a new building of it, both in appearance and in fact.

And, writing of building operations, the public is still maintaining its interest in what Charles Seder plans to do in improving the Hopkins property which he recently purchased on Main street. Mr. Seder laughingly dismissed the subject Thursday morning when asked about it, but he has not said he has no plans that may not be announced when the time is at hand.

A recent death in West Ashford was that of Nathaniel L. Knowlton, 80, a nephew of General Lyon, first general officer on the Union side to die during the Civil war and whose body now rests in the cemetery at Phoenixville. Mr. Knowlton was born in Ashford May 19, 1843, a son of Abenezer and Eliza (Lyon) Knowlton. Mr. Knowlton had been an officer of the town of Ashford and for three terms represented it in the legislature of the state. He is survived by his wife.

Mrs. M. B. Bradshaw, oldest resident of Eastern Connecticut, will observe her 105th birthday April 30. She is a real daughter of the Revolution, and in following out an annual custom members of Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter of this city will visit her on her anniversary and bring her greetings and and gifts.

Mrs. Bradway is in many ways a remarkable woman and her career is of special interest to all of this section of the state.

Announcement has just been made of the marriage of Mrs. Irene Williams Hathaway of this city and Joseph Sullivan of Danielson. They are making their home in this city, on Maynard street. The marriage too place in July of last year.

Remodeling work is now underway at the Arcanum club's home on South Main street. Carpenters have been so active that the club members for the time being are restricted to the use of one room, but when the work is completed the club will have a fine and comfortable home.

It appears that fox hunters were not effective during the past winter in reducing the number of their quarry in this territory. Many foxes are reported as being seen this spring.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich will be at the hospital next week to conduct one of his periodical clinics in this city.

More than 400 persons recently attended the opening of a new dance hall at Abington.

Miss Josie Grosvenor recently was one of the speakers at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts state convention of chiropodists in Boston.

Lewis W. Thurber, 81, formerly a resident of Putnam, died the past week at Morristown, N. J. He was born in Providence, a son of Stephen G. and Susan C. White Thurber.

Adjutant Daisy Whipple and Captain St. John, Salvation Army officers in charge of the work in Putnam, are under farewell orders, effective April 22. Adjutant Whipple has been in this city the past two years and Captain St. John for a few months.

ENVELOPED IN FLAMES MAN RUSHES TO STREET

Special to the Bulletin.)

Danielson, April 12.—A section of Connecticut Village was thrown into a state of excitement shortly after 6 o'clock Thursday morning when Xavier Trahan, 38, with his clothing aflame, rushed screaming from his home on Wheatley street while the neighbors, attracted by his cries, ran to his aid. Mr. Trahan's clothing became ignited when he was pouring kerosene on the kitchen fire, always a dangerous operation, and as he ran along the street he became like a flaming torch. Henry Lambert, whose daughter Loretta saw Mr. Trahan's awful plight, was one of the first to reach Mr. Trahan and render aid by wrapping such materials as were quickly available around the burning man. Dr. Henry Dixon was called and at once ordered Mr. Trahan removed to the Day Kimball hospital, where he died during the afternoon, the body later being removed to Danielson by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy. This was the second death by burning in Danielson within a few weeks, Mrs. Eli Gaudette having met a similar fate at her home in Union street during the past month.

Mr. Trahan was terribly burned about the face, arms and torso. It was at once apparent that his condition was very serious. Neighbors who had come to his aid had stripped practically what remained of his smouldering clothing from his body. Rev. John Roux, M. S., and Rev. J. H. Shelley, M. S., were very prompt in responding to a telephone call and administered spiritual consolation to Mr. Trahan.

An incident of the terrible happening was the fact that dry grass became ignited from Mr. Trahan's burning clothing and had to be extinguished as it started to spread by the crowd that had been attracted by Mr. Trahan's cries and the general excitement.

Mr. Trahan, who was employed as a woodchopper, leaves his wife and 12 children, and the manner in which he met an untimely death has won the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community for the bereaved ones, several of whom are very young.

Breed Theatre.

One of the greatest racing films ever made is at the Breed theater today and Saturday and should appeal to every person who likes novel and rapid action melodrama in his screen bill of fare. It is called When Romance Rides and is a Benjamin B. Hampton production, released by Goldwyn, founded upon Zane Grey's most widely read novel, Wildfire. Thrill follows thrill in this excellently acted photoplay which boasts a cast including Claire Adams, Carl Gantvoort, Jean Hersholt, Charles Arling, Harry L. Van Meter, Frank Hayes, Tod Sloan, the famous jockey, Babe London, Mary Jane Irving and two of the most wonderful horses which have ever appeared on the screen.

When Romance Rides may be summed up as the most colorful and swift-moving of Zane Grey pictures all founded upon Zane Grey novels and the Zane Grey novels are the most widely read of any author's in the country. The horse race at the rodeo when Claire Adams rides Wildfire in the free for all race to beat the villain at his own game, is almost as good and as thrilling as the real thing.

But the race fades in power before the big climax in which the kidnaped Lucy is tied to the back of a horse by a half-witted man and would have been killed in a plunge over the precipice had not Carl Gantvoort rescued her in the nick of time.

The 11th and 12th episodes of Ruth Roland in The Timber Queen will also be shown and the Pathe News and a Sunshine comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

With the Broadway Theatre.

Some real fine entertainment was had by the large audience at the Broadway theatre yesterday, the Programme consisting of five acts of B. F. Keith vaudeville and a Paramount photoplay.

Dolly Kelly opened with a very good musical novelty.

Calvin & O'Connor, the blackface singing and talking comedians, garnered the laughs.

The Four Dancing Madcaps were immense, featuring in dancing with singing to fill in.

Hal Springford, the female impersonator, went over good.

Zuman & Smith, the flying minstrels, had an exceptional offering that was well taken.

Walter Hiers' first Paramount starring vehicle, Mr. Billings Spends His Dime, was shown for the first time with great success at the Broadway theatre last night. Hiers, in the role of Billings, a necktie salesman, is down on his luck, when unexpectedly he comes in possession of $5,000. He decides to take a vacation, going to South America, where he engages in a revolution filled with thrills, near-assassination and romance. The plot is interesting; the action fast moving, and the acting of the players, notably Jacqueline Logan, the leading woman, is superb.

Miss Logan is featured in support of the star. Others in the cast are George Fawcett, Patricia Palmer, Guy Oliver and Lucien Littlefield. Wesley Ruggles directed the picture, which was adapted from Dana Burnet's story by Albert Shelby LeVino.

At the Strand Theatre.

How would you like to be known as one of the most beautiful girls in Hollywood, Calif., where the world's most beautiful women live? For to be one of the most beautiful women in Hollywood means to be one of the most beautiful in the world.

For Singed Wings, his new production for Paramount featuring Bebe Daniels and Conrad Nogel, Penrhyn Stanlaws, the director, demanded "twelve of the most beautiful girls in Hollywood."

Great care was exercised by his assistants before the twelve beauties were finally chosen. In addition, they had to go under the critical eye of Mr. Stanlaws, himself a famous artist and excellent judge of beauty.

Unusual beauty, not only on the part of the girls, but also in their costuming, was necessitated by the big ballroom set in which they took part for a scene in Singed Wings. This big set was so massive and so impressive that it was necessary that those in it be equally impressive and beautiful. In addition, Miss Daniels, in the moth costume created for her presentation of The Moth Dance, added more beauty to the scene, which is easily one of the most picturesque ever photographed for the screen. Singed Wings comes to the Strand theatre today. The story is thrilling.

Perhaps no series of short stories in modern fiction have proved more popular than H. C. Witwer's Fighting Blood stories, which appeared originally in Collier's Weekly. One of these stories will occupy the screen of the Strand theatre for two days beginning today. Each Fighting Blood story has a three-fold appeal; Romance, action and humor, all of which are of equal importance, in the development of the picture.

A news weekly is also included in the bill.

Bradley Theatre, Putnam.

The following from a Boston paper tells something of how Shuffle Along, an attraction that will be at the Bradley theater in Putnam next Monday evening, April 16, was received in New England's largest city:

Shuffle Along: A musical show well known to Boston theatregoers, written, arranged and produced by Miller and Lyle, Sissle and Blake, returned to the Arlington theatre last night for a two weeks' stay. The cast includes: Russell Smith, Louis Schooler, Bessie Allison, Pauline Peyton, Paul Bass, George Myrick, Joe Purcell, Elizabeth Campbell, Dink Stewart, Harold Alexander, George Duke, Chick Fisher, Jenny Day, Ira Green, Anita Alexander, Amy Estes, Ruth Lambert, Marie Rich, Charley White and chorus of 30 easy-to-look-at precise stepping maids.

Shuffle Along may be called, if you choose, an Afro-American Follies. It is a high spirited frolic of song and dance, with an occasional episode of conversation, and it gives a copious exhibition of the range of talents which find colored entertainers in their happiest manner.

HOUSE OVERRIDES VETO OF GOVERNOR TEMPLETON

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hartford, April 13.—By a vote of 169 to 48, the house of representatives overrode the veto of Gov. Templeton on the so-called E. Kent Hubbard bill. Republicans voted with the democrats in support of the veto.

The vote was divided as follows:

One hundred and fifty-five republicans and 14 democrats voted to pass the bill over the governor's veto while 28 republicans and 20 democrats voted to sustain his veto.

Soon after the opening of the house this morning, the bill was called from the table by House Leader Buckley. A short discussion was provoked. An amendment to the bill was offered by Mr. Dunham of Wethersfield, but it was ruled out of order by the speaker, who decided the sole matter before the house was "shall the bill be passed, the veto of the governor notwithstanding."

Mr. Buckley made the longest speech of the session. The discussion was participated in by Buckley of Union, Fenton of Windham, Southwick of Cornwall, Bell of Salisbury, Dunham of Wethersfield, Talcott of Vernon, Meech of West Hartford, Burnside of Washington, Faulkner of New Haven, Alling of New Britain, Mallory of Derby and Kelly of Colchester.

The previous question was called for by Mr. Alling of New Britain, Mr. Buckley making the closing speech in favor of the bill. The vote was by roll call and resulted in the bill being passed by a vote of 169 yeas and 48 nays over the governor's veto.

The house was called to order at 11.15 by Speaker Nickerson and prayer was offered by the chaplain who made touching reference to the death of Representative Hungerford of Watertown.

Unfavorable to Volstead Law Change

Unfavorable report was made on the resolution introduced by Senator McGrath petitioning for a modification of the Volstead law and it was rejected.

Unfavorable reports were made on bills relating to building and loan associations and bills concerning civil rights as it was stated that there was sufficient law now on the subject.

The bill for a normal school at Waterbury, making an appropriation for the same was rejected, as was the bill providing for the appointment of nurses and matrons in public schools.

The governor transmitted reports from the board of education, state prison and public records.

Bills rejected concerned, designating the high school to which pupils may go, concerning salaries of state's attorney inn Fairfield county; concerning the commitment of children; concerning non-resident tax transfers.

The bill concerning the planting of shade trees on trunk highways came back from the senate amended so that the future maintenance should be by the highway department and was tabled.

All bills favorably reported were tabled for calendar and printing. A resolution was passed in concurrence with the senate, restoring forfeited rights to Doctor Sleeper of Hartford.

The penalty inflicting a penalty on towns for not furnishing transportation for pupils was rejected as it was the opinion of the committee that the towns had enough to bear without inflicting further expenses.

No matters were taken from the calendar. The house adjourned at 1.37 till Tuesday next at 11.15.

The senate calendar matters ready for action this morning numbered 43, the matters thereon not being reached yesterday. The house calendar contained eleven bills starred for action, making a total of 54.

SENATE.

Among calendar matters passed were bills allowing fishing in Alexander's Lake, Killingly, on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, imposing a state tax on tickets of admission to theatres, etc., the rate being one-half of the federal tax and providing that no tax shall be levied on ten cent admissions and exempting entertainments for the churches, educational and charitable purposes and authorizing the tax commissioner to collect the tax; to prevent the sale of the flesh of calves when the carcass weighs not more than 55 pounds; including in the trunk line system the highway between Windsor Locks and the village of Warehouse Point; authorizing the town of Sharon to issue bonds to the amount of $60,000; concerning pleadings of civil cases; empowering the tax commissioner to extend the time for the payment of the penalty tax and imposing a penalty of 2 per cent. for delayed payments; exempting from taxation deposits in a bank in another state; concerning the imitation of registered insignia; authorizing the J. H. Whittemore company to increase its capital to $800,000; approximating $10,000 to supply a deficiency in the appropriation for the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station for the suppression of the gypsy moth.

Reports of Committees.

Railroads: Favorable on substitute bill incorporating the New Haven and Shore Line Railway company.

Incorporations: Favorable on bill incorporating the Hartford Guarantee, Mortgage and Title company and naming U. G. Guthrie, F. M. Cramer and C. W. Cramer, all of Hartford, as incorporators; incorporating the Mount Sinai Hospital association of Hartford for the purpose of maintaining a hospital and providing for a board of directors of fifty persons. Calendar.

Trinity College Tablet.

Senator Brooks explained the bill authorizing the trustees of Trinity college to erect a memorial tablet on the east side of the entrance to the capitol. Senator Brooks said that Trinity college would observe its centennial next June. The college formerly stood on the site of the state capitol. The bill was passed.

To Supersede Public Utilities Commission.

A petition was received from Thomas Ormond and others from Bridgeport for the enactment of a law creating a court of public service relations, the court to consist of one elector to be elected from each congressional district. The court of public service shall have and exercise all the powers now exercised by the public utilities commission. The petition is signed by twenty-one persons.

Adjournment was taken until Tuesday at 11.15.

Counter-claims in Collision

Roy R. Koch of East Lyme and Joseph Tomko of Boswell avenue arrived at the police station Wednesday night with reports of a sideswipe automobile accident between their cars on the New London-Norwich highway that night at point near Trading Cove in the town of Montville. The cars were going in the opposite directions and the statements of the drivers were conflicting. Koch, whose car suffered damage to wheel and fender, charged the other man with reckless driving, while the Norwich man claimed the East Lyme car ran into his rear end. The case will probably come before a Montville court.

THE DECLINE IN THE RURAL SECTIONS.

(Written Specially For The Bulletin.)

Did you notice this little item in The Bulletin, the other day?

"Sixty-nine towns in Connecticut, chiefly in the rural sections, have lost 12,629 in population since 1910, according to a survey made by the state board of education in its monthly publication, Connecticut Schools."

"Chiefly in the rural sections," you betcha! That's where the population is decreasing now, as it has been for many years. There's nothing new in the movement. It's not a fresh development. It's just a repetition of an already old story.

Grandfather cleared up and fenced the farm and made enough of a living off it to raise a dozen children. Father inherited it and left it mortgaged to his descendant. That son turned his back on it before even he had attained his majority and went off to the city to earn bigger wages—and spend them all on tucked-up hall bedrooms and stale boarding-house food and swagger clothes from bargain sales and the chance to rub elbows with Tom, Dick and Harry on the sidewalks or dance with Maggie and Mollie at cheap dance halls.

According to one often quoted proverb, "You can't expect old heads on young shoulders." According to another, "Youth must have its fling." According to Boyle O'Reilly, "The worst is made when a man is born." You pays your money and you takes your choice. Or, as the old Negro hymn had it of the different roads:

"Oh, some goes east and some goes west,
Yon packs de one you likes de best;
You'll wish you'd made yer choice of any of de rest!"

These are the teachings of experience, and there is small use and no profit in gainsaying them or even ignoring them. Indeed, they will not be ignored. They force themselves upon the attention, willy-nilly. Such items as the one quoted are not unusual or rare. That they are not printed every day in every paper of the land is because the facts are so common and so manifest that, like the sunrise, they cease to hold that quality of novelty which is essential in "news."

It has been so for many years in this country. The drift from country to city has aroused the attention of cartoonists and the fears of moralists for certainly a generation. Books have been written about it and eloquent orators have denounced it and pleaded for a change. We listen to them and shake our heads in grave disapproval of the movement.

And that's all the good it does.

I can easily remember how once, when I was younger and had garnered less experience and found less wide opportunity for observation, I also mourned over this abandonment of the farms and the consequent turgescence of the city. I even hoped that something might be said or done to reverse the tide. But, as I have said, that was when I was younger and had a confidence in the intelligence and reasonableness of human nature which wider experience has sadly diminished.

Some years ago, a rather free-spoken southern congressman, angry over what he regarded as the crass mismanagement of his party leaders, summed up his disgust in the vigorous phrase: "Here we go, d—n our fool souls; somebody head us!" Which not inaptly states the feeling of really thoughtful men at the present "away-from-the-land" movement.

But what are we going to do about it? What can we do about it? King Canute may very well have been more intelligent than the Atlantic tide, but he couldn't stop its flood. He was not only a man but a king and a statesman. He had brains. He had ability. He had will-power. The Atlantic tide had none of these lordly characteristics. But it rose to its appointed height, just the same, despite his majesty's prohibition.

So, in the matter of rural depopulation, moralists may mourn, and political economists may expostulate, and statesmen may shiver with invidious apprehension. That's all it will amount to. The movement will go right on—till it reaches the limit where something cracks or bursts.

This may be regrettable. In fact, it is highly regrettable. So was the San Francisco earthquake. That seismic disturbance, however, was not within control of human intelligence or foresight. This farm-abandonment craze is equally uncontrollable. Its hidden springs are deep in that mysterious agglomeration of greed and folly which, rightly or wrongly, we mean when we speak of "human nature." Not only is it nothing new in our generation, it is nothing new in the history of the world.

From these earliest beginnings of national life recorded on the buried bricks of Babylon and Nineveh, the same history has been told. Over and over again the world has seen the same circle traversed. Over and over again the historian has pieced together the same scarcely varying plot for his tales. They all begin the same way: go on the same course; end up in the same ditch. A frugal, hard-working, simple-living people, by virtue of those very characteristics, grow slowly to power. Having attained it, they grasp after luxury and ease and make wealth their god. Whereupon their empire begins to slump. And great has always been the slump thereof.

The Persians were lords of the world, so long as they maintained their original characteristics of simple living, hard fighting horsemen. When, by the exercise of these very qualities, they had made themselves masters of the palaces of Chaldea and Assyria and set out to emulate the easy effeminacy of those cities, they began to degenerate and their end was not far off. The Roman empire was founded and made mistress of the world by soldiers to whom a block of wood was a pillow and a square of black bread a feast. But when the spoils of their arms had filled Rome with the latest triumphs of oriental luxury the decline of the empire began. And its fall was not long delayed. Spain conquered and remained master of Europe till her Mexican and Peruvian galleons, freighting home annual shiploads of looted gold, had changed her population from sturdy countrymen to bejewelled and labor-shirking Dons.

These are simply outstanding illustrations of the most unvarying fact of history—the fact that nations have invariably grown to power by the exercise of simple manly virtues, and as invariably fallen when they have allowed those virtues to deliquesce into effeminacy and the pursuit of wealth and luxury as final ends. That's the way "human nature" has acted for at least five thousand years. That's the way it's acting now. We're treading the same primrose path which has led most of our predecessors to the abyss. Are we going to pursue it, regardless, till we reach the same brink? I don't know; you don't know; no one on earth knows.

But we do all know, if we are capable of knowing anything, that neither arguments nor expostulations nor warnings nor threats can stop the movement. Nothing can be effectual to that end but a fiat of the Almighty. Whether or no that fiat will ever be issued is one of the unrevealed secrets of His councils. While there is life, there is hope. That is the one thing permitted us.

In the meantime, we do not have to give up the ship so long as she floats. Even if the rats flee from her, that is no excuse for men to abandon her, so long as her guns can be worked.

Forty years ago a young immigrant from Europe landed in this country. He struck out into the farm-lands. He worked hard, finally bought himself a farm, married and reared a family of bright-eyed, clean-faced boys and girls. One of the lads was helping get out manure from my barnyard, the other day. We talked of various things, and finally I asked him what he was going to do with his life. His answer was hesitant at first, but bluntly emphatic at the end. "I don't just know," he said, slowly, "but I'm not going to be a farmer." This last clause came out with vigor. There was no shade of doubt in it. It was manifestly the expression of a fixed determination. Did I argue with him, or attempt to alter his ideas? Not on your life! I'd as soon have thought of arguing with a hitching post or attempting to alter the course of a cyclone. Nor did he ask advice or opinion or comment. You see, the bug has bitten him, and the poison must run its course. He is just one more of the many represented by the 12,629 in Connecticut's 69 towns "chiefly in the rural districts."

Nevertheless, the hopeful soul may see one ray of consolation. The more there are who flock to the city's white ways, abandoning production to become consumers, the greater grows the chance that, at last, the uneven balance of population may bring to the farming remnant a position of greater power for its own advantage. When consumers have increased and producers decreased to such an extent that the producers can't quite supply the demands of the consumers, then those producers will be in position to make and enforce such a readjustment of prices as will, for the first time in a generation, return them fair pay for their labor. If the market calls for three bushels of potatoes and there are only two bushels to be had, the price of those two bushels is going to be more than the price of three would have been. If demand is greater than supply, prices will be bid up by insistent consumers. When there isn't enough to go round is the seller's golden opportunity.

If we sometime get to that point when there are millions in the cities for only thousands left on the farms, those millions, who must have what the farms produce or starve to death, will be eager to pay such prices for food as may make food-production once more a desirable and profitable occupation.

And that is a consummation devoutly to be wished. If it is actually effected by the steady flow of luxury-loving youth to the cities then it will be another case where Providence turns a bad action to a happy result. He sometimes makes the folly of men praise Him. Perhaps this is going to work that way. There are several tricks still up the future's sleeve. There's no use or sense in giving up the game till all the cards have been played. Nobody knows who'll have the most blue chips at the end.

How anyone can intelligently read history, or shrewdly watch present trends, without feeling himself irresistibly pushed towards pessimism, I can't see. At the same time, so inconsistent and self-contradictory is our nature, no one who believes that "through the ages one increasing purpose runs" can fail to feel his unconquerable optimism rising up against the bludgeonings of facts.

All the same it's too bad that the Prodigal Sons of the Twentieth Century can't somehow be got to appreciate the difference between a fatted calf and the husks which swine eat, without having to live on those husks just to learn their taste.

THE FARMER.

JEWETT CITY

Much interest attached to the welfare of the financial status of the borough of Jewett City, when it is noted, as told in Thursday's Bulletin, that the House of Representatives has authorized the borough to issue $50,000 in bonds, bearing interest not to exceed five per cent. The money received is to be expended in the payment of present floating indebtedness.

It is to be said that this action may and does apply to long term notes. A few facts taken from the report of E. M. Gray, treasurer of the borough, shows the borough debt to be as of Jan. 9, 1923, $123,682.60. Of this amount $45,000 is in funding of electric light bonds. The $50,000 long term notes will furnish collateral to fund the $88,875 of floating debt which is payable to the Jewett City Savings Bank in the sum of $57,275.06 and the Jewett City Trust Co., in the sum of $1,600. The borough is paying the regular loan rate of interest of 6 per cent. on its floating debt.

It was believed in financial circles Thursday, that it is practically certain that the proposed issue can be floated at 4 and one half per cent and sold at par.

Jewett City will float a bond issue at a lower rate of interest than is being paid to the two local banks for $88,875 that Jewett City owes them.

The fire department was called out at one o'clock Thursday afternoon for a bad grass fire in the rear of A. R. Young's home on South Main street. The firemen laid a few hundred feet of hose, and stopped the flames in a few minutes. No damage except a few feet of fence destroyed.

Work on the Blanchard and the Maynard blocks is being rushed these pleasant days. A full force of workmen is on each job.

Wrist watch owners in the borough breathed sighs of relief, Thursday morning when The Bulletin told the news that the daylight vs standard time bill had been defeated in the legislature. Had it become a law all wrist watches would have had to show standard time. Otherwise it would have been daylight time wilfully disobeyed and the wearers would have been subject to $100 fine for violation of the law.

Many of the lawns in the borough are showing a fine coloring of green, and a lawn mower was seen in a local shop for repairs.

The other day two men riding to Norwich on the trolley remarked that the sun shone in first one side and then the other and later the light came in straight in front. One man claimed that on a trip from Norwich to Jewett City, the car would head at all points of the compass. Later, to decide the matter, a compass was procured and placed on the window sill, and sure enough, there is a point below the tunnel curve, where the car was running north.

Cornelius F. Lee, 60, died at his home in Lisbon on Thursday morning, after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Lee was born in Griswold August 5, 1862. He was the son of Thomas and Julia Murphy Lee. He was married nineteen years ago in Worcester and his wife survives him. He also leaves four brothers, John of Lisbon, Dennis of Jewett City, James of Plainfield and William of Waterbury.

The Missionary Society of the Congregational church met at Mrs. G. W. Robinson's home on Thursday afternoon. An Easter service was used for the opening exercise. Mrs. E. H. Hiscox read an Easter story and Mrs. E. A. Faust also read several short selections. Mrs. Alex McNicol reported over forty-four dollars as the result of the recent food and apron sale. Miss Helen Hull was appointed delegate to the annual meeting of the Home Missionary Union to be held in Hartford on April 25th. It was voted to send sixty dollars equally divided to the Home and Foreign societies, which goes towards the church apportionment.

Half of this sum entitles the society to a life member in the foreign society and Mrs. F. E. Robinson was made a life member. Mrs. A. H. Vaughn has consented to give a talk on the Passion Play which she witnessed at Oberammagan, and the third of May was set as the date. This will take place in the church vestry, so that the public may enjoy the talk. Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Faust are the committee. The next meeting will be in charge of Misses Adams and Hull and will be held at their home.

The Truth About Eczema and Piles

"Thousands and thousands of people," says Peterson of Buffalo, "are learning every week that one 35-cent box of Peterson's Ointment will abolish eczema and banish piles, and the grateful letters I receive every day are worth more to me than money."

"I had eczema for many years on my head and could not get anything to stop the agony. I saw your ad. and got one box and I owe you many thanks for the good it has done me. There isn't a blotch on my head now and I couldn't help but thank Peterson, for the cure is great." Miss Mary Hill, 420 Third Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I have had itching piles for 15 years and Peterson's is the only ointment that relieves me, besides the piles seem to have gone." A. B. Ruger, 1127 Washington Ave., Racine, Wis.

NEW LONDON POLICE ARE TRACKING DOWN DRUG FIENDS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 12—Within a few days it is expected that one or more arrests will be made here of addicts of narcotics for it is known that the authorities are at work on a case whereby their work is likely to result in arrests being made. For some time past it has been known that some of the local drug stores were using a quantity of morphine greater than is ordinarily used and the investigation which followed revealed that a man has been obtaining morphene and in small quantities from two or more druggists. The narcotic was obtained through the tendering of a forged prescription, an old trick used by the addicts.

The use of the forged permit in New London is something new in the way of adopting a method to obtain the drug for heretofore the addict has picked out the dental establishments that would be most easily entered and without chances of being observed and morphine stolen from the shelves of the place.

There have been hundreds of drug fiends in Hartford and New Haven the past few months, where they obtained the drug either from druggists or from "dope" peddlers, and it is believed that the police of that city have kept such a watchful eye on the addicts that some of them are migrating to other Connecticut cities, which fact accounts for the appearance in New London of the fiends.

Sneak thieves are operating once again in New London and this afternoon they were rewarded by making a hauling in the lodging house at No. 2 Union street where they obtained several diamonds and clothing. The theft was committed in broad daylight and it is believed that the thieves had knowledge of the movements of occupants of the place for they made a clean search of the house and removed everything of value.

The thieves evidently knew where the plunder was to be obtained for they went to the room of Patrick J. Scanlon, a waiter at the Hotel Winthrop restaurant and from there they took a lady's wrist watch, a diamond ring, bearing the emblem of the Loyal Order of Moose, a horseshoe diamond ring, tuxedo suit and a pair of trousers and vest of a full dress suit. Scanlon was absent from 1 until 7 o'clock, making the discovery of the burglary when he returned at the latter hour and reporting it to the police.

Peter Maher, former heavyweight fighter, and who spent several months in New London this winter when he was watchman at the state pier, is now holding down a similar position at Pier No. 3, New York.

Courtland Brown, a former member of the New London police and state police departments, and latterly employed as special agent in New London as special agent for the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, is now employed as watchman aboard the steamer Texan, which was recently salvaged by the Merritt-Chapman-Scott company, the steamer having grounded in a fog in the sound.

The Merritt-Chapman-Scott company was awarded the contract today by the city of Norwalk to erect a large municipal wharf there. The wharf will be a structure of goodly dimensions and work will be started upon it at once, for it is desired to complete the project prior to the government dredging of the channel at a cost of $212,000.

James Breitwieser of Brooklyn, New York, died at his home Tuesday. Mr. Breitweiser was father of Mrs. James J. Gilmartin of Colman street, New London and she is in Brooklyn to attend the funeral.

The condition of William E. Greene, who has been confined to his home on Bellevue place by illness over a month, has improved to such an extent that the patient is now able to sit up for a short time daily. It will be some time yet, however, before he is able to take out of door exercise.

Thieves continue to operate at Ocean beach, but as usual they obtain little or no plunder for their work. Last night thieves visited the cottage at No. 25 Boardwalk, forcing an entrance to the place, but they went away without getting anything of value because the last occupants of the place moved practically all of the furnishings. Entrance was gained by forcing one of the doors. The cottage is owned by Senator Frank B. Brandegee.

New London lodge of Elks held its first meeting of the year with its new officers in the chairs last evening. The attendance was large and the interest manifested was such as will keep the attendance at a high figure.

Several shopmen who went on strike a year ago have returned to the employ of the New Haven railroad in this city. Some ten of them are said to have returned to the shops at Groton, where repair work is being done.

Changes in the police beats caused by the absence of patrolmen by reason of sickness has brought some of the best officers on the force to the business section, and they were tonight patrolling the streets in the center of the city.

House hunters say that desirable tenements are as scarce as ever in New London. They claim there are many undesirable places for rent but that homes with modern conveniences are not to be had and that rents are quite as high as they have been.

County Sheriff Brown returned from Norwich this evening, where they spent the day in searching for evidences that would unravel the mysterious death of William Tibbitts of Fitchville.

Patrolman George Labour, who has been off duty several days, being confined to his home by an attack of grip, resumed his patrol on the Bank street beat this evening.

Complaint has been made to the police because of the reckless manner in which autoists speed their cars on the concrete highway north of Mohegan avenue on Williams street. It is alleged that autoists make a practice of using this excellent highway as a place to "try out" their machines and in doing so they speed the cars at a rate of from 40 to 60 miles an hour. With the motorcycle officers being assigned to duty within a short time the autoists who use the Williams street concrete for a speedway will find themselves facing charges in the police court.

Leighton E. Barrett of No. 249 Montauk avenue and Miss Edna Luce, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Whitman of No. 146 Green street, were joined in wedlock yesterday afternoon, the ceremony occurring at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride, and was performed by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church in the presence of relatives and intimate acquaintances of the contracting couple. Ernest Barrett of Waterford, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Beth Wheeler, an intimate friend of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. Following a reception at which the couple received the well wishes of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Barrett departed upon their wedding tour.

After an absence from automobile thieving in New London for many weeks, the perpetration of the crime was renewed last night when a set stole a Buick sport car from the garage of Lieutenant Commander L E. Deerfield, stationed at the submarine base, at No. 36 Nathan Hale street. The theft was not discovered until hours afterwards, so it is probable that the thief has managed to many miles from New London with the machine.

Lieut. Com. Deerfield placed his machine in the garage about 9.30 o'clock last night and during the night the thief forced a window and then smashed the lock of the garage, allowing the machine to be rolled to the highway, where the engine was started and the auto driven away. Lieutenant Commander Deerfield did not discover the theft of the machine until 9 o'clock this morning when he went to the garage intending to drive to the submarine base when he found the garage door ajar and the garage vacant. The police were notified of the theft as were the authorities throughout the state, including the state police at Centerbrook.

A. S. Moseley, U. S. N., of Fort Worth, Texas, and Miss Virginia Oddo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Oddo of No. 29 Shaw street, were married last evening, the ceremony being performed by Rev. William Fitzsimons at the rectory of St. Joseph's church.

Mrs. Mary J. Chester, widow of Ira Chester, died last night at her late home, No. 36 School street, Groton. Mrs. Chester was of advanced years and had been in ill health some time. She is survived by a daughter, Miss Eva Chester.

William A. Fiske, a well known resident of Niantic, died this morning, following a several weeks' illness.

An automobile, owned and operated by George Nichols of Broad street extension and a motor truck, owned by the Thames River Lumber company and driven by Alphonse Martin, collided on Rosemary street this morning. The Nichols car sustained the greater damage, which was not extensive.

Mrs. Harriet Beckett, of North Stonington, Miss Bessie Keeley of Main street and Warren Hotchkiss of Winthrop street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

William T. Strickland, of No. 152 Willetts avenue and formerly employed as special delivery clerk at the New London post office, died this noon of appendicitis. He was about 30 years of age and is survived by a wife. Mr. Strickland had not enjoyed sound health for some time and recently his malady was pronounced to be appendicitis. An immediate operation was deemed necessary and the victim was removed to the hospital, where the operation was performed earlier in the week. Septic poisoning had developed, however, and the patient's condition gradually grew worse until the end.

Another grass fire threatened the destruction of property this afternoon when a grass fire, presumably started by youths, ignited the barn of George Sagan at No. 478 Ocean avenue. A still alarm caused the Pequot Hose company and the Niagara Engine company to respond.

Patrick Powers, aged 53 years and employed by the Robert Gair Company at Montville, died at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital this morning of blood poisoning, the result of sustaining severe burns by being scalded at his employment a fortnight ago. Powers made his home in Uncasville, but he originally belonged in either Brooklyn or New York.

On March 28th Powers sustained his burns and he was treated by Dr. Donohue at Powers' lodging house. Powers' condition did not improve and the blood poisoning finally developed resulting in Powers being transferred to the hospital last Sunday. His condition did not improve at the institution, but instead slowly grew worse, the end coming today.

While Edmund C. Wylie slumbered in his apartment at No. 155 Broad street this morning, his brother, Charles Wylie, awakened by an attack of the heart and unable to summon aid, died and it was only when the former woke and attempted to arouse his brother that it was revealed that Edmund Wylie had succumbed to heart disease, a malady from which he had suffered some time, but never had obtained medical relief. Mr. Wylie was 68 years of age and was formerly employed as bookkeeper at the Hotel Mohican, but he had been employed latterly as checker at New London for the New London-Hartford bus line.

Mr. Wylie retired as usual last night, sleeping with his brother. He was not in a complaining mood and was soon asleep. As the night progressed he was awakened by the old affection and died almost immediately. When Edmund Wylie arose and his brother failed to be aroused by talking to him, an investigation revealed that he had died.

Mrs. H. Stennett Rogers has built the smallest block in the city on Bank street. It is about 10 feet wide and a very little deeper, and is located near the corner of Bank street and Tyler Square. The structure is of brick and it is understood it will be used for a cigar store.

John Shea was found last night by Police Sergeant Hick, so drunk that he could not get his legs under him. Shea had fallen and sustained a bad cut near the left ear. He was kept in the police station during the night and today was released on his promise to go to his work and abstain from indulgence in what is sold for liquor in this city.

Changes are being made in the interior of the Elks' clubhouse that will add to the conveniences arranged for the members. A partition that separated the pool room from the cafe has been removed and on the main floor alterations are also being made.

The temperature this morning registered 32 degrees, which is considered very cold for the middle of April.

Mr. Carter lived at Gales Ferry and Brown's Crossing during the World war, and he was in Y. M. C. A. work at the submarine base during that time. Rev. Mr. Carter also interested himself in the work of the M. E. church of the village, where his family were regular attendants. Rev. Mr. Carter went from Gales Ferry to assume the pastorate at Attawaugan, where he is still retained, which is of interest to his friends at the Ferry.

Reduce Those Dangerous Swollen Veins

Doctor's Recent Discovery Also Heals Boils, Carbuncles, Abscesses, and Open Sores in a Few Days.

Physicians are prescribing and hospitals using a new and harmless, yet very powerful germicide that not only causes enlarged or varicose veins and bunches to become normal, but also reduces goitre, enlarged glands and wens.

Ask any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not produce the results anticipated, you can have the price refunded.

It is not wise for anyone to allow swollen veins to keep on enlarging. Often they burst and cause weeks of pain, suffering and loss of employment. Start the Emerald Oil treatment as directions advise and improvement will begin at once. Your druggist can supply you.

COULD NOT SLEEP OR EAT FOR DAYS

WINCARNIS Was the Only Thing That Seemed to Do Mrs. Hendon Good

"Before taking Wincarnis, I was completely run down. My nerves were in an awful state. I also had indigestion so badly that gas would form around my heart, causing it to palpitate. I could neither eat nor sleep for days at a time. I took a small bottle of Wincarnis and it seemed to do me good, so I bought a large one and within a week I began to feel much better. I started to sleep and eat much better, and my nerves gradually grew. After taking three bottles, I felt better than I had for years. Wincarnis is certainly a wonderful tonic."

Day's total sales, 726,000 shares.

Twenty industrials average 101.71, net gain .52. High 1923 105.33; low M.I.E.

Twenty railroads averaged 86.39, net gain .01. High 1923 90.65; low 84.52.

MARKET GAINED STRENGTH

New York, April 12.—Today's stock [illegible] irregular, turned dull [illegible] easure on [illegible] then strengthened materially in response to a buying demonstration in rubber independent steel and a few selected industrial specialties in the last hour. Other financial and commodity markets also showed an improved tone, wheat, corn and sugar prices amounting to new high records for the year while cotton opened strong but forfeited a good part of its gain before the close.

Failure of the averages to break through their lows of last week and the relatively small amount of forced liquidation resulting from the recent professional attacks convinced many market observers that the secondary reaction, which has been in progress for several days, had run its course. Most of the large commission houses advised buying of selected stocks on today's reaction and many orders from these sources were reported in the late dealings.

Oil shares, which were the hardest hit in the recent wave of selling, were the first to recover. The early gains ranged from 1 to 2 points but many of these were shaded late when the Ohio Oil company announced a cut of 10 cents a barrel in crude prices. Among the issues to close a point or more higher were Pan American A and B, General Asphalt, Maryland and California Petroleum.

Speculative belief that the rubber and tire companies will benefit materially from the record-breaking motor car production brought fresh buying power into that group, Kelly-Springfield leading the advance with a gain of 3 1-2 points. U. S. Rubber, Goodrich and Lee closed 1 1-2 to 2 points higher.

Independent steel and equipment shares also made good recovery, net gains of 1 to 2 points being recorded by Gulf States, Bethlehem and Crucible Steels, Baldwin, American and Lima Locomotives, Fullman, American car and New York Air Brake. Similar progress was made by Chandler, Studebaker, Stewart Warner, Stromberg Carburetor, Willys Overland preferred, Mack Truck, American Woolen, International Paper, Associated Dry Goods and Otis Elevator.

No explanation was forthcoming for the point drop in American Express, current earnings of which are reported to be satisfactory. Jersey Central broke 9 points on two sales. Other rail shares showed mixed changes.

Call money opened at 5 per cent., eased off to 4 1-2 during the noon hour and thence to 4, where it closed. Short term loans were arranged at 5 1-4 per cent., bu bankers are still holding out for 5 1-2 for the longer maturities. Commercial paper was in fair demand with prime names selling at 5 and 5 1-4 per cent.

Foreign exchanges held fairly steady around yesterday's final rates. Demand sterling eased off 1-4 o a cent to $4.65 3-4 in the late dealings and French francs advanced 2 1-2 points to 6.88 1-2 cents. Silver exchanges showed marked improvement.

BOND MARKET

New York, April 12.—Bond pirces moved irregularly in today's relatively dull market. The trend was uncertain and charges generally unimportant.

Active U. S. government bonds showed firmness but fluctuations were small. Foreign government issues closed at prices changed but little from yesterday's quotations.

There was some activitiy among the steel and sugar company liens, Punta Alegre Sugar 7's, advancing two points and Brier Hill Steel 5 1-2's, 2 1-8. Union Bag and Paper 6's were up 1.

Trading among the railroad mortgages was irregular, the changes, except a two point drop by Hudson & Manhattan income 5's, being confined to fractions.

Total sales (par value) were $8,754,000.

Management of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad company announced that one and after tomorrow it would make interest payment due during the past few months on the following obligations: "Katy" first mortgage 4 per cent. bonds; Missouri, Kansas & Oklahoma first mortgage 6 per cent. bonds; Booneville railroad 4 per cent. mortgage bonds; and Dallas & Waco first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds; and would pay also the coupons due Feb. 1, 1923 on Kansas City & Pacific Railway first mortgage 4 per cent. bonds.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, April 13.—Notwithstanding that as a result of active buying new high price records for the season were reached today by wheat, corn and oats, the fact that wheat showed a rise of 7 c. within a week led to reactions, and made the wheat market lower, taken as a whole. The finish in wheat was unsettled at 1-2c net decline to 1-4c advance with May $1.24 1-8 to 1.24 1-4 and July 1.22 1-4 to 1.22 3-8. Corn closed unchanged to 3-4c off; oats down 1-4 a 3-8 to 3-4c and provisions at 2 to 5 a 7c advance.

Much of the buying of wheat was due to unfavorable crop reports. Advices indicated that the Nebraska yield would be a poor one, that a large part of the Kansas crop was deteriorating and that considerable damage had been done in Ohio. Besides prospects in Illinois and Missouri were said to have been lowered. On the other hand, rain in Oklahoma and Texas had some bearish influence and there was comment that today's advance at Liverpool was less than had been looked for in view of yesterday's price bulge on this side of the Atlantic.

Assertions that the wheat market advance here had been too rapid received a particular attention after the season's topmost prices had again been surpassed. Profit-taking sales became larger on every upturn, and especially in the last half of the day the bull side appeared to be slightly at a disadvantage, at least for the time being. Shorts however, covered freely in the late trading and this circumstance operated to prevent any decided setback in values.

Corn and oats reflected the changes in wheat prices, countrw selling of corn was reported to have increased a little as compared with what had been the rule of late.

Provisions were firmer in line with hog values.

WHEN KIDNEYS HURT DRINK MORE WATER

If Your Back Aches or Bladder Bothers, Take a Little Salts

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

A GLASS OF SALTS CLEARS PIMPLY SKIN

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather ferments, the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by Hyperacidity meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prvesents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest; we belch up gas; we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink it while it is effervescing, and furthermore to continue this for a week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to help neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used for many stomach disorders with excellent results.

Have You Piles?

Then You Have Something to Learn.

Thousands who have piles have not do the same for you.

learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy. His prescription is HEM-ROID, a tablet medicine, taken internally, that is now sold by druggists generally. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1,000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent, and then decided it should be sold under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Lee & Osgood today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands of people, and should do the same for you—it seldom fails.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

The House by the Roadside

Well, the little bird whose wing the famous duck doctor mended in the last story didn't make a million cents in two weeks, so he couldn't pay the bill, but never mind, Dr. Quack wasn't worried, for very few of his patients paid their bills in two weeks.

"Where shall we go now?" asked Uncle Lucky, but Little Jack Rabbit didn't know and neither would you and I if we'd been there, I'm sure. So the old gentleman rabbit just let the Luckymobile spin along and by and by, after a while and many a mile and many a smile, they came to a queer little house by the roadside. It was the strangest sort of a house the little rabbits had seen in a long time, and now I suppose you are curious to know what it looked like, so I'll tell you right away.

It looked just like a great big pumpkin, and maybe it was, for there was a cornfield near by with lots of pumpkins between the rows of corn.

"Goodness, gracious meebus!" exclaimed Uncle Lucky. "This is the first time I ever saw smoke coming out of a pumpkin."

"Well, you never saw a pumpkin house before," said Little Jack Rabbit, and just then the door opened and out came a little field mouse.

"Hello!" he said in a squeaky sort of a voice. "I was just going to telephone you, Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot."

"What about?" asked the old gentleman rabbit.

"I want to buy some cheese," said the little field mouse. "Mrs. Field Mouse and I have a stocking full of money."

"Good for you!" said the old gentleman rabbit, who you remember was President of the Rabbitville Bank and the Welsh Rabbit Club. "How many do you want?"

"I'll take a billion cents' worth," answered the field mouse.

When Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot heard that—beg pardon, I mean dear Uncle Lucky, but when Mr. Mouse talks in millions and billions I feel I should call Uncle Lucky Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot—he almost jumped out of the Luckymobile.

"Goodness me!" he said. "I didn't know you had so much money."

But Mr. Field Mouse only smiled, for he wasn't going to tell that his wife saved every cent and never bought a thing for herself. Oh, my no! He didn't want everyone to know she was different from other women.

"All right," said the old gentleman rabbit. "I'll go right back to the Welsh Rabbit Club and put you down on my list," and he turned the Luckymobile around and started off for Rabbitville as fast as he could go, and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

SCHOOL BOARD ADVISES TOWN TO ADOPT WHAT ACADEMY PROPOSES

The town school board made its report Thursday to the selectmen upon its investigation of the high school situation in Norwich and what ought to be done in relation to the Norwich Free Academy and meeting this situation.

The school board recommends that the town enter into the plan by which the Academy will raise the north and south wings of the building one story and subdivide one assembly room into class rooms and that the voters in town meeting guarantee to the Academy a per capita fee of not to exceed $100 for each student for which the town is responsible for the school year beginning in September next.

School Board's Report

The following is the full report made by the school board:

To the selectmen of the Town of Norwich:

The Town School Board, constituted a committee to investigate matters relating to high school facilities in the Town of Norwich reports as follows:

At a special Town Meeting held on February 23rd, 1923, the following vote was passed:

RESOLVED, That the Town School Board be and hereby is appointed a Committee to consider the question of providing adequate high school facilities for such children of the Town of high school age as shall desire to avail themselves of such facilities, which Committee shall make a report to a future Town meeting to be called for such purpose, and shall make public the contents of their said report in such manner as shall seem best to them at least one week before the date of such future Town meeting in order that the citizens of the Town may have opportunity to make themselves familiar with such report in advance of the time for taking action thereon.

Pursuant to this vote your committee immediately began fundamental investigations embracing inquiry into (a) the probable number of students needing high school education in the town in the near future; (b) the exact conditions existing at the Norwich Free Academy; (c) positive statements from the Free Academy as to its ability and willingness to assist; (d) the cost to the Town for providing its own high school plant independent of any other; (e) the experience in the matter of other towns with similar characteristics and population as Norwich; (f) advantages of establishment of intermediate school plant as a means of relieving congestion in the elementary system as well as the Free Academy.

Much Advisory Counsel

The press, realizing the gravity of the situation, has been very generous in giving the subject full publicity and your committee at once went on record as needing the assistance of the community at large, receiving much individual counsel. It seemed vital, however, that direct counsel and advice of an auxiliary group be available in the deliberations of your committee and an Advisory Council of thirty citizens was instituted. The personnel of this council was chosen with the utmost care, endeavoring to cover diversity of experience and of special qualification. To this group was added Dr. A. B. Meredith, State Commissioner of Education, as an expert educational advisor.

Preparatory to the first joint session with this Council your committee compiled a statement embracing practically all of the data and information gathered by it which was furnished to each member of the group. A copy of this statement is filed with this report but inasmuch as it is voluminous and was published in full in the Norwich Bulletin on March 22nd and with slight condensation by the Norwich Record on the same day, we shall assume that the intent of the vote at the Special Town meeting of February 23rd will be carried out by such publication and refrain from incorporating it in this report.

Comprehensive joint sessions were held in the City Council Chamber on March 21st and 27th, with nearly a full attendance at each meeting, and an earnest cooperative spirit was manifest.

Three Phases of Question

For the purpose of facility in discussion the subject was considered in three phases:

(1) Should the Town build, equip and operate its own high school plant.

(2) Should the community at this time go into the matter of fundamentally reorganizing its educational system, laying out a definite program embracing the early erection of an intermediate school to relieve the severe congestion in the elementary grades (and helping the conditions at the Free Academy) to be followed within five years by handling the high school situation in a manner indicated by the circumstances then existing.

(3) Should advantage be taken of the offer of the Free Academy to continue to extend its facilities.

Cost of New High School

Under the first caption (1) it was found that the experience of other similar towns indicated the necessity for a capacity of not less than one thousand students if a new plant should be instituted, with proper thought to the future. As close figures as possible (see accompanying statement) were procured on the development of such a plant and it was found that between $500,000 and $750,000 would have to be expended, including cost of site and complete development. There are two ways through which these ultimate costs may be arrived at—one on the basis of cubic foot construction cost, and the other a per capita student cost based on recently erected buildings. Either of these methods appeared to arrive at the same result, however. To be briefly specific: Assuming that an allowance of 1400 cubic feet per student is necessary, in accordance with the best hygienic standards, a building capable of affording a capacity of one thousand (1000) would require one million four hundred thousand (1,400,000) cubic feet which at forty five cents (45c) per cubic foot (an estimate by some of the ablest architects) would mean an expenditure of $630,000. On the other hand it was found that an average cost for a number of recently erected plants was about $600 per student, making the cost of a thousand student capacity building $600,000. Both of these figures are without cost of land. By eliminating all elaboration of development it might be possible that a building be erected for $500,000. However, this would be the barest sort of equipment and would not be a credit to the Town. On the other hand some high school plants recently erected show a cost of nearly $1,000,000 on a capacity of one thousand. It was deemed wise therefore to turn to some other plan, if feasible, than that of erecting a town high school unit, on account of the great expense entailed in present construction costs.

School Facilities Under Handicap

Under the second division (2) of the subject, your committee, being thoroughly conversant with the conditions and needs of the towns elementary educational system, feels bound to recognize, and to call to the attention of the community, the deficiencies in the system which sooner or later will demand attention. At least three sections of the town are laboring under handicapped facilities; with every advantage taken of situations as they exist, some minor expense in alterations, and the possible purchase of temporary sectional buildings, the conditions may be met to a certain degree—but seemingly only for a short time. The town now owns twenty six (26) school buildings, twenty two (22) of which are in operation. This number could be reduced by one-third to one-half with greater efficiency in the organization and benefit to the pupils, and without much transportation, through re-zoning. In connection with such a reorganized system an intermediate school plant would operate admirably; and with further coordination with the high-school grades—either privately or publicly operated—Norwich could offer modern and adequate facilities for the education of its youth. Moreover, the expense of carrying out such a plan could be to some extent compensated for through use of the proceeds of the sale of unnecessary school property. This scheme as a remedy for the present high school situation is of course somewhat irrelevant except in connection with the portion involving an intermediate school.

It developed in the court of discussion that the plan just referred to had many adherents, even as directed toward a solution of the high school problem. Your committee has a feeling, however, that the public in general is not strong enough in its support of such a project to make it advisable to urge it at this juncture. We recommend it to your earnest consideration and it might be wise for the townspeople to authorize or instruct its school board to make a fundamental survey and report at some later date, when the present emergency is disposed of.

Academy in Favor With Public

The third division of the question (2) relating to a continuance of patronage of the Free Academy seems to meet with much favor on the part of the public. It is an established fact that any town in Connecticut has the right to buy high school education for its students from any high school institution whether private or public designated by the State Board of Education as qualified to sell such instruction. It is further made clear that the Norwich Free Academy is so qualified and approved.

In their first public announcement in November last the Free Academy authorities made the statement that they were prepared to build an additional building to relieve the congestion in their plant and to care for the high-school education of the students of Norwich at an approximate expenditure by them of $250,000 providing the sentiment of the voters of the town was for a continuance of relations with the Academy. That proposal was based on a formal vote of the Executive Committee of the Academy and still is in effect. Because the Principal of the Academy suggested at a later date a more limited expansion there should be no confusion of such as a substitute through which the plan for ultimate greater expansion would be withdrawn. It was a matter of expedition, for it became evident as time progressed that neither the Academy nor the town could erect a new building for use in September next.

The second plan therefore was suggested by Principal Tirrell as feasible for immediate relief. The Academy on the basis of the emergency plan would expend approximately $50,000 to elevate the North and South wings of its present building and subdivide one of its assembly rooms into the institution against which, as a town would agree to pay to the Academy a per capita cost estimated at $80 or thereabouts. The sum to be expended and the cost per student are both approximations, but the per capita cost would be that of actual cost to the institution against which, as a reduction, would go the income of their private funds. The principal of the Academy feels confident that the cost for the coming year would not exceed $100 under any circumstances. The average per capita cost in the high schools of Connecticut is $113.

Specific inquiry was made of the Free Academy as to whether the institution was ready to undertake the high school training of the youth of Norwich for all time. In reply assurance was given your committee that the Academy was ready to cooperate with the Town in the future as in the past to the fullest degree. Furthermore that it intends to maintain its teaching force at a high level of efficiency and to cooperate to keep the school an institution of the highest standards.

Academy Will Cooperate

A word should be said as to management, and the question of representation on the Academy board of trustees of certain officials of the City or Town. It cannot be expected that the Academy as a private institution will ever be ready to yield its management to the public; therefore any representation on the board of trustees of the institution would necessarily be a courtesy representation only. The school has been operated in the past with benefit to the town and it is only logical to believe that such conditions should continue. We therefore are not inclined to attach great importance to this phase of the situation, a position in which we concur with our Advisory Council. Moreover, the Academy is ready to cooperate and coordinate with the town school board, through a conference committee composed of their executive committee and a committee from the school board.

Embracing the limited expansion plan of the Academy will relieve the situation for the next few years, making it possible for more deliberate action in the matter on the part of the town.

Recommendation

In view of the facts included in the foregoing report and the accompanying statement, the deduction is evident and it is the recommendation of your committee, therefore, that the town enter into the limited expansion plan of the Free Academy, and that the voters in town meeting assembled guarantee to the Academy a per capita fee of not to exceed $100 for each student for which the town is responsible, for the school year beginning in September next.

Naturally this whole question is one of concern for the entire community yet your Committee wishes herein to recognize its obligation to the public for its assistance, and especially to those who gave such generous service on our Advisory Council.

A copy of this report has been sent to each of the local newspapers in accord with the vote passed at the meeting of February 23rd, and we assume that you will take steps to hold a special town meeting on the matter in the near future.

REFUSES TO ADMIT NORWICH JEWELRY BURGLARY

Although Charles E. Spencer of New York, who is under arrest in Providence, admits burglary from the windows of three Providence jewelry stores last November and December he absolutely refuses to admit that he was the burglar who kicked in the window at the John and George H. Bliss store at 126 Main street in this city on Nov. 23rd last.

In the three Providence burglaries he got off with jewelry valued at about $4,000 for which he told the Providence police he found a ready market on the curb on Bayard street, New York. He said he was always able to dispose of his wares in "less than two minutes," to use his own words. He received $200 for one lot of loot, of which the regular value was $2,085, and in one case he mentioned that he sold a watch, valued at $140, for $20.

When told by the Providence police that he was wanted in Norwich, he replied that "he had heard they wanted him in connection with a job there," but he steadfastly refused to admit to Capt. D. J. Twomey of the local police, who was in Providence Wednesday, to admit that he did the Norwich job.

The Norwich police, however, have circumstantial evidence to connect Spencer with the Bliss store burglary, knowing that he was in this city the night before, that he had a room at the Auditorium hotel and registered as George Baxter, the same alias that he had used at other times. At the hotel he left a call for four o'clock in the morning and he was given the call leaving the hotel soon afterwards. According to the Norwich police report at the time of the burglary, it has always been their theory that it was committed some time around or after four o'clock.

In Providence Spencer admitted that he kicked in the store windows with the heel of his shoe and used a stick to pull out what jewelry he could reach the same method was followed at the Bliss store and the burglar left behind the stick with the nail driven into the end to make a hook, which he had used to reach the jewelry in the window.

JUDGE BOARDMAN'S VIEWS ON PROHIBITION AND SALOONS

President of the Connecticut Bar Association Predicts That Ultimately the Prohibition Laws of the Nation Will be Rigidly Enforced—If the Laws Are Not Satisfactory it is the Right and Duty of Those Dissatisfied to Demand Repeal—Declares That While Public Opinion May Differ as to Many Phases of the Liquor Law, There is an Overwhelming Public Opinion That the Saloon Must Go.

New Haven, Conn., April 13.—Judge W. B. Boardman, president of the Connecticut Bar Association, and one of the judges in the Bridgeport city court, in an address before a Yale gathering tonight, predicted that the time would come when the people of this country would see that the prohibitory laws of the nation were rigidly enforced.

After outlining passage of the constitutional amendment, the Volstead act and the state enforcement laws, Judge Boardman went on to say that laws to regulate and control the liquor business by license and otherwise are now invalid; that failure of federal authorities to control the business and enforce the law has meant a large increase in drunkenness, assaults, breaches of the peace and other misdemeanors, in poverty and disability; and that the state should have laws to keep down the cause as well as the effect.

"If the laws are not satisfactory to any one' he said, "it is his right and duty, with others similarly dissatisfied, to go to the general assembly now in session and demand repeal. Some have done this but this and similar bills contrary to the spirit of the 18th amendment," have after political gesturing by individuals been reported against and turned down. The legislative department of the state has spoken."

The judicial department is that branch of the state government whose duty it is to enforce the law. * * * It is the sworn duty of every judge, prosecutor and other official of the court to enforce the will of the people as determined by its general assembly, to the best of his ability. With the advisability of the law the judge and the prosecutor have nothing to do.

Judge Boardman spoke of his appointment to the Bridgeport court at 4 p. m., June 30, 1921, and the functioning of the court at 8 a. m. July 1. The city at that time had 341 fully equipped saloons. The speaker referred to changes in the enforcement statutes which had been made by the 1921 session, and then passed to a description of "The Saloon" saying, "While public opinion may differ as to many phases of the liquor law, there is an overwhelming public opinion that the saloon must go. * * * It is my opinion that it was the saloon and the manner in which it was conducted in this country which more than anything else brought about the adoption of the prohibition amendment at as early a date as it was." An act of 1921 prohibits "keeping a bar or establishment reputed to be a place where intoxicating liquors are kept for sale." The legislature had said the saloon should not continue.

Judge Boardman then described the personal reasons of the judges at Bridgeport "to adopt a firm course in liquor violations as well as in others." In the first conviction of a case known as the old-time saloon a sentence was imposed of $200 and 10 days in jail with the jail sentence suspended. The reasons for this were:

1—The $200 fine took away a part of the profits already made.

2—It was a warning that future profits would be reduced in a similar or more rapid manner.

3—The jail sentence was notice that the fine and the sentence was not a license or a substitute for a license.

4—It was a notice to other saloon keepers that, should they continue to operate, they might expect similar sentences, with the possibility that they might not be suspended.

5—The sale of intoxicating liquors had been prohibited for more than two years, but this saloon still existed. The court was morally certain that while technically a first offense, it was in reality the first time he was caught.

6—The jail sentence was suspended, the accused placed in charge of the probation officer because never before had a jail sentence been permissible on a first offense.

7—Because it was hoped that the fact that the jail sentence was hanging over the offender would prevent further breaking of the law by him.

8—If put the accused in the position where, if he did not appeal or the jail sentence was not changed on appeal, a second offense must result in his going to jail through the revoking of the suspension. He would then be in the position where the time for appeal from the first sentence had gone by, and on his persistent violation of the law, nothing, even an appeal from the sentence for the second offense, could save him from going to jail on a mittimus issued on the first conviction.

Judge Boardman said that the suspended sentence though capable of great abuse, has been found of assistance in enforcing the law. "It is the clear conviction of all members of the court" he said "that no penalty short of an occasional jail sentence, not suspended, will prove effective with the majority of saloon keepers, brothel keepers and others who break the law for money. Money they can charge up to the expense account, but a touch of jail is abhorrent to their sensibilities. * * * Great care has to be taken that there should be no martyrs. * * * A fine is too often considered a license. Jail sentences also have been imposed upon a person who drives an automobile when under the influence of liquor. This seems to be the only penalty which will put an end to this method of homicide.

Judge Boardman quoted an array of figures on court cases, fines imposed, etc., before and since prohibition went into effect. He said the effectiveness of enforcement of the law must depend in a large measure upon cooperation between the police department and the courts. Again, he told of the work of the Bridgeport department saying that once an officer visited a saloon 52 times before evidence was secured which closed the saloon. He said that inter-city and interstate "sports" complain to the police department that Bridgeport is a "dead town." The police department and the city courts, he said, were willing to take the blame for that condition which the sports describe as "dead."

Continuing Judge Boardman said: "Much of the agitation against the present Volstead act is placed upon the ground of personal liberty or state's rights. My personal belief is that 80 per cent of those who bring forward this reason use it as a cover for their real reason which may be expressed 'I want a drink'. As for the remaining 20 per cent, they are for the most part, sincere, well intentioned, self-controlled, but quite doctrinaire and theoretical. They have little real knowledge of how the other half lives. I would like to have them take a course in the real facts of life and of the liquor question. I should prescribe attendance for a month or two in the police courts of any of our larger cities even now. I should rather that it should have been in the pre-prohibition days. I should also prescribe a course in practical politics. If this 20 per cent instead of smugly discussing the question in their clubs would get personal knowledge of the real facts, they would at least become convinced that the right to sell or drink intoxicating liquors was not necessarily an inalienable right.

"Again as to state rights. Various states voted dry. But neighboring states would not let them be dry. Abraham Lincoln said this nation could not be half free and half slave, and today we find that the nation cannot be half wet and hal fdry."

Judge Boardman said he believed the state laws are sufficient to close the saloons. "I think that saloon keepers and any who are winking at the continuance of the saroon in business and think public sentiment will support them, will be woefully disappointed if public opinion even had an opportunity to express itself on this point," he said. * * * Certain parts of the United States have gone on a spree. But 1—Conditions are not as bad as represented: 2—the imputation of disregard of the law is still recognized as a discredit to the community and its representative. This is a land of steady habits. The general assembly will ultimately become impatient of disorder in our cities. For the prohibition law is here to stay. * * * When the clear cut issue between law and order, and disrespect for law with consequent disorder is presented, as sooner or later it must be, our courts, our state's attorneys, our prosecutors and juries will speak in no uncertain terms."

TWO WOMEN KILLED WHEN BUS RAN INTO THEM

Stamford, April 13.—Two women were were killed and a six weeks old baby escaped injury when a Connecticut company bus ran into them on Maple avenue, Glenbrook, late last night. Mis Mary O. Donahue of Glenbrook was killed outright, and Mrs. Hattie Burnes of Glenbrook died in the Stamford hospital early today from her injuries. The latter's child was found on the running board of the bus after the accident occurred.

The Stumford police arrested Orlo Waterbury of this city, driver of the bus, and he is held pending the inquiry of Coroner J. J. Phelan. He declined to make a statement. Persons living in the vicinity told the police that the bus was traveling at high speed. It was making its last trip of the night from Darien to this city and had no passengers.

The two women had been visiting at a neighbor's house and were walking to their homes when run down. Mrs. Burnes was carrying her child.

OBITUARY.

Gen. Heman O. Averill.

Washington, Conn., April 13.—General Heman O. Averill, former member of the legislature and former commissioner of domestic animals, died at his home late today after an illness since Wednesday morning when he was apparently stricken with apoplexy. He fell into a state of coma from which he did not rally and the end came peacefully at about 5 o'clock this afternoon.

General Averill was born in this town on August 20, 1856, and where he was born, lived and died was the home of his ancestors since 1746. He was educated in the town schools, Whittlesey Academy and the scientific department of Oberlin college. In the course of a busy life in politics he had held nearly every office in town. He was in the general assembly during the famous deadlock session of 1891 and represented the old twentieth district in the senate in 1895. He was appointed to the staff as paymaster-general by Governor George E. Lounsbury in 1899 but resigned his military duties on July 1 of that year and became cattle commissioner by appointment of Governor Lounsbury. He held that office by successive reappointments until July 15, 1913, when Governor Baldwin failed to rename him. He went to the general assembly again in 1917. He had served as judge of probate in 1895 and had served continuously since that time.

General Averill was president of the Washington Fair corporation, the Washington Supply company and the Burnham company, and was a director of the First National bank of New Milford. He is survived by two sons, Ralph J., and G. Harry, and four daughters, Mrs. Lester Harvey, of Poughkeepsie, Miss Clara, Dorothy and Grace Averill.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Strikes in Paris.

Irish Free State Budget.

Dublin, April 13.—(By The A. P.)—The introduction in the Dail Eireann today of the first budget of the Free State government, which forecasts a deficit of £20,000,000, has awakened little public interest and no speculation on the part of the press. The receipts for the year are estimated at £26,500,000 and the expenditures at £46,500,000.

INFORMATION SOON ON SUGAR PRICE SITUATION

Washington, April 13.—Developments in the near future in the department of justice investigation into the sugar price situation were indicated after today's cabinet meeting, at which Acting Attorney General Seymour presented a report.

The situation was discussed by President Harding and his advisers almost entirely from the legal standpoint as the tariff commission has found itself unable to complete its preliminary report dealing with the effect of the tariff on sugar prices. Information from the commission was that the report might be completed tomorrow and at the White House it was said that the president expected to confer with the full commission next Tuesday or Wednesday.

With respect to the tariff phase of the situation, however, the president was represented as absolutely convinced that the duties on sugar were in no wise responsible for the almost steady advances in the price of the commodity since early in February.

Acting Attorney General Seymour laid before Mr. Harding and the cabinet a complete summary of the results to date of his department's inquiry. The nature of the department's findings were withheld, but it was indicated by a high administration official that developments might be expected within a comparatively short time.

PRIEST WILLING ENTER PLEA OF GUILTY OF MURDER

Kalamazoo, Mich., April 13.—Arraignment of Father Charles Dillon, charged with the murder last night of his superior, Rev. Father Henry O'Neill, pastor of St. Augustine's parish, was postponed late today at the direction of Judge George W. Weimer in circuit court until Monday.

Postponement was granted at the request of counsel for Father Dillon although the priest had made known his willingness to enter a plea of guilty to a charge of first degree murder. It was indicated that alienists might inquire into the sanity of the accused man.

Father Dillon, a member of the Carthusian Fathers order and formerly a missionary of the church in many countries, declared today that he wants to go at once to Jackson or Marquette (where state prisons are located) and insisted he is perfectly sane. He remains calm and manifests no sign of remorse because of his deed.

Father McCullough, the only eye witness of the shooting, made a statement to officers today.

"When we were seated at the dinner table last night," he said, "Father Dillon appeared Morose, finally he burst out, addressing Father O'Neill, 'You'd like to get me out of here, wouldn't you?"

OPINION ON STATE BONUS BILL NEXT TUESDAY

Hartford, April 13.—A formal opinion by Attorney General Frank E. Healy will be placed with the legislative committee on military affairs on Tuesday in answer to a question placed before him as to the right of the general assembly to pass a soldiers' bonus bill. The opinion has been written. It is understood that the attorney general will hold that an appropriation of money for a soldiers' bonus would be unconstitutional. The opinion, it is understood, is based upon a study of the legal side of the situation as determined by precedents which in themselves were determined by the constitutional limitations.

The committee on military affairs has had under consideration for two months a proposed bonus bill and there was a division in the committee as to a report. On the proposition of submitting the question to a referendum of the voters the committee asked Attorney General Healy for his opinion as to the constitutionality of the appropriation of money for a bonus.

Arrested For Aiding Escape of Chapman

From Hospital at Athens, Ga. —Million Dollar Mail Robber Still at Liberty.

New York, April 13. — Dominick Didato and Abe Silverstein were arrested by agents of the department of justice late today on charges of having aided Gerald Chapman, million- dollar mail robber to escape from the hospital at Athens, Ga., on April 14.

United States Commissioner Hitchcock held the pair in $1,500 bail pending proceedings for their removal to Athens, where they are under indictment for conspiracy.

Edward J. Brennan, chief of the local department of justice office, who ordered the arrests on receipt of a request from the authorities in Athens, said the two men were generally known in the underworld as friends of Chapman, and it was common gossip in that quarter that they had aided in the escape.

Evidence has been obtained, he said, to prove that both were in Athens at the time Chapman fled the hospital, where he had been lodged to recover from wounds suffered when he was captured after his earlier escape from the penitentiary at Atlanta.

AT LEAST THREE PERSONS INDICTED AT ATHENS, GA.

Atlanta, Ga., April 13.—At least three persons have been indicted by the federal grand jury in Athens, Ga., in connection with the escape of Gerald Chapman, mail bandit, from the hospital here, according to reports brought back to Atlanta by government officers who have been in Athens, the Atlanta Journal says today. No public announcement of the indictments has been made, it is reported, the Journal declares, because the indictment is a joint one and all of the persons named have not been arrester.

TO BE TRIED FOR HAVING AIDED GERALD CHAPMAN

Athens, Ga., April 13.—(By The A. P.) — Federal authorities announced late today that they plan to bring Didato and Abe Silverstein from New York immediately and place them on trial in the United States court here Monday, April 23rd on the charge of having aided Gerald Chapman, the million dollar mail robber, to escape from the Athens hospital, April 4.

Today's developments in the case recalled to those familiar with the story of Chapman's escape, that on the day he fled from the hospital here two men left Athens on a Seaboard Air Line Limited train bound for the north. The men were recognized and identified to the police by Jeff Bennett, taxicab driver, as passengers he had hauled about the city for several days prior to their departure. Bennett said the men told him they were in Athens in connection with some sort of transaction dealing with narcotics.

Chapman, with Frank Gray, escaped from the Atlanta federal prison shortly before daybreak on March 27. They were inmates of the prison hospital, in an upper story. About 4 o'clock in the morning they bound and gagged John E. Scott, prison-nurse who was asleep in an adjoining room. By tying sheets together the prisoners reached the ground.

After changing from their prison garb to white sweaters and dark trousers provided by their confederates, Chapman and Gray went to the home of W. H. Edwards in Lakewood Heights, a suburb near the penitentiary. There they tried to bribe Edwards, he told the police, by offering him $1,000 to hide them in his home Upon his refusal to comply, he was threatened with death if he made an outcry. Mrs. Edwards, overhearing the conversation went to the assistance of her husband, and she, too, was threatened with death.

The prisoners then took Edwards with them, boarded a street car for Atlanta. They covered their trail so well that the police were unable to trace them, although Edwards, who was permitted to leave the car before reaching the city, hurried to the police with the story of his experiences.

The next authorities saw of Chapman was when he was recognized by officers here and severely wounded in a pistol fight when he was arrested.

Chapman is 35 years old, and is believed by the authorities to have a large fortune—portions of unrecovered loot—hidden away somewhere.

Gray, Chapman's companion in the escape, was recaptured in the fight here and returned to the Atlanta prison.

Nineteen patrolmen, alleged to have paid $1,500 each t ohave themselves promoted to the rank of sergeant through fraudulent manipulations of civil service papers, were suspended from the police department in New York.

Yet it is peculiar how some of us persist in remaining in the dark on the very things that concern us most.

For instance: now more than ever before we ought to see that every cent we spend buys its full quota of value. Yet, lots and lots of folks go blithely along making their everyday purchases with their eyes shut tight.

Corrigan Quizzed on Slander of N. Y. Cops

To Learn Basis of Accusations That "Half of the Cops Are Bootleggers."

New York, April 13.—Commissioner of Accounts Hirshfield, directed by Mayor Hylan to investigate charges that the police were in league with rum sellers, today quizzed Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan for several hours to learn the basis of his assertions from the bench that "half of the cops are bootleggers."

At times words ran high. Once the commissioner warned the magistrate that at the moment he was not in Essex market court. At another time he threatened to institute contempt proceedings. If the witness did not name the man who informed him that the victims of a liquor raid has made a bargain with the police so that the case would be dropped.

At the close of the magistrate's examination, the commissioner, in adjourning the hearing without setting a date for the next session, told the witness bluntly:

"I am frank to say that I am disappointed with your testimony. I regret to say it, but the fact that I am now of the opinion that your statements from the bench are actuated first, by your political ambitions; second, to get a headline in the newspapers and you know you can always get that, by attacking the police. I am sorry, but you have given me no testimony which would bear out your accusations against the police."

The hearing at which Magistrate Corrigan appeared was part of the dual investigation ordered by the mayor of charges against the police hurled by the jurist and Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier at Albany.

Cuvillier, sued for $100,000 by Police Commissioner Enright for alleged slander, has been asked to appear at a later session, but has indicated he plans to ask for a legislative investigation of the police department and the Hylan administration.

In beginning his testimony Magistrate Corrigan said that he had complained to both Mayor Hylan and Police Commissioner Enright about policement drinking liquor and acting as bootleggers, but that nothing had come of the complaints.

He said from time to time he presented that if the police could make no better showing in liquor convictions, they were either utterly inefficient or abominally corrupt.

Of 13,000 arrests in Manhattan in a year and a half only .032 per cent. of convictions were obtained, he asserted.

"Now, Mr. Magistrate, what I want is specific instances in substantiation of whatever charges you have to make, not generalities," the commissioner said. "Can you tell me of any specific case of sale of liquor by a policeman?"

"No, I never saw a policeman sell liquor, but I can give you an instance which I think bears out my charges."

R. Corrigan consulted a little red book from his pocket, and then said:

"I recall a raid on an Italian restaurant owned by a man named Luigi Coridi, or Caradi, at No. 136 West Houston street, some three or four months ago. The police searched this place and could not find anything and then they broke into the place next door and seized stocks worth about $20,000. There were twenty-three policemen in the raid and I am told that they drank about seventy-five bottles of liquor, breaking off the tops of the bottles. I am also told that three or four hours later some of this liquor was being sold in the neighborhood."

The commissioner then asked the magistrate whether he got Luigi to make a complaint about the raid. The magistrate said the raid was not in his district.

"Did you believe that story?" asked Commissioner Hirshfield.

"I certainly do," replied the magistrate.

"But," rejoined Commissioner Hirshfield, "you, as a city magistrate, have jurisdiction over the city and you could have entertained a complaint."

"I am not a policeman," the magistrate replied.

Several times the commissioner criticized the nature of the witness's testimony, and finally he said:

"If anyone would attempt to give testimony of that kind before you sitting as a magistrate, you would commit him for contempt of court. It does not come with good grace from a magistrate to make little insinuations that are based on nothing and are, no doubt, made solely for the purpose of having them printed in the newspapers, to convey the idea to some people that there is really something wrong with the police when, as a matter of fact, you have nothing to base your statements on.

NEW MEASURES OF PRESSURE TO BE APPLIED TO GERMANY

Action Decided Upon at Meeting in Paris of French and Belgian Ministers—Nature of Measures Not Disclosed—Are Determined to Continue Pressure Until the Berlin Government Makes Direct Overtures for a Settlement —Premiers, Cabinet Members and Reparations Experts Were at the Meeting.

Paris, April 13.—(By the A. P.)—The French and Belgian government ministers at their meeting here this afternoon decided upon new measures of pressure to be applied to Germany if she remains unyielding on theh reparation question. The nature of the measures was not disclosed, but the ministers announced in an official communique that they are determined to continue pressure until the Berlin government makes direct overtures for a settlement.

The meeting was participated in by Premiers Poincare and Theunis, various members of their cabinets interested in reparation problems, and a number of experts. As in the case of the recent conference at Brussels, the session was largely devoted to technical questions in connection with the occupation of the Ruhr and the efforts under way to make productive the guarantees seized there.

The ministers had before them complete reports on the occupation to date, with details of all the costs and of the movement of fuel. These reports were reviewed at some length, but it was impossible to complete their consideration today and the work will be continued tomorrow, with sessions probably both in the morning and afternoon.

The allied representatives confined themselves to discussion of the details of the occupation and the principle that it will be continued and extended until Germany yields, and it is authoritatively stated that nothing else will be considered at the conference. France and Belgium have no intention of elaborating a plan of settlement, it is said, because, when the time comes to consider any proposition Germany may make, it will be necessary that the British take part in the conversations.

Talk of a new plan under consideration, which is confined to a very limited section of the French press, is regarded as a well-intentioned desire to begin the prepation of the French people for such concessions as France eventually, may be required to make in order to reach complete accord with Great Britain. Official circles however, say it is ill-timed and that it has no foundation in fact.

There are many among the well-informed French politicians who believe the time will come when it will be necessary to let the French people know that they cannot expect all from Germany that France thinks she ought to pay, but that time, they say, will be when Germany has shown some disposition to do what she can.

The recent visit to London of Louis Loucheur, former French minister of liberated regions, and his interviews with British statesmen on the reparations question, undoubtedly will be the subject of conversations at the formal social functions in honor of the Belgians, but there is little prospect that it will appear on the agenda of the conference.

The trip to London of Louis Klotz, former minister of France, has greatly diminished the importance that was at first attached to M. Loucheur's visit. The intervention of prominent public men such as these two is explained in political circles as being due only to their personal desire to have a leading part in a solution of the reparations problem. The government, it is pointed out, could not refuse to hear reports of what they were able to learn regarding the attitude of the British statesmen without provoking adverse criticism itself.

Premier Poincare, it is understood, may exchange views with the Belgians as to possible basis of discussion with the Germans when the latter signify that they are ready to negotiate, but nothing will be decided even tentatively until the time comes, when the question will come up before all the allies, including Great Britain and Italy.

France is particularly anxious not to forestall Great Britain in any way in reparations, and it is held in official circles that nothing useful can be accomplished in making preparations for a final settlement without British participation.

At Benton Harbor, H. T. Dewhirst, member of the colony and the cult's chief counsel, in a formal statement asked if the public "believes we are rubes, just born yesterday?" The statement was prompted by efforts of certain state legislators to bring about appointment of a receivership for the house of David.

TOO MANY DOG WARDENS IN WINDHAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, April 13.—The town of Windham will probably witness a hard fought battle, as the outcome of the question, "Who is the dog warden in the town of Windham?" which has arisen when it was shown that there were two wardens where there should be only one. The town of Windham should only have one warden. City Sheriff Thomas J. Killourey was appointed to the position on March 5, by the board of selectmen, Russell A. Andrews, Frank M. Lincoln and Charles Larrabee and on the following day they mailed notifications of their act to John M. Whittlesey, state commissioner of domestic animals. On April 1, 1923, the appointment was to take effect.

This week, First Selectman Russell A. Andrews received a communication from Commissioner Whittlesey, dated April 11 and which stated that in accordance with the amended change of the public acts of 1921 relating to dogs, dog wardens must be appointed by the chief of police or the selectmen of towns on or before April 1 of any year, and if the same is not done by those officials within ten days the commissioner is to make the appointment.

In his letter, Commissioner Whittlesey informs the first selectman that due to the fact that no appointment has been received from the chief of police, he has appointed Roderick Lussier as dog warden for the term ending March 31, 1924.

The selectmen are considerably puzzled over the contents of the notification. A general understanding has been in effect whereby the town appoints the dog warden every year and on no occasion has it been done by the chief of police. For some reason there was no appointment made last year and as a result the selectmen defaulted and Commissioner Whittlesey appointed Mr. Lussier. According to the selectmen they sent in notification of their appointment of Mr. Killourey on March 6 and in case the appointment came from the source and should have been made by the chief of police, there was plenty of time for a warning from the commissioner to that effect.

Roderick Lussier announced Friday noon that he had received notification of his re-appointment from the commissioner on Thursday and that he intended to continue to hold the position.

Those concerned wish to know who is going to pay the bills of the dog warden and whether he will be under the supervision of the town or the city. According to law the appointment of Killourey as dog warden was done in a correct manner. The matter is to be taken up before the town counsel and corporaton counsel for an opinion as to the legal appointee. There is also a possibility that Representative Frank P. Fenton will bring the matter before the legislature to make the appointment of dog wardens more clear, at least for large towns in which municipalities are within their borders.

It is apparent that if the appointment of Commissioner Whittlesey remains in effect the city will be obliged ot pay the dog warden's bills, at least for the work done within the city limits.

Previous to the appointment of Mr. Lussier a year ago, Sheriff Killourey had filled the position for a number of terms and he intends to put up an argument for the appointment this year. The position of dog warden often affords ample financial returns and in the opinion of both candidates it is a desirable one.

However, as one more trial, we sent for a box of Kotalko. This was sent and we thought it would prove to be just like the other preparations good. We are glad to state that after finished use she now has thick wavy hair. Photo enclosed. You may publish it. Unless I had seen it for myself, I would not have thought it possible.

Broad Theatre.

For his latest motion picture sensation, "One Exciting Night," which has been announced as the feature attraction for Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Broad theatre, D. W. Griffith, master-maker of photoplays, has taken for his cue the increasing popularity of the last two or three years of the stage-melodrama and has produced a mystery picture par excellence.

In this newest of Griffith films, a United Artists Corporation release, the great director gives five of the six elements that go to make up effective mystery—secreted treasure, personal disappearance, puzzling homicide, hidden identity, and the return of the avenging spirit. And with it all he gives the spectator an altogether marvellous assortment in the way of actual entertainment.

There is as sweet and dainty a love story as ever was filmed; there is mystery galore—mystery till the audience sits breathless—and then comes relief from the suspense in the form of the most delightful and laughter-provoking comedy from Romeo Washington, a wonderful black-face character who finds himself torn between love of a dusky maid and fear of the peering eyes and stealthy figures that creep in and out are seen everywhere.

In this picture Mr. Griffith has departed entirely from the heavy and spectacular and gone in purely for audience entertainment in the way of love, laughter, mystery, thrills and thrills. There are no great mob scenes, no historical motif to be picturized, no mass of costumes.

But there is entertainment—a full two hours of it. There is a missing and much sought satchel containing half a million dollars in bills that lies for a time submerged in a flour barrel in the kitchen while the amorous Romeo makes love to the choice of his heart. And all the time there is uppermost in the minds of everybody the query—"Who murdered Johnson?"

Of course no Griffith picture would be truly Griffithesque without its great climax scene. And, "One Exciting Night" has it. This time is is a storm, that type of mid-summer thunderstorm with which everybody everywhere is familiar — a torrential downpour of rain coupled with hurricane winds, low-sweeping clouds, split asunder every second by bolts of tree shredding lightning. Trees are uprooted and flung about like matches before an airplane propeller; houses are unroofed, demolished, and crumble beneath the tempest. And in the midst of it the Boy and Girl find their love story come true; the villain is captured; the mystery of the half million dollars cleared.

Carol Dempster has the feminine role and seldom does a theatregoer see a sweeter or dainter characterization than she gives. Other players in the cast are all of widely known popularity and ability.

Today's bill consists of "When Romance Rides," a Zane Grey picture with an all-star cast, the 11th and 12th episodes of "The Timber Queen," and the Pathe News.

"Manslaughter" Back to the Broadway Sunday.

The filming of serial pictures is regarded as the most hazardous type of picture-making work. But Leatrice Joy believes differently.

The charming Cecil B. DeMille's actress asserts that appearing before the camera under Mr. DeMille's direction puts to shame all serial thrills ever experienced. Here are some of the hair-raising demands that were made upon her by her role in "Manslaughter" that comes to the Broadway theatre Sunday.

To race with a speeding train, attempt to cross in front of it, skid into the tracks and then escape by a matter of inches from annihilation.

To drive a car at a terrific speed in attempting to escape arrest for speeding, skid into a turn and cling to the wheel as the pursuing motorcycle officer crashes into her car and hurtles across it to his death.

To spend a week of working days seated between two full grown Bengal tigers chained at her feet while the cameras recorded a lavish reproduction of a Roman bacchanal.

To be tied by the wrists and dragged face down, up a long flight of stone steps.

To suffer painful burns on the hands and arms in filming a series of scenes in a real kitchen while simulating ignorance of the science of cooking.

These were some of the thrills of the making of "Manslaughter." The preceeding Cecil DeMille production "Saturday Night" recorded Miss Joy driving a roadster onto a trestle and hanging suspended beneath it while a passing train crashed into the stalled car. Another series of scenes in the same picture depicted a thrilling tenement fire in which Miss Joy narrowly escaped death.

"Fury" at Strand Starting Monday.

Richard Barthelmess in "Fury," a rollicking, stirring drama of the deep sea from the facile pen of Edmund Goulding, will be the First National piece de resistance at the Strand theatre next week, beginning Monday.

This production is heralded as an even more ambitious dramatic effort than any other of Barthelmess' highly popular screen successes, including either "To'able David" or "The Bond Boy."

A very large portion of the picture was taken at sea in a picturesque old four-master sailing schooner, for Barthelmess plays the role of a cowed young second mate whose spirit is not thoroughly aroused until his father, the captain, throws discredit on the name of the girl the boy intended to marry.

Dorothy Gish is Barthelmess' leading lady, portraying the role of Minnie, the little London boarding house slevey with whom the bashful young mate falls in love. Tyrone Power, famous on stage and screen, has the part of Captain Leyton. Others in important roles are Barry Macollum, Pat Hartigan and Jessie Arnold.

"Fury" was directed by Henry King, who also directed the preceding Barthelmess successes of the past year.

A comedy and news will be included.

We urgently request the patrons of the Strand theatre to see this wonderplay in 9 acts for it is an exceptional feature, being personally recommended by D. W. Griffith. Picture will have no advance in prices.

Bradley Theatre, Putnam.

Shuffle Along comes to this house Monday evening, April 16.

In reviewing "Shuffle Along" the stupendous all-colored record-breaking musical comedy, which opened at the Jefferson Wednesday night, one is at a loss how best to begin. In the first place, one is led to suppose, or that is, jumps to the conclusion, that here he will fined a showful or negro humor—typical, traditional and fictional, as the south knows it—but instead, he runs into a smart light stepping, wise cracking bunch of New York actors who, with clear enunciation and cream-like complexions, upset all expectations. Indeed, the absence of dialect is marked, even in one of the principal comedians; and this, together with the burnt-cork that is necessary in their make-up (to get over their more or less minstrelsy parts) and the general color scheme entirely sort of seems out of harmony in the Land of Cotton, or would seem so to a white audience.

As to the show it is rattling good, altogether diverting and a piece of stage work regular theatregoers will enjoy—even if for no other reason than the contrast that it furnishes. John Vaughner, as Steve Jenkins, a long, tall negro, who, fortunately, is made up as black as a lump of coal from Blue Creek, or Warrior, is a delight, and once you hear him proclaim himself a candidate for "mare" with a long "a," a "y" slightly accented and emphasis on the whole thing, you bear with him. Vaughner is typical and a clever comedian.

Working with Vaughner is a little negro—Sam Peck, played by Edgar Conners—whose acquisition of a brogue lends to spoil his comedy part and imitation at dialect, but between Sam and Steve an interesting plot is worked out, centering around a three-cornered race for mayor "of Jim Town and a lot of larceny in the grocery of Jenkins and Peck.

A LOFTY TEA ROOM.
It is Located in the Canadian Pacific Rockies and the Tea Served is "Salada."
One of the highest tearooms in the world is in the Saddleback Range of the Canadian Pacific Rockies. It is 7,985 feet above sea-level, and is approached by a mountain trail.
The tearoom, which has just been opened, is in one of the lookabin shelters, resting between two peaks which have the appearance of a Mexican saddle. It is possible to get to it by train, leaving Lake Louise, and passing through the woods of Mount Fairview.
An altogether delightful atmosphere pervades the interior of the saddle-back-cabin teahouse. The original part is all well pencilled with names and dates, as far back as 1898, made by mountaineers who sought shelter for the night or protection from a blizzard long before the cabin was converted into a tearoom. The hostess dispenses "Salada" Tea.

REGULARS BEAT PONIES IN PRACTICE WILL PLAY LOCAL TEAM SUNDAY

The Pittsfield Hillies featured their practice yesterday with a fast five inning game the Regulars taking the long end of a 4 to 2 score from Zimbo Zimmerman's Ponies. Zimbo's rookies looked like world beaters until Gus Gardella and Danny Silva hooked onto a couple of balls and drove them out of the lot. Gus poked one up on the exhibition hall roof in deep left field for the four stations and Danny started one in the general direction of New London and before Clabby run the pill to earth Danny was resting comfortably on the third pillow.

The regulars in the infield looked like Jawn McGraw's million dollar babies, snaring everything that came in their direction without much difficulty. Leathers is living up to his reputation as an infielder and his work in the short field is a sight for sore eyes. He fields with perfect confidence and his work is of a finished nature. He has a perfect throwing arm and above all he is a worker. With about another season in the minors Leathers will be snatched up by the scouts as big league timber. Garfella is no slouch when it comes right down to brass tacks as he demonstrated yesterday.

Charles Schlenger, sorrel topped youth who is making a try for the infield was sent in to the keystone position with the regulars and showed up well. He lacks a little fight in the game but looks like a comer. He has a nice pair of hands which he handles well. Danny Silva filled in at first as Frankie Stapleton did not arrive until after the afternoon practice. Stapleton, who reported late yesterday afternoon will be at his old position this morning.

The outfielders had little to do during the game but in practice showed well. Bosse is loosted at left with Joe Leary cavorting in the center pasture and Steve Tetrault nailing them in the right garden.

Johnny Tillman and Babe Demers sent them over for the regulars with Harvey Russell stopping them in back of the rubber. Babe worked his floater to advantage and Johnny simply strove for control steaming up a little at the end.

Colonel Snover and Van Alstyne did the heaving for the Ponies with Walt Campbell on the receiving end. Both Colonel and Van put little on the ball but were effective against the regulars.

To "Silent" Roche, who played first for the Ponies goes the honor of the prize boner of the season. "Silent" managed to sneak down as far as second and with only one gone made a dash for home when Colonel Snover drove one to the outfield. Zimbo yelled his lungs out to Roche but for all the good it did he might have been talking to a deaf mute. What Manager Wilson said to Roche was a plenty.

After the game the regular infield was given a stiff half hour session of practice.

The Sunday Game

On Sunday the regulars will line up against Bill O'Leary's Norwich club. O'Leary will have Mickey Werre of the Buffalo team in the box and Old Reliable Bill Bergen will do the catching with Art Lavigne. Hart will play first with Couillard, formerly State Hospital star, Bill Ringland of Tufts will be at second, Sank will play third and Faulkner short. In the outfield will be Joe Cosgrove or Mills, Eddie McKay will be at center and Clabby in right.

EASTERN CONN. LEAGUE MEETING ON TUESDAY

President L. M. Carpenter of the Eastern Connecticut league has called a meeting of the officers of that body to be held at the Ashland club, Jewett City, next Tuesday, the 17th, at 8 o'clock.

The advance dope on the league shows nothing definite as to the future of the organization.

It is known that some of the teams that composed the circuit last season are not in favor of holding their franchise, while there are others who did not enter a team last season who are anxious to take over the obligations of any who wish to withdraw.

With the proper circuit, there is no question that league ball is the solution to the baseball problem in eastern Connecticut.

It is expected that the meeting will be largely attended, and if there are any clubs in this vicinity that care to be represented their should communicate with the secretary, Hal Chase of Jewett City, in case they cannot be present at the meeting.

PINEHURST TENNIS REACHES THE FINAL STAGE

Pinehurst, N. C., April 13—Play in the afternoon session in the north and south championship tennis tournament today frequently was interrupted by showers and the only match played to a conclusion was one by which Mrs. Theodore Sosht, of Brooklyn and Miss Ceres Baker of East Orange, N. J., won their way into the final bracket of the women's doubles by defeating Mrs. Edward R. Raymond of New York and Mrs. G. L. Chapman of Nyack, at 6-3, 6-3.

Mrs. Sosht and Miss Baker will be opposed in the final round by Miss Helen Gilleaudeau and Miss Marion Chapman who disposed of their semi-final match yesterday.

The final of the men's doubles, in which Vincent Richards and S. Howard Voshell had Raymond Bidewell and Josiah Wheelwright as opponents was stopped by heavy rain. Richards and Voshell had won the first of the best three out of five set match, at 6-2 and the second set was standing at three games all when play ended for the day.

PADDOCK MAY NOT BE BARRED BY THE A. A. U.

Boston, April 13—Charles Paddock, the California sprinter whose plans for a trip to Paris to compete in the international intercollegiate track meet next month appeared to have come under the ban on competition abroad this year announced by the A. A. U., last night, may yet be able to go and at the same time continue in the good graces of the A. A. U., President William C. Prout of the latter organization, indicated today.

"A vote is now being taken by the international amateur athletic federation" he said, "to determine whether the game at Paris will be recognized as an event in which permission to participate will be granted to athletes of the various countries under I. A. A. F. jurisdiction. If favorable action is taken by the I. A. A. F., there is no reason why Paddock or any other college athlete should not participate.

ACADEMY PLAYS BULKELEY AT NEW LONDON TODAY

The Academy baseball team plays its first interscholsatic game today at New London against the old rival Bulkeley. Coach Eddie McKay has put his team through a stiff practice during the week and the combination is working smoothly. The probable lineup is: Siegal, p; Hollander, c; Sullivan, 1b; McGowan, 2b; McNamara 3b; Strouse, ss; Walz, lf; Kilroy, cf; and Spaulding rf. Other likely recruits will be taken along.

Bulkeley is reported to have a strong team as the larger part of the members are veterans.

CUTLER WINS FIRST BLOCK IN BILLIARDS

New York, April 13—Albert Cutler of Chicago, champion, defeated Charles Peterson of St. Louis 400 to 240 tonight in the first block of their opening match for the world's 18.2 short stop billiard championship.

Peterson won the break, selected the white ball and ran 61 in the first inning. Cutler, playing consistently, passed Peterson in the fourth inning, lost his lead in the eighth and took it again in the eleventh with a run of 100, the highest of the block.

Peterson played in difficulties throughout the block and never was able to develop his stroke.

The score:

Cutler—28 29 2 37 19 31 10 15 16 16 100 17 0 31, total 400; average 28 8-14, high run, 100, 31, (unfinished) 37.

Peterson—41 1 1 3 3 7 27 27 51 0 20 15 4 20, total 240; average 17 2-14, high run 61, 51.

FANS HOPE ROUSH WILL SIGN CONTRACT

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 13—Hope has not been abandoned in local baseball circles that Ed Roush, holdout outfielder of the Cincinnati Nationals, will be brought into the fold.

The directors of the club at another meeting today refused to recede from their original offer to Roush of $16,000 a year minus a $50 fine imposed for every day he remained away from the training camp. Many fans have urged the directors to remit this fine. It was reported that another proposition was made to Roush, but neither party to the controversy would confirm it. There was a persistent rumor, however, that Roush would sign a contract tomorrow at what was called the "club's terms." No elucidation on this was obtainable.

McAULIFFE'S FORFEIT IS POSTED WITH RICKARD

New York, April 13—A forfeit of $1,500 was deposited today with promoter Tex Rickard, by Mark Shaughnessey, manager of Jack McAuliffe, 2nd., of Detroit, guaranteeing the boxer's appearance for his 15-round match with Luis Angel Firpo, South American heavyweight, at the Yankee stadium on May 12.

McAuliffe has been training for some time at Detroit. He will arrive in New York on April 29 to compete his conditioning.

DUKE MULDOON FIRM ON JOHNSON-FULTON BOUT

New York, April 13—New York and New Jersey boxing commissions this afternoon failed to reach an agreement in the controversy over the Floyd Johnson-Fred Fulton heavyweight match, scheduled in Jersey City next Monday night, when William Muldoon, chairman of the New York body, insisted that the bout be postponed until after Johnson's contest with Jess Willard at the Yankee stadium on May 12.

New York, April 13—Mike McTigue announced in a cablegram today that he had refused an offer of $75,000 to box Georges Carpentier in London on May 29. He said he would sail for America early in May.

Joseph Jacobs, McTigue's manager, said negotiations were under way for a match between McTigue and Carpentier in this country some time in June.

MOLLA REFUSES TO TALK OF HER RECENT DEFEATS

FIRST EAST-WEST TENNIS MATCH IS CANCELLED BY WESTERN TEAM

New York, April 13—The first series of the annual east-west tennis matches, slated to have been held at San Francisco, May 4, 5, and 6, today was cancelled after receipt of information from Dr. Sumner Hardy, of the California lawn tennis association that the Pacific coast would be unable to muster a representative team in time for the contests.

The decision of California Tennis authorities, contained a telegram to the New York Lawn Tennis association, came as a surprise to the east, where a team, composed of William T. Tilden of Philadelphia; Vincent Richards of Yonkers, N. Y., and Mrs. B. E. Cole, of Boston, had been selected and arrangements made for their departure for the west in about a week.

No effort will be made, it was said, to arrange a later date for a western series this year.

Dr. Hardy gave no details concerning the inability of the west to organize a strong team for the proposed matches, but it was presumed that business reasons probably prevented William M. Johnston, No. 2 ranking star, and other crack coast players from taking part.

The fate of the second east-west series, tentatively scheduled to be held at Forest Hills, N. Y., in September shortly after the close of the national singles championship, also remains in doubt, it was said, but if the west is as well represented as in the past at the national title events, it is probable that the intersectional clash will be staged.

Triple A Organizes for Season.

The Triple A has organized for the coming season and will open Sunday against the fast All Stars. The Triple A has a strong team this season and is confident of winning the majority of its games. The team will be built around last year's veterans, namely, Hyatt, Goler, Moody, Robinson and Sadinsky.

The probable lineup for Sunday will be: Bryman lf, Sadinsky 3b, Moody 2b, McVeigh 1b, Kelly ss, Robinson cf, McGibney lf, Goler c, Hyatt p.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

"Brick" Mullen, California's great all around athlete, is to help coach the University of California football squad.

Unless Johnny Wilson engages in a bout pretty soon he will be old enough to retire as undefeated middleweight champion.

Lou Bogash's next contest will be Tuesday night at Easton, Pa., where he will take on Sailor Tommy Billiard in a 10-round no-decision bout.

Although the Giants paid $75,000 for Jimmy O'Connell, John McGraw says O'Connell is not a big leaguer and has much to learn.

Wid Matthews, for whom Connie Mack gave Milwaukee three players and $20,000, looks like a fixture in center for the Athletics.

The big stadium of the New York Yankees was completed in 11 months. If the Yankee team shows the same speed, they'll be hard to beat.

Despite the reports that Jess Willard is in fine shape, few there are who believe the old boy can defeat the young Californian, Floyd Johnson.

According to Chicago dope, Manager Gleason thinks his White Sox outfit will be the team to play the Giants in the world's series next fall.

Pacific Coast league players may not pull down as much money as big leaguers, but they enjoy more paydays as a result of the long season.

No golf and no automobiles for the Red Sox during the regular season, according to the edict of Manager Frank Chance.

Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, who battled in the heavyweight division for many years, is now boxing instructor at the Pueblo Y. M. C. A.

Dave Rosenberg, once a New York middleweight champ, will return to the ring about the middle of next month.

Jack McAuliffe, Detroit heavyweight, who is to meet Luis Firpo at the Milk Fund show in Gotham, will soon leave for the matropolis and will finish his training there under the eagle eye of Bill Muldoon.

Ray Ouimet, Kansas City golf champion, will be the professional at the Bristol Country club of Bristol, Tenn., this season. He is a brother of Francis, of amateur fame.

Strange how young athletes go stale. Gene Tunney, who won Harry Greb's title a few weeks ago, is now at Hot Springs to rest and get himself in shape for future bouts.

Mike McTigue will leave Ireland May 1 and will sail to New York, where he expects to reap a harvest of good American dollars on the strength of his victory over Siki.

Prospects of a trip to England for the Oxford-Cambridge vs. Yale-Harvard meet next July has brought out one of the largest track squads Harvard has ever known.

New York fans look forward to seeing several championship bouts this summer, now that the Polo grounds and the Yankees' stadium are all set to hold boxing shows.

Johnny Coulon, ex-bantamweight champion, is thinking of trying a comeback. Although Coulon is 34 years old, he believes he is as good as Johnny Buff, who won the title at 33.

Australia's tennis players participants in Davis cup matches have been invited to stay at Briarcliff Lodge in Westchester county, New York, next summer.

India will be represented by a polo team at the Hurlingham tourney, the feature event in England this summer. It is due May 1, the opening day of the London polo season.

Lupe Rodriguez, Indian pitcher of the Cincinnati Nationals, was released Friday to the Morristown, Tenn., team. He formerly pitched semi-pro baseball in Texas.

The ring game gives many a hard knock but it pays those who stick near the top. Pepper Martin is an example. He recently purchased a $20,000 home at Woodhaven, L. I.

Another big "bootleg" bout is on for Chicago. Frankie Genaro will meet Midget Smith in a 10-round no-decision affair in the stockyards of the Windy City the 23d.

The women's metropolitan golf championship tournament next June will most likely bring together Miss Alexa Stirling, Miss Glenna Collett and Miss Marion Hollins, the greatest trio of women golfers in America.

Nate Siegel, New England boxer, will make his debut at the Knickerbocker A. C. at Albany next Tuesday night, where he is carded to cross gloves with Alex Trambitis in a 12-round set-to.

The Father and Son golf tournament, which has become a fixture in the metropolitan district, has been incorporated as the Pater et Filius Golf association, following the plan of the United States Seniors' Golf association.

That Abe Mitchell will be a serious contender in the coming British open championship was indicated Wednesday when the Briton turned in a score of 67 in the qualifying round of the professional tournament at Roehampton. Mitchell broke the course record by two strokes.

K. O. Phil Kaplan, who in his last five bouts stopped Frank d'Annunzio and Izzie Tanner and won judges' decision over Tony Lyons, Frankie Laurette and Jimmy Amato, has been signed to meet the best opponent obtainable at the Collar City A. C. at Troy, N. Y., April 30.

Yet again Billy McCarney sent word from Excelsior Springs, Mo., that the fans shouldn't be concerned over Willard's week of rest due to a rupture in his right arm, and states that he will bring Jess to New York April 21 to convince Duke Muldoon that his man is in wonderful shape for the Johnson tilt.

A new rule, barring honorary members from playing in the Boston Four-Ball Golf league, probably will be in order this summer. If the rule is adopted it means that Bobby Jones will be unable to represent either Brae-Burn or Waltham in league competition. He is an honorary member of both of these clubs. The new rule would also prevent Bill McPhail and Clark Hodder from representing Waltham. Woodland would use Guilford and Ouimet.

CONNECTICUT CO. MAKES GOOD SHOWING FOR YEAR

$10,415, an increase of $584,489, or 80.2 per cent. over 1921. This was equivalent to 3.27 per share on the $40,000,000 capital stock, all of which is owned by the New Haven railroad. This compares with $1.81 per share earned in 1921. In 1920 the company had a deficit after charges of $1,436,091, but in 1919 there was a surplus of $108,035.

In addition to the capital stock, which is carried on the books at par, New Haven has an investment of $1,000,000 in debentures of the Connecticut Co. and $4,568,916 in notes, making a total of $45,568,916. The stock is all in the hands of federal trustees, who, under decree of the federal court, are to exercise their best efforts to sell the shares before April 1, 1924. The court has from time to time extended the dates on which New Haven was supposed to dispose of various outside investments under the dissolution decree. In view of the attitude of Attorney-General Daugherty and the present administration at Washington, it is probable that the New Haven will be given plenty of time in disposing of its investments and it is even possible it may be permitted to retain indefinitely those which it now has.

Officials of the New Haven road are gratified at the manner in which the earnings and general situation of the Connecticut company, the big subsidiary operating trolley lines in Connecticut, have been improving says the Boston News Bureau. Conditions there shape up quite differently than those in Rhode Island which led to the sacrifice sale of the Rhode Island trolley properties at a loss of over $28,000,000.

Connecticut has taken a constructive attitude toward street railway companies in the state, regulating the motor bus competition and granting reductions in the tax rate. The Connecticut company was also able to achieve economies in operation in 1922 which helped its net income. Although operating revenues of $14,477,611 were $141,599 or about 1 per cent., less than in 1921, operating expenses were reduced $659,731 or 5 1-2 per cent.

The smaller operating revenues were chiefly due to a reduction in the rate of fare of 1 2-3 per cent. which was made effective March 1, 1922, through the sale of three tokens for 25 cents. Approximately 90 per cent. of the passengers took advantage of the reduced rate. A further reduction became effective April 1, 1923, whereby two tokens are sold for 15 cents. Greater commercial activity and full employment however, may serve to increase street railway travel and offset, to some extent, the effects of rate reduction.

FIND TWO REASONS FOR NOT IMPROVING RIVER

According to the report made by the government board of engineers for rivers and harbors, they fail to find that there would be enough probable increase in commerce or saving on freight rates to justify the cost of the deeper channel in the Thames river from Allyn's Point to Norwich, which Norwich merchants have been trying to get.

The official report is issued as follows:

The river and harbor act approved September 22, 1922, contained provision for a preliminary examination of "Thames river, Connecticut." The required examination was made by the district engineer, and his report thereon is favorable to the extent of recommending a survey to determine the cost and advisability of the improvement.

In accordance with law, the report has been referred to the board of engineers for rivers and harbors for consideration and recommendation. From the information presented, the board is not convinced of the advisability of the United States undertaking any improvement of this locality at the present time for the following reason:

It does not anpear that the improvement would result in a sufficient increase in commerce, or saving on freight rates, to justify the probable cost to the government.

All parties interested in the proposed improvement are invited to submit, within a period of thirty days from the date of this notice, statements and arguments bearing upon the necessity for the improvement in the interests of commerce and navigation. Such statements should be addressed to "The Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, Room 2713, Munitions Building, Washington, D. C." Should a hearing be desired, this can be arranged by correspondence with the board.

Madrid, April 13.—One airplane of a squadron of ten planes in the Seville air service crashed today while the squadron was carrying out manoeuvers between Fascinas and Tarifa, near the Straits of Gibraltar. CONSPIRED TO CONCEAL ASSETS IN BANKRUPTCY

New Haven, April 13.—Isaac Sheer of this city was sentenced to thirty days in all by Judge Harlan B. Howe in the United Sttes court here today for conspiracy to conceal assets in bankruptcy. Four others who were also connected with the case were acquitted by a jury on orders from the judge.

Sheer at first pleaded guilty to the charge and tried to withdraw it to enter a plea of not guilty, but was overruled by the judge and sentenced to jail.

The four acquitted were Davis Cohen of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Joseph, Theodore and Hilliard Lanf of Bridgeport.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

THE CIRCUS ELEPHANT

Now in the last story, just when we left off, Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit were on their way to Rabbitville, U. S. A. but I'm sure you remember what the old gentleman rabbit meant to do when he got there. He was going to put Mr. Field Mouse's name down for a billion cent's worth of cheese, and, as Uncle Lucky was president of the Welsh Rabbit Club, he was mighty pleased, let me tell you.

Well, as soon as Uncle Lucky hopped into the Club, Little Jack Rabbit hopped into the lollypop store and then the Soda Fountain shop and after that the Candy Store and if there had been a Bakery close by, maybe he would have gone ther too. Pretty soon, who should come down the street, but his old friend, the Circus elephant, and Oh me, oh my, wasn't the little rabbit glad to see him.

He gave a loud trumpet and went away with the little rabbit.

"The circus will soon be here," laughed the big elephant, "and I want to see your Uncle Lucky about my salary."

"He has just gone into the Club, but he'll be out very soon."

Then, the big kind elephant picked up the little rabbit with his great long trunk and placed him on his back. "We'll go for a ride," he said and started down the street. I guess he forgot all about asking Uncle Lucky for a large salary, he was so glad to see his little bunny friend.

Well, by and by, they came to the Shady Forest where all the feathered folk and the Four-Footed Little People began to sing.

"Oh, tell us when the circus
Is coming back to town:
It's just about a year ago
Since last we saw the clown.
And, Oh dear me, we want to go
And see the elephants in a row—
The tiger and the kangaroo
And the queer man covered with tatoo."

"I must hang up a big poster," said the elephant. "Where's the best place?"

"Right over here on the Chestnut Tree," cried Chippy Chipmunk. "Everybody who goes up the Forest Trail passes here."

So, the big elephant undid his bag and taking out a beautiful colored poster, tacked it up on the tree as nice as you please. First, he pressed in a little tack with the finger on the end of his trunk and then he took a hammer and drove in the tack and after that was done, he gave a loud trumpet and went away with the little rabbit on his back into the next story, when you shall hear what happened after that.

THE THAMES RIVER CHANNEL.

Disappointing as the adverse report is on the deepening and broadening of the channel of the Thames river from Allyn's Point to this city, the door to further efforts is by no means closed.

From such facts as have been presented by those who are interested in having the government undertake this improvement the board of engineers for rivers and harbors has not been convinced of the advisability of such an outlay.

The fact that one of the regular steamers when loaded goes aground in the channel, the fact that it is necessary to lighter lumber in order to have it brought here by boat, the fact that only the box type of barges can be utilized in bringing coal and this city indicates that commerce on the river is being impeded.

It is only through the maintenance and betterment of the advantages of waterway transportation that favorable freight rates are obtained and continued. With the channel unable to accommodate the vessels that handle goods destined for this city the advantage of the river is gradually being denied, and the handicaps that are being experienced now are certain to increase.

Since the channel in the Thames to Allyn's Point has been deepened and widened that has become one of the most important coal discharging stations in this section, according to the New Haven road authorities. The same handicaps prevailed there that exist here at present until the government made the improvement.

The existence of a better channel to this city would, it is fair to believe, result in a like increase in tonnage by water north of that point in the river.

Certainly when the chief engineers recommend that $42,500 can be profitably spent for the maintenance of water hyacinths in the rivers of southern states and the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars on rivers for improvements and maintenance where the tonnage is in some instances nothing, in one instance 51 and in numerous instances where it is less than 15,000 tons, the statement that "it does not appear that the improvement of the Thames river would result in a sufficient increase in commerce, or saving on freight rates, to justify the proposal to the government" cannot be accepted without carrying the matter higher than it has as yet gone.

Immediate advantage should be taken of the opportunity to submit further statements and arguments in behalf of the improvement and to get the benefit of a hearing before the board of engineers at Washington.

This end of Connecticut needs this improvement even though it must contend with the additional handicap of an adverse report.

UNCOLLECTED SAVINGS STAMPS

Once again the director of the United States government savings system lets it be known that there are about $100,000,000 worth of war savings stamps and certificates outstanding, though they were called for payment and should have been cashed the first of January.

The director is anxious to know what kind of people are holding these stamps which are now three months overdue, what their acquaintance is with matters of investment, their character, their outlook on life and their experience with those who would get rich quick through telling alluring tales to the gullible.

Uncle Sam is fully conscious that there has been no "run on the bank" as far as these savings stamps are concerned. This shows what degree of confidence is placed in the government, since the stamps can be cashed at any time, but it indicates that many have not been duly concerned in the past with getting the most out of their savings. The interest on this sum has been lost to the holders of the stamps for a period of more than three months. In the aggregate it means a large sum of money.

In the end it will probably be found that there will be many stamps and certificates that will never be cashed. Some have been lost, some have been intentionally destroyed, some have been forgotten.

The payment for these stamps was fixed for the middle of winter. Inasmuch as holders of the stamps and certificates who had them registered must appear in person to secure them there are many who have delayed cashing them until more favorable weather conditions. Others will wake up some day to the fact that they have something due them, but after a few years roll by, even now after a few months, it is highly probable that there will be those who have failed to collect.

Those, however, who are leaving their money with Uncle Sam for safe keeping should realize that interest on it has stopped and that it should be reinvested in other government securities or elsewhere where the benefit of the interest will still be obtained.

MINIMUM WAGES.

In its decision concerning the minimum wage this week the United States supreme court was called upon to determine whether the law which had been adopted in the District of Columbia was constitutional. It was a minimum wage law which would make it impossible for women and girls to work at less than a fixed wage.

From the way in which the court divided there are apparently strong arguments in behalf of both sides, but the majority believes that the law is unconstitutional because it is an invasion of the right of contract, in that it limited the freedom of the individual to arrange for employment and made possible the inability of certain ones to get employment because they might not be able to earn the minimum wage, although they are able to work and earn a living at a wage which they were willing to accept.

The highest court in the land is for the purpose of interpreting the law and the Constitution. It is not expected to be a weathercock to whirl about by each new change of sentiment in this direction or that direction. When action that is taken contrary to the rights provided under the Constitution it must be expected that the Constitution, rather than an altered changing sentiment will be the guide of the court. And that is what it is. If it is impossible to enact legislation under the plan attempted without violating the constitution it is time to cease or undertake it in a way that will conform to requirements.

The minimum wage decision applies only to the law in the District of Columbia, but it cannot fail to have its bearing upon similar laws elsewhere or efforts being made in that direction.

TWO-DOLLAR BILLS.

What fault did you ever have to find with the two-dollar bill? Was it ever anything more than that it was impossible to get enough of them?

Not because of popular demand, but because it has come to the observation of the secret service that the two-dollar bill is generally favored by those who devote their attention to bill raising, and because it is also said that gamblers consider such bills frightfully unlucky, report has it that the treasury department is considering the discontinuance of the printing of such bills.

If the bill raisers are more kindly disposed to the two-dollar bill for their purposes it is not improbable that such changes in design could be made as to overcome the attractiveness. But perhaps there is no real serious objection to the discontinuance of such a bill. It might be urged that there is no more need for it than there was for the two-cent piece, except that the size and weight does not figure in the same way.

There are those who may from time to time hand out a two-dollar bill in the belief that it is a one, or it may be given in change in the belief that it is a one-dollar bill, but if there is a need which the two-dollar bill fills the proper care will overcome all the trouble that is experienced in its use. Certainly half as many twos are greatly to be preferred to a great wad of ones, even though most people are willing to bear the burden of carrying bills about whatever the denomination may be. If, however, the two-dollar bills must go some better reason for it should be advanced than those which have been suggested.

FIGHTING THE IRISH REBELS.

The Irish Free State government has declared that those who are fighting it must be subdued. The overwhelming odds indicate that this is only a matter of time. There can be little doubt of the outcome, and yet though it is impossible to see a ray of hope for the rebels there is a disposition among them due to the leadership which indicates that a much greater sacrifice of life must be made than is warranted.

The capture of Liam Lynch, and the reported capture of a quartette of other influential men and women irregulars, means the further weakening of that movement. The loss of those previously caught has been felt, quite the same as will the loss of these guiding influences. Rumor which was incorrect, had it that De Valera had been seized. Had that been the case it would unquestionably have meant the quick collapse of the opposition to the Irish free State government.

It is only a matter of time before he will go down like the others. His pursuers are apparently on his heels and he must be prepared to stand the consequences of his acts when he is caught. It is because of his efforts that peace does not prevail in Ireland today. It is because of his work that Ireland has been deprived of some of its leading men and the present government has been forced to the extermination policies it is following.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A little bit cold for real outdoor practice for the Maypole dance.

The man on the corner says: There are those who still cling to the idea that the way of the transgressor isn't discouraging.

For the protection that comes from it, the public is always pleased when a crook makes that one-too-many trips to the well.

One distressing feature of a late spring is the extra long time that it is required to keep the summer furs in cold storage.

Possibly the jury out in Herrin could be gotten to admit that there had been a strike there even though justice be blind.

If the general assembly is going to finish in the time fixed there must be some lively stepping in the next few legislative days.

With $100,000,000 lost by investors in oil in Texas, it is easy to understand why there is so much money in some oil propositions.

Don't be confused. When Mr. Harding goes on his western trip it will be as president and not as candidate at the next presidential election.

Perhaps he didn't mean it that way but the fellow who builds a motorcycle capable of 300 miles an hour is perceptibly shortening the distance to the cemetery.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The frightful accident that recently occurred in Hartford, in the collapse of a huge water tank, has an indictment to make. It carried with it into the street something more than the debris of a shattered tower. It carried with it the verdict of somebody's guilt—which is a good deal more than somebody's carelessness. It was not due to any inherent weakness in the lime, mortar, brick, or any other material used in the construction of the building. Investigation has shown that the tower was not faultily planned; it was fully capable of sustaining the storage that was planned for it. For the purpose of convenience, it would seem, some blunderer removed some of the sustaining foundation, which weakened just enough to cause the tragedy. A water tower, like a chain, is no stronger than its weakest link. As gravitation has no respect for human life the crash came, and with it the guilt of the blunderer.

The summary death of the vicar general of the Roman Catholic church in Russia is conclusive evidence (if, indeed, more evidence is needed) of the character of the soviet government. As far as the facts have come to us this dignitary was guilty of no greater crime than protesting in the common name of humanity against the measures taken towards the Catholics under his jurisdiction. The evidence—that has thus far been given—does not show that they were plotting against the government. They were simply making that stand for their rights that all civilized nations give to their subjects. But the only stand tolerated in Russia today is that of bolshevism, and bolshevism is tyranny galloping down hill into the gutter. With the murder of this church official and his associates the last vestige of human rights have been taken away, and sooner or later, anarchy, ending in revolution, will take place, and thus history will repeat itself.

When the scientist balks over the mystery of the Fatherhood of God we have a right to tell him to go easy in view of some of the exasperating problems in his own field, that are by no means clear. Just a peek at the scientific mind shows that the theologian has no cor r on bigotry. La Place, the greatest name (next to Newton) in mathematical astronomy, actually said this: "I have searched the heavens with my telescope and have discovered stars, but I have never discovered any God." The inference of course is that because the Almighty did not condescend to pose before La Place's lenses, therefore there is no God. For sheer omniscience in the human noodle can you beat that? I do not know of any theologian who even pretends to explain all the problems of the universe, but I could name a good many scientists who disbelieve in the existence of things beyond the reach or microscope, crucible and blow-pipe.

The price we pay for modern improvements, along the line of scientific invention and discovery, was made terribly vivid to the people of Norwich in the tragedy early on Friday, April 6. It makes one stand in perfect awe before the potency of a natural element, when by merely touching the suspension cable of an electric light pole one passes instantly into eternity. As these lines are written it has not been ascertained that it was due to carelessness, but whether it was or not the terrible danger existed to which precious human life was exposed. The question that naturally arises in the popular mind is, how many more electric light poles are in like manner, veritable death-traps, and we know it not? If they are it ought to be discovered without the least delay. Every electric light pole in the city ought to be tested immediately, for the danger is greater than any known epidemic disease.

Dr. Hillis in his great address before the Methodist conference just closed in New London made a telling point in comparing a man who received $5,000 a year for looking after and training a colt of famous pedigree with a school teacher who trains fifty boys and girls at a salary much under a thousand dollars. Our Lord once asked the question: "How much better is a man than a sheep?" The implication was that a man is much better than a sheep, or even a high bred colt. But we must remember that that was the opinion nearly twenty centuries ago, and that opinion in the matter has changed. But none the less it is a burning disgrace that a man who trains colts should be looked upon as a much more valuable man to society than a man or a woman who trains the intellect and morals of our youth. If $5,000 is money well spent in training a fine colt, and probably it is, what is a fair price for training a fine boy?

The Earl of Carnarvon has paid the price of delving into the Egyptology of the past. Personally I admire the spirit of intelligent adventure which he followed with such dauntless courage. No man has ever yet added much to the sum total of human knowledge who did not run some risks, and the risk is always commensurate with the importance of the object sought. To go through life without running any risks one has to be bedridden. To open up the tomb of a king dead for 3,000 years was less risky than to walk some of our Norwich street during the carnival of ice just past, or to go measure of our private or public buildings that have not been ventilated for the same length of time. To say the least, Lord Carnarvon did not recklessly throw his life away like some bridge jumper or steeple climber, for no higher purpose than for the cheap notoriety of having done a bit of daredevilry.

However, some interesting questions arise. How did old Tut and the earl meet in the Unseen World? Or haven't they met yet, or will they ever meet? Who knows? If they have, was it in this fashion: "Hullo, Tut!" and "Hi, Carn!" Or did old Tut take advantage of the meeting and express his opinion in vigorous, unprintable Egyptian about the liberty taken with his precious old mummy? To my mind the position taken by Sir Conan Doyle and others that Carnarvon's death was due to some avenging spirit over the spoliation of this ancient tomb is simply tommy rot. If one spirit can energize so can another. If so old Tut can probably do his own avenging without the help of others looking around for a job. But the point that troubles me is here, have the dead any rights that the living are bound to respect? To dig up a dead body today even for medical purposes is called cowardly body-snatching. But is it body-snatching only for a certain time, after which it becomes noble archaeology?

The part played by light in the creation of color forms a very interesting study. Color is nothing more than light in variation. We call the spear of grass green because it has the power of extracting the green tint out of the sunlight; the lily is blue and the rose red for precisely the same reason. All combustible material is the storage of light and heat. All fuel products of the earth hold light and heat in reserve; combustion brings out both of them. The light has a salutary effect on the human disposition and temperament. Two weeks without the sun shining brings on a general depression. People say that "it gets on their nerves." Carry the light in the form of flowers into the sick room and it will have a salutary effect; place them upon the casket of the dead and it seems to rob death of some of its gloom. If we would all of us carry in our hearts a little more sunlight into this great world of darkness it would do more than anything else to touch it with heaven.

MONTICELLO, THE HOME OF JEFFERSON.

The nation-wide observance of Thomas Jefferson's birthday on April 13th centred at Monticello, where with impressive ceremonies there was launched a new campaign to acquire this historic property and maintain it for all time as a national memorial to the author of the Declaration of American Independence and the Virginia statute of religious freedom.

Monticello, the home of Jefferson from 1770 until his death on July 4th, 1826, built after his own ideas and under his close personal supervision, remains today one of the distinctly beautiful and artistic houses of America. The Marquis de Chastellux, who paid a visit to the author of the Declaration of Independence toward the close of the Revolution, wrote after his sojourn at Monticello, "Jefferson is the first American who consulted the fine arts to know how he should shelter himself from the weather." And in 1797, another Frenchman, the Duc de la Rochefocauld-Liancourt, said "Monticello, according to its first plan, was infinitely superior to all other houses in America in point of taste and convenience."

Everything about Monticello is peculiarly and specifically identified with Jefferson. The name itself is one of Jefferson's choosing and is expressive of his love for the musical tongue of the country which had long been preeminent in the domain of the fine arts. Even today Virginians follow the precedent set by Jefferson himself and give the flavor of the real Italian pronunciation to the name of the place, calling it as if spelled in English M-o-n-t-i-ch-e-l-l-o, though to the great majority of his countrymen the name has long since been Anglicised, the c receiving the pronunciation of s instead of the softer ch of the original Italian. The name, signifying as it does, "little mountain", is appropriate, as the height on whose summit the mansion rests, is some while 860 feet above sea level uses only 580 feet from the surrounding country and, by comparison is of lesser majesty than the Ragged Mountain and the Blue Ridge which are in full view from along its slopes.

Monticello is in Albemar'e County, Virginia, about three miles from Charlottesville, the seat of the University of Virginia, which Jefferson founded and which is prominent in the foreground of the beautiful vista presented to the beholder at the top of the "little mountain". It is a little over a hundred miles from Washington and about half way between that city and Richmond. From both cities it is easily accessible, two railroads, the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Southern Railway, having important lines running through Charlottesville.

On every side from the spot which Jefferson selected as the site of his home stretch great forests of some of the most beautiful country in the United States. There is nothing in the handiwork of man to mar the splendid view from the eastern or front portico of Monticello, and, if the human eye were equal to the task, the Atlantic ocean, some 200 miles away would be visible to the sightseer. In the foreground winds the Rivanna river, a mile away, to whose bring the mountain gently slopes from the eastern lawn of the estate. On a clear day the stream may be traced for miles by its cultivated valley through what appears to be unending forest. To the southwest the Ragged Mountains halt the view; to the northwest the Blue Ridge crowns a prospect of one of the most beautiful countries in the world. Of it it has been said: "The rugged mountains and the peaceful valleys, the ragged hills and the gentler slopes, and the winding streams that gleam and glitter in the gilding sun like ribbons of silver on the bosom of mother earth do, in truth, justify the most extravagant language of admiration. "In every direction, embowered in green groves, are the homesteads of the descendants of Jefferson's friends? Ashlawn, James Monroe's home, is but a short distance away and Montpelier where James Madison lived, is fifteen miles distant.

In every way Monticello constitutes an intimate and personal memories of Jefferson to a far greater degree than the home of any other of our presidents or of the great figures in American history. The site of his birthplace, Shadwell, burned just before the Revolution, is only a short distance away. He himself selected the site for his mountain home, supervised the clearing and leveling of the mountain top, drew the designs and plans for the house, selected the stone and timber used in the structure, directed the preparation of the former and the dressing of the latter, looked after the construction of the bricks and the nails made by his own servants, devised advanced and ingenious contrivances for comfort and convenience, designed the decoration of the interior and personally selected the furnishings and ornaments and not only planned but gave personal supervision to the laying out of the various buildings on the estates, the gardens, the walks and the roadways. There was no detail too small for his personal attention and even in his long and unavoidable absenses as his country's representatives in France, as also during the eight years of his residence in Washington as president, he sent long and detailed instructions to the superintendent at Monticello as to his wishes in regard to almost every part of his estate or feature of its improvement and management. Monticello is most peculiarly the personal expression and creation of Jefferson. No wonder that the infinite and painstaking care and the never-abating interest exercised by him in its more than thirty years of building—it was started in 1784 and was not finally completed until 1809—won the deserved commendation of the Marquis de Chastelleux as to its beauty and of the Duc de la Rochefoucauld-Liancourt as its comfort and convenience.

It has been said that the home took more than thirty years in building. Jefferson himself is said to have remarked that he supposed he would never be finished with it. After his return from France he made considerable alterations and he was always seeking to effect improvements. He was some of age when the first work on the structure was started in 1764 and in its main outlines Monticello was habitably complete seven years later.

Like Washington, Jefferson was a surveyor and has been trained in the law and not in architecture, but it has been said repeatedly of his creation, Monticello, that it might have served to set a style for his countrymen in house-building. The drawings of Palladio afforded his inspiration but with what is generally conceded as finer taste and superior judgment to another student of Palladio, who was more directly concerned with building and architecture, Inigo Jones. Jefferson confined his selection of models to the purer examples of classical architecture, where as Jones, more of a mind with Palladio's personal preferences, followed him and developed the so-called Georgian style.

The exterior of Monticello is in the Doric order of Grecian architecture with heavy cornices and massive balustrades. The interior is in the Ionic style.

Monticello, undoubtedly the finest mansion in that section of Virginia, its owner, according to his account books, about $7,200. It is 100 feet front and 100 feet in depth. The ornamental stone was brought from Philadelphia to Richmond by water and hauled from Richmond in carts to the mountain top. The bricks were made on the premises by Jefferson's own slaves. The frame, the flooring and most of the woodwork was made from timber cut and dressed on the place. Every nail in the building was forged by hand by Jefferson's own servants.

Captain Edmund Bacon, for twenty years Jefferson's overseer and man of business, said that Jefferson's visitors "ate him out of house and home."

At any rate on Jefferson's death, the estate was so impoverished that his heirs were compelled to part with Monticello, reserving the family burial plot, a short distance from the house, to the descendants of Jefferson. It is here on the site which Jefferson as a boy of fifteen, is said to have selected for his final resting place that he is buried. Above his remains stood a simple granite obelisk, erected by the government, and bearing the epitaph penned by Jefferson himself: "Here was buried Thomas Jefferson, Author of the Declaration of American Independence, of the Statute of Virginia for Religious Freedom, and Father of the University of Virginia."

Shortly after Jefferson's death, his daughter, Mrs. Randolph, sold Monticello with its 552 acres to James T. Barclay, a druggist in Charlottesville. He found it expedient to dispose of it after a short residence. As soon as he heard that Monticello was for sale, Commodore Uriah Phillips Levy of the United States Navy, who had always been an admirer of Jefferson, set out for Charlottesville. On his way there he called on President Andrew Jackson at Washington and told him of his purpose. Jackson said: "I command you to buy it." Commodore Levy bought the property and took possession in 1833. With the exception of the period during the Civil war, when it was confiscated by the Confederacy, Monticello has remained the possession of the Levy family for some ninety years, the present owner being former Congressman Jefferson M. Levy of New York City. During the Levy tenancy, additional land has been added to the holdings of Jefferson at the time of his death, until the estate now comprises more than 600 acres.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

REMEMBER CHRIST.

To remember, in this connection, means to purposely call to mind and to keep before the mind's eye. We are to call to mind Jesus Christ; we are to imagine or picture Him to ourselves in such a way as to make Him personally very real, and we are to do this so constantly that He will seem near and dear to us at all times.

How may we thus remember Him? As we would a friend who has passed from this world. We may recall His acts and sayings; we may go over them in our mind, and wonder at them, and admire them, and endeavor to catch glimpses of the inner soul of the person who acted and spoke so. It is so we should treat the departed friend. It is so we should try to live again with Him sharing His thoughts, His motives, His desires. It is so we should keep His memory dear. And Jesus was human enough to wish to be treated as the dearest of dear friends. He did not desire to hold our respect and admiration alone, but wished for the closest bonds of friendship. He would have us men love Him in such a way that all other ties would seem small to them besides the desire of living in the closest association with Him.

It is so with all love; the greater it is the more it desires to win love from the beloved. And the love of Jesus, so strong and tender as it is, calls for all the love we can give. How can we pretend to love a person of whom we seldom think, whose thoughts and ways we leave out of our mind? That is a sham love. Therefore remember Jesus Christ.

You must feel that it will hurt Him bitterly if you neglect to remember Him. It will hurt Him just as it would hurt any dear friend only a great deal more as His love is much deeper than any earthly love and the disappointment will be proportionately great. He has wished so much that you should hold Him dear to you.

Think how deep was His personal interest in man; how He considered the needs of each individual, for He knew the hearts of His disciples, of such sinners as the woman at the well and of the proud Pharissees.

He could speak to them all in such a way that they knew He saw into their hearts. It is said of Him more than once in the Gospels that He knew men's thoughts.

Think of His gentleness in dealing with sinners; of His pleading with them and forgiving them.

Think of His humanity; of how He became one of us; of His courage, virility, uprightness, straightforwardness; think of Him in every human respect, and realize for yourself that as man He was a king among men.

Then think of His divinity, try to realize without taking away anything from His human nature. In and through all He did show the power and wisdom and grace of God. The same passage in Philippians which speaks of His humility also speaks of His being consciously equal with God.

In every way try to make the personality of Christ clear and dear to yourself. Remember Him as a man among men. Remember Him as the Son of God who came to earth from His Father's throne, and has gone back again to await us, His beloved, and receive us into the many mansions. Let us each strive to say with Florence Nightingale, "If I could give you information of my life, it would be to show how a woman of very ordinary ability has been led by God in strange and unaccustomed paths to do His service what He has done in her, and if I could tell you all, you would see how God had done all and I nothing. I have never refused God anything."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Obadiah Gardner, who retires today from the International Joint Commission, has served nearly ten years as a member of that body, which has jurisdiction over the American-Canadian boundary waters. During most of that time he has been chairman of the commission. Mr. Gardner hails from Maine, in which State he has long been prominent in politics and public affairs. Farming was his original vocation and he first came into prominence through his activities in the National Grange, of which organization he rose in time to be the chief national executive officer. His interest in politics and his wide acquaintance throughout the Pine Tree State combined to draw him into the political arena and after one or two unsuccessful candidacies for public office on the Democratic ticket, he entered the United States senate in 1911.

Wives of Famous Men

Catherine Boutcher, Wife of William Blake

Making a success of marriage with an eccentric and temperamental painter is no mean task, but Catherine Boutcher, wife of William Blake, painter and poet of the Eighteenth Century, accomplished that. Blessed with a rare combination of good looks, good humor and good sense, she managed to keep the artist and herself happy all the years of their life together.

Original in all things, Blake made no exception of his courtship. He was describing one evening to Miss Boutcher the pains he had suffered at the hands of a capricious lady.

"I pity you from my heart," sympathized the dark-eyed Kate.

"Do you pity me?" was the quick reply, "then I love you for that."

"And I love you," was Kate's frank answer and so they were married.

"Blake," writes a commentator, "must have been glad that his first love refused him, for Mrs. Blake was a most admirable wife. She made herself at home and was content with the simplest food and plainest clothes. The only thing she really cared for was her husband's fame. She colored with a light and neat hand the impressions of his drawings, and what is more remarkable she kept a secret, which he confided only to her in reference to his method of coloring."

Blake died in his 71st year, and almost his last words were:

"I have no grief but in leaving you, Catherine; we have lived happy and we have lived long." Three days before his death he saw his wife in tears and exclaimed:

"Stay, Kate. Keep just as you are. I will draw your portrait, for you have ever been an angel to me."

Stories That Recall Others

The Canary's Airing.

George, age five, is a pretty sharp youngster and picks up much of the slang that goes the rounds. He was greatly interested last summer in his neighbor's canary and when the bird was put on the porch on the warm days often stood beside the cage and submitted various questions as to the bird's habits generally. One of the questions was: "Why do you put the bird out of doors?" He appeared satisfied when told it was to give the bird fresh air.

A few days ago George dropped in the neighbor's house. Spying the bird he said he guessed it was too cold to put the singer outside now, and when told that his guess was correct, studied for a minute, and then said: "Oh, well, I suppose you'll give him the air again next summer?"

Middle names were once illegal in England.

THE DAYS.

One day, and one day, and one day, and the years go by;
Flowers bring the summer, stars light the sky;
Kisses follow laughter, the heart beats high,
One day, and one day, and one day, and the years fly.

One day, and one day, and years by slow degrees
The frosts [illegible] the winds cease;
Work brings rest, and love and God send gift on gift
Before.
One day, and one day, and one day, and the years increase.

One day, and one day, and one day, and the years wane;
Snow crowns the hills, and the great [illegible] deserts
Colors of the heart in the sunset blend—
One day, and one day, and so the years end.

One day, and one day, and so the sands run;
Flowers on the coffin, weeping in the sun;
The short journey over, the long rest begun.
One day, the last day, and all days are done.

REQUIEM.

Umber and sacre are melting into fawn
Stretches the sea beneath my eyes at dawn,
And with the sun wind-fingers tightly trace
Patterns of wondrous beauty on its face;
Like some white soul, glimpsed heaven-bound in flight,
A soaring gull flashes across the light,
Gleams for an instant, then is lost to view
In the fast widening struggle of blue.
Here, on these cliffs, where ebb and flow of sea
Are but an symbols of eternity,
I hear remorseless, the unending roar
Of the sea's bourdon on the granite shore;
Through the night's vast, dim aisles I hear the tones
Of the wind rise in treble antiphones,
Here let me rest when I shall fall asleep
And play above me and below the deep,
The symphony of the wind, the ocean roll
Of the sea's voice be requiem for my soul!

There are several living specimens in zoos of the "tenrec," the hedgehog of Madagascar. It is said that stuffed specimens in museums give no adequate idea of these very curious creatures. Their resemblance to hedgehogs rests only on their possession of a spiny covering. The shape of their bodies resembles that of inflated globe fish. They are insectivorous, and are said to be restricted to the island of Madagascar. The specimens seen in this country are remarkable for their habit of yawning.

Portland cement is so called from its resemblance in color to Portland stone. It is made from chalk and gault clay in definite proportions. These materials are intimately mixed with water and formed into a sludge. This is dried, and when caked is roasted in a kiln until it becomes hard. It is afterward ground to a fine powder, in which state it is ready for market. This cement is much employed along with gravel for making artificial stone. A month after it is set it forms a substance so hard as to emit a sound when struck.

told of the needs of the work for the coming year, stating that because of a much larger budget of expenses on account of the enlarged work in the new plant there must be secured much more money than ever before; he expressed the belief that the people of Norwich had always responded to every reasonable request by the Y. M. C. A. and that they would keep up their good record in behalf of the work for the coming year.

Senator William G. Park, who is deeply interested in all phases of Y. M. C. A. work was called upon and he spoke enthusiastically for the campaign expressing his confidence that it would be "put across" and promised to do all he his power to bring about that end.

Former President James L. Case on invitation talked in his usual convincing way about the greatness of the "Y" work, and the kindness of the people to "stand by". He impressed the workers with the greatness of the task this year, and urged with great earnestness that every worker back to the limit the leader, Mr. Palmer. Other brief remarks were made, after which General Palmer gave the workers some suggestions and instructions urging that every team worker keep at it with determination until the job was completed. The meeting was interspersed with the singing of popular songs with James L. Case as song leader and Joseph S. Adams at the piano; this added much to the liveliness of the meeting.

BOY SCOUTS TO ENLIST IN SEARCH TO SOLVE TIBBITTS' DISAPPEARANCE

The mystery of the disappearance of William Tibbitts of Fitchville remains as deep as ever despite the efforts of the state police and officials of Bozrah to solve the case.

On Friday the officers put in a hard day running down clues and by night had established several that gave evidence of having a bearing on the mysterious disappearance of Tibbitts, who is believed to have been murdered at his farmhouse some time early Monday night.

The officers received several tips Friday and held consultation with State's Attorney Hadlai A. Hull in New London, going over the case, beginning with the discovery that Tibbitts was missing on Tuesday, tracing the developments down to Friday afternoon.

The tips received Friday threw an entirely new light on the mystery and although nothing was given out it was stated Friday night that there might be developments of considerable importance in the case today (Saturday) after the officers had run down the new clues.

Enlists Aid of Boy Scouts.

On Friday night Constable Jeremiah Sweeney of Bozrah was asked to speak to the Boy Scouts in session in the town hall and explain to them some of the clues and developments of the case. Constable Sweeney explained the theory that the buggy missing from Tibbits' farm had been driven to Norwich over Otrobando road and explained how the Scouts could assist in the work of searching for Tibbitts, whose body may be hidden at some point on the road between Fitchville and Norwich.

Scout Executive F. A. Benton announced that the Norwich Boy Scouts would gladly render all assistance within their power to aid in the discovery of the missing man, and the Scouts would start out at 9 o'clock Saturday morning and, beginning at the bridge at the Falls, where it was believed traces of the missing buggy had been found, would comb the road for some distance on either side from that point back to Tibbitts' farm. The Scouts will also organize parties to search all riverbanks between Norwich and Fitchville where there is a chance that the body might have been thrown.

With the Scouts working today in numbers of about 100, there is a real chance of finding the body of Tibbitts, if it has been disposed of anywhere between this city and his home, and by their work the Scouts will be doing a real service that will be appreciated by those at work on the case.

Watch Dog's Movements.

Another incident in the case which was not followed to any extent previous to Friday is the action of Tibbitts' dog, but actions of the dog on Friday were such that several people who were around believed they might possibly throw some light on the disappearance of his master if followed up.

On Tuesday night, some hours after it had been discovered that Tibbitts was missing and foul play was suspected, Tibbitts' dog, a shepherd, returned home and lay down on the front porch of the house. The dog was tired out and was soaking wet, evidently having traveled for a long distance through woods or swamps. Efforts to make the dog point a trail were in vain and the tired animal soon went into the barn and went to sleep in the hay near the horse stalls.

Since that time the animal has acted lonesome and hung about the farm as though it knew that something was wrong.

Friday afternoon the dog, which had been lying on the porch of the house, started out on to the road leading toward Fitchville and disappeared into the woods above the old creamery not far beyond Tibbitts' home. He was followed and led the men on a straight trail through the woods for a distance of over a quarter of a mile, and was lost to sight in the thick brush. Efforts to get the dog back were not successful, and the men returned to the farm.

By the action of the dog in starting out and following a straight line through the woods it was believed that he was headed for some definite place, perhaps where his master disappeared. In the region where the dog disappeared there are swamplands and in the distance is an old road running back into the woods and off in the direction of Salem.

Think Auto May Have Carried Body.

Although the police were hard at work getting at the mystery from other angles, which seem to be the best yet found to shed any light on the mystery, several people are beginning to believe that perhaps the body was not carried from the farm in the buggy despite the fact that what appear to be bloodstains are found on the floor of the buggy.

They contend that it is possible the body was carried in the direction of Fitchville by the automobile seen in front of the house and was disposed of somewhere in that direction, while the second man seen with Tibbitts Monday night drove the buggy into Norwich. They state that had this been done there would still be opportunity for the man in the automobile to dispose of the body and return to Norwich in time to join his companion in the buggy before he reached Water street, where the missing buggy and horse were discovered by the police, and Lavarge saw two men riding in it.

Suspects All Cleared So Far.

From the start evidence has seemed to point to the fact that the murder, if murder was committed at the farm, was by someone known to Tibbitts, and several people who were at times under suspicion have been questioned at length by officers at work on the case. In all cases the whereabouts of the suspected parties on the night of the supposed murder have been established to the satisfaction of the officers.

Search in New Direction.

From evidence and clues secured on Friday it is believed that the state police and officers at work on the case will direct their efforts to run down stories which will take them to another section not previously gone over in the search for Tibbitts. State Policeman Sterling when asked about this Friday night did not commit himself but stated that everything was being done to work out the case, and the officers were satisfied that their work thus far on the mystery had disclosed considerable information that was given credit in that it had come from reliable sources.

The officers have worked and run down every clue found by them thus far in the case, and there is much to be done. The fact that Tibbitts is missing and the tracks well covered has made the case one that requires careful work by the officers who have had to run down numerous clues that have been given to weed out those that have no bearing on the case.

Today's developments, it is expected, will throw more light on the mystery and by getting at the case from an entirely different angle there is a chance that the mystery may be cleared up within a short time.

WILL ASK CITY FOR PLAYGROUNDS APPROPRIATION

The city recreation commission which has in hand the development of playgrounds for the children of Norwich held its regular monthly meeting in the city court room Friday evening.

The equipment committee of the commission reported that orders had been placed for various pieces of equipment for the Lake Street playgrounds. Plans for the development of this tract, which has been given over by the city for the uses of the commission, were discussed.

The budget committee presented a report embodying their estimates for the year, and after some discussion the minimum amount necessary to care for the work was determined, and the committee was directed to arrange for a joint meeting with the city finance committee, for the purpose of bringing it before the next city meeting.

Various petitions from groups of children in different parts of the city for the establishment of playgrounds have been received, and there are many indications that there is a widespread interest in this movement. Various locations where the needs are greatest have been made available, and it is sure that efficient supervision will be forthcoming if the very modest requirements of the budget committee meet with the approval of Norwich citizens. Owing to the peculiar layout of the city a number of these grounds will be required, and in some sections there is a crying need for them. During the ten weeks of the summer vacation too many children have very little place but the streets to play in, and it is but their right that the city should provide places which are safe, where proper play under proper supervision is possible. It will be a boon to hundreds of mothers and an inestimable benefit to the children themselves.

ACADEMY BOYS SING AT NORWICH SANATORIUM

The Boys' Glee Club of the Norwich Free Academy gave a delightful concert at the tuberculosis sanatorium Friday night. Thirty fellows went and were given a very hearty reception. The program was made up of many snappy numbers by the club, interspersed by violin solos by Henry Brynan, vocal solos by George Fairbanks and piano solos by Robert Otis.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell served refreshments and entertained the boys in turn with a radio concert.

Women's Missionary Meeting

The April meeting of the Woman's Home Mission circle of the First Baptist church was postponed last Tuesday for a week and is to be held at the home of Mrs. William Koons of Peck street. The postponement was because of the Baptist convention in New London.

SCOUT MERIT BADGES AT COURT OF HONOR

Over 40 scouts assembled in the office of Mayor Milo R. Waters in the town building Friday night when a court of honor was held and about twenty-five scout merit badges were distributed.

The court met at 7.30 o'clock and was called to order by Bugler F. A. Benton, Jr., with the assembly call. The scouts then stood at attention and saluted the court. The invocation was by Rev. E. C. Dunbar, pastor of the First Baptist church, and was followed by the function of the Court of Honor by Scout Executive F. A. Benton.

The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. T. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity M. E. church, and was greatly enjoyed by the scouts and their guests.

Professor Henry A. Tirrell, president of the Court of Honor, then took charge of the session and called upon the various scouts to come forward and receive their awards. As each scout received the merit badges earned they were questioned about their knowledge of the subject by members of the court and scout commission present.

During the session Scout Executive Benton received the award of the Veteran badge, and merit badges to scouts were awarded as follows:

Troop No. 1, Dennis LeVarge, electricity, handicraft, basketry, carpentry; Edward Gutcomb, firemanship, swimming; Albert Rodgers, hiking; Edward Antoodlian, interpreting.

Troop No. 6, Frank Mousley, handicraft, camping, hiking, bird study.

Troop No. 9, Lawrence Browning, hiking, camping, bird study.

Troop No. 12, Otis Fellows, life saving.

Troop No. 16 (S-1) Levi Talbot, cooking, personal health.

Troop No. 12, Allen Latham, Jr., cycling, public health, pioneering, craftsmanship (wood), scholarship.

After the presentation of the badges Constable Jeremiah Sweeney of Bozrah explained the details of the mystery surrounding the disappearance of William Tibbits of Fitchville and the scouts volunteered to assist in the search for the missing man, beginning at the bridge by the Falls and working back towards Fitchville.

Benediction was pronounced and taps sounded by Burgler F. A. Benton, Jr.

GOVERNOR TEMPLETON COMING FOR Y. M. C. A. ANNIVERSARY

The Norwich public is invited to one of the largest events of the year on Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock at the new Y. M. C. A. building. The occasion is the anniversary meeting of the Norwich Young Men's Christian association.

The Association is to be honored by the presence of Governor Templeton, who will participate in the meeting as one of two speakers. The principal address of the evening will be delivered by Dr. Thomas Chalmers of Boston who always delights his audiences.

Doctor Chalmers is a graduate of Harvard A. B., 1891, and studied abroad in the Universities of Marburg, Germany, St. Andrew's, Scotland. He received the degree of doctor of divinity at the hands of Doctor Tucker of Dartmouth, in 1908. He was ordained to the Congregational ministry in 1894 under the tutelage of the late Washington Gladden. He was pastor of the First church, Port Huron, Michigan, from 1894-1900, during which time he also served as dean of the Michigan Military Academy. He was pastor of the First church, Manchester, New Hampshire, seventeen years. During that time, he was recognized as one of the leading clergymen of New England. He served several years as chairman of the New England Congregational congress, was a member of the Manchester school board, was elected to the New Hampshire senate in 1913 and was the republican caucus nominee for president of the senate in 1917. In 1906 he was chairman of the committee of twelve, famous in recent New Hampshire history. It was the work of this committee and chiefly due to the direction of Doctor Chalmers that the million dollar race track at Salem was forbidden by a special decision of the state supreme court to operate under a special charter, designed to free the race track corporation from the penalties of the New Hampshire laws against gambling. In his autobiography, entitled "My Generation," President Tucker, referring to this chapter in his life says that "The Reverend Thomas Chalmers of Manchester was the first man to call public attention to public danger."

Dr. Chalmers has been in demand by educational institutions for addresses chiefly on his favorite subjects of Americanism and citizenship. Both at home and in Europe, he has made a special study of English history as a foundation to American history.

In 1917 with five boys and four girls to educate, Doctor Chalmers became head master of the Allen school, of West Newton, which had been famous under Horace Mann and Nathaniel Allen, but at that time had temporarily suspended animation. The school was reorganized as the Allen Military school, and was immediately successful. It now fills a half dozen buildings on both sides of Waltham street in West Newton, and is known for the sturdy character of its ideals of citizenship. Besides the training of young men for duty during the war Doctor Chalmers sent three of his own sons into the service. Two of these were commissioned officers. One of them received his commission at the age of 18. The oldest, Thomas Lewis was killed in the service.

Doctor Chalmers is lecturer on history in Boston university. It was Doctor Chalmers who recently conducted the French side of the debate with Professor Buell of Harvard, reported in the Literary Digest, on France in the Ruhr.

START EFFORTS FOR Y. W. C. A. IN NORWICH

Over 70 women met at the social rooms of the United Congregational church Friday night at 7.30 o'clock to hear a talk on the Young Women's Christian Association by Mrs. Helen B. Schuyler of the National Y. W. C. A. headquarters of New York. Mrs. Schuyler described in detail the working of the Y. W. C. A. and what it would mean to the girls and women of Norwich to have an association in this city. She stated that in cities where there were Y. W. C. A. buildings women and young women had a chance to enjoy the same privileges that the men could enjoy in the Y. M. C. A.

Another important feature brought out was that in Norwich today there is no place where a young woman could go when in search of accommodations or advice, and the establishing of a Y. W. C. A. here would meet this need. There is also a local need for such an association, far greater than the outside need.

The women listened to the speaker and at the close of her remarks a general vote showed a unanimous opinion that Norwich should have a Y. W. C. A. Miss Elizabeth Pullen volunteered as chairman of a survey committee and other women are to volunteer to serve with her. It is planned to make a survey of the available buildings in the city in a location near the center of the city, to determine the costs of establishing a Y. W. C. A. When these plans have been completed another meeting is to be held and work started to establish an association in this city, ope which the women believe is greatly needed.

In this work the women are appealing for the support of the men of the city, the Rotary club, chamber of commerce, business houses, and everybody who is interested in providing the young women in bod of Norwich a place where they might meet and enjoy the privileges afforded the young men through the Y. M. C. A.

The first meeting of the day was held Friday afternoon at 3.30 at the home of Mrs. Oliver L. Johnson at 96 Union street when about 65 women met to hear Mrs. Schuyler. At this gathering the meeting agreed that Norwich should have and if possible will have in the near future a Y. W. C. A. for its young women.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

At the Orpheum theater Friday evening the pageant Light with a cast of pupils from the local public schools was very effectively staged under the direction of the committee on education of the Killingly Woman's club. This pageant has been given in many places throughout the country and everywhere has been splendidly received as symbolical of what education achieves in enlightening the mind and broadening the vision.

At Wauregan Friday morning the funeral of Louis Arsenault was held, with services at Sacred Heart church, Rev. J. C. Mathieu, the pastor, being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in Sacred Heart cemetery. Friends acted as bearers. Louis E Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

A week from Monday brings the first of the town tax collection days, which will extend through to the latter part of May. Collector George A. Williams has given the usual timely notices as to the times and places where he will be available for the taxpayers to meet and adjust their obligations to the town.

State road crews are hustling at the job of repairing highways that were knocked about so hard during the winter and early spring season. Particular attention is being paid to the stretch of highway between Morin avenue and Elmville. This road was rutted and as full of holes as a fish net up to the time the repair work started, but is in much better condition now and being improved daily.

No fish that is regarded as a real contender for the fine prizes offered by the Danielson Rod and Gun club to members catching the largest trout has yet been produced. One brought in from Wauregan weighed 17 ounces, while one shown this week by William M. Franklin of Broad street weighed 14 ounces. These are very good trout, but it is felt that no fish weighing less than a pound and a half is likely to have a chance as a prize winner once the weather warms up and the big uns begin to bite.

At St. Joseph's church in Dayville this week and, Rev. Francis T. Ledwith, M. S., is bringing to a close a mission for the English-speaking people that has been most successful and has nightly brought together large congregations to be edified by the eloquence of this masterful preacher, whose work as a missionary has attracted widespread attention in New England. The mission will be brought to a close on Sunday.

Universal sympathy is being expressed for the family of Xavier Trahan, who died Thursday afternoon of burns he received while using kerosene to start the kitchen fire at his home Thursday morning. Mr. Trahan had been in Danielson but four months, coming here from Canada with his wife and twelve children, the majority of whom are very young.

Considerable progress has been made this week at Dayville with the work of building a stretch of macadam highway, an operation undertaken by the New Haven road in connection with its plan to eliminate the White street crossing in that village. The work will be completed during the present month, it is anticipated, and this dangerous crossing will be no more.

It is expected that work on the Cloister, originally providing apartments for 27 families, will be resumed in the near future at Connecticut village. Excepting for completing the roofing work labor on this structure has been suspended for about two years. It will be an imposing structure when completed. At the present time an apartment of it is in use as class rooms for a branch of St. James' parochial school. There is a possibility that a school building will be erected near the Cloister at some time in the future, but all plans are indefinite as yet.

Members of Danielson Camp, Modern Woodmen of America, have been invited to be the guests of the camp at Putnam next Monday evening, when the head of the order in the state will be in attendance and a crack degree team from the camp at Montville will be in charge of the degree work. Effort is being made to secure as large a number of the Danielson members as may be possible to be present at this meeting, which will be of very special interest.

Danielson is one of the places where an intensive campaign will be conducted some time during May in the interest of the Nurses' Home fund of the Day Kimball hospital. This fund is now reaching toward the $6,000 mark and it is hoped to increase this to $10,000 by June 1 in order that work on the home may be undertaken. There are many liberal friends of the hospital in Danielson and other sections of the town of Killingly and these are expected to be very much interested and to be willing workers in furthering the nurses' home project, one that is urgent. Much of the fund so far raised has been contributed by residents of the town of Pomfret.

In various lines of business the prosperity of thousands of workers in this territory is reflected in the buying being done, this resembling in some measure the liberal expenditures of many workers during the period of the World war. This is a spring when the best of everything is being demanded. Business is good with the workers and thousands of them have another raise in pay coming in about two weeks, and the combination tends to loosen the purse strings and make merchandising a more lively occupation.

All teachers of the Killingly and Brooklyn school departments have been re-elected for next year, Superintendent of Schools Leon M. Farrin states. A few increases in salaries, amounting to several hundred dollars, have been granted. The list of salaries may be announced later.

At a meeting of the Killingly school board Thursday evening, the following teachers were re-elected:

High school—Ernest R. Warren, Robert G. Bruce, Marion D. Cholar, Louise W. Danielson, Adah A. Danielson, Roberta A. Horton, Bertha E. Stevens, Flora A. Shippee.

Danielson grammar — Elton E. Knight, Clara M. Williams, Grace M. Stanton, Myrtle E. Marland, Elizabeth R. Woodworth, Anna M. Hammett, Edith L. Fuller, Esther C. Holley.

Goodyear—Herbert D. Hoyt, A. Laura Chase, C. Ella Day, Ruth A. Fiske, Agnes W. Jacobs.

Dayville — Winifred E. Duffee, Mary D. Russ, Maude D. Capron, Mrs. Lulu W. Bailey.

Attawaugan — Margaret M. MacConnell, Mary E. MacConnell, Cora S. LaBossiere, Anna C. Butler.

Ballouville—Grace W. Edick, S. Eloise Shelton.

East Killingly—Mary Reece, Mrs. Frances U. Spaulding.

South Killingly—Mildred E. Kelley.

Valley—Dorothy Logee.

Tucker—Gladys E. Salmon.

The Brooklyn school committee, at a meeting Friday night, again appointed the following instructors: East Brooklyn—Mrs. Cora M. Logee, Marjorie F. Russell, Mrs. Ethel G. Lyons, Thelma Bruce.

Brooklyn Center—Marion B. Gammons, Ella E. Lawton, Mrs. Bertha G. Spaulding.

Bush Hill—Elizabeth Loonan.

Gilbert—Kathryn M. Hammond.

The Killingly board at its session Thursday night, voted to engage a speaker for the high school graduation exercises, as in the past. It was also decided to remove the wellhouse on the schoolyard at Dayville so as to give the children room to play baseball and to participate in other sports. Decision was also made to give a bonus of $50 to each teacher who attends summer school during the coming season. This plan was in effect last summer.

Friday at noon the bankrupt footwear stock of Honore Marrotte was sold at auction at the Marrotte store on Main street to Joseph Freedman of New Haven, the price paid being $1,700.

On Wednesday next at the usual hour the Killingly Woman's club is to hold its meeting at the Methodist church. The Warren Trio will play.

C. F. Harvey of Providence was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Friday.

It was stated here Friday that Manager Frank Barber has plans in mind for the promotion of open air boxing shows here during the summer season, possibly at some baseball park.

As has been the rule for years, the Windham County Agricultural society, conducting the Brooklyn fair each year, will get $500 from the state of Connecticut. The same is true of the Woodstock fair.

Providing it does not rain today, some school boy teams will be out on diamonds about the borough for one o ftheir first week-end games of the season.

Two weeks from next Monday the new advanced wage scales will go into effect in the mills of Killingly and surrounding towns.

The following are the newly elected and installed officers of Putnam Chapter No. 41, R. A. M.: H. P., Volney V. Reed; K., George E. Brousseau; scribe, Ralph E. Thurston; C. of H., Harry M. Wells; P. S., George F. Miner; R. A. C., Charles E. Richardson; G. M. 3, John H. Moss; G. M. 2 V., W. B. Wheaton; G. M. 1 V., Thomas Bell; treasurer, Mahlon H. Geissler; secretary, G. Allen Hawkins; tyler, John Sprague; trustees, L. Parker Merriam, Georges E. Brosseau, Dr. F. A. Morrell. The officers were installed by Past High Priest L. P. Merriam with G. Allen Hawkins acting as grandmaster.

The department of justice has requested Captain Remi Delage to give publicity to the fact that a man representing himself as an internal revenue collector or a prohibition enforcement officer is operating in this state, selecting smaller cities and towns, and is swindling business men and others out of sums of money. He is about 35 to 40 years of age, well dressed, good talker and usually carries a brief case. He has a nickeled badge, worn under the lapel of his coat, that is inscribed inspector.

He is familiar with the internal revenue collection system and with regulations pertaining to it, knows by name many of the officials in the service and often mentions them during his conversation.

His scheme is to visit a store, discuss income tax matters with the proprietor or manager and then make a small purchase, tendering a check in payment. Acceptance of one of his checks means that he has to be given the balance of what it calls for over and above the price of his purchase in cash. These checks are invariably worthless. They are drawn on Hartford, Waterbury and New Haven banks and have different signatures, the first name used usually being George. Captain Delage asked Friday that publicity be given relative to this man, that any of his attempted operations in this or surrounding territory be checkmated.

Quinebaug lodge, No. 106, A. F. and A. M., has a busy period of activities mapped out. Next Thursday evening there is to be a stated communication with work in the second degree. On May 3 there will be another communication, with work in the third degree. On May 10 there is to be a special communication, with work in the third degree. On May 14, by special invitation of Quinebaug lodge of Southbridge, Mass., the officers of Quinebaug lodge of this city will confer the third degree on a class of candidates of the lodge at Southbridge, and it is anticipated that there will be a large attendance of members from this city.

Becoming suddenly and seriously ill Monday Horatio Sabin, long a resident of Pomfret, where his ancestors have lived for generations, died Thursday at the Day Kimball hospital. He had undergone an operation after being removed from his home to the institution. Mr. Sabin was born June 24, 1844, a son of Horace and Emily Grosvenor) Sabin, at the Sabin homestead in Pomfret and had lived there throughout his life. He is survived by a brother, Ralph J. Sabin and by two sister, Misses Harriet and Emily Sabin.

State Deputy Hughes of the Modern Woodmen of America is coming to this city next Monday evening to attend a meeting of Putnam camp at which a degree team from the camp at Montville will be present to confer a degree. The Montville degree team is one of the best in the order in the state and was winner of the state banner in 1922. Members of the camp at Danielson have been invited to be present at this meeting and a large delegation is expected from that place.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church of this city has elected the following officer for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. John Perry; vice president, Mrs. Fred Willis; secretary, Mrs. Clarence Chase; treasurer, Mrs. Ellsworth Wilcox.

A. W. B. C. social and whist was held Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Lena Munroe, Mechanic street.

James F. Lucey was a visitor in Worcester Friday. Mr. Lucey is making ready to open an inn at the Harrison estate in Pomfret. The house is to be opened about May 15. Mr. Lucey formerly was proprietor of the Chickering hotel in this city.

A howl is going up over in Pomfret because of alleged lack of attention to that community by the state police, as hard-working and over-burdened a group of officers as are to be found in seven states. Very modestly and very reluctantly the suggestion is made from an observation point where there is police protection, paid for by the people of this city, that Pomfret might do well to employ some police and patrols. Pomfret could well afford to pay for such protection, especially its wealthy summer residents, who have suffered so much from burglaries during the past few years. The state police have a great area to cover, a constant stream of calls for their services and, like other mortals, cannot be in two places at once. And, besides, they are too few in numbers to thoroughly cover the state and it is too much to expect it of them.

The body of Xavier Trahan, who died at the hospital here of burns he received while lighting a fire, was removed to his home in Danielson. Mr. Trahan came to Danielson from Canada with his wife and twelve children only four months ago.

Some liquor cases growing out of a raid made near a dance hall in Pomfret last Saturday will be disposed of at a hearing to be held in that town today. The arrests were made by the state police.

At Quinebaug in the town of Thompson a railroad siding is being put in and a 20,000 gallon tank installed for a storage and distributing station of the Go Gas company, which is completing a filling station on School street this city. Putnam, Southbridge and Webster will be served from the Quinebaug station.

Honor students of the senior class of Putnam High school have been announced as follows: Classical course, Rhea DeCoudres, with an average of 94 for four years study; general course, James A. Rice, with an average of 82 for four years commercial course, Florence Danforth, with an average of 88. These students will speak at the graduation exercises. Miss De Coudres maintained an average of A in every subject each year she has been in the high school, and is probably the highest mark a classical student ever has attained at Putnam High school. Rice is the first co-operative student to win class honors. In each course a number of students are pressing the leaders very closely.

PUTNAM COUPLE CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

(Special to The Bulletin)

Putnam, April 13.—At their home near the Quadic district Mr. and Mrs. James H. Converse on Friday observed the golden wedding anniversary of their wedding, which took place April 13, 1873. Mrs. Converse was Miss Martha Jane Lincoln, daughter of Charles T. and Catherine (Deane) Lincoln. Mr. Converse is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Converse and was born Thanksgiving morning, 1846, in Thompson in a house built by his father in 1836. Mr. Converse being one of a family of six children.

During all of their married life they have lived on a farm and now in their advanced years are hale and hearty, active about their home place and filled with the joy of a long and well spent life.

Mr. and Mrs. Converse have had five children—the first dying in infancy. The sons are Henry L. Converse, a letter carrier in this city; Louis E. Converse, who had a farm and creamery near Quadic. The daughters are Mary A. Elliott, whose husband is engaged in business at North Grosvenordale and Mrs. Warren E. Logee of the town of Thompson. There are also five grandchildren—Miss Hazel M. Converse, who is at the Connecticut College for Women; Miss Mildred D. Logee, at the Willimantic Normal school, Ruth B. Logee and Catherine E. Logee, who attend school in North Grosvenordale, and Allen C. Logee, at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Converse received many felicitations and substantial remembrances on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary and the best wishes of their many friends that they may have many more years of happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Converse are members of the Central Baptist church of Thompson. Mr. Converse has been a member of an official of the church for 58 years.

In the days since his boyhood many changes have taken place in Putnam and vicinity, Mr. Converse recalled on Friday. When he first came to Putnam with his father as a little boy there were but two stores here. One of these was conducted by James W. Manning, the other in the building now occupied by the Mullan store, by Richmond and Williams. The old Pomfret factory was in operation near Cargill falls.

In those early days hay was hauled over the road from this section to Providence, oxen furnishing the motive power. The trips usually were inaugurated about 2 a. m. and too the remainder of the night and a good part of the next day. The return trip was made the next night, the arrival here being about 3 or 4 a. m.—just in time to begin a new days' work. In those good old days, sturdy, capable farm hands were available for $8 a month and board and the working schedule was eight hours a day twice a day. Mr. Converse also remembers when the railroad line was being built through Putnam to Willimantic and many other interesting things having to do with the development of Putnam and vicinity.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

MACCABEES.

The annual convention of the W. B. A. of Maccabees was held at the Hotel Bond in Hartford last week. Much business was transacted and plans for the marathon meet at Los Angeles, Cal., May 29, were made. Many members from all over the country have won this trip free. EASTERN STAR.

The regular meeting of Sachem chapter, No. 57, was held for the first time in their new rooms in Odd Fellows' hall Wednesday night, April 11, with Worthy Matron Mrs. Francis A. Geer in the chair. There was a large attendance and many guests were present from Charity chapter, No. 61, of Mystic.

Routine business was transacted and a large class of candidates was initiated. The past matrons and past patrons of the chapter were invited to the past, as were four past matrons and patrons of Charity chapter of Mystic.

Following the meeting a delightful entertainment was given under the direction of Mrs. William Crowe, Jr., consisting of a group of vocal selections, from The Glorious Girl. Miss Alma Fenton also favored with several violin selections.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

The chapter sewing circle has been formed and met for the first time Tuesday afternoon at the home of Worthy Matron Mrs. Geer and it was decided to continue to hold these meetings on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month in the afternoon. All members are asked to join the circle and work for the sale to be held later. The next meeting of the circle is to be at the home of Mrs. William Dunstan of 105 Laurel Hill avenue.

Plans were also made for a whist to be held on the afternoon of April 24th and for a dance to be given by the chapter early in May.

ORDER OF PROTECTION

The 35th annual session of the Grand Lodge of Connecticut, New England Order of Protection, was held Wednesday in Waterbury, Grand Warden Joseph E. Clabby of Bridgeport presiding. There was a large attendance from all over Connecticut. There are 68 lodges in the state, with 5,578 members reported on Jan. 1 of the present year. Waterbury has six of these lodges, from five of which 16 members have been lost by death during the past year.

Grand Warden Clabby, who has just completed a very successful year in that office, welcomed the members. He spoke of the great amount of good work that had been done in building up the order in this state and of the spirit of harmony and good fellowship that had prevailed, asking the cooperation of all members with their officers for the coming year in promoting the welfare of the order in every possible way. The excellent condition of the finances called forth his high commendation.

The report of the grand secretary credited to the six Waterbury lodges 749 members on Jan. 1, to which a number have been added since the beginning of the year. All these lodges carry an amount of insurance running up to over 200,000. The average membership of the 68 lodges in Connecticut is 82, with nearly $2,000 as the average amount of insurance per member. The grand treasurer reported all bills paid, with a substantial balance in the state treasury. The committee on appeals and grievances reported that nothing had been referred to it during the year. The finance committee submitted its report, showing that the expenditures were less than the budget for the year had called for, and recommended the adoption of the budget prepared by the committee for the coming year.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Wednesday night the regular meeting of Norwich Grange, No. 272, was held in Steiner hall, Master Mrs. John O. Peckham, presiding. Quite a number from Preston City grange and some from Pachaug and North Stonington Granges were present. The program as presented by the lecturer, Mrs. Herbert E. Richardson, consisted of piano solo by Miss Kennedy; violin solos by Miss Agnes Bresnehan, accompanied by his sister, Miss Mary Bresnehan, vocal solo by Miss Hazel Banfield. The subject for discussion, What the farm needs most. Quite a number took part and a number of points were brought out. Every one agreed more competent help is needed, more money and better prices for their products. One instance was related where a consumer paid 50c a peck for potatoes and found a note in the basket from the farmer who raised them which said "I received 24c a bushel for these potatoes, how much did you pay for them?" which shows the producer is not getting what rightfully belongs to him.

Refreshments served, sandwiches, cake and coffee by the feast committee, Mrs. William Beaver, chairman. The lecturer announced the subject at the next meeting would be Home Gardens. Applications were received for two new members.

The April meeting of New London Co. Pomona No. 6, P. of H., will be held Thursday, the 19th, with Konomoc Grange, Waterford, with 10.30 a. m. Brother John Hollowell will be installed master, annual word given and if enough candidates are present, the fifth degree will be given. The dinner will be furnished by ladies of Konomoc grange.

Lecturer's afternoon program, violin solo, Miss Blanche Maynard; The Connecticut Forest Problem, James Stocking, assistant state forester; vocal solo, Mrs. J. A. Thompson; Morc and Better Hay for Connecticut, H. R. Whitham, president New London Co. Farm Bureau; Putting the Unity in Community, Mrs. Guy F. Radway; Practicing Forestry in Ledyard's Back Yard, Bro. G. F. Goodenough.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Wauregan Lodge, No. 6, turned out in fine style on Tuesday evening and every brother present went home with that enthusiasm which only a perfect evening can produce. When the lodge opened, the hall was filled, making the best showing the lodge has had at regular meeting this year. This certainly speaks well for Chancellor Commander, Dr. K. K. Markoff who is striving to put Wauregan Lodge, No. 6 among the first lodges of the state. The membership is rapidly increasing, three more applications being handed in for action. The rank of page was conferred upon two candidates and the rank of esquire was conferred upon three pages. All are looking forward to the next meeting on the 24th, when the lodge will exemplify the rank of esquire upon four pages. The whist committee reported that the lodge will give a whist and dance at Roseland Hall. Whist will be played from 8.00 to 9.30 and dancing from 9.30 to midnight. Prizes will be select and numerous and good fun is assured. The Philharmonic orchestra will furnish the music. Everyone pledged their loyal support in backing up this undertaking and a huge success is assured.

JUNIOR MECHANICS

Buckingham Council, No. 14, held its regular meeting Wednesday night at the Buckingham Memorial with vice-councilor Howard E. Eddings presiding. There was a large attendance and much business of importance was transacted. Two new members were given the first degree and weather permitting, these two are to go to New London on Monday April 16th with members and officers of the council and receive the remaining degrees. The New London council has promised the local members a real time and many are planning to take the trip. The postponement of the trip to New London until Monday night was because several of the members had been ill at their homes.

Following the business session Wednesday night Brother J. W. Wellington gave a lengthy talk on matters of interest to the order, and told of some of the happenings at the state capitol, Mr. Wellington being a representative from the Town of Sprague.

Following the meeting a smoker was enjoyed and refreshments served by the social committee. It was one of the best meetings of the year.

FORESTERS

The amusement committee of Court City of Norwich, No. 63, announce that although they were forced to disappoint the members at the last meeting, every thing possible would be done to make up for that at the meeting to be held on the 24th. The degree team is working fine and as there will be a class of twenty candidates to be initiated the meeting should be of great interest.

The degree team is to go to Baltic on Sunday April 29th to work on a class of candidates and members are invited to attend as a royal good time has been promised by the Baltic brothers.

COMMON PLEAS COURT HEARS AUTOMOBILE SUIT

Judge C. B. Waller in the commos pleas court here Friday heard the evidence and reserved decision in the suit of Martin Rosycki against the Yantic Grain and Products Co., both of this city, in which the plaintiff sues for personal injuries and damages to his automobile on Oct. 23, 1922.

It is alleged that the grain company truck came to a stop on Town street on the night of Oct. 23, and that it was without light so that the Rosycki machine ran into it in the heavy rainstorm that was prevailing. The Rosycki touring car was badly damaged and Mr. Rosycki was injured. He sued for $550 damage to his car and $200 damages for personal injuries and medical bills.

The witnesses included Martin Rozycki, Dr. Gadle, W. L. Clark, L. H. Fenton, Albert Boardman, Percy M. Noyes and George E. Pitcher. The case was argued by Edwin W. Higgins and Brown and James.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The democrats carried the state elections defeating the republicans by substantial majorities. Splits between republicans of New Haven and Hartford were said to be the cause. Other news of interest taken from the Bulletin of that year follows:

Monday, April 7, 1873—Three southern negroes entered the home of Capt. Edwin Benjamin on the Preston road last evening and stole a child who had been living with the Benjamin family. The negroes were trailed and overtaken some distance from the house by Mr. Benjamin and other men whom he had called upon to aid him. A fight ensued during which one of the negroes drew a knife, but quick work by Officer Spaulding prevented his using it on Hon. N. D. Bates. One of the negroes escaped into Norwich and when found drew his knife but the officer got there first with his revolver and the three were taken to the lockup to await trial.

E. H. Palmer of Greeneville went fishing yesterday for about three hours and returned with a string of sixteen beautiful trout that weighed over 12 pounds. The catch is one of the largest yet reported and is on display in that section of the city.

The match between the Atlantics and Turners has been postponed for five days.

Rev. J. J. Twiss new pastor of the Universalist church delivered his first sermon Sunday morning before a large congregation.

Malicious circulars about Col. Tenny are appearing in spite of the fact that he had denied the lying and mischievous charge contained in it. It is believed that one of the prohibitionists who votes as he prays is the author of the unsigned circulars, but this may not be true.

Tuesday, April 8, 1873—The result of the election yesterday was a disappointment to local republicans and they admit that the rooster is down. The cause is said to be the existence of the capitol in New Haven and there will be no peace between New Haven and Hartford until the question is settled, that is, the capitol removed to Hartford. It is claimed that time after time the situation has cost the republicans a defeat and it is about time that New Haven as the capital city is blotted out.

In Norwich the elections went strongly republican but the remainder of the state did not carry on the good work.

The democrats celebrated last evening on Franklin square and today many an ash barrel and drygoods box is missing.

Lorenzo Blackstone, J. J. Mitchell, and John Crearer have been reelected directors of the Chicago-Akron railroad for the next three years.

The schooner Gypsy which has been ashore at Mystic for several days had been pounded to pieces and has gone to the bottom with her load of pig-iron.

Rev. Dr. Gulliver lectured recently at Binghampton, N. Y., his subject being capital punishment.

Wednesday, April 9, 1873—William M. Williams narrowly escaped instant death yesterday afternoon while on board the schooner at the wharf in the rear of Amos W. Prentice's store. A block weighing about forty pounds used in hoisting nails, with which the schooner was laden fell a distance of about fifty feet and landed on the deck between Mr. Williams and the mate of the schooner. The block passed within a foot of Mr. Williams head.

The negroes who caused no little trouble in Preston recently have been fined and told to watch out for themselves or they would face stiff jail sentences.

The "Norwich German Silver Guards" are to hold their first annual ball on Easter Monday and as it will be the first ball after Lent there is certain to be a large attendance.

With the coming of warmer weather something is to be done to make it hot for the house owner and this is the raising of the price of coal 50 cents per ton.

The postoffice at West Thompson has been changed by postal authorities at Washington to Mechanicsville.

Thursday, April 10, 1873—Last evening the Greeneville Baptist church bell was rung to announce the meeting for the sale of pews. The sexton instead of tolling, struck a regular fire alarm and the boys took it up with spirit. The steamer was rushed out and the alarm spread to the city but was stopped in time to save the apparatus from being taken out.

The sale of pews in local churches has brought in large amounts this year. At the Broadway Congregational church they brought $6,700, an advance on last year; at the Central Baptist church $4,835, with more to be sold; and at the Second Congregational church about $6,500.

Nine relatives of Mr. Engler the popular Wauregan House barber were lost on the ill-fated Atlantic.

A dam near Auburn, Mass., has given way flooding the countryside and has washed out the tracks of the Norwich & Worcester railroad. The traffic on the road will be tied up for some time. A rumor that the Taftville dam here had given way proved to be false, happily.

Friday, April 11, 1873—Marshall Jewell, governor of the state has issued a proclamation appointing today as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer. Services are to be held at local churches in observance of the day on which the Savior was crucified.

A cart belonging to S. A. Chapman was backed into the Yantic river yesterday by the driver who was emptying out a load of gravel. Fortunately the horses did not lose their balance and fall in also. After considerable work other horses attached managed to get the cart back onto the bank.

The New London County Medical society met at the Wauregan House on Thursday, Dr. Isaac G. Parter of New London being chosen chairman and Dr. A. T. Chapman of Mystic, clerk. One member of the society whose name was withheld was expelled from the society for willfull and persistant violation of the code of ethics.

Interesting papers were read by Dr. P. Cassidy of Norwich, and he was selected also to draft resolutions on the death of Dr. Levi Warren.

Saturday, April 12, 1873—In observance of Good Friday the employees of the Bulletin did not work Friday and no paper could be published on this date in 1873.

CHICAGO EX-SERVICE MAN WOULD LOCATE BUDDIES

A young ex-soldier known to many buddies in eastern Connecticut and western Rhode Island, Private George Bullock Varian, is now located at 432 East 43d street, Chicago, Ill.

Private Varian enlisted at Chicago and was stationed with the Seventh division in Texas for some time. Later he was transferred to the famous 26th Division, first platoon, 102d Infantry. He spent twenty months overseas in active service, being wounded three times. Even worse than the shrapnel wounds in the leg which he retains as souvenirs of his experiences, he was one of the unlucky gobs who drew that disagreeable prize known as "trench mouth," having twenty-five teeth shot out—a little favor on the part of the Huns which is still causing him trouble.

On his return, he was at Camp Devens for ten days, coming over with the wounded soldiers detachments, in May 1919. From Devens he was transferred to Camp Grant, about fifty miles from Chicago, after a fortnight's stay there being discharged and leaving for his home in Chicago.

Before the war, Private Varian was a traveling salesman, but his wounds put him out of that line of business for good and all. Of late, he has taken up candy making with gratifying success.

To a representative of The Bulletin he has expressed his keen desire to hear from any of his eastern buddies who may read this reference to his valiant war record.

OUR FEATHERED FRIENDS.

The birds of spring
Are on the wing.
How busy they appear!
The bough is bare,
Chill is the air,
And yet the birds are here.

If you arise
Before the skies
With rosy hues are bright
Oh! you shall hear
From far and near
A twitter of delight

Each little bird
Wants to be heard,
And chatters to his neighbors
"Bring wool! bring straw!"
Who ever saw
Such cheerful, cheerful labor.

Come, hurry there!
Our nests prepare!
How lazy you are growing
Such words the birds
Would seek to speak
If they were only knowing.

Dear little friends,
'Tis Mercy sends
Your love to teach and cheer us.
Then work away,
And sing and play,
And never, never fear us.

MEMORY.

O, Memory, bind fast with many a coil
The wealth of years which I have given to you.
If to my faith and trust you prove untrue
What have I left of all a lifetime's spoil?

I gave you pictures of the far-off sea,
Lashed by wild winds, or still as if asleep;
Of rivers pouring for a downward leap
Or winding through still valleys calm and deep.

I gave you pictures of great fields of grain,
Rippling like waves beneath the western breeze;
Of forests yet unspoiled whose giant trees
Have braved unharmed a century's wind and rain.

And more than these, I gave into your hold
Tones that were sweet and faces that were dear,
The touch of hands that dried each childish tear,
Now hidden deep beneath the churchyard's mould.

Dear words from tongues that speak, alas! no more,
Dear looks from eyes long closed upon earth's strife:
Keep them, I pray, and guard them all my life:
O, Memory, hold fast thy golden store!

SOME QUESTIONS ABOUT FLOWERS.

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: What a lovely morning! The sun is shining, birds are singing and so are the sisters, I think, now the good old springtime is here again. I guess the songs I mentioned some time since were mostly Scotch songs, but whatever country claims them they are good. I am quite liable to make mistakes.

I wish to thank the editor for the yellow slip, which was a surprise, and also Kitty Lou for so kindly helping me. I was glad she wrote about the hope of Easter also. There is one book, dear sister, that has proved the resurrection—the Bible. I often think of what a young minister said at a young girl's funeral. What makes like? He told of specialists that have examined certain seeds and found each particle it was made of. Then they tried an experiment by taking just the exact amount of the substance that was in a certain seed, I think it was a kernel of wheat, and planted it, but it would not grow. We can do many things but we cannot make life. We plant seeds and then God in nature makes them grow.

Can any of the sisters tell me how to grow pansies from seed. I don't seem to have very good luck except by setting out plants. The seed come up good but after they get up a few inches they wilt and fall over.

Don't know if I had the ground too wet or if the sun was too warm as I kept them in the sun mostly. I planted them in the house in the spring. Perhaps they should be planted outside.

I love flowers and hope to have more planted this year. I know many of the sisters have lovely gardens. I would also like to plant some asters if someone knows the best way. I mixed them but perhaps they were planted too early. When should they be planted?

I guess I have asked enough questions for once and will close with best wishes to all.

SPRY BIRD.

STATE FLOWERS

Dear Social Corner Members: As so many of you are flower lovers, I want to tell your something I read about the state flowers of our nation's commonwealth. As the magazine article in question covered several pages, I will have to confine myself to a condensed description of just one state flower, and I have naturally chosen Connecticut's representative flower—the mountain laurel.

As you well know nation's have long had a favored flower, i. e. Scotland the thistle, Ireland the shamrock and France the lily, but to New York is giving the honor of starting the state flower movements, although Oklahoma and Minnesota were the first states to officially adopt one.

When the legislature to Connecticut adopted the mountain laurel as its representative flower, it chose one that is a "blue-blood in its family relationship and a Venus or an Adonis in its beauty." Some of its kinsfolk are the trailing arbutus, the flaming azalea, the rhododendrons, the white swamp and wild honeysuckle. Because its grows in places where the bees and butterflies are not so numerous as they are in the fields, the mountain laurel has taken care that no visitor shall escape without rendering it the service of messenger. The bee that creeps down into the flower releases a tiny spring—like a mouse entering a trap. The released spring or anther as it is called in botany, flies up and dusts its pollen on the hairy body of the guest and by the time it gets its back brushed off as the bee stoops to sip the honey from the flower, and it is fertilized.

Since ants can never render any pollen bearing service the mountain laurel has set traps to protect its nectar from their ravages. The steps of the flower of the mountain laurel, are hairy and covered with a sticky substance so if the ant trespasses, he gets stuck and dies.

Mountain laurel belongs to the class of plants that are poisonous, a quality developed as a weapon of defense, and woe betide the one that dares to eat it.

For this reason it is an enemy of stock raisers, for in the spring time when they drive their herds to the grazing farms on the mountains, the laurel is the greenest thing in sight. Although they naturally urge the herd on, one nip after another is taken of the laurel bushes along the road side until some of them have an overdose of laurel and blind-staggers is the result.

Usually the cattle are all right after a year or two and once on the mountain idom or never touch laurel.

The mountain laurel is distinctly an eastern plant and flourishes from New Brunswick to the Gulf of Mexico.

A Swedish naturalist, Peter Kalm, who once came to the United States made a study of our American flowers, and decided the mountain laurel was his preference. He took some of the young plants back to Europe with him and introduced them on many a fine estate, and contributed to the plant, the scientific name of "Kalmia." Thirty-seven other states have chosen in one way or another their state flower, realizing that an emblem of natural beauty is as significant and essential, as a state seal, motto or flag.

SECOND ANNIVERSARY AS A MEMBER.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: I could not let this week go by and not send in a letter for it is two years since I joined the corner. I can assure you all of the pleasant times I have had at the gatherings in the Buckingham and also at the out-of-door picnics, and I have made many friends which I love dearly. The last meeting was very good, and all enjoyed the readings by the different members.

Chocolate: I think you should have had a prize for such a long poem as you read. I think all of the members that heard it will agree with me. It was fine.

Tiddly Winks: I am glad I guessed right as to who you were by your pen name. I am glad you and little sonny enjoy the meetings. It certainly does you good to get out after such a lonesome winter as you have passed with sickness and death in your home. Get out all you can.

Calla Lily: I am glad that we could give the Salvation Army $5 toward their new home. I helped on that drive and am proud to say: Hallelujah! May God bless the Salvation Army and all of its workers.

I must say I did not know that the late Hazzard Tucker of Scotland was a member of the Social Corner or his dear wife. I knew the daughter was a member at one time but did not ever learn her penname as I have never seen her at the meetings. To his family my sympathy goes out and I know all the sisters that know them will send the same.

L. T. H. and Violet: May you all be blessed in your dark hours of sorrow.

Wetona: I am glad you are improving. Was sorry to hear of your illness.

Mandy: I hope you are also improving. I did not learn till today that you had been so awfully sick. I knew you were not at the last meeting.

This seems to be more of a chatty letter than anything else, but I say as Calla Lily does, anyone that does not care to read it can pass it by.

Snow Bird: Hope your cold is better. Cheer up and think of the dear old summer time.

Student: Glad to hear such a good report from you over the 'phone.

RED CLOVER.

THE SEASON TO ENJOY

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: Just a few lines to add my bit, and help remove the ads from the Corner page. I always enjoy the letters from our western sisters, North Dakota, Potiatch and Prairie Chicken. It is interesting to know what is going on, and the conditions so far from here.

I trust the pleasnt weather may continue now as we all like sunshine for house cleaning days. Also, we need the warmth for our outdoor work, those of us who have garden plots, big or small. It appeals to me. We too, enjoy, more than ever, the lovely days of spring and summer, the green grass, the early flowers and the return of the song birds.

I often think of a story that used to be in my reading book about a boy named Ernest, who found so much pleasure and enjoyment in every season of the year that he was always wishing it might stay winter continuously, then the same desire for spring, summer and autumn, as the changes came in their due time. I agree with the idea that we can find much pleasure and benefit in many ways during each season of the changing climate of this section of the country. We have had to learn all our lives to take the bitter with the sweet, the sunshine and the clouds, the cold and dreary alternating with the cheery and warmth.

I think our pathway through life, is much like the conditions of the atmosphere from day to day, and we can only make the best of it, as we must experience these changes. Nothing can satisfy a contented mind, at the close of day more than the assurance, "I did the best I could under all circumstances."

JENNIE (June 5)

KIND WORD GOES A LONG WAY.

Kind Editor of The Corner: It has been a very long time since I wrote to The Corner page, as it was before my dear son passed on to his loved ones, four years ago. But when I read dear Calla Lily's letter in last Saturday's paper extending her words of sympathy to Violet and me in our sorrow I feel I must write a few words thanking her, for I find a friend in needs is a friend indeed, and a kind word goes a long way with one in such times of sorrow. I have met several Corner sisters in Norwich, and their kind words cheered my sad heart more than words or pen can tell, especially since parting with my dear husband. My daughter and four boys came to spend Easter vacation with me and all have been seriously ill with the grippe and the death angel hovered near three of them and with heavy heart and long hours of anxious watching, God and loved ones have spared them to us so they are all up around the house but still very weak, and with hard coughs. And I wish to thank all the sisters of Club No. 1 who have sent out their hearts' best wishes for my loved ones to be spared to me, and for strength for me to endure it and not give out. Again thanking Calla Lily and others, I will close with best wishes for health and happiness for The Corner writers.

L. T. H. and VIOLET.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE INEXPERIENCED

Dear Corner Friends: Nine housekeepers out of ten find themselves confronted, on their daily inspection of the icebox, with a discouraging collection of odds and ends of food which must be utilized before fresh new material can conscientiously be purchased. Of course, I don't expect all readers of The Corner to find the same combination on hand. Understand these are merely suggestions for the inexperienced or if the experienced wish to try them they will not be found wanting.

With the exception of fresh fruits and salad greens, every dish I am sending is based on materials already cooked, and the intelligent housewife will make use of a soup from one group, a main course from another and a dessert from a third.

I always like to have a picked up dinner look attractive and I think a few little hints will be helpful. I know such were to me.

Much time, fuel and extra material can be wasted trying to make scraps palatable when their appearance is totally unanticipated and there is nothing to combine with them. But if a double portion of vegetables is prepared at one time, one-half may be reserved and reheated the next day in a cream sauce; or used as most green vegetables will permit for a luncheon salad. If potatoes are served every day, it is easy to boil three days' allowance at one time, and prepare them in three different ways.

When making white sauce, make an extra cupful and set it away in the icebox. It will be useful to warm up something for lunch in a day or two. Make a plenty of good brown gravy to serve with your roast meat, and keep some of it especially for the various forms in which the roast may reappear. It is a great help in the matter of dish washing to have a number of the little brown and white baking dishes on hand of a size suited to your family. Instead of soiling several extra dishes and saucepans putting the remnants away in the refrigerator, taking them out to mince and slice or look over, and finally warming them up, try preparing the left overs for their next appearance when they come from the table. Put them directly into the baking dish from the original platter upon which they were served, cover with a lid or paraffin paper, and when you want to get a meal in a hurry all you have to do is to add the seasoning and the sauce. Baking or steaming is a more hygienic method than frying.

Try when you are baking beans to can a jar of them. Keep a chicken or fowl canned ahead. I canned a five-pound fowl Saturday and I got two pint jars of solid chicken, one quart and two pint jars of stock—thick jelly stock. I get six pounds of shank which costs less than a dollar, which makes two quarts of stock and three pint jars of meat. This will make bean soup, tomato soup, and the chicken stock is good for celery soup, rice or anything you wish to cook with chicken.

A use can be discovered for almost everything—celery stalks, odds and ends of vegetables. Save even a tablespoonful of cereal and add it to beef or chicken stock for variety to soups; save cold rice, a cupful will make rice batter cakes. A cold fried egg can be chopped up and put in the soup. Left-over soft boiled eggs can be put in and boiled for 20 minutes, dropped in cold water so the yolks wont turn black and made into "golden rod," creamed or "deviled" etc. If there is only one left over egg, hard boil it just the same and make the delicious salad dressing below.

Chicken Pattes: Make same according to the regular rule for sauces. Cut our pie paste into individual shells with covers and bake. Mix the cold boiled chicken, diced, with the sauce, heat separately, fill into the hot patty shells and serve.

Sweet Potato Croquettes: Steam them while warm, mash and beat to a cream, add butter and pepper, shape into croquettes, roll in egg and bread crumbs. Set away until it is time to fry them in deep fat.

Mulligatawny Soup: Two quarts of chicken stock highly seasoned with one onion, one apple, the juice of half a lemon, two cloves, two peppercorns, salt to taste, one-half teaspoon sugar, one-half teaspoon of curry powder.

Salmon Timbales: Heat one cup left over salmon with one and one-half cups of white sauce, add the yolks of two eggs and one-half cup soft bread crumbs, season with salt, cayenne, a tablespoon of lemon juice. Beat the whites of the eggs stiff, fold in the fish mixture, fill into the little baking dishes and set in a pan of hot water and bake 20 minutes. Serve with white sauce.

Creamed Potatoes: I do not make a sauce. Dice left over boiled potatoes, sprinkle them with flour, salt, pepper, dots of butter, pour milk almost to cover, set on back of range and let simmer gently till thickened.

Potato Soup: Save the water in which potatoes have been boiled. Cut up a slice of bacon into bits, fry; in the bacon fat cook a minced onion; add a tablespoon flour, salt, pepper, the bacon, and potato water. If a more pronounced meat flavor is liked, drop in a couple of beef cubes.

Beef Rolls: Cut thin slices of cold roast beef into pieces 2 by 4 inches. Make a bread crumb and onion dressing, as for poultry, and spread it one-fourth of an inch thick on each slice. Roll the pieces up, tie them securely, and after browning in beef drippings simmer in left over beef gravy till tender. The casserole is excellent for this dish.

Strawberry Snow: Whip three tablespoons of crushed stewed strawberries into the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, sweetened to taste. A few drops of lemon brings out the flavor.

Shepherd's Pie is merely minced meat, beef if you wish, or lamb, mixed with its own gravy placed in a baking dish, covered with a thick layer of mashed potatoes and baked until the potatoes are browned and the whole well heated.

Chowder: Left over fish, fat, salt pork, a one-inch cube, cooked potatoes, onions, butter, crackers, seasoning. The amount of each ingredient depends largely upon what one has on hand. A tablespoon of butter is always enough for any family dish where thickening is required and recipes calling for onions infer that the latter will be cooked in butter until soft. Simmer gently 20 minutes all the chowder materials except the crackers. Do not mash the ingredients together. Pour the chowder on the crackers when serving.

Egg Salad: Mash the yolk of a hard boiled egg with a fork; all half a level teaspoon salt, a few grains of cayenne, a quarter of a teaspoon mustard, and enough vinegar to moisten well; beat in six times as much oil as vinegar and the dressing will begin to thicken. Pay no attention if it seems curdled; cut up the lettuce leaves, mix thoroughly with the dressing and send to the table at once. The dressing wilts the lettuce, so do not serve until ready.

SHORT CHAT BY J. E. T.

Dear Social Corner Family: I will just run in for a minute. I can talk you most to death in that time. Have been quite chipper and happy the past week. Several things have helped me to be. I had some nice quilting frames loaned to me last fall and wondered how to get them home. The dear folks came and got them. Then a nice lady sent me a lovely book, The Working Ten (of the King's Daughters). Read it if you haven't.

Get a head of Japanese lettuce for your lunch. With ground up hard-boiled eggs and dressing it is cool and refreshing.

I always rinse my lattuce in the coldest water and shut tight in a bright can till wanted. Must run back now, the kettle is boiling.

CLEANING HOUSE.

Dear Corner Sisters: I know I am one of the biggest backsliders of every week I think I will write to The Corner, and then so many things come along to take up my time I neglect to do it. But I think of you all many times and am always in a hurry to read The Corner page every week. Monday, April 2d, my little granddaughter and I had a very pleasant day. We went to a neighboring village to a birthday party of an old friend of mine who was 100 years old. She has kept remarkably smart and seemed to enjoy the day very much. During the day she received over 50 callers and seemed to enjoy the last one as much as the first one. She received many pretty and useful gifts and enjoyed them all. One nice feature was that the Girls' club of the place where she lives came in a body and brought her potted plants and they all wore "knickers." The lady could not understand it, as it was so different when she was young. When I was my granddaughter's age I used often go and visit this same lady and thought she was aged then. If any of us live to be 100 let's hope we will be as smart as she is.

Now housecleaning time is here again, and it rains every other day, and then it's cold the next, but there'll be a time and I shall clean some but I'll not wear the family and myself out doing it, because there will be houses to clean a hundred years from now. I'll look just as well in the house to do it as easy as I can, as I would to do as my mother and many others did in taking everything to pieces and wearing themselves and everybody else out doing it. I have an awfully large pantry and I begin at the top shelves, clean them and put things back, and if I can't finish in one day, why I finish the next. I can well remember my mother cleaning her pantry, carrying every blessed thing out and then, after cleaning them, carry them all back, and it must be done of course in one day. I remember how I dreaded the very mention of cleaning house.

Now, sisters, don't get the idea that I don't clean at all, for I do, and no one likes to see things in order any better than I do, but I've learned, or am trying to learn, the best way to save myself. We have had our house shingled and you all know what a nice mess it makes in the attic, but we have that cleaned, but the yard is not done yet. There has been so much wet weather we could not get it all done.

We have over 400 chickens, all doing fine, and there are 170 more eggs hatching, so we expect to eat chicken for Thanksgiving dinner. It takes the men folks most of the time to look after them.

I wanted to come to the meeting April 4th, but could not, but am going to try and get Pug to fly around and come to the May meeting. Maybe Bluebird will fly that way. Now I'm going to send you a recipe for ginger puffs which are very nice.

Ginger Puffs: One cup molasses, one cup coffee, one cup sugar, four cups flour, one-half cup lard, one egg, one teaspoon each of soda, ginger, cinnamon and cloves. Drop by spoonfuls in tins and bake rather quick.

Best wishes to all.

MA OF GREENE GABLES.

GREETINGS FROM PEGGY ANNE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It has been a long time since I wrote to the Corner, and it is not very often that I have a chance to see the Corner page.

Jill: I cant seem to place you. Are your initials H. G.? Kindly give me a clue.

Amelia and Amy: Was pleased to see you at the Pythian Sisters' meeting, April 6. That was some wedding.

Keturah and I were not able to meet with Club No. 1 on the anniversary, as the travelling was very bad at that time, but not as bad as the first anniversary that Club No. 3 went in the snow storm.

E. M. T. of Club No. 3: You have our sympathy in the loss of your dear one.

Persis: How is the little one. Guess she'll be grown up before I get to see her.

Bo Peep: Hear that you have a new sister. Congratulations. How do you like your new home?

Barbara Lee and Wild Olive: Didn't know until a week ago that you had moved to W——.

I suppose the most of the sisters are busy with their housecleaning. It has been so cold and disagreeable that I haven't begun. Expect to begin very soon though.

I must close now, wishing the Corner the best of luck and prosperity the coming year.

PEGGY ANNE

PLEASURE TO SEND SOMETHING TO GLADDEN HOUSEWIVES

Dear Editor of Social Corner: I was surprised and pleased last week when a I received your check for $1, for which I thank you. The thought came to me what have I done to deserve it. We are interested in all those who write for the Corner page, it is therefore a pleasure to send something that will gladden the hearts of the housekeeper.

How nice it seemes to have the green grass to walk on in place of the winter's snow and feel that we have a contented mind which is a continual feast. And we can all enjoy the singing birds and plants, which are now peeping through the ground. I was interested in the little white schoolhouse of ye olden time which Prairie chicken describes. I attended one very like it when a small child. I recall the long desks and one long seat the length of the desk. After standing to read the testament we stepped over the seats and had our backs to the teacher while he opened his desk and had a large hole in it that he might see the children if they whispered. If so, a heavy ruler came whizzing on to the desk in front of us. For reward of merit, the best boy was allowed to carry a rusty tin pail, also dipper, to each one. We all drank without a thought of it being unsanitary.

SALOME.

APRIL MEETING OF CLUB NO. 1.

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: April eleventh found us on hand sixty strong at Franklin hall. We were glad to find that several of our band were recovered from illness, and able to be about with their words of cheer.

Three rousing cheers for Aunt Alicia. Three time three, for our delicious dinner, which she and her able assistants served.

By the good cheer displayed by one and all, and the gay caps of Alicia and helpers, one surely knew spring was on the wing.

The tables were attractive in yellow and white, with floral decorations of pussywillows and daffodils.

Having had donation day, Wednesday, anniversary day, was an entirely social day, and if you'd been there you'd heard us bumin' 'round.

As ever,

NEIGHBOR EVERREADY.

PAPER NAPKINS, AND BITS OF SOAP.

Dear Social Corner Members: Oh, my! what a nice lot of letters we are having, so instructive and so interesting. I liked your recent letter Free Air, and think you must be a jolly body. I have just read a book by that name. If you like to read, try and yet it. It is fine.

Prairie Chicken: Do write often.

Anna Z.: That coffee cake recipe has been used in our family for years and it is a fine one.

The letter on ten cent articles was fine. I can't remember the writer's name. I would like to add paper napkins to the list as they are a great saver on laundry. I always use them when we have fish or anything of that kind and now don't be horrified but I use them at the Thanksgiving and Christmas dinner, also when I have a crowd of my intimate friends in to dinner. It is not the washing of the linen ones that takes so much time as the ironing. They are so useful in many ways as you will find once you begin to use them.

Also the oiled paper. When any of you have occasion to use musterole or anything of the sort on the chest, after placing the flannel over it then put a piece of the oiled paper over that to protect the clothing.

I make a good many drop cakes and keep them in a large pail. I put in a layer then a sheet of oiled paper, then a layer of cakes, another paper, etc. You can then serve them looking as fresh as when first baked. Otherwise they will stick together.

What do you sisters do with your ends of soap? As the cakes wear thin I put all such pieces into a glass I keep handy on the sink bench. I put all kinds together, even bits of shaving soap. When the glass is full I put them on the stove in a small pan and cover with water, and let them slowly cook down to a thick mass, then, when it has cooled a little, scrape it together and put it on a piece of paper. I will have a cake as large as the ordinary laundry size. Let it dry out well and it will wear much longer than the original bar for washing dishes, etc.

Dorinda: I was so pleased to hear from you, and direct, too. When I saw the Norwich post mark I could not think who it was from as the handwriting was strange. I surely have been past your house but can't remember which one it would be. If I ever get up that way again shall call. I shall write you in a few days. I see a letter from Kensy this week. You know you told me she was the one you were talking to that day in the city. I am going to try her recipe. Will now give some one else some space.

E. L. M.

GREAT FAITH IN SIMPLE REMEDIES.

Editor and Corner Sisters: I will drop in for a short chat. If I don't you will think of me as we do of some that their pens are rusty, so will add my bit.

Iola: Yes, well do I remember the different kinds of herbs our mothers used to gather and hang up in the attic to dry in the shade for medicine and I, myself, still keep it up with several kinds. A great many times with those simple old fashion remedies it saves the trouble of calling the doctor and saves the big bills. You also mentioned onions. I know of one case years ago where there was a very sick child with pleurisy and lung fever, and the doctor said there was no hopes and did not think the child would live until morning. They sent for my mother to stay with them and as the child was so sick they thought they would try onions. They chopped onions and fat, salt pork up together, fried them and put them on her chest and side just as warm as she could bear them, changing the poultice when cool, and just that simple remedy saved the child. I think if we used more of these simple medicines as dir. I did we all would break up many cases.

Well, winter has gone and spring is here. It is time now for Bluebird to sing us a song as we have not heard a word from her. Hope she will find her pen before she gets too busy cleaning house.

Huldy: Glad you have recovered from the grip. Will write you soon.

Roxana Wimen: Why don't you tell us how you are spending your time evenings when staying alone? Are you knitting or tatting? Wish you would send in directions for the bed socks which you knit.

Now I would like to call out all the sisters and have a chat, but think I have said my limited space. Hope all who have been sick are on the gain and as the days grow warmer will be able to be out and get well soon. All who have had to part with their dear friends have my sympathy.

BROILING A STEAK.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: It is quite early about 1.30 a. m., but thought I would write a few lines for the Social Corner and you will find my letter is like the one Cheerful Cherub writes about: "Late at night my mind is active, then I think things wise and bright. In the morning they sound silly. Like a star I shine at night."

While I make a great many mistakes, I'd rather make mistakes at times (for even in mistakes I live) than be afraid to take a risk and make my whole life negative. I have the toothache, that is why I am up. "Light is good for toothache; darkness is bad for it. I find I really can't concentrate my thought to write anything very serious.

I must, however, leave a few sensible ideas with you. Concentration is the secret of strength. Do you all know how to broil steak? As a rule I think it nicer broiled than fried. You can buy a broiler for your coal stove. Salt and pepper your steak, and place it in your broiler, watch it closely; as soon as it begins to drip turn it. Then, if the steak is not more than an inch thick, let it cook from five to eight minutes. Remove it from the broiler to a hot platter and run a little melted butter over it. Broiled steak wants to be served piping hot. Do not allow it to stand after broiling but have everything ready so you can serve it immediately. A nice gravy can be made by stirring into the dripping one tablespoon of butter and a tablespoon of flour. When this is well browned stir in a cup of water. This makes a rich gravy.

ETHELYN (May 10th).

GREETINGS FROM RHODY LOUISE

Dear Social Cornr Sisters: I am glad to have it pleasant once more. I have not a great deal to write about but I wanted you all to know I had not forgotten you.

Thank you, Dorinda, for your pretty birthday card. It was good of you to think of me.

Lebanon Brownie: Did you wear your Easter hat Easter Sunday?

Ethelyn: How are you?

Kitty Lou: How are you? Hope I shall see you this summer.

Mr. Dooley: How do you do? I think I have met you, but am not sure.

Neighbor: You have had your hands and heart full. Hope all the sick ones are improving. I am pretty good for an old lady. I have only a little cough.

Best wishes to all.

RHODY LOUISE. (March 23).

SCHOOL DAYS.

Dear Friends of the Social Corner: Speaking of the little "white or red" district schoolhouse, what a flood of tender memories comes over us, of dear scenes of our childhood when as a little tow-headed youngster with the tin dinner pail, we would tramp up the country road, through snow in winter, that we might gain the reward of merit. Then it was Barefoot days in summer and old Mr. Bob-o-link would be so talkative perched on the rail fence by the roadside. Then there was our dear schoolmates, and where are they today? There was Tom, and Harry, and Mary, and Annie, Lottie, Fred and Bill, and the games we used to play were: tag, two old cat, and one old cat, and old fashioned baseball, Hi spy, Thomawary, thomawary, three times three, bull in the ring, duck on the rock, button, button, who's got the button, and then there were coasting and skating on the old mill pond in winter.

At the forenoon recess we would eat our dinner sometimes that we might have more time to skate afternoontime.

Then we shall ever remember the school visitors that came twice during the school term and their kind words of commendation, "We think you have done well, we think you have improved." These words were spoken in the old brick schoolhouse built in 1816.

We will never forget the old spelling class, and the examples in long division, fractions, etc.

O, yes, we had our girl sweethearts in those days, when life was young and love was bubbling over. Then how sorry we were when came the last day of school. Life can be likened to school days. When school is out, 'tis with a shout we homeward run. There was a big lump in our throat many a time. How highly we prized the gifts from the teacher as the prizes were awarded. We remember one term especially of our teachers parting words to her pupils, when with eyes filled with tears she said, "I expect this is my last term of school, if we never meet here on earth again I hope to meet you all in heaven."

It is in after years that we appreciate the early recollections of our teachers' guidance and loving kindness with deeper sincerity. Let us send them some flowers while living, if possible, and tell them how much we now appreciate their untiring effort.

GALES FERRY

The funeral of Mrs. Lydia S. Maynaru was held at her late home in Gales Ferry Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. G. H. Wright, a former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of this place, assisted by Rev. W. D. Woodward, the present pastor of this church.

Mrs. Maynard had been in failing health for some years, but was critically ill but two weeks before her death, which occurred Monday morning, in the 82d year of her age. Mrs. Maynard was the daughter of Edmund and Lucy Allyn Stoddard and was born at Allyn's Point, where she has resided for the greater part of her life. Her husband, Nelson A. Maynard, died at Allyns Point some 34 years ago. After disposing of the home farm, Mrs. Maynard purchased a home in the village where she died.

Mrs. Maynard is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Rose L. Chambers of Toms River, N. J., and Mrs. Bertha A. Hoyt, who had been with her mother during the last years of her life, coming here from Washington, D. Mrs. Maynard was a member of the Gales Ferry M. E. church and attended its services as long as she was able. She always continued her interest in its welfare and support.

The interment was in the family plot in the Gales Ferry cemetery and the committal was by Rev. G. H. Wright. The bearers were three grand-nephews of Mrs. Maynard, Harry Norman of New London; J. Edmund Norman, Stephen Norman of Gales Ferry, and a grandson, John Chambers of Toms River, N. J.

The funeral arrangements were by Henry Allen & Sons, Norwich.

ATTEMPT TO KIDNAP FOURTEEN YEAR OLD NEW LONDON GIRL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 12.—What is believed to have been an attempt to kidnap Matilda Butler, aged 14 years, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Butler, on Pulaski avenue, extension, disturbed this afternoon when two, if not three, men, endeavored to get the girl from her studies at Jordan school. That they were not successful in enticing the girl away was due to the girl's curiosity in investigating the ruse that was employed.

During a recess period and when the children were in and about the school yard, the strangers made inquiry of the children as to the identity of the Butler girl. After obtaining the information and following the return of the students into the schoolhouse, one of the men went to a nearby store and telephoned to the school, telling the teacher that the mother of the Butler girl wanted her to come home at once. The message was imparted to the girl, who was at a loss as to why she should be called from her studies. In the meantime the men went along the road towards New London and awaited the approach of the girl. When the girl emerged from the school she desired to talk with her mother on the telephone and going to the same store from where the telephone message had been sent to the school, the girl talked with her mother and the latter stated that she had not sent any such message as the girl declared had been given her.

The girl then returned to her studies, but Mrs. Butler fearing that harm might befall her daughter, made known what had happened to her husband. The latter immediately instituted an investigation and ascertained that two men had been observed a short time before running across the fields near Mossbrooker's corner and in the direction of Clark lane. Mr. Butler telephoned what had happened to the New London police and Detective Sergeant Charles Hammond and Sergeant Nelson Smith proceeded to Waterford by automobile, and after making a hasty inquiry of residents in that section as to what they had seen, it was learned that three men had been observed to board a passing truck headed towards Sarbrook. Believing that the trio might be the men they were after the officers brought the telephone into use, calling up the toll collector at Bartlett bridge and requesting that if the three men were on the truck when the vehicle reached there to hold the man. This was done, but when the officers reached the bridge it was quickly shown that the men were not the ones wanted. A search was then made of all the highways in the vicinity of the schoolhouse, but no trace of the men could be found. During the afternoon Deputy Sheriff M. J. Martin also joined in the search, but that officer could not locate the fellows.

It was stated by one resident that when the men were first seen they were headed towards New London and it is now believed that while the officers were scouring the countryside that the men continued to New London.

A banquet and entertainment was held this evening in the parish house of St. James church by the Girls' Friendly society. The affair was attended by a representative number of members.

Tug Elmer A. Keeler, owned by the Keeler Transportation Company of New York, is scheduled to be towed to the dry dock of the New London Ship & Engine Company tomorrow forenoon and hauled out that the damage to the tug's steel hull can be ascertained and work on the repair of the craft started. The tug is now at the wharf of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking Company, where she was towed following her being floated from the rocks off Bartlett's Reef a week ago. The Keeler went ashore, together with the consolidation scow Mauretania during a terrific blow a month ago.

Edward Taylor, a student at Suffield High school, and residing on Spicer avenue, Groton, attempted to make trouble for a Main street garage proprietor today. The youth informed the police that while crossing Richards street an automobile, owned and driven by the garage man, struck him and that the driver failed to stop to ascertain the extent of the complainant's injuries. When Detective Sergeant Hammond interrogated Taylor, he admitted that the auto did not hit him and that his statements at the police station were false.

The Perry Ice company is removing what remains of the old building north of the police station, and will make storage there for its trucks and wagons. That building was the home of the Shea brothers for many years. Little was it believed when James P. Lawrence and John P. Shea resided there that one of the handsomest buildings on Bank street would be a memorial to Lawrence Shea. But it is. That building, when the Shea boys resided in Bradley street, held the leading jewelry store of the city, that of Daniel B. Hempstead. But that building long since passed away. The Shea boys and Mr. Hempstead are all dead and the metamorphosis is complete.

The police have gained no clues in their search for the boarding house thieves, who ransacked the room of Patrick J. Scanlon in the Mansell block, No. 3 Union street, yesterday afternoon and which resulted in the crooks obtaining several diamonds and clothing and a lady's watch. From the investigation by the authorities it is apparent that the thieves had knowledge of the existence of the jewelry in the place and also were aware that Scanlon would be at his labors during the afternoon.

A still alarm was sent in from the police station to fire headquarters, late this afternoon for a blaze in the rear of the Soltz block on North Bank street and where twenty or more families reside. Two companies responded and subdued the fire, which was located in a large woodshed in the rear of the block. The damage was slight.

By inventory of the estate of Thomas F. Foran, late of Neptune Park, whose death occurred several weeks ago of pneumonia, filed in the probate court today, it is shown that Mr. Foran was possessed of considerable wealth when he died, for the inventory shows his wealth to be $178,530.37. The inventory, which was filed by Lawyers Frank L. McGuire and Arthur F. Keefe and his son, John K. Foran and son-in-law, Joseph P. Reagan, shows Mr. Foran's wealth to be divided as follows: Real estate, $25,000; mortgages and notes, $10,000; Liberty bonds, $3,600; three-quarter interest in State Finance Corporation, $84,000; insurance, $8,800, cash $3,000. The balance is included in shares and stocks.

Charles R. Noyes, aged 39 years, of Old Lyme, where he has been engaged in the real estate business and who was arrested last night technically charged with being a fugitive from justice, but who will be prosecuted under the narcotic act, was arraigned in the police court this forenoon, but his case was continued until tomorrow morning. Noyes could not furnish a surety on his bond of $1,000 and he was remanded to jail to await tomorrow's court proceedings.

When he is arraigned before Judge Victor Prince Noyes will be turned over to Louis Kelley, an agent of the federal narcotic squad, who will deliver his prisoner before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson at Norwich and it is probable that Noyes will be held for trial before the United States district court at Hartford.

Noyes' condition from his indulgence of the laudanum he procured by writing prescriptions, purporting to have been issued by "Dr. H. E. Woodward" of New York, was most evident when he was in court this morning, the victim of the drug being such as to cause medical treatment prescribed for him. According to Kelley, Noyes has been consuming a quantity of the laudanum daily sufficient to kill three or four ordinary people, but his system is so absorbed to the poison that the addict can consume it now in large quantities.

Frank J. Alexander and Henry Griswold have sold a building lot on Ledyard street to Frederick James and Elizabeth Fielding.

The condition of Eugene T. Kortland, former member of the court of common council, who has been seriously ill of heart trouble at his home on Glenwood avenue several weeks, is reported as being considerably improved.

Mrs. L. Tracy Suffield of Ocean avenue, who was operated upon for appendicitis at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital several weeks ago, returned to her home today. Another patient dismissed was Mrs. John Kinder of Morse avenue, Groton.

A. J. Horton of No. 228 Montauk avenue parked his automobile about two hours on North Bank street, opposite the police station, last night, believing that by parking at that point of the thoroughfare that the car would not be molested. However, he was mistaken and to his sorrow, for while he absented himself thieves stole a windshield wiper, driving glasses, kit of tools and battery gauge.

An attempt was made to burglarize the house at No. 99 Montauk avenue, occupied by Mrs. Mary Williams early this morning, but the thief was unsuccessful in gaining an entrance and made good his escape before the police arrived.

Mrs. Williams was aroused shortly after 2 o'clock by a noise on the verands and her investigation revealed a man endeavoring to force one of the windows. Mrs. Williams telephoned her discovery to the police station, but before an officer arrived at the house the thief had made good his escape.

Two drunks were scooped in by the police last night and arraigned in the police court this forenoon. The arresting Officers said that bothe men were near to crazy. One of them was a sailor from the submarine base and another a man of property who had tackled "white mule" or some other brain-storming liquor, for he wanted to fight Officer McCaskey when the latter sought to persuade him to go to his home. There seems to be a fighting quality to the booze that is sold now that was never noticed before Mr. Volstead secured the enactment of a law that would stop the manufacture and sale of spirituous liquor.

Another woman detective is said to be operating in this city in an endeavor to secure evidence of the illegal sale of liquor. Her favorite places of operation is said to be restaurants of the city, but so far as is known she has spent her money without finding any violators of the law. The restaurants of this city have been regarded as places where the law regarding the sale of liquor has very generally been lived up to.

There is a belief here that oil for fuel will be adopted in the factories and big buildings of the city in the near future. The claim is that the heavy Mexican oil can be brought here in tank steamers and barges and then be stored for winter use for heating buildings. The cost of the oil is said to be about the same as coal now, but the use of it would avert any such shortage as was felt during the severe weather of the past winter. The requirement is about 3 1-2 barrels of oil to do the work of a ton of coal. Big business would, it is said, take to the new scheme and would patronize it to an extent that they would use only oil for heating. Specially adapted grates will be a necessity for the users of the oil, but it is claimed these can be secured as they have been elsewhere.

Market Conditions

The potato markets are holding steady that is for the good grades. The markets are irregular on the poor to ordinary grades. Fancy grade apples are in light receipt at present. The markets are firm and active for these grades. The trade on onions is small and the markets in a good many instances have been irregular. Celery is showing wide values, with the supplies and the demands satisfactory. There have been free arrivals of parsnips on the markets this week. Prices are now ranging from 2.25 to 2.50 per bushel, according to the quality and also according to the demands. Asparagus is becoming quite prevalent on the markets now, prices holding around 25c per lb. Poultry prices are slightly lower. Live fowls sell from a range of 25c to 28c per lb. The demand is sufficient to move along the supplies. Fancy lambs are holding firm at present under light demands. Beef markets are higher but the veal markets hold steady with demands quite satisfactory.

Shelton—Albert Rice, employed by the Deptula Trucking company, was found dead in the stable of the McEwen farm near the Monroe town line. He was reported to have died from exposure, advanced age and alcoholism.

CONNECTICUT PENS IN FIRST RANK AT STORRS

Connecticut pens stepped right up into the front row in the twenty-third week of the egg laying contest at Storrs. Keewaydin Farm's pen of Barred Rocks from Darien, Conn., was in first place for the week with a yield of 58 eggs. Another pen of Barred Rocks entered by Edgar Stoughton from Wapping, Conn., was second best pen with a production of 56 eggs. The Ontario Agricultural College's pen of the same breed from Guelph came in third with a score of 55 eggs. H. P. Deming's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Winsted, Conn., finished fourth with a mark of 53 eggs. The total yield for all pens was 2,781 eggs or a yield of 54 per cent. as compared with a yield of 55 per cent. for the previous week.

Higher egg production is now daily expected by the management of the contest. A little slower production for the first of April was anticipated because of a change in the feeding schedule the first of the month. All winter long the hens enjoyed a night lunch by electric light between nine and ten o'clock. Almost without warning so to speak the night feeding was discontinued on the first of April. It was of course planned to make up for this by feeding heavier at other times; nevertheless, the hens seemed to require a few days to adjust themselves to the new order of things. In other words they did not at first seem to relish the loss of one meal a day.

The four leading pens in each of the principal breeds are as follows:

Plymouth Rocks.

Davidson Brothers (White) Upton, Mass.	873
G. B. Treadwell (Barred) Spencer, Mass.	782

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED

New York, April 13—Stock prices continued an uneven course in today's market with net gains exceeding net losses at the close.

Further reductions in rediscounts and note circulation shown in the weekly federal reserve statement, easier money rates and the substantial increase in March exports caused a revival of bullish enthusiasm in the early dealings with gains of 1 to 3 points being recorded by a large number of widely diversified issues. This buying power was soon spent, however, and trading slackened materially. Operators for the decline succeeded in picking out a few weak spots but they failed to make much headway except in the last hour when they forced material recessions in some of the shipping shares.

Marine preferred dropped 2 1-2 pts to 58, a new low record for the year, weakness of this issue reflecting speculative fears for the next dividend. American Ship & Commerce and American International corporation yielded in sympathy.

Most of the usual leaders showed little change, U. S. Steel, Republic, Baldwin, Studebaker, Sinclair and American can all closing with 1-4 of a point of yesterday's final figures. Tobacco stocks were strong, Reynolds Tobacco D closing 3 3-4 higher and United Retail stores, General Cigar, American Tobacco and the B stock gaining 1 1-4 to 2 points.

Some of the motor accessories also were heavily bought, Stewart Warner rising nearly 3 1-2 points and Bosch Magneto, Stromberg Carburetor and Reynolds Spring, 1 to 3 points. Other strong spots in the industrial list were Sloss Sheffield Steel, United Fruit, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Crucible Steel, American Brake Shoe and Baeshnut Packing, all up 1 3-4 pts or more.

Rails were again mixed but some good buying power developed in a number of the low priced issues, notably Pere Marquette, Pittsburgh & West Virginia and Missouri Pacific preferred. Delaware & Hudson continued under pressure, dropping 2 1-2 points to 110 1-2, or 14 points below the year's high.

Call money held at 4 1-2 per cent. throughout the day. Banks were still demanding 5 1-2 per cent. for time money but accomodations were made at 5 1-4 per cent. for most 30 and some 60 day maturities. New Commercial paper was received in fair value with prime names commanding 5 and 5 1-4 per cent.

Trading in foreign exchanges was dull with price movements the narrowest in some time. Demand sterling eased slightly to $4.65 1-2 and French francs held fairly steady around 6.70 cents.

BOND MARKET

New York, April 13—Few important changes took place in today's irregular and dull bond market.

Reports were circulated in the financial district that Great Britain had placed an order to buy $100,000,000 worth of Liberty bonds earlier in the week. Under the terms of the debt refunding agreement these bonds will be accepted at par in the payment of principal and interest, the next instalment of which comes due in June. Price fluctuations in these securities today were extremely narrow, closing prices either being unchanged or showing losses of 1:32 to 3-32nds of one point.

The indecisive movements in the general list were ascribed to the large amount of undigested securities hanging over the market. Since the first of the year new offerings have totaled approximately $250,000,000 about $200,000,000 of which are reported to be on dealers' shelves.

Active foreign bonds showed only fractional changes on the day. Sugar company liens were moderately strong in sympathy with highed commodity prices and some of the independent steel company issues improved fractionally. However, Donner Steel refunding 7s dropped 1 1-4 points and U. S. Steel 5s yielded fractionally. Erie railroad and some of the local tractions were heavy. CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, April 13—Helped by reports that 1,000,000 bushels, largely domestic, had been taken for shipment to Europe, wheat today scored a decided upturn in value, with July and September touching a new high price record for the season. The market closed unsettled a 3-8 to 1 3-8 net advance with May 1.25 3-8 to 1.25 1-2 and July 1.23 to 1.23 1-8. Corn finished 1-8 to 1-2c off; oats varying from 1-4 decline to 1-8 gain, and provisions up 7 a 10 to 17c.

With the Liverpool market displaying strength today in the face of a decline yesterday in America, wheat traders here took quite generally to the bull side before dealings had been in progress an hour. Demand here was further stimulated by reports that the crop conditions were especially adverse in Nebraska, and that unfavorable weather prevailed both in the northwest and southwest. Liverpool despatches meanwhile referred to a goo inquiry there from European continental countries, and also put stress on dry weather in Australia.

As the day approached an end, however, news that showers were falling at several points in the drought section of Kansas tended somewhat to weaken the confidence of wheat bulls. A late break in the corn market was likewise responsible for more or less selling on the part of holders ow heat. On the other hand, estimates were current that spring wheat acreage in some sections of the northwest would be cut as much as 25 per cent owing to seeding delays and to scarcity of farm labor.

Persistent selling ascribed to leading longs depressed the corn market after an advance in sympathy with wheat had lifted September delivery to a new high price record for the season. Oats followed corn.

Provisions were firmer, influenced in some degree by reports of good demand from Germany for fat backs and for lard.

FINDS VALUABLE SOUVENIR OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN

George S. Powers is in possession of a valuable souvenir, which he has had framed for preservation, and to which particular interest attaches at this time as Sunday, April 15, is the 58th anniversary of the death of Abraham Lincoln, 16th president of the United States, who was assassinated on Good Friday of that year.

Mr. Powers' souvenir is a copy of the Boston Herald of Sunday, April 16th, 1865, which had been used to cover the bottom of a bureau drawer in some old furniture he bought. It is in a fine state of preservation with the ink almost as fresh as yesterday. Front page headlines show the grief of the nation in such words as "Our National Calamity, Hung Be the Heavens in Black," and "The Grief of the Metropolis, Monster Meeting in New York." The inscription on the coffin is given as "Abraham Lincoln, 16th President of the United States, Born July 12, 1809, Died April 15, 1865."

SATAN'S EMPIRE FALLING
"millions now living will never die"
—Judge Rutherford

SATAN'S wicked influence has long been felt in every part of the world. Together with his associate devils he incites people to hatred, strife, murder, and induces war and anarchy, wrecking homes and driving many to insanity and suicide. Satan caused the fall of man, and thus established his

EMPIRE. His wicked influence has over-reached the denominational churches, causing many clergymen to forsake God and unite with profiteers and politicians to control mankind. But the end is here and his empire is FALLING; and Christ, the rightful king, though invisible, is beginning to reign. Hence the distress of nations, of which Jesus spoke. These troubles will soon reach a climax and disappear, followed quickly by peace and prosperity, as Jesus assumes control.

WESTERLY POLICE MAKE BIG LIQUOR HAUL

(Special to The Bulletin)

Westerly, R. I., April 13.—The largest raid on liquors in Westerly was made Wednesday night by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and other members of the Westerly police force. The chief had search warrants and visited two places on Perkins avenue. The police headquarters on Union street today, are filled with several barrels and about 400 bottles of wine, beer, whiskey and gin. The first place visited was that of Nunziata Renna. One of the officers while digging up the cellar bottom in an attempt to locate wet goods, raised a board which covered some coal, and a sub-cellar was discovered when a spot light was used. The cellar was constructed of cement, about eight feet square and six feet deep. Entering the cellar the officer located a barrel of cider partly filled barrel of wine, a beer bottle partly filled with gin and a bottle containing coloring and gin and whiskey flavoring.

The barrels were hoisted out with a tackle and loaded on a truck and taken to the police station. The tackle which was used was found in the cellar. The next place visited was that of Luigi Guiliano, a house next to Renna's. Four bottles of beer were found here. The police were told that this belonged to Marshall Thomas who resided on the second floor. Chief Brown searched the house for Thomas or his wife and not finding either broke through the door. Three hundred bottles [illegible] a half barrell of wine was found in the cellar of this house. [illegible] were also found.

CITY MEETING TO ACT ON FIRE HOUSE SALE AND DISPOSITION OF MONEY

The special city meeting to accept and ratify the sale of the Main street fire station to Abraham Abelman on his bid for $20,350 and to direct what use shall be made of the money has been called for next Wednesday evening.

Included in the call for the meeting is notice to the citizens that they will be called upon to vote upon an appropriation of $7,000 for a new steam roller and scarifier and other necessary equipment for the street department and upon an appropriation of $50,000 for the city gas and electric commission for operating and general expenses.

The call states that a vote will be called for upon appropriating, solely from the avails of the sale of the fire station, the sum of $20,350 for a pumper and repairs at the Greeneville fire station and for the purchase of land and erection of a fire station at the Falls.

President D. T. Shea of the gas and electric commission said Friday night that the request for $50,000 for that department did not represent any more money to come out of the taxpayers, but will enable the commission to use so much out of the $100,000 in accumulated profits which they have on hand, but which they cannot use without a vote of the citizens.

When the estimates of expenses were made for the year, Mr. Shea said, they were upon a basis of expecting an annual business of $525,000 but the business this year has run ahead of their expectation and will probably be close to $650,000. Doing this increased business, he said, has made the expenses run about $30,000 more than was estimated, but at the same time the income has gone from $100,000 to $125,000 beyond estimated. In brief, by spending about $30,000 the department has been able to increase its business $100,000 or more. Payrolls, oil, coal and line extensions have all entered into the increased expenses to get increased business.

CENTRAL BAPTIST WOMEN HOLD ENJOYABLE BANQUET

Women of the Central Baptist church enjoyed a delightful banquet of the Benevolent Union at 6.30 Friday evening with an attendance of 200 in Bushnell chapel where the tables were arranged and prettily decorated with red roses and southern smilax. The menu was grapefruit, chicken pie, mashed potatoes, peas, rolls, stuffed eggs, pickles, ice cream, cake and coffee.

Miss Alif Stephens, president of the Benevolent Union, presided ably as toastmistress and introduced a unique feature in her introductions by making each in verse.

The following was the program: Piano solo, Miss Louise Fuller; address, Memories, Mrs. F. A. Mitchell; sketch of Transition, Mrs. H. H. Pettis; address, Beyond, Mrs. C. C. Gildersleeve; address, Allegiance, Mrs. S. B. Palmer; solo, Mrs. Olive Potter; address, Co-operation, Mrs. John E. FOREIGN WAR VETERANS DANCE IN NEW QUARTERS

Richard Hourigan Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, which has secured new quarters in the Venice, formerly the Chelsea Boat club building, celebrated their location in new quarters Friday evening by giving a dance at the Venice dance hall, Norwich's newest hall.

The event made the most notable opening for a dance hall that Norwich has seen. The crowd filled the place to the doors and the electric illuminations converted the hall into a fairyland of light and beauty. The music was by Herb Smith's orchestra.

Alex Pasnik, owner of the building, contributed the hall free of all expense. It is predicted that Venice has embarked upon a reign of popularity and that an unusually large crowd will be present at the whist and dance to be given next week.

The post will go into the new quarters on May 1st and take great pride in the new headquarters. Richard Hourigan Post has shown a steady growth in the past year and since January 1st has taken in 100 new members with more to come. The members are working hard to double the membership of the post by July 1st of this year.

The Has Beens Club have issued invitations to their ninth annual private dance which is to take place in Ponemah Hall on the evening of April 26th.

The annual meeting of the Taftville Athletic Association is scheduled to take place Monday evening at Ponemah Hall.

HARTFORD WORST CITY FOR BAD AUTO SMASHES

Nearly 1000 serious automobile accidents have occurred in the seven large Connecticut cities during the last three months, according to a statement just issued by the department of motor vehicles.

The statistical bureau of the department compiles exceptionally detailed figures on the automobile accidents which occur in Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport, New London, New Britain, Waterbury and Meriden. From a review of these figures, it has been discovered that there were 953 serious automobile accidents in these cities during the first three months of this year.

Hartford heads the list with 259 of these major collisions, New Haven follows as a close second with 237. The other five cities are listed in the following order: Bridgeport 173, Waterbury 113, New Britain 75, Meriden 52, and New London 44.

The department has further established a grading system, whereby each city has its population and total automobile registration averaged, and on the basis of this average, an accident mark is given each week to each city. A mark of 100 would signify a no-accident record and accordingly, the lower the grade the poorer the accident record.

Bridgeport, for the quarter, has had the best general average with a mark of 84.4, Waterbury follows second with 83.1, and then New Britain 82.7, New Haven 82, Meriden 80, New London 79.7, and Hartford with the worst average of 79.

REV. FOSTER BEGINS TALKS IN EUROPEAN STUDY CLASS

The first meeting of the European study class was held at the Church of the Good Shepherd Friday evening.

Rev. A. N. Foster spoke of the Clashing of the French and the Germans on the Rhine, and gave numerous illustrative anecdotes drawn from his trip abroad last season.

The Rhine has long been one of the most interesting rivers of the world.

Almost from the days of Julius Caesar, the appeal of the picturesque and the romantic has been very enticing. In our day the development of most extensive industrial interests there by both the French and the Germans have made the district renowned as a great productive center.

Thus to the former appeal of romance and of military strategy there is added the inducement of great economic wealth.

In the days of Napoleon, France owned the river and beyond. Following the war of 1871, Germany retained possession of two Rhine border provinces and this was a contributing cause of the war of 1914. This and Germany's resentment over France continued colonial policy were potent factors in making Germany the aggressor nine years ago.

Germany protests against the severity of the terms of the treaty of peace and insists that the recent policy of violence used by France is proof of the intent to ruin Germany.

The Frenchmen points to his early payment of the heavy indemnity exacted by Germany after war of '71 and also points to the present devastated area of northern France and of Belgium as showing justification of his present policy in collecting reparations from the Germans. He recalls that he is doing no more than the Germans did after the war of 50 years ago in France.

For over 50 years France has lived under the shadow of threatened invasion and conquest and eight years ago was saved only through the aid of other nations. She has sought guarantees of future help from America and from Great Britain. The latter is most cautious in agreeing to give such and America has refused to consider such.

France has been smitten by military invasion as Britain and America have not and so decide to resort to military occupation in dealing with an encroaching neighbor and a balky creditor.

It is still too early to say whether or not such policy justified itself indood, it is liable at any moment to be complicated or even frustrated by some act of local violence which may open to international action.

The American commonly sympathizes with the French but his opinion may seem to be gratuitous as he has held himself aloof from Europe since the armistice.

The next meeting of the class will be held on Friday evening, April 27, and the subject will be Tourists and Transportation in Europe.

GENERAL WAGE ADVANCES AND INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY

Chief Topics of Discussion in Business and Financial Circles the Past Week—The Arrival of the Season for Additional Outdoor Work Has Resulted in Increased Competition for Labor—Railroads and Cotton Mills Made Record-Breaking Performances.

New York, April 15 (By the A. P.).—Additional wage advances, continued reports of great industrial activity and indecisive speculative markets have been the chief topics of discussion in business and financial circles during the past week. As had been anticipated, the arrival of the season for additional outdoor work has resulted in increased competition for labor, this factor plainly being the reason for the 11 per cent. increase in wages in the steel industry. The other outstanding advance was in the packing industry. In certain quarters a disposition to view recent increases with restraint was apparent, the point being made that the magnitude of the labor shortage has been the subject of a certain amount of exaggeration, the latter being prompted in some cases by a desire to sell goods ahead.

In steel it has become increasingly clear that the buying movement which started last December has come to an end. Buyers are well covered ahead and do not care to pay present high prices for more remote deliveries. Accordingly, although the steel corporation's unfilled orders showed a further gain during March, it is considered that this sort of thing may have come to an end for the time being at least. Meanwhile, steel works are operating at something like 90 per cent. of capacity, and are expected to continue to do so for some months to come.

Among other record breaking industrial performances are those of the railroads and cotton mills. Railroad traffic is remaining very heavy, exceeding the movement at this season in any other year, and, for that matter, the optimistic estimates recently prepared by the American Railway association. Cotton consumption in March, as reported by the census bureau, amounted to 622,000 bales of lint, this being over 100,000 bales greater than in March a year ago and being, in fact, the greatest month's takings in history.

Despite these evidences of prosperity, speculative sentiment remained uncertain. Cotton prices fluctuated over a wide range, being helped, on the one hand, by heavy rains in parts of the growing area, and being depressed, on the other, by profit taking and short selling. Stocks were again under pressure, particularly in the early part of the week, oil shares being sold on reductions in California and Eastern crudes. Bear attacks did not succeed, however, in dislodging any large amounts of stock.

Wheat was one commodity which displayed consistent strength. It, together with corn, probably owed part of its rise to the department of agriculture crop report. The latter placed the condition of winter wheat at 75.2 per cent., which compares with an estimate of 78.4 a year ago. No official estimate has been made as yet of acreage abandoned, and until this has been done ideas of probable yield will remain sketchy. Nevertheless, a feeling is growing that the winter wheat crop will be somewhat smaller than last year's. Other factors helping grain prices are a revival of export buying and a recrudescence of speculation on the long side.

Money rates have been slightly easier, the relaxation being apparent in call and time rates. The change is explained in most quarters as being due to the passing of the April 1 influences and to a gradual drawing down of the large government deposits which resulted from the March tax collections, which were bigger than had been expected. Consistent with easier money, bonds have been showing a somewhat better tone.

TWO PERSONS KILLED BY A SPEEDING AUTOMOBILE

Pittsfield, Mass., April 16.—A speeding automobile tonight crashed into a crowd of people waiting for a trolley car here, killing two persons almost instantly, seriously injuring two more and carrying away a 3 year old child to an uncertain fate, presumably on the bumper of the machine.

The dead:

William Jasson of Pittsfield.

Mildred Holt, also of Pittsfield.

The injured:

Mrs. William Jasson, severly cut and bruised.

David Read of Pittsfield, critically injured.

The missing baby is the 3 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jasson.

According to the motorman of the trolley car which was approaching the stopping place when the accident happened, the automobile, a small touring car, was running at a high rate of speed and contained a man and a woman in the front seat. The car was headed towards Albany, N. Y., on the state road.

The accident happened on North Housatonic street, about a mile and a half from the center of the city, near the Tillotson textile mill.

Police immediately wired to neighboring cities to be on the watch for the automobile, but could supply only a meagre description.

NINE ARRESTS MADE AT COCK FIGHT IN HOLYOKE

Holyoke, Mass., April 15.—Nine men were arrested and six birds and four automobiles confiscated this afternoon by a squad of police officers who raided a cock fight in the cellar of a house in Garrity street. In spite of elaborate precautions taken by the officers, 10 other men who were present at the game escaped in thick woods which are near the house. Officers said that one of the game cocks found in the cellar had spurs of iron on its legs and that another bird had been killed.

Net income for the period was $3,767,563, as compared with $2,012,883 in 1922. Gross revenues increased from $24,114,955 to $27,585,846.

URGED CONTINUATION OF CHARITABLE WORK

New Haven, April 15.—The continuation of charitable work was urged by Bishop John J. EXPERTS TO LOOK OVER SITUATION IN THE RUHR

Paris, April 15.—M. Le Trocquer, minister of public works, M. De Lasteyrie, minister of finance, and a number of experts left for the Ruhr today to look over the situation and straighten out certain difficulties there. Later they will be joined by Minister of War Maginot, who is on his way to confer with the Belgian minister of war, M. Deesse.

GERMAN MINE DIRECTORS FURTHER PENALIZED

Duesseldorf, April 15.—(By The A. P.)—The new penalties imposed on the German coal mine directors of the Ruhr because of their failure to pay the 40 per cent. coal tax to the French and Belgians threatens to cause serious industrial complications in occupied territory. These penalities, if enforced, it is asserted by the Germans, would virtually close all the industrial and municipal works in the entire Ruhr district because of lack of fuel.

When the collection of the coal tax was decided on in February, the Germans were given until March 15 to pay to the occupations authorities the tax they were to have paid to Berlin. Thus far not a mark has been received.

General Degoutte's latest ordinance says all vehicles, whether automobiles or freight cars, carrying coal or coke must have a license or a special permit from the allied commission of control showing the tax has been paid. Otherwise German individuals involved in each shipment will be subject to five years' imprisonment and a fine of 100,000,000 marks.

The German industrialists have indicated that they have no intention of complying with the decree. They saiy that if they apply for licenses they will be branded as traitors by the Berlin government, which has forbidden all dealings with the occupational authorities.

GRANT WOULD CONSOLIDATE CHRISTIANS AND JEWS

New York, April 15.—Elimination from the dogma of the Christian church of fixation of the responsibility for the crucifixion of Jesus Christ, was advocated by the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, preaching today in the Church of the Ascension on "Should Christians and Jews Consolidate Religiously?"

"Why be antagonistic to each other," asked Dr. Grant, "because we have differences of opinion? There is one thing the Christian religion did: It brought the spiritual attention of mankind out of the sky, out of the great unknown and concentrated this attention on a human life, on the soul. The way of the religion of the future is to look at human life."

Speaking of the responsibility for the crucifixion, Dr. Grant said:

"There was certainly no written record of the event until years after it occurred. The fact has some obscurity about it. We don't know whether the Jews did it or not. There is such uncertainty that I think we can say theologically that will be passed over.

"There is no reason why Christians should make a fuss about this occurrence in Jerusalem centuries ago. If an organized attempt is made, there is no reason why the elimination of this responsibility could not be brought about."

FIRE DESTROYED STAGE EFFECTS VALUED AT $1,200,000

New York, April 15.—Stage scenery and other theatrical effects, valued at $1,200,000, the property of Comstock and Gest, producers, were destroyed in a fire which swept a six-story building in East Forty-fifth street today.

The loss was covered by only one insurance policy of $50,000, Morris Gest, one of the owners, said.

Stage effects burned included complete scenic sets and costumes of "Mecca," "Afgar," "Chu Chin Chow," and "Aphrodite," which already have been produced, two complete productions of "Oh, Boy," which were to have been sent out this year, and two of "Polly Preferred," which were to go on the road next summer.

The fire took heavy toll of the Moscow Art theatre, destroying scenery and sets of several plays not yet produced in this country. Ten scenes of the Chauve-Souris also were burned. Fifteen cases of toys carved by Russian refugees to be disposed of by the producers to raise funds for destitute children in Russia were burned.

Cause of the blaze was not determined.

Irish Rebellion Now In its Last Stage

Document Discloses That De Valera is to be Forced by Supporters to Call Off Hostilities.

Dublin, April 15 (By the A. P.)—Eamon De Valera, Dan Breen and P. J. Rutledge are still at large Austin Stack, when captured by the Free State authorities, according to officia linformation today, was trying to make his way through the Free State lines. He was well dressed, but looked ill and haggard and had a many days' growth of beard.

The document found on Stack requested the "president of the republic to order an immediate cessation of hostilities" was in Stack's own handwriting and ready for signature by all members of the irregular executive committee.

Had the document been completed it would have put Eamon De Valera in the position of having to call off hostilities, and th fact that Stack when arrested had not secured the signatures to the document may defer for the present a complete cessation of fighting. The end, however, is now believed in Free State circles, to be only a question of time.

DECREASE OF INCENDIARISM AND FIGHTING IN IRELAND

London, April 15.—Clearer skies and happie rdays seem in prospect for Ireland. Events of the past few weeks, including the arrest or killing of some of the rebellion's ring leaders, the decrease of incendiarism, the restoration of rail traffic almost to normal, and a general relief in the tension among the people, both north and south, have encouraged the friends of Ireland to believe that at last she is on the threshold of peace and order.

Nothing has heartened the opponents of De Valera and his republican supporters so much as the admission by the irregular chieftain that he is "condemned to view the tragedy through a wall of glass, powerless to intervene effectively." The irregulars have also admitted their inability to continue operations on a large scale.

Another hopeful sign of the return to normal is the fact that public crime in the Free State shows a distinct diminution. In Ulster, too, conditions have improved amazingly.

For example, there were no cases of murder or attempted murder in Belfast during March, whereas in the corresponding period last year there were 97 murders and 59 attempted killings. Only nine cases of robbery were reported in March, as compared with 130 in the same month of 1922. One case of malicious injury was noted, while last year there were 79. One threatening letter was reported. The number in March, 1922, was 84.

CONDEMN ACCEPTANCE OF MEASLY WAGE INCREASE

Boston, April 15.—A resolution condemning the action of certain textile unions in Fall River in accepting "measly wage increases" was adopted today at a meeting of the New England joint council of textile workers here. The body is made up of unions affiliated with the United Textile Workers of America. James F. Starr, a vice president of that organization presided.

The resolution [illegible] the acceptance of 12 1-2 per cent. increase in the Fall [illegible] had as its result the depriving of workers in other sections of the country of an additional 17 per cent. increase. The United Textile Workers in Fall River had demanded an increase of 20½ per cent., which would restore the scale to be the 1921 basis.

The council voted to continue the struggle for the full 29½ per cent. wage increase and for a 48-hour working law in states which have not yet enacted such a law. Delegates from Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut attended the meeting.

CROSSED WIRES CAUSED FIRE AT RACONCAS FARM

Burlington, N. J., April 15.—Crossed electric wires were believed today to have caused the fire in one of the stables of the Raconcas Stock Farm last night when many valuabl ehorses, including the stallions Inchacape and Cirrus, were killed. Henry W. Trash, manager of the farm, declared he could find no evidence of incendiarism. Henry F. Sinclair, Jr., owner of the farm, refused to make public an estimate of his loss.

Suweep and Edict, valuable three-year-old fillies and 36 mares, including 19 former racers, were killed. The mares were: Miss Crittenden, Passing Showers, White Silk, Autumn Second, Royal Ensign, Le Quett, Wedding Cake, Fanfare, Oneiy, Dode, Broom Pace, Restraint, Rudona, Topeola, Nazappa, Hiurbel, Nightmare, Florenza and Hivale.

Twelve foals, six, two and three-year old horses and Cherryola, famous mare, and mother of Purchase, the one stallion saved, were also killed.

Among the colts destroyed were three by Inchape, two by Superman, three by Purchase and one each by Lucullite and Sir John Johnson.
